KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30.—His Satanic Majesty, leading on a chain his pet fire-dragon, called upon Frank Carmen in a dream. Frank fell out of bed and landed in his neighbor's back yard. He had been sleeping on a second-floor open porch. After a physician had taken several stiches in his forehead and lip Frank went back to bed.

FINAL DEBATE HELD

OMEMEE, July 30.—A very pleasant event took place on Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room of Trinity United church when before a large gathering the final debate of the winners of the Western and Eastern districts of the Bay of Quinte Conference was contested in Omemee, this being the central place of meeting for the contestants of Woodville and Cordova Mines.

The subject under discussion was "Resolved that wealth is a greater source of unhappiness than is poverty."

The affirmative was most capably upheld by Miss Tompkins and Mr. Jamieson of Woodville, who before commencing the discussion, said it was not their contention to insist that a man has to be poor to be happy. Each of these speakers had a splendid delivery and was ready to refute their opponents arguments, when the opportunity came.

Miss Steinburg and Mr. Perdie of Cordova Mines had charge of the negative, and were not as experienced in handling a debate as were the other speakers.

The judges were Police Magistrate Jesse Bradford, W. W. Staples of Lindsay, and Mr. Brown of Toronto, who after individually summing up their number of points, gave the decision in favor of the affirmative.

Rev. Mr. Harston of Woodville acted as critic. He commended the debaters on the careful preparation of the subject, showing much time and thought expended, and in his criticism, not personally but collectively, left three thoughts to be remembered.

Know your debate, but be careful of memorization word for word.

Arrange your thoughts in logical order.

Be sure of correct pronunciation.

In a jovial manner he congratulated the judges on their good judgement for having given their decision in favor of the affirmative, as the winners are from Mr. Harstone's circuit.

A piano duet by Misses Winnifred Bradburn and Eva Race, also a piano selection by Mrs. F. Bradley of Brighton, made bright the evening's programme.

Refreshments were served to the debaters and other visiting friends who accompanied them, by the Young People's League at Omemee.

CREAM PUFF MIGHTY

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—The cream puff is mightier than the rolling pin. John Edward Ely was granted a divorce just because his wife threw one of the musy biscuits at him while he was driving. The puff splattered all over the windshield, according to Ely, which, the alleged nagging and swearing, the judge deemed cruety enough.

MORE THAN 150 PEOPLE MISSING AFTER STORM

Damage Estimated at Over $8,000,000 Done at Nassau.

FLEET IS LOST.

Most of Missing Men Are on Picturesque Sponge Boats

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 30. — (Canadian Press.)—More than 150 persons were believed drowned, damage estimated conservatively at $8,000,000 was caused, and more than 75 boats were sunk or destroyed between Monday night and Tuesday midnight in the most destructive hurricane recorded in Nassau and the Bahama Islands.

Nassau bore the brunt of the damage in the storm which swept out of the eastern end of the Caribbean Sea, wreaking havoc through the entire British group.

With many families homeless, her beautiful drives littered with smashed glass and masses of debris, all public utilities paralyzed, Nassau abandoned efforts for alleviation of her own pitful condition to despatch all available craft in search of the picturesque sponge fleet, numbering between 150 and 200 small sloops and schooners, with which the majority of the 150 persons are missing.

The line of boats filed out of Nassau Friday, heading for the famous beds, lying beside the submerged banks of the western rim of Andros Island, the largest Isle of the Bahamas.

When the storm had abated early Wednesday morning three small fishing smacks were left in the harbor from an array that Sunday numbered approximately sixty craft, ranging from the insignificant off-shore sail boats to the 80-ton yacht Isoceles. The Isoceles was believed to be Sir Thomas Lipton's famous American cup challenger. The Shamrock IV now lies under forty feet of water.

The eastern corner of Nassau, in the old fort Montague section, was inundated with three to four feet of water, resembling a mill race.

VILE CAMPAIGN OF WHISPERING

Says Mackenzie King of Speeches on Duncan Report.

ISSUES CHALLENGE.

CHATHAM, Ont., July 30 (Canadian Press).—"You have been told that the Duncan report is too terrible to be revealed. I challenge any one to show you what it is that will not bear the light of day," declared Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King at a crowded meeting in the Armories last night. "It is part of a vile campaign of whispering. Last year there was hardly a man who was not maligned, slandered and libeled. This method is being adopted in this campaign," continued Mr. King "You have been led to believe the report is full of things nobody should see. Here is the report in my hands. It has been a public document since April."

At the meeting last night, Mr. King was supported by Dr. J. W. Rutherford, Liberal nominee in Kent, Hon. J. C. Elliott and Senator McCoig. The Liberal leader said that Inspector Duncan in his work among smugglers and rum-runners might have found disagreeable things which a person would not want to read. "But is a Government to be indicted for that?" he asked.

"The open, honest and above-board co-operation!' between Liberals and Progressives was defended by the former Premier, who spoke of "the great common interests we have." To Progressives, he said: "Stop before you think about putting an extra candidate in the field. Forget the differences which are small and unite in making laws for the great body of people and not for any class."

Attacks Senate

Alluding to the Senate, Mr. King declared that if a Conservative Government were returned that body would again prove reactionary. It had consistently rejected Liberal measures, including the old age pension bill. He again dealt with the constitutional question, and the features of the Robb budget were enumerated. In concluding a brief outline of the fiscal work of the last Government, Mr. King said: "If you again return us to office I venture to say that when another year rolls around we will be able to make further reductions in taxation."

CAPONE FREED OF SUSPICION

CHICAGO, July 30 (Canadian Press)—Alphonse "Scar Face" Capone, underorld overlord in Cicero and other western suburbs who the authorities had professed to have sought up and down the country, has been freed of the charge that he murdered Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin, slain with two others last April 27.

APPOINTED RECTOR.

REV. PAUL COSTELLO, M.A.

who was recently appointed by His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, as Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, after having acted unofficially in that capacity during the past five years.

KING REPLIES TO STEVENS

Says He Said It Was Unfair To Blame One Government.

POINT OF SPEECH.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 30 (Canadian Press)—The Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, on his arrival here today, handed out a statement in reply to the open letter published this morning by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, which dealt with what was claimed to be "inuendos" against Mr. Stevens made by the leader of the opposition in his speech at St. Mary's.

Mr. King says in part:

"With the Ferguson government in office will we make a new issue in the campaign on liquor smuggling? If I made that kind of appeal it would be similar to the present Conservative campaign.

"The very point of my remark was, as the context of the report will shows, to make it clear that it was manifestly unfair to hold any government responsible in all particulars for smuggling and its consequences, to make clear to the public mind just how unfair were the methods being adopted by Mr. Stevens and other members of the Meighen administration in seeking to place the responsibility upon my colleagues and myself in the late administration for certain smuggling operations which we were doing our utmost to suppress."

THOMAS SPEAKS ABOUT CANADA

BYNG NOT ADVISED.

LONDON, July 30 (Canadian Press)—In the debate in the House of Commons yesterday on Dominion and Colonial questions, J. H. Thomas, Labor member, alluded to suggestions which he understood have been made in some quarters in the United States that Canada might be handed over to the United States in exchange for cancellation of the British debt to that country.

He declared that he would be sorry to think that this represented any prevalent American view, but that it seemed to show how difficult it was for some people to understand the British mentality.

Mr. Thomas, speaking of the constitutional difficulty in Canada, strongly urged that the government should take the present opportunity to acquaint the world with what Great Britain means by self-government and to emphasize that whatever view the Goveror-General of Canada may have taken in the recent political controversy and whatever advise he may have given, he acted solely on his own responsibility, from knowledge on the spot and without any interference of any kind from Downing Street.

With reference to the imperial conference, which Premier Baldwin announced in the Commons yesterday would meet on October 19, two weeks later than the first date set, Mr. Thomas expressed the hope that not only the representatives of governments but also of oppositions would be invited. Thus, he pointed out, party spirit would be eliminated and a greater continuity of policy would be secured.

Nothing in the nature of debate occurred on this part of Mr. Thomas' speech, but Lieut. Col. L. C. M. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, in the course of general reply, in behalf of the government, emphasized that the Dominions were just as independent as the mother country. The character of their independence was the same as the British, only qualified by self-imposed responsibilities of mutual loyalty and cooperation.

With regard to the particular question Mr. Thomas mentioned, the secretary said no member of the British government would ever be competent, or have the necessary knowledge of the facts, or be constitutionally justified in offering to interfere with the Governor General's advice or suggestions.

"Matters of that sort fall within the constitution of the part of the empire concerned," Col. Amery added, "and we are no more entitled to proffer our advice to the Dominions with regard to their internal constitutional problems, than they would be entitled to proffer advice in a constitutional crisis, say between the two houses of parliament in England."

Wheat Takes Sharp Rise Due To Unfavorable Weather

CHICAGO, July 30. — (Canadian Press.) —Sharp new upturns in the value of wheat took place early to-day as the result of persistent unfavorable weather over the Canadian Northwest.

Higher quotations at Liverpool tended to emphasize the indications of further damage to Canadian crops. Opening at 5-8 to 2 1-4 cents gain, the wheat market here fluctuated rapidly, but held a good part of the advance. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to 1 3-8 off and later sagging all around. According to prominent Chicago wheat authorities Canadian production is the key to the situation in wheat. Not all experts are agreed, however, that this necessarily means higher prices.

Price Trend Is Upward Though Mine Market Quiet

TORONTO, July 30 (Canadian Press).—Dome continued its recovery after the recent heavy declines on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, with a ten-point advance to 11.25. Trading in all stocks was only moderately active, with prices generally stronger. Kirkland Lake at 95 and New Keora at 21 each gained one cent, while Premier closed four cents higher at 2.16. Teck Hughes was up one cent to 3.88. Gold Hill was off the same amount at 66½. McIntyre lost ten cents to 25.40. Amulet was stronger from 1.35 to 1.44 as compared with the previous close of 1.37. Mining Corporation gained three cents to 4.17, and Bourlamaque advanced one ecnt to 1.03, while Beaver lost the same to 76.

Demand For Brazilian Follows Annual Meeting

TORONTO, July 30 (Canadian Press).—Brazilian Traction was in active demand on the Toronto Stock Exchange today from optimistic reports as to the company's condition at the annual meeting yesterday. The stock moved slightly lower, however, and closed at 101 1-2 for a net loss of one point. The remainder of the market was active and prices were strong on the whole.

British Columbia Fishing was next in activity with a net advance of 1-2 to 77 3-4, while Atlantic Sugar Common and Brompton were also strong with a gain of 3-4 each to 24 1-4 and 32 1-4 respectively. Smelters was weaker, closing off 1-2 at 220. International Nickel was active and unchanged at 39. International Petroleum was off 1-4 at 33 3-4, while Imperial Oil was unchanged at 36. Commerce, with a two point gain to 225, featured the bank stocks.

General Motors Attains New High Level To-day

NEW YORK, July 30 (Canadian Press).—With speculative imagination fired by the sensational advances in General Motors Common and United States Steel Common, which again attained record high levels at 194 3-4 and 149 respectively, the "bull" movement in the stock market broadened out considerably today. Extreme gains of two to six points were recorded by score of issues, despite a rather heavy volume of profit-taking and short selling.

While the action to be taken by the directors of General Motors at their next meeting, August 12, is still shrouded in secrecy, the latest report circulated in Wall Street is that the stock will be split up on a two to one basis, with a $7 annual dividend rate established on the new stock and an extra cash dividend of $4. The company earned $17.33 a share in the first six months of the year.

REGATTA EVENTS IN SECOND STAGE

Senior Eights Will Be Seen in Action This Afternoon.

ST. CATHARINES, July 30 (Canadian Press)—With the elimination contest over the C.A.A.O. regatta enters the second stage this afternoon when the senior eights will be seen in action. Winnipeg has been drawn against the Argonauts in the first heat and later Lachine will pull a duet agaist Toronto University. The final will be rowed tomorrow.

Amost equal interest is attached to the final of the Junior eights, Ottawa, Lachine and the husky eight from the American Legion Club of Wyandotte, Mich., competing.

Warmer weather conditions are predicted for today.

The world's wool crop is five times greater than it was 100 years ago, and the cotton output has multiplied 20 times.

REV. J. M'KENZIE GIVES ADDRESS TO KIWANIANS

WELL RECEIVED.

Former Soloist in St. Paul's Church Rendered Two Songs.

The speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club to-day in the Empress Hotel was the Rev. J. A. McKenzie, formerly pastor of the Knox Presbyterian church, and now in charge of the United church in Guelph, in which city he is a member of the Kiwanis club. Mr. McKenzie, who was given a warm welcome which testified to the esteem in which he is held by his former fellow citizens, spoke on Good Fellowship.

Good fellowship, he said, transcended all divisions of temperament, class and locality, and was the spirit underlying the activities of Kiwanis and kindred service clubs. Good fellowship had a right to be born. It was not something that could be lowship had a right to be born. It other possessions. It was something that was born in the individual heart, and experience.

Everybody, said the speaker, had within him or her, something of that which, if allowed to expand and develop would ripen into the love of good fellowship. Everybody was at times visited by those impulses to kindness, those inspirations of charity, which were the strivings of the feeling of good fellowship to break through. When these feeling came they were angels whom we were entertaining unaware.

The second thing about good fellowship, he said, was its right ot grow. He pointed out the analogy between infant mortality and the stifling at birth of the impulses to kindness that fail to grow in many lives because of callousness and carelessness. Because men often failed to recognize these impulses they failed to permit them to enter the inner life. Many men, he said, grew to the stature of manhood but remained dwarfed and stunted in their notions of the things that made for good fellowship.

Good fellowship had a right to dominate the life. One could not help thinking as he read the pages of history that if men had been dominated by the feeling of good fellowship, that if the claims of the individual had been subordinated to the prosperity of society and to the inheritance of all, if men had not reached out to grasp all that was within reach of vaulting ambition, the story of many a bloodstained page would have made way for the record of glorious deeds of self-forgetfulness, in the spirit of good Kiwanis fellowship.

He urged them to remember that the spirit was the thing that made the work. The invisible things were the things that were eternal. While many services could be rendered to the country and community, the visible evidences of them would wax old like a garment, but the spirit of faith, hope and kindliness that animated them were the things that remained with the passing of the years.

This was the spirit that they must cultivate and when it dominated the so-called Christian countries, then truly would the time come when

"Man to man the world wide,
Would brothers be for a' that."

Two fine solos, "Just a Cottage Small by a Waterfall," and "At Dawning," were rendered by a visitor to the club, Mrs. W. Clarke, who was at one time soloist in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Peterborough. Mrs. Clarke's husband was until recently Canadian Trade Commissioner in Italy, and is now a director of the Trade Commission at Ottawa.

Other visitors were Mrs. J. Johns, Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch, Messrs. H. R. H. Kenner, G. Sneyd, G. B. Hill, O. McGill, A. Pilkington and Master Bill Clark.

The thanks of the club were conveyed to Mr. McKenzie and Mrs. Clarke by Kiwanians John R. Marshall and J. Wells Fraser.

MINERS DECIDE TO ACCEPT PLAN

Executive Recommends Church Proposals To Districts.

TO SETTLE STRIKE.

LONDON, July 30 (Canadian Press).—The conference of miners' delegates has decided to recommend the acceptance of the peace proposals suggested by the churchmen of the Anglican and Free Churches in the present coal tie up. The proposals will be sent back to the districts to be voted upon.

The peace proposals suggested by Anglican and Free Churches in general recommend that the men accept an immediate resumption of work on status quo and implies a continuance of the lapsed coal subsidy by the Government. Meanwhile a national settlement will be made within a period, not exceeding four months, along the general lines of the report by the Royal Coal Commission.

Six thousand immigrants came to Winnipeg, Manitoba, during March, 1926, shattering all records since 1912.

CATHOLICS HEAR FINAL MASSES BEFORE CLOSING

Priests of Mexican Churches Will Withdraw Services To-morrow.

CALLES SPEAKS.

President Says Government Will Win—Preparing For Emergencies.

MEXICO CITY, July 30 (Canadian Press).—Catholics throughout Mexico to-day offered up devotions for the last time under the leadership of their priests before the Government's new religious regulations go into effect on Saturday. Tomorrow the priests will withdraw from the churches in protest against the Government's religious measures.

President Calles, in a speech last night, declared that the hour was approaching for the final fight to determine the triumph of revolution or re-action. The struggle was between light and darkness and the Government would win.

Fearful that groups of Catholics who are reported to be meeting at night, are planning opposition to the religious law, the Government has ordered that all Catholics be disarmed.

Simultaneously with the coming into effect of the religious regulations, the economic boycott planned by the National League for the defence of religious liberty will start. Members of the League and others opposed to the religious regulations will cease spending money for anything except absolute necessities. The League hopes to effect an economic slump which will be sufficiently embarrassing to the Government to cause it to modify its policy.

PUBLIC FAST NEARING END

Mrs. Russell Scott Ordered By Doctor To Take Food.

LOSES 20 POUNDS.

DETROIT, July 30 (Canadian Press)—Mrs. Catherine Scott, publicly fasting to raise funds for the further defense of her condemned slayer husband, Russell Scott, and to support their three children, was ordered last night by her physician, Dr. Robert Rosen, to end her fast, now in its twentieth day. Pleading weakness and illness, she postponed her decision until today.

Mrs. Scott has lost nearly 20 pounds since her fast was started.

Physical trim makes a man victor

EXERCISE AN AID IN ALL ENDEAVORS

To be a victor instead of a loser, all one needs is a little more nerve steadying and physical stamina. If you will arrange to go through a regular program of setting-up exercises each day to keep the muscles supple and your wind in condition you will run away with a lot of the week-end sport events that you enter. Good physical trim is a rule for good playing trim. Observe it and you will observe an immediate improvement in your game. A golfer says his game is away off because he does not get the opportunity to play golf more than one day a week. The tennis player has a similar alibi, claiming that he lacks time and judgment of distance through lack of practice. The most essential point to be a good golfer or tennis player is muscular co-ordination, and the only time that muscles will co-ordinate is when they are supple and limber. The way to get them flexible is by daily systematic exercise.

Johnny Farrell, who is now ranked among the ten foremost golfers in the world, and who was the biggest winner of golf prizes this past winter in the South, having defeated the pick of the United States, claims he owes his perfect co-ordination, timing and steadiness to the system of exercise I planned for him when he trained at my gymnasium, and which he goes through daily, irrespective of the amount of exercise he gets on the golf course.

I have a chart of twelve exercises which are too lengthy to put in this article, and which will keep the average person's muscles supple and limber and will help you in any sport. I will gladly send it free to any of my readers if they will forward to me a stamped addressed envelope. Send to Arthur A. McGovern, 5 West Sixty-sixth street, New York City.

Moderate Reducing Diet

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit. Orange juice, canteloupe or fresh fruit. One soft boiled or poached egg. Two small slices of bacon. One slice of dark bread toasted. Hot water, hot skimmed milk or a coffee substitute.

Between breakfast and lunch eat some fresh fruit and drink two glasses of water.

LUNCH: Small serving of lean meat. Two vegetables such as spinach, string beans, carrots, celery. One slice of toast or a bran or whole wheat muffin. For dessert stewed fruit or a fresh fruit cup.

Between lunch and dinner drink two glasses of water and eat some fresh fruit.

DINNER: A thin soup such as consomme, bouillon or broth. Moderate helping of chicken or fish. One-half baked potato. A salad of vegetables with a half tablespoonful of dressing. One slice of bread, a roll or a muffin thinly buttered. A hot drink, preferably skimmed milk.

REMARKS: While these diets are arranged with the idea of weight reduction, this method is scientifically compiled regarding the intake of calories, only eliminating the fat producing foods, but on the other hand containing all the acids, minerals, vitamins, calciums, proteins, etc., essential to a well-regulated body.

Half a Manufacturer's Floor Stock

Charming New Summer Dresses

In Two Price Groups At

$3.75 and $5.95

60 DRESSES AT $5.95

SELLING STARTS SATURDAY

Beyond question the outstanding dress event of the season. The other day we received a telephone call from one of Canada's biggest manufacturers of dresses, offering us half his floor stock of summer dresses at prices that were away less than half regular. The offer was accepted, and the dresses are here. The selling starts Saturday.

It is impossible to over emphasize the opportunity this sale presents right in the middle of the summer season. In many cases the materials alone would cost you more than Saturday's price. Every style is new, every garment was produced for this season's selling. The backward season simply left the maker with an overstock on his hands and those who buy these dresses will reap the benefit.

There are dresses of voile, of crepe, of rayon silk, dresses that actually sold early in the season as high as $21.50. Saturday morning you can come and pick and choose from two groups at $3.75 and $5.95.

Group No. 1 at $3.75

There are scores of Dresses in this group. Pretty summery garments of popular fabrics for hot weather wear. Made in delightful styles. At this price you could buy 2 or 3 Dresses for the price of one, and there are garments that were made to sell up as high as $11.50. Remember, brand new and all one price for Saturday morning..... $3.75

Group No. 2 at $5.95

In this group there are nearly 50 Dresses. Smart styles of high-grade Normandy and embroidered voiles in large sizes and beautiful Rayon silks in many styles. Every garment new and produced for this summer's wear. Dresses included in this lot that were made to sell at from $18.50 to $21.50. Come and pick and choose from this group for only..... $5.95

BYAM FOX FARM HAS PROGRESSED IN THREE YEARS

Millbrook Man Has Now 22 Animals in His Pens.

GROWING INDUSTRY.

Many Farmers Consider Raising a Few as Sideline.

MILLBROOK, July 30).—Silver fox farming in Canada has gained a decided impetus in recent years, the high price of pelts and the constant market demand causing farmers to consider raising one or two pairs as a sideline on the farm, and other private individuals to become interested in the possibilities of the industry from the financial standpoint.

Twenty-five years ago pioneers of the raising of foxes in captivity demonstrated the fact that their pelts are much superior to those of the wild breeds, bringing a higher market price, and consequently this has become one of the leading live-stock industries of the Dominion, the number of such animals on fox farms and owned by private individuals being estimated at over 100,000.

Following the sound principle that a beginner in fox ranching should go slowly, adding to his stock as he gains in experience and skill, three years ago J. L. Byam started his fox ranch on his property, Bank street, by investing in one pair of silver black animals of good quality as foundation stock, adding another pair shortly afterward, and gradually increasing the number kept, by breeding and purchase, until he now has twenty-two in all—five pairs of older foxes which include four of last year's pups and twelve pups born this year. All are registered stock, visited annually by the Government inspector, who has, up to date, given a thoroughly satisfactory report after each inspection.

The mother of the four pups born last year, with one of her daughters not at the time one year old, gave birth to the progeny this season, a litter of six in each case, which is an excellent record, especially when to this is added the fact that both the mother foxes have nourished their own pups, giving no trouble whatever in this regard, and not one from either litter has been lost. From these facts it is evident that Mr. Byam has succeeded in developing a strain of particular merit which should prove satisfactory as foundation stock.

Last year the four pups born on Mr. Byam's ranch were nourished by a cat deprived of her kittens, the foster mother doing faithfully the duty the real mother failed to perform, and growing very fond of her little charges, which have the playfulness of kittens but tending to the roughness of puppies as growth makes natural advance.

A Canadian Industry.

Canadians generally have reason to be proud of the fact that other countries, several of which are now making a beginning in fox ranching, have eagerly sought for silver black foxes from this land to be used as foundation stock. Our neighbor to the south stands second to the Dominion in the number of ranches, while representatives from Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, France, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and Japan have visited Canada to learn what the outlook for the industry is and to gain a knowledge of the care and management of silver foxes in captivity.

The pens at the Byam ranch are ideal as to location, the site being high and dry and the soil light and loamy. Foxes do not flourish in damp quarters, disastrous results usually following from placing them in wet pens. They even object to rain and will never willingly remain from under cover while a shower is falling. The cold in winter, however, apparently has no terrors for them as they will usually be found lying on the top of their kennels when the thermometer registers several degrees below zero.

Mr. Byam has built his pens of regulation size, with wire sides, top and floor (earth-covered), the latter to prevent burrowing with consequent loss of stock. A connecting runway allows access of one pair to its mate's quarters, provides more room for exercise, which is a necessary precaution, and a door, which may be dropped at will, shuts off communication when circumstances demand. Experienced fox breeders differ somewhat over the wisdom of isolating the male once the breeding season is over and before the pups arrive, but many hold that this is the best policy as the male animal has been known to bother the vixen, fighting over the possession of the pups with a consequent loss of the whole litter.

A good sized kennel is in every pen at the Byam ranch, each raised eight or ten inches off the ground, affording shelter to the puppies when old enough to be outside and avoiding any possibility of retaining dampness on the kennel floor.

Shade Important.

The question of shade on a fox ranch is important since exposure to the direct rays of the sun when the old fur is being shed and the new coat is growing will almost inevitably result in the bleaching of the pelt, causing it to be of a rusty faded color, with a consequent decided lessening of its commercial value. The Byam ranch has one or two fruit trees, and these with the natural growth of weeds left unmolested and a few tall sunflowers provide shade round the pens, and give the foxes a greater sense of security than if there was no growth around the wire sides. Were it not for the danger of disturbing the females at the pupping season, corn and plenty of sunflowers might be exchange, and is to ranch a pair planted, with a possible improvement over the weeds as to looks.

The diet provided includes meat, cereals, bread and milk, vegetables, eggs and scraps from the table. In winter more meat is fed, and while a good deal is required, two or three hounds kept at the homestead are a decided aid in reducing the expense bill for this item. Groundhogs at this season, with rabbits in the fall, help to supply the menu, and the loss of a cow or horse in some barnyard gives a chance to purchase a quantity which lasts for some time. The table scraps are relished by foxes as much as by puppy dogs.

The silver beginning to show plainly as the new pelt comes in and the white tips on the bushy tails are both marked evidence of the real breeding the stock on boast.

Mr. Byam is preparing now to dispose of some of his surplus stock by sale, possibly in some cases by next winter for a present purchaser who is a prospective breeder on his own responsibility another season. This will necessitate enlarging the ranch accomodation this fall.

Ranch is Named.

A name is officially given each ranch when the stock is registered, "Midnight" being one under which the Byam ranch is listed. When an animal passes the inspector he brands on one ear the ranch name, and on the other its number or letter, as the case may be; failing to pass, an arrow is branded on the ear instead of the number or letter, and this means that this animal must be pelted, the owner having no option in the matter. The owner, too, under obligation to pay for the inspection of each animal whether it comes up to regulations, or not.

Mr. Byam, some time ago, sold one of his vixems which had lost her litter the first year after purchase, and the new owner pelted the animal, the fur proving of exceptionally fine quality. There is always a demand for high grade silver fox pelts which the supply is apparently never quite able to meet, and advice has been officially given that though profits from the sale of breeding stock have been enormously large in past years, yet the day when as high as $30,000 was paid for a single fox is probably over forever.

Beginners are advised to buy only foxes of a good breeding strain and high-class qualities, and to regard the pelt as the logical outlet for the surplus stock; especially is this true when the intention is to keep but one or two pairs, for upon this supply the fur buyers will eventually come to depend.

After the pups are old enough to be outside the kennel, the mother will carry them as a cat does her kittens, and when they are used to running about the enclosure Mr. Byam admits visitors, but one at a time to avoid any possibility of frightening either mother or progeny. A mother fox is easily excited and has been known to kill her pups, owners sometimes finding she has buried one or more alive in a corner of the pen when irritated or disturbed by strangers coming near her quarters. For his own convenience Mr. Byam has a lookout built outside the board fence enclosing his ranch from which necessary observations may be made.

At present the older foxes at the "Midnight" ranch are shedding their old fur, somewhat later than last season, while the little fellows are very playful and cute, running and wrestling, sometimes apparently fighting and quarrelling, giving their short excited bark, the watchful mother eye being seldom withdrawn from them.

A separate dish is necessary each feeding time or the disputes might be in uncomfortable earnest, and the quarrelling reach serious proportions.

Women's Handicap

THERE is a new way in woman's hygiene that ends the insecurity of old-time "sanitary pads" and their unhappy days.

8 in 10 better class women now use "KOTEX."

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL as told to Billy Evans

BY WALTER JOHNSON,
World's Greatest Pitcher.

A good arm is nature's greatest gift and the smart pitcher nurses it along. Use intelligence in your work.

I am often asked which ball I find easiest on the arm. It is my experience that a fast ball delivered with a natural motion, minus any hitch, exacts the least toll on the arm.

The curve ball is the hardest. A certain snap of the wrist is necessary to get the best results and that style of pitching places a severe tension on the arm and takes much out of it.

A change of pace is most necessary to the modern pitcher. He must be able to mix up his stuff.

Like control, a change of pace can be acquired. Throwing a slow ball is far more difficult for some pitchers than others. And, after all, control is most essential to the success of the slow ball. It is worthless, otherwise.

The slow ball to be effective must be delivered with exactly the same motion as the fast one. Any change in the style of the delivery immediately tips the batsman off to what he may expect.

Don't ease up on any batter in a pinch no matter how poor his reputation. Usually the weak hitters come through in such a situation.

On the whole, the left handers seem to play more baseball than the right handers, which worries the pitcher all the more.

Yes, with the exception of a pitcher who has been substituted.

Batters and fielders, other than a pitcher, can be shifted at will.

When a substitute pitcher is sent to the box, he cannot be removed until he has pitched to a batsman, who has either been retired or reached first.

In all other cases of substitution, the player entering the game takes the place of the player for whom he is substituting.

SWIMMING MEET.

Interesting Programme of Aquatic Events Held in "Y" Pool.

A swimming meet was held in the pool at the Young Women's Christian Association on Wednesday evening, when an interesting programme of races and stunts was run off. Miss Ina Terrace came first in senior diving and speed contests, and the Misses Rhoda Cullen and Sadie Levine tied for first place in junior speed and fancy diving events.

MUCH AT STAKE IN BELLEVILLE AND PETES TILT

Win For Railroaders Saturday Puts Them in Running.

HECK TO PITCH.

While Walter Gerow Will Likely Send Ouellet To Mound.

Heartened by their victory over Kingston on Wednesday, Walter Gerow and his Belleville railroaders will be here to-morrow (Saturday) full of confidence in their ability to take a fall out of the Petes and thus stay in the running for Central Ontario League honours. The Petes have not been in action for ten days—since the sensational nineteen innings battle in Belleville — but the squad is in good shape and hopeful of handing the railroaders a trimming. Heckman will go to the hilltop for the home talent, to be faced, it is altogether likely, by Jack Ouellet and the battle between the two should be full of fireworks. If the teams show the form they did in last week's marathon, the fans will see one of the best exhibitions in years. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp and the year's biggest crowd is expected.

STUDEBAKER ANNOUNCES CUSTOM SEDANS

Reid & Sons, Local Studebaker Dealers, Advised Today of New Development.

Three custom designed sedans, incorporating the beauty and refinements of exclusive custom made cars but at "family car" prices, were announced today by the Studebaker Corporation of America through local Studebaker dealers. These cars are an addition to the present line of Studebaker models, and include a standard six custom sedan, a big six custom brougham and the president, an ultra-distinctive big six custom sedan embodying the most luxurious refinements of custom coach-work.

Outstanding features of the Studebaker custom sedans are low-swung bodies with fleet, flowing lines; rich duotone lacquer color schemes which are carried through to complete harmony in both interior and exterior treatment; Butler finish hardware, mohair or broadcloth interiors with broadlace trim. Disc wheels, lacquered to match the body tone, and four wheel brakes are standard equipment.

"The introduction of Studebaker custom sedans marks a significant new development in American motor car manufacture," Reid & Sons of the local Studebaker organization said, in outlining the policy behind the announcement. "By creating a meeting ground for the custom designs of America's foremost coach builders and the one-profit facilities of the Studebaker factories, it is now possible to produce a line of motor cars which are custom designed in every detail, but still are within the reach of the great group of buyers of moderately priced cars. The day of exhorbitant prices for fine cars is past."

No changes in either the standard or big six engines have been made in the custom designed line, it was stated. It is the same engine which propelled Ab Jenkin's Studebaker "Sheriff" on its recent record smashing dash from New York to San Francisco. And, except for refinements, it is the same motor as those which have powered hundreds of bix sixes to membership in the Studebaker "100,000 mile club."

HOW TO SWIM

by William Cannon

BEGINNING OF A SWIFTER STROKE

When one has become proficient in the dog-paddle, swimming will be made easy. It is a basis upon which the swimmer may always fall back if the other strokes are too hard.

Don't try to swim the harder strokes all at once. Take it easy.

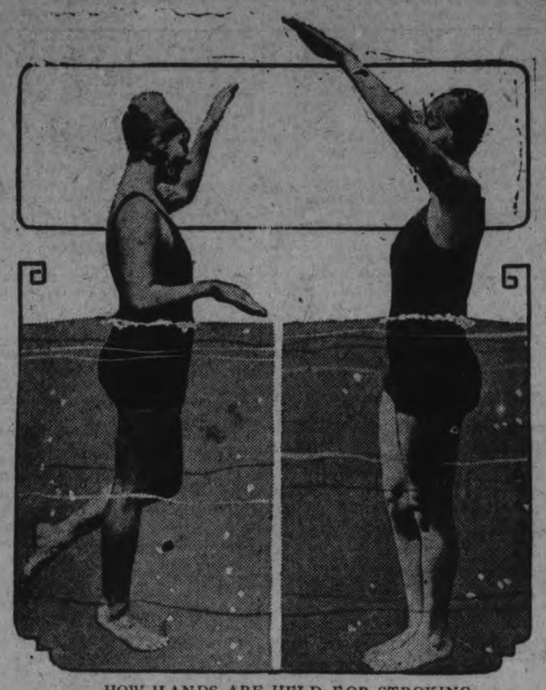
Bring it downward and backward as in the dog-paddle, rolling over toward the right side in the operation.

In this one has the beginning of a swift stroke which will throw the body forward easily and rapidly.



HOW HANDS ARE HELD FOR STROKING

In the sidestroke, as described in yesterday's article, the left hand plays an important part in the balancing of the body.

As the right arm goes over, the left comes downward and backward and then turns under the body to go forward as the body rolls over to the right at the beginning of the right hand's downward sweep.

During the whole time, the body is rolling one way or the other and the head goes under just as the right hand begins to go downward.

When breathing and stroke in this operation are properly co-ordinated, there is a smoothness and efficiency about the swimming which makes the stroke very beautiful.

THEATRE

"DIXIE MERCHANT" THRILLING AND HUMAN PICTURE.

"The Dixie Merchant"—one of the most thrilling and at the same time one of the most human stories of the South ever screened, produced by Fox Films under the direction of Frank Borzage, comes to the Regent Theatre to-day.

It is a comprehensive story of human nature woven around very real characters whose lives, though simple, are filled with interest. No attempt has been made to gloss over the faults and failings of the people in the story—they are taken just as one would find them in real life.

There is the old "merchant," Jean Paul Fippany, a part played by J. Farrell MacDonald. J. P., as he is called, is a dreamer with all of his future plans dependent on the success of his horse "Marseillaise" on the track. He mortgages and loses his home to buy the mare and keep her in condition, but even then he is confident that "something will turn up"—and it does.

Madge Bellamy is Adia and Jack Mulhall, Jimmy Picket, and their romance is one amusing situation after another.

MICHAEL CLARK PASSES AT HOME

SAT FOR RED DEER.

CALGARY, Alta., July 30 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Michael Clark, former member of Parliament, pioneer of Central Alberta, and prominent in the councils of the Liberal party, died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at the family residence near Olds, Alta.

Dr. Clark's death closely followed that of his wife, who died several weeks ago in a hospital in Calgary.

Dr. Clark had been in failing health for a week past, and was under the care of a doctor and trained nurse.

Both his surviving sons, George Clark, and Albert A. Clark, who reside nearby, were at the bedside when death came.

Dr. Michael Clark was born in Belford, Northumberland, England, in 1861. He was educated in Elmfield College, York, England, and Edinburgh University, Scotland, graduating with M.B. and C.M. In 1882 he married Elizabeth, eldest daughter of the late George Smith, Hamilton, Ont. He started farming and ranching in Alberta about 1902. He was elected to the House of Common, in 1908 for the new electoral division of Red Deer as a Liberal. He was re-elected in 1911 and in 1917. In the 1917 elections at which conscription was the issue, Dr. Clark ran as a Liberal-Unionist. He was considered one of the leading orators of the House of Commons. During the time he was a member, he was an ardent advoate of tariff reduction.

TORONTO BOYS REST TOGETHER IN SINGLE PLOT

Joint Funeral Service Held For Seven Drowning Victims.

CATHEDRAL CROWDED.

Short But Impressive Service Conducted By Rev. Canon Plumptre.

TORONTO, July 30.—Never was loved sovereign entering again the city of his choice accorded homage by his subjects deeper than the silent tribute which Toronto paid yesterday to the memory of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood boys who, in the midst of their holiday camp, were called suddenly to face the highest test of life—heroic death. Thousands of citizens lined the streets as, led by the khaki-clad detachment of militia, the bodies of Arthur Robert Shea-Butcher, Oliver Mardall, Walter Mark Burgess, John Wiginton, Gordon Heale, Joseph Edwards and Frank Burkitt were borne to their last quiet resting place in St. James' Cemetery.

The old Cathedral of St. James, which has witnessed so many similar events bound inseparably with the life of the great city, was again all too small to embrace the multitudes who came to take part reverently in that sad but triumphant service for those who had departed this life in the faith and fear of the Almighty. Here was gathered the representative young life of the city, many of them members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew; here also the older men, experienced in life, saddened by the thought of the young lives who may not now follow in the footsteps of that experience. Here, above all, were the sorrowing parents and relatives of the boys, to whom the mysterious confidence of the Christian rites brings its message of comfort.

Long before the hour of the service a great crowd thronged around the gates of the square and the police were kept busy preventing a stoppage of the traffice on the two busy streets. Not only at the church itself, however, were the crowds gathering, but all along the route by which the cortege was to pass people gathered in silent little groups which soon resolved themselves into two solid banks of humanity.

Meanwhile the parents and relatives of the boys alone were seated in the quiet of the old church, where the soft afternoon light filtered in through the stained glass and where the seven young comrades lay in the dim chancel covered, with one exception, with the floral emblems of that new fresh life, immortal and incorruptible. The plain folds of a Union Jack alone draped the soldier's coffin of A. R. Shea-Butcher, while the sword of a Knight of Honor, so nobly wielded in the cause of peaceful chivalry, lay across the top. So he journeyed "to the Island-Valley of Avilion where falls no hail or rain or any snow, nor ever wind blows loudly."

A Reverent Throng.

Despite the throngs without who pressed up the steps when the great main door was swung open, those who entered the church were hushed to silence in the presence of death. When every seat was filled and the portals closed again not a sound was heard save the subdued notes of the organ as it wandered softly through the sad theme of Gounod's Funeral March and later Mendelssohn's "O Rest in the Lord" from Elijah.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock, the hour at which the service was to commence, the deep tolling of the cathedral bell gave forth its solemn message to the listening crowds "I am the resurrection and the life saith the Lord."

Slowly the little procession of surpliced clergy approached the chancel. Again a hushed pause and the voice of the assisting minister opened the service with the 39th Psalm to the accompaniment of the murmured responses of the congregation. There followed the beautiful chapter of 1st Corinthians, "Now is Christ risen from the dead," read by Canon Plumptre, and then one of those moments which stand out in the memory when, with controlled emotion, he announced to the gathering that the body of Harold Bakewell had been recovered from the waters of Balsam Lake. It was soon over, and the pall-bearers, all of them young lads, took their places and the seven caskets were moved in slow procession from the church.

The cortege moved off from Church street at 4 o'clock with the detachment from the Mississauga Horse marching at slow time, with arms reversed, in the lead. Where the long procession passed the busy activities of the city ceased a moment while like the lull which follows the Summer breeze, a wave of silence swept over the great crowds.

Only the families and the relatives of the boys were admitted to the cemetery, where Rev. Canon Plumptree performed the last rites. With their leader in the centre the lads were placed side by side in the plot which had been set apart for them. The sun, which had been shining brightly for a space, passed again under a cloud; while outside the gates, a street car clanging down Parliament street stopped as the short order of service at the grave was opened.

Rest Side by Side.

"I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me: Write—from henceforth blessed are the dead which die in the Lord for they rest from their labors." And so the little band rested, their spirit revered and that show of manliness and self sacrifice which marked the dark hours on Balsam Lake left ever as an example to Canada's younger generation.

The arrangements throughout the funeral ceremony yesterday were fitting to the occasion. In the Cathedral the families and relatives were placed on one side of the aisle, with the pall bearers seated opposite.

Among those present were Mayor Foster, City Clerk Littlejohn, and Controller Gibbons, representing the city, while the Canadian National Telegraphs Co., of which John Wiginton had been an employee, was represented by the head of the district, General Manager W. G. Barber, by G. H. Walter, manager of the Toronto office; by J. M. McTaggart and by H. Hogarth.

Together with Canon Plumptre and Rev. T. W. Murphy, who conducted the service, were Venerable Archdeacon Davidson, Rev. Canon Baynes-Reed of St. John's church, Rev. R. M. Millman of Japan, Rev. W. J. Taylor of Birch Cliff, Rev. A. D. Dewdney, Rev. Dr. R. A. Hiltz of the Board of Religious Education, Rev. W. L. Collen, Rev. T. W. Nind and Rev. J. W. M. Swann, associate director of the ill-fated camp. Representatives of the Salvation Army were also present as a tribute to Mardall, whose father during his life time was an active member of the organization.

Shea-Butcher, who was at one time a sergeant in the 4th C.M.R., was accorded full military honors, and a volley was fired over his grave.

Petting Is Permitted In Baltimore Parks

BALTIMORE, Md., July 30 (United Press). — Baltimore parks have been made safe for neckers. "Kiss and hug, pet and hold hands, but be decent about it and the patrol men walking the pebbled paths will leave you alone," the Park Board advises.

"But you must be decent about it," the Board warns.

The official edict says any outward display of affection between boys and girls, not involving conduct generally considered indecent is to be permitted in the parks.

The Board's action followed numerous complaints that boys were being boys and girls girls in the Baltimore parks.

At the Sign of the INDEPENDENT GROCER

Wherever you see this sign on a grocer's window, it will be evidence that this grocer is securing the support of the most efficient food distributing system in Ontario.

By purchasing your full food requirements from this store, you pay no more, considering the service, than under any other system, and you will support for your own protection and benefit the most economical source of grocery supply and service.

During this week several thousand "Independent Grocer" signs are being placed on the windows of individually owned retail grocery stores, calling public attention to a great body of men catering to your daily food needs.

This sign signifies a great co-operative movement of retail grocers, featuring and displaying each week merchandise of reputable manufacturers, whose products bear the endorsement of store and public alike.

These worthy men represent an army of public servants, who day by day study the ways and means of being of practical service to thousands of households, including "yours". In order that you may benefit by this great service, patronize these stores for your complete food requirements.

If these services are found to be of value in part, it is an advantage to make full use of them, in order that service may be rendered at the least cost.

Where this sign is shown you will find it easier to buy your full grocery requirements. You will find a willingness to assist in the selection of better groceries—probably a credit service, which saves annoyance of making change, also an attentive and understanding service to the "kiddie" shoppers.

In all weathers, your phone brings this grocer's service to your door, and his ability to serve you better warrants the slogan—

"Patronize the Community Owned Independent Grocer"

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Born to adventure and destined to a life of tempestuous experience are those whose birth anniversary this is. The sapphire is both the talismanic and vital gem. Its accompanying prophecy is "Thou hast far, far to go." But the promise of the sapphire is generous. Wealth and happiness wait at the end of the trail. Marriage to a woman of great beauty was the gift of the man who wore a flawless sapphire.

Green is the fortunate color for today. It signifies change, where discouragement and defeat are cast aside to make way for radiant hope and achievement.

The white rose is the lucky flower for today. It is believed to bring peace, contentment and domestic happiness.

The Charm of Soft Fabric

New frocks are soft and fluttery with flowered materials and flares. The frock presented here is sure to take the eye of the miss and little woman. First, because of its arresting simplicity of line, and second, because of the loveliness of its material. A wide ribbon sash is tied at the low waistline, where rippling skirt joins slender bodice. The batteau neck is finished with a narrow binding of the same plain material as the flaring sleeves. No. 1254 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 4¾ yards 36-inch figured crêpe, and ⅝ yard plain georgette crêpe; ribbon for sash 2¾ yards 5 inches wide. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

RHEUMATISM

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless—quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from McDermid and Jury or any druggist today. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

JONATHAN SWIFT AND VARINA. STELLA AND VANESSA.

The love affairs of Jonathan Swift, Dean of St. Patricks, Dublin, the brilliant satirist, author of the celebrated "Gulliver's Travels," form the darkest chapter in the story of his life. To this day historians are puzzled by the cruel, despicable behavior of an otherwise generous and honorable man, to the three women who gave him their love.

Varina was Swift's first love. Her name was Jane Wairing, but Swift's fantasy made her Varina." He paid ardent court to her but when she was unsettled as to her feelings for him he went away in anger. Four years later she wrote him that she would welcome him and he replied in a letter bristling with veiled insults and imposed such impudent qualifications for the woman he would wish to share his life with him that "Varina" gave him up there and then and so probably escaped a wretched fate.

"Stella," or Esther Johnson, as her real name was, was Swift's next. She was one of the most attractive girls in London and she fell in love with Swift, who was secretary to a nobleman who befriended her. Swift taught her to write and lavished upon her his fondness for "improving the minds" of his women friends. When her benefactor died and she was left homeless, Swift sent her to Ireland and installed her in his apartments while he was in London. Every day he wrote a letter to her, the letters which form the now famous "Journal to Stella." It is not known what their actual relationship was save that Stella loved Swift passionately.

While Stella was in Ireland another girl in London, whose mind Swift was also improving, Hester Vanhomrigh, known thereafter as "Vanessa," conceived the most ardent love for him and Swift encouraged her, though perhaps unconsciously. Vanessa had estates in Ireland and when her mother died she went to that country to live and settled not far from where Stella lived. Swift had got himself into the position where he had to preserve a balance between both his loves and keep each in ignorance of the other. Vanessa at length discovered Stella and wrote, asking her whether she was married to Swift. Swift at this time had neglected Vanessa and she was literally pining away for love of him and had fallen into consumption. While she lay on her sick bed Swift rushed into her room one day, in the darkest rage, threw her letter to Stella in her face and stalked out without a word. That was a death warrant for Vanessa. She shrank into herself and died shortly after.

Five years later Stella followed her, no longer able to bear her position, though it is said Swift offered to marry her if the wedding was not made public. There was some mystery concerning Swift and Stella but whatever it was, it is certain that Stella died of a broken heart. They bore her body past his window and he sat there in his room, in the most abject misery, quaking at the thoughts conjured up by an outraged conscience.

The letter that follows was written by Swift to Varina, when he urged her immediate acceptance of his love. It is a strange missive for a love letter.

". . . . Surely, Varina, you have but a very mean opinion of the joys that accompany a true and unlimited love: yet either nature or our own ancestors have highly deceived us or else other sublinary things are dross in comparison. Is it possible you can be yet insensible to the prospect of a rapture and delight so innocent and so exalted? Trust me, Varina, Heaven has given us nothing else worth the loss of a thought. Ambition, high appearances, friends and fortune are all tasteless and insipid when they are in competition: yet millions of such glorious minutes are we perpetually losing—forever losing, irrecoverably losing, to gratify empty forms and wrong notions, and affected coldness and peevish manner. These are the unhappy encumbrances which we, who are distinguished from the vulgar, create to torment ourselves. The only felicity permitted to human life we clog with tedious circumstances and barbarous formality. By heaven, Varina, you are more experienced and have less virgin innocence than I. Would not your conduct make one think you were highly skilled in all the little politic methods of intrigue? Love, with the gall of too much discretion, is a thousand times worse than none at all. To resist the violence of our inclinations in the beginning is a strain of self-denial that may have some pretences to set up for a virtue: but when they are grounded at first upon reason—when they have taken firm root and grown up to a height, 'tis folly—folly as well as injustice to withstand their dictates: for this passion has a property peculiar to itself, to be most commendable in its extremes: and 'tis as possible to err in the excess of piety as of love. . . . ."

The Sword That Father Made

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

FATHERS were made to be worshiped by small sons. The reason most fathers don't stay enthroned is that they make no effort to keep the rank which is theirs by natural right. Try making something, just anything, for a child and see how he'll follow you around, how he'll look at you, and how he'll brag about you. If you've never experienced this thrill, try it. It is not only for the pleasure in it that one works for the love and respect of a child, but because when it comes to discipline and inspiration the basis of love is there.

Tommy, who is four, and his Daddy hold a mutual respect for each other. Tommy's mother was taken very ill and he had to be sent away for a visit, a long visit—it might be for always, and he couldn't help but feel the love and anxiety in the home. Unfortunately he had to start at bedtime, the very hardest time of the day, and when the parting came the thing he clung to was an old wooden sword his father had made—just two sticks nailed together and shaped a little, but they had made it together and it held something of father.

I shall never forget the parting I witnessed. A pathetic Daddy standing in the dim train shed, smoking a cigar very, very fast. A wee boy, with tear-bright eyes, on the train platform, holding his daddy-made sword and calling "I've got my sword. I'll be a good sport. Good-bye."

MARIAN.

Mary, which is the root of numberless feminine names of simple dignity, is responsible for romantic Marian. Like her forerunner, Marian signifies bitter, but a sweeter name would be difficult to find. Maria was probably its direct progenitor and Marian came about through the introduction of the French diminutive "on" thus forming the name of—

"A bonny fine maid of noble degree, Maid Marion by name."

The delightful story of Robin Hood gave fame to her name and as early as 1332 she was given a unique place in popular favor by the play of "Robin et Marion" by the students of Angers, one of them appearing as a "fillette deguisee." The origin of Marionettes is thus explained: puppets disguised to play the part of Maid Marion. Another explanation is that the term comes from the custom of calling the small images of the Blessed Virgin, Marionettes or Marionettes and several streets of Paris where these tiny figures were set up were called the Rues des Marionettes. Gradually all puppets came to be called Marionettes and the bauble carried by a court jester was a Marotte or Marionette.

In France Marion became very popular: indeed that country rarely accepts Marian. Marian was speedily contracted to Manon and also expanded into Marionette, as a poem written in the 13th century gives proof. Scotland has always loved Marion and "Maid Marion, fair as an ivory bone" is popular in rustic pageantry there. They call her Menie occasionally.

Marian's jewel is the agate which insures an agreeable persuasive manner, averts danger and gives a bold, courageous heart. According to an old poem

"Adorned with this thou woman's heart shall gain.
And by persuasion, thy desire obtain
And if of men thou aught demand, shall come,
With all thy wish fulfilled rejoicing home."

Sunday is Marian's lucky day and 2 her talismanic number. Her flower is the wild rose.

A BAD ADVISER.

As we tried to bring her to, there was a noise in the hall and in stroke Jem Smith. At the sight of Joan and I in there with Lela so still and white on the pillow, he turned and almost shouted in a rough voice

"So you have killed her with your demands, Miss Meredith! Well, let me tell you it will do you no good. I can carry on for her. I know that you and Barry were at that road house, and I have the name on that register myself."

I looked at Lela quickly. Was it possible that Providence had let her die and left us in the hands of this bounder?

To my relief and surprise her eyes flew open with a jerk. She had heard the voice of the master of The Circle, the voice that she feared, the voice that made her dance whether she wished to or not.

"What is it, Mr. Smith?" she asked, before her lazy lids drooped again and shut out all expression in her face.

Although her voice was hardly above a whisper, the man heard her.

He rushed over toward the bed. "Don't you believe, Lela, what these dames have been telling you. They have probably been giving you some applesauce trying to make you think they are your friends. But I know all about them. They came to my place for your address. I told them that I didn't have it. I wanted to get to you first, for I wanted to tell you that I was your friend. I wanted to make you understand that they were trying to gyp you. Don't have anything to do with them.

"Give me that piece of paper that Barry cut out of the register. I'll make them pay for it. I'll make them pay enough to keep both of us all the rest of our lives."

It was then that I pushed forward, for I understood that if Lela gave Jem Smith that paper he would bleed Joan all her life.

"Don't give it to him, Mrs. Cornwall, Joan has been telling you the truth. Place the two people together side by side. What has Jem Smith ever done to you except to try and throw you into the arms of any man that seemed to admire you and then take all the money that he could get out of you. You told us not a minute ago that you were ashamed that you had wronged Joan, and you told us that poor Barry's death was your punishment. Let us be your friends, Mrs. Cornwall.

"Yes, Lela, please let me be your friend and I promise you that your baby shall never want for anything."

"Bunk!" said Jem Smith. "Give me the paper or you will wish you hadn't, for these young women won't do anything for you."

Lela Cornwall raised up her eyes slowly and looked straight into Jem's face and said, "I can't give it to you because I haven't got it."

Today's Fashion

By Vera Winston

This Dainty White Crepe Frock Is Trimmed with Bright Red.

Red is a color very much in the limelight at present, from the dull petunia shades to the clear bright reds of Chinese inspiration.

The latter shades are particularly lovely used sparingly as trimming touches on the white frocks of Summer. A smart example of this is seen in the simple frock above.

Flat crepe is the material used, while inset on the bodice and skirt is a narrow puffed treatment of bright red chiffon. At the lowered waistline the red note is repeated in a belt treatment of cross-barred stitching. The hair hat is also red.

WOMAN'S DRESS MUST NOT CRAMP LUNGS.

A prominent woman said the other day, "Women are injuring their health, rather than benefiting it, at golf and tennis and other exercise, because their clothing is too tight and they breathe improperly. To get action in every muscle and blood vessel, you must relegate most of your clothing to the shelf."

Really, observation would lead most of us to believe that almost everything has been "relegated" that can be cast aside with propriety. It is difficult to believe there can be much more scanty attire than we gaze upon every day.

However, it may be well that the lungs and abdominal organs are interfered with by the construction of modern dress. It is worth while to investigate. If it is a fact, then there must be a reform, or fair women will suffer needlessly.

There can be no such thing as perfect health unless the lungs are used properly. Shallow breathing is responsible for many a case of lowered vitality.

Food will not digest and be utilized by the body as it should be unless the lungs are used properly. You know how little heat a stove would give without air, and lots of air. It is equally true of human beings that they cannot thrive without oxygen.

If you are too heavy, you can reduce your weight by dieting, particularly by eating less than usual. The reverse of this does not follow. Simply adding to the diet is not likely to put on flesh. Skinny persons are frequently great eaters. Actually they seem to grow poor from carrying around a surplus of food.

Such persons are not benefitting from the food, because there is not enough oxygen to prepare it for the uses of the blood. Any sort of dress which interferes with free breathing will impair health. But I doubt if modern dress, with the elimination of the old-fashioned corset, is responsible for many cases of ill health.

I am fully convinced, however, that ignorance of how to breathe has lots to do with much of human misery. You just cannot thrive without an abundance of air. If you are flat-chested and the collar-bones stick out, it is possible you are not inflating the lungs as you should. You need advice if that is your condition.

I can quite understand that any form of dress which necessitates tight bands about the waist can do real harm. That is a manner of dressing which should not be practiced.

Really, the modern dress of women, shocking as it is to so many critics, is much better for health than the heavy, tight-fitting and overabundant clothing of a generation ago. Just how long these fashions will hold is a problem. But while the present vogue continues it is well for us to consider what should be the permanent style for women.

But what's the use? Women always have dressed as they please and they always will do this. Why complain or suggest?

Women thrive physically, no matter what the rules for good dressing prescribe. But no matter what else may be done or neglected, let nothing interfere with free lung action and protection of the other organs from weight and pressure.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TOOTHACHE PLANT.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

"Who is that new, strange little animal child, playing with Jimper and Jumper?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his wife one afternoon, as he looked from the window of his hollow stump bungalow toward where the bunny children were playing.

"Why, that isn't a new or strange child," said Mrs. Longears. "Don't you know Squeakie Eekie, the cousin mouse?"

"Oh, is that Squeakie Eeekie?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I guess I didn't know her with her face washed. Are Jillie and Jollie here, too?" he inquired, naming the mouse children, whose last name was Longtail.

"Jollie and Jillie have gone over in the meadow to play with Tinker and Tanker," answered the lady rabbit. "And it is almost time for Squeakie Eeekie to go home, I think. I'll tell Jimper and Jumper. They are so busy playing they have forgotten how late it is."

But, when Uncle Wiggily hopped out to kindly and gently hint that perhaps Squeakie Eeekie had better scamper along home, Jimper said

"Oh, but the cousin mouse isn't going home. She's going to stay with us all night."

"Did you ask your mother?" inquired Mr. Longears.

"Oh-er-did you ask your mother?" inquired Mr. Longears, looking at Jimper and Jumper sort of particularly.

"We didn't, but we're going to," answered Jimper.

"Yes, I'd love to stay all night," whispered Squeakie Eeekie. "I'll be very good and not make trouble."

"Oh, my dear child, it isn't that!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "You are welcome to stay, as long as your auntie says it's all right."

So that is how the cousin mouse came to stay all night in the hollow stump bungalow with the forty 'leven little bunny rabbits. But as for making trouble—well, really it wasn't the fault of the cousin mouse. Any one is likely to get the toothache any time, aren't they?

And that's what Squeakie Eekie got, the toothache in the middle of the night, so that she awakened crying, and Mrs. Longears heard her.

"What's the matter, little cousin mouse?" whispered the rabbit lady, creeping into the room where Squeakie Eeekie had been sleeping.

"I—I—now—I got the toothache somethin' turribul!" groaned the cousin mouse. In his room, awakening from a sound sleep, Uncle Wiggily heard what was said.

"Toothache, is it?" cried the bunny. "I'll stop the pain for you, Squeakie Eekie!"

"Not by pulling—oh, not by pulling my tooth!" cried the cousin mouse. "I don't want my tooth pulled, even if it does ache."

"Well, I'll stop the pain now, and later on you may change your mind about having it pulled," said Uncle Wiggily, putting on his bathrobe and slippers, and taking down off the mantel a bottle filled with lightning bugs. This was his flashlight or lantern.

"Where are you going?" asked his wife.

"Out in the meadow, back of the yard, to where the toothache plant grows," answered the bunny gentleman. "There is a plant called yarrow. The roots of it stop the pain of an aching tooth when you chew them and lay them in your mouth near the sore place. Don't cry any more, Squeakie Eeekie, you'll soon be better."

In the light from the flashing bugs in the bottle Uncle Wiggily found the yarrow plant. He pulled up some of the roots and washed the dirt off in the spring. Then he gave some of the fine, little roots to the cousin mouse to chew and hold in her mouth near the aching tooth. Pretty soon Squeakie Eekie said

"Oh, my tongue feels all prickly, like when my paw goes to sleep, after I've been sitting on it."

"That numb feeling is the toothache plant stopping the pain," said the bunny uncle. And soon the little mouse child went to sleep, for her tooth no longer ached, and in the morning she went to Dr. Bear, the dentist, who filled her hollow tooth so it would not ache again.

Perhaps there may be some yarrow growing in your back yard, and if there is you can stop a toothache with it. But be sure it is yarrow. And if the gold fish doesn't try to eat a piece of apple pie when standing on its tail I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the July Bug.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

Daily Short Story

RESTITUTION IN FULL

Old Judson Carteret, of the law firm of Carteret and Simpson, was told by his doctors that, owing to certain physical afflictions which were his, he could not look forward to many more years of money getting. Thereupon Judson opened the long-closed door of the lumber-room of his past and began to take account of stock.

There was his connection with Marcellus Livermore. Perhaps he had injured Marcellus—but then, if he hadn't he never would have been worth the large fortune he had today. Yes, the money he had "done" Marcellus out of was the foundation of his present fortune: but if he had not "done" his former partner his former partner would, in all probability, have "done" him.

Marcellus had died in poverty but the last Judson knew there was a daughter alive and unmarried out in Chicago who was making her own living. Before this Judson's conscience had been a most docile and complaisant part of his mentality, never giving him the least trouble: but now it began to annoy him in the most unaccountable manner. During all his career as a lawyer he had preached the foolishness of people delaying in making their wills—and had never made one himself.

More and more now he felt driven to doing two things which he disliked to do intensely—make his will and make up to Marcellus Livermore's daughter, partially at least, for the injury he had done her father. He was an old bachelor without kith or kin except a nephew, Frank Carteret, the son of a long-dead younger brother, the said Frank being at that time a young attorney employed in the office of his firm. Judson pondered long and deeply over the situation and at last said to himself "Hang it all! I'll do it. Frank will have enough anyway"—and proceeded to execute his last will and testament. Not long after this he was gathered to his fathers and his partner, Mr. Simpson, opened and read the document.

It was found that Judson had left his entire fortune to "My nephew, Francis K. Carteret, provided the said Francis K. Carteret marry within one year after my demise, Emily, daughter of the late Marcellus Livermore. Should he, the said Francis, refuse to marry as aforesaid, or should the said Emily be already married"—then the fortune was to be divided equally between the two.

Frank heard the reading of the will with an air of indifference. "Of course," he said, "I shall not marry Miss Emily Livermore."

"Better wait until you see her before you decide," replied Mr. Simpson: "in any event we must advertise for the lady. Miss Leland, please take this on the typewriter and send it to one New York and one Chicago paper. It's an advertisement. Hem! 'If Miss Emily Livermore, daughter of the late Marcellus Livermore, will apply at or communicate with this office she will hear of something to her advantage.' Sign it with our firm name and address."

The young lady thus called into action was a very pretty young lady, apparently approaching thirty years of age. She was Mr. Simpson's trusted secretary. He had read the will before her aloud to Frank being hardly aware that she was in the room. He even failed to notice her very obvious agitation as she took down his dictation. But Frank noticed it. He had been paying secret court to Bertha Leland for some time: secret because he knew that if he paid her open court his uncle would raise a row and she would lose her job. Bertha had held him off in a most unaccountable manner: although he was sure that she was far from indifferent to him. Now, as he witnessed her agitation at typing an "ad" for a woman to come out of the West and be to him what she had refused to be, bringing him at the same time a doubling of his fortune, Frank felt his heart give a joyful leap. She did love him, after all.

He intercepted her that afternoon as she came from the office. "Bertha," said he, "I have asked you twice to marry me: now I ask you a third time. Won't you say Yes?"

She looked at him with a little smile. "Why! aren't you going to marry Miss Livermore?" she asked.

"I am not," he replied emphatically.

"You think so now," said Bertha. "It is nice of you to be willing to sacrifice all that money to marry poor me: but I am not positive that, after all, you will marry Emily Livermore."

"Absurd," replied Frank indignantly. "May I ask why you are so very positive on that point?"

"Because," said Bertha with a little quaver in her voice, "I am Emily Livermore."

When things had quieted down a bit Emily explained "I took the job in your office under an assumed name because I was afraid that if your uncle knew who I was he would not have me there—and I had to have work. How poor father and Mr. Carteret did hate each other! But that's all over now, for both of them—and Mr. Carteret tried to make restitution at last. I could not say yes to you before, Frank—it would look too much as if I had come there to inveigle the heir of my father's arch enemy."

"You dear girl," gushed Frank, "and you sacrifice a fortune by marrying me."

"Not a bit," laughed Emily, "I get you with the fortune attached."

LIBERALS CALL PARTY MEETING

Will Assemble in Warkworth on Thursday To Pick Candidate.

SLADE NOT RUNNING.

COBOURG, July 30. — To-day bills were posted in Cobourg and district by the Northumberland Liberal Association, announcing that a convention will be held in the Town Hall at Warkworth on Thursday, August 5, to nominate a candidate to contest the riding in the Liberal interests at the coming Federal election. The special speaker for the day is Hon. J. C. Elliott. Dr. W. G. Robertson, Colborne, is president of the Northumberland Liberal Association, and A. J. Meyers, Campbellford, is secretary.

It is quite generally conceded here that the Liberals will put a candidate in the field; as to who this will be is not made plain. It is understood that F. J. Slade, who contested the riding last October, is not seeking nomination again.

In the Conservative ranks there appears to be unanimity regarding the candidature of M. E. Maybee, who was nominated as Conservative standard-bearer at Warkworth last week. Mr. Maybee is understood to be a hard worker in a political contest.

As yet neither political party has arranged for public meetings, and as election day is only about six weeks away, a hot campaign from this time on is assured.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

R. M. Reynolds, national advertising manager of the Altanta Georgian. American, says:

That advertising has added a large share of the increased prosperity of the nation. It has made possible manufacturing on a large scale because it has given access to the entire nation as a market. This increase in markets has resulted in a generallly lower price scale and has benefited even the most humble of the workmen.

Advertising has further than all these brought a more stringent test of truth into what appears in our publications. When the printed word was restricted largely to Biblical tracts and books, the people were taught to believe implicitly everything they read. But there followed a period when the printing press had been improved and many publications began to stream into the reading world, with a gradually receding view of the truth, until it became a subject of humorous and sarcastic comment to refer lightly to everything in print.

Happily, this state is passing and today the higher class publications are not only holding truth as the criterion of their news and editorials, but for their advertising as well, standing behind those who use their columns. This came about as a result of the fact that advertising on the new and larger scale made clear; namely, that advertising to be successful must have the confidence of the people. This confidence must be retained and all men engaged in recognized advertising concerns strive to hold all questionable material out of the publications. This work is being conducted by the affiliated advertising companies because they see in it their salvation.

Therefore, we are able to say without fear of successful contradiction that advertising is one of the sponsors of truth, and therefore, is contributing to the high level of our life.

Of course, we need spend no time arguing the worth of advertising; if there is anyone left who doubts the power of advertising, let him pull the shingle down from his door and forget his name. Then he will be consistent, at least.

HOME THREATENED MAN KILLS HIMSELF

Aged Toronto Man Receives Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure.

TORONTO, July 30.—Believed to have been despondent at the thought of a mortgage being foreclosed on him and at the prospect of losing his home, David Ross, aged 83, of 128 Lindsay Avenue, was found dead from inhaling illuminating gas at the above address yesterday. He left behind him a communication which contained the threat of foreclosure, and also written instructions regarding the disposition of his property.

Ross was last seen alive on Tuesday evening. When he failed to put in an appearance yesterday, Sergt. Follett went over to the house and found him dead, fully clothed, on the bed. The door was closed, and a mat was placed against it. The gas was turned full on.

Ross was a widower, and formerly worked for the city. As far as is known, he has no relatives.

Leafs Score Winning Runs In Last Inning

LEAFS WON ONE AND LOST ONE TO THE BISONS

Bill Kelly Poled His Thirty-Second Homer of the Season.

NEWARK POSTPONED

Tribe Takes Doubleheader From Syracuse at Rochester.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Big Bill Kelly, of the Bisons, poled his thirty-second home run of the season yesterday while the Leafs and Buffalo were dividing a doubleheader at Buffalo. Toronto took the first, 10 to 5, and lost the second, 5 to 7. Koupal allowed only seven hits in the final. Ownie Carroll beat the Bisons in the opener.

At Rochester the Tribe knocked three Syracuse twirlers off the mound to win the first game twenty to four. Rochester took the second also when Eddie Murphy scored Jones with a single and later stole home. The score was 6 to 4.

YANKEES BEAT BROWNS THIRD STRAIGHT GAME

New York Continued Pennant-Ward March by Defeating St. Louis.

ROOKIE TRIPLED

Eleventh Inning Rally Brings Washington Up From Behind, 7-3.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees knocked Vangilder from the St. Louis mound yesterday and beat the Browns for the third straight time, continuing their pennant-ward march, 10-7. Five Brown errors contributed.

At Cleveland the home team made it three straight from Philadelphia when they came from behind to win, 3-2.

The Athletics scored two in the first when Barbee, a rookie from Piedmont, tripled in his first time at bat in a major league game. Catcher Perkins was put out of the game for arguing with the umpire.

Washington staged an eleventh inning rally at Chicago and by injecting a pinch hitter and a pinch runner scored four runs to win, 7-3. The visitors had five double plays. Blankenship suffered a broken thumb in his right hand when he attempted to knock down Myer's liner.

Boston out-hit Detroit at the Tigers' park, but lost when Detroit bunched five of their hits in two innings for five runs, the score being 6 to 5. Heilmann doubled and hit a homer.

SEYMOUR LEAGUE DROPS SCHEDULE

Protests and Postponements Wrought Havoc With Fixtures.

STANDNG OF TEAMS.

BURNBRAE July 30—The executive of the Seymour Baseball League have decided that in view of the lateness of the season it would be inadvisable to continue the League games. The regular schedule should have been completed two weeks ago but various protests and postponements have delayed the finish of the season, the last League fixture between Tren River and English Line was only played to the end of the third inning due to the late arrival of the Trent team. The score standing four runs to nothing in favor of the Line at that time. The other games, Trent River and English line, were postponed, and the replay of the protested Trent River-Burnbrae July 1st fixture, are not included in the final standing, which is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Burnbrae	5	0
English Line	3	2
Trent River	2	2

Plans are being laid for the foundation of a Campbellford team picked from the Burnbrae and English Line teams, to challenge Hastings for possession of the Clarke Cup. The following players are mentioned as likely choice: Hume, Ibey, Shillinglaw, Weston, Eagleson, DeCarrol, Blakely, Rev. Daniel, Karl Haig, Craighead, Cowell, Maybee, K. Godden.

Young People's Debate.

The regular meeting of the People's League held on Monday evening was in charge of the Junior department under the leadership of Everett Fairman. A very interesting programme was presented. The meeting opened with a song service conducted by the president, Fred Barnum. The showing of colors showed an attendance of seventy with Khaki in the lead. A vocal duet by Misses E .Barum and B. Lain, a reading by Roy Barnum, a vocal solo by one of the junior members, Miss Helen Barnum, and two numbers by the junior choir, made a very interesting programme. An impromptu debate was then staged: "Resolved that the League should be closed for the summer months. The affirmative was upheld by Earl Fairman for the Reds and Roy Barnum for the Blue. Thomas Fry of the White and Lindsay Anderson of the Khaki took the negative and won the judges' decision. Judges were Messrs. Fred Barnum, Will Ford, Lindsay Watson. Timekeeper, Lorne Barnum.

Service At Zion.

The Sunday evening service at Zion was conducted by a representative of the Ontario Temperance Union. He gave a very interesting and instructive address, warning the people to vote only for three candidates that would pledge themselves to support temperance measures, regardless of party affections.

The dumbbells used by the old Greek athletes in their training work were heavy, flat, generally diagonal pieces of iron, with holes large enough for the hands. The ancients believed in lifting heavy weights, and regularly used bells weighind as much as 200 pounds.

DE LAVAL VS. QUAKERS GORDON SOCCER CUP

Kick-off is at Three O'clock Prompt on Nicholls Oval.

The semi-final of the Gordon Soccer Cup takes place Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval between the De Laval and the Quaker Oats. Kick-off at 3 o'clock prompt. All players are requested to be on hand no later than 2.45, so as the game may be started according to schedule.

Mr. Wm. Rickard is the official referee, and the neutral linesmen are Alex. McKinley, Tom Stewart and Wm. Anderson.

These two elevens have not met before in any cup tie, and the result is liable to be in any one team's favor. If it is surprises the separator boys have the happy art of inflicting the penalty.

It is a few years ago since the Quakers have won this trophy. Geo, Logan was the marksman that day against the now defunct Canadian Woollens. They are putting out their best eleven to win this contest tomorrow.

C.G.E. TAKE GAME FROM BELMONTS

SCORE 12-6

In one of the best softball games of the season, the smooth working C.G.E. team defeated the Belmonts at Central Park last nigat, 2 to 6. The game was by no means fast but it was just steady softball, with the team that secured the most hits winning. Home runs by Ash and Corbett, with a runner on each time, helped the C.G.E. to get their lead. The Belmonts did some very wild throwing just at times when there were runners on. F. Jones was especially good at bunting and stealing bases. Haskill dropped the ball twice when a runner was coming in. Joe Batten, in right field, made a perfect throw to home plate, heading off J. Jones who was trying to make home.

The C.G.E. started with a two run lead in the first innings and were always ahead after. The Belmonts seemed to have a very weak line up of batters and as a result only 15 men reached first base and four of them were given a free ticket. The C.G. E. had 24 men reaching first base and two o fthem were walked. Powell pitched a very steady game and was given splendid support by his teammates. The box score:

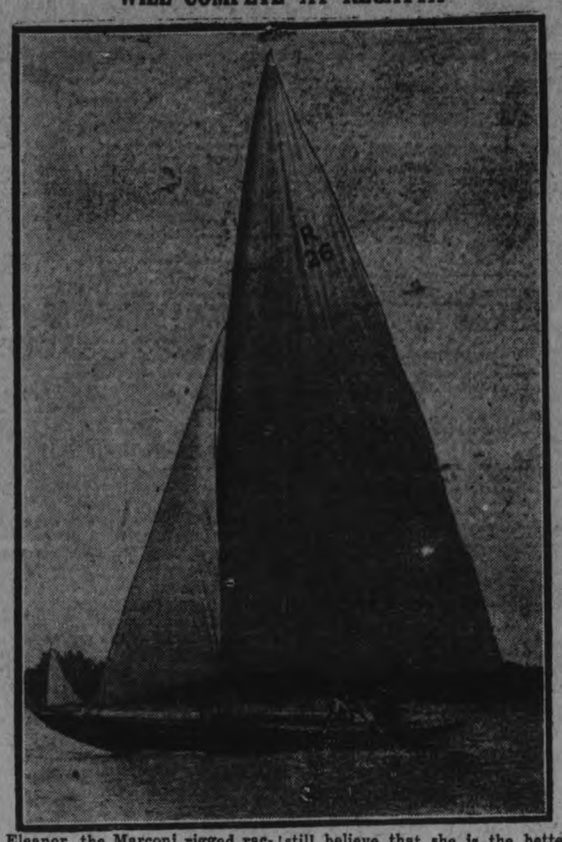
WILL COMPETE AT REGATTA



Eleanor, the Marconi rigged racing sloop R. S. McLaughlin built to help the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto recover the George Cup, won from Nayada of the R. C. Y. C. last season. Eleanor was defeated recently by Acadia, the Roue-designed Nova Scotia-built "R" boat, financed by Commander Gooderham, of Toronto, but the margin was so close that her friends still believe that she is the better boat in a breeze of wind. She will be polished and conditioned for the long distance race from Toronto to Port of Rochester, which starts next Saturday, for the Freeman Cup race from Rochester to Stoney Point and for the Class "R" races in the Lake Yacht Racing Association regatta at Henderson's Harbor, N. Y., Aug. 4-5-6.

REGATTAS PLANNED

All Set for Annual Gala Week at Stoney Lake.

STONEY LAKE, July 30.— The lake is now "all set" for the usual "gala week" with cottagers practically all open and lots of young folks to enter into all the contests and al the fun. Swimming parties are in vogue and are as popular as ever.

Everything points to a jolly season, with lots of big events and hosts of smaller parties.

The dances have been well attended with the younger set predominating naturally.

The annual regatta will be held at McCracken's Landing on Thursday of this week with a competent committee in charge.

The annual regatta of the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association will be held on Monday, August 9th at Juniper Island. This will be one of the largest if not the largest event of the summer season.

Children's Regatta.

The annual children's regatta will be held at Juniper Island on Saturday, July 31st, with a fine program of events for children up to fourteen years. The children's regatta is a real feature and has always lots of pep. The adults are always enthusiastic over this event.

On Saturday, August 7th, a special events regatta will be held, which will include all the sailing races and motor boat races, the ong distance swim.

Mr. Gordon K. Fraser of Burleigh has donated a handsome trophy for the dingy sailing and last year Mrs. G. K. Fraser donated a beautiful cup for the swim from Lech's Island to Juniper. This was won last year by Donald Fitzgerald of Lakefield. Another special event is the paddle round Juniper for the Gordon Grahame cup. This division of the regatta events giving the longer events a special day ensures the running of of the regular programme in a snappy fashion.

The annual masquerade dance will be held at Juniper on August 7th and is the big social event of the season. Usually there are about two hundred in costume and as many more on lookers at least.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick of Peterboro are at their cottage near Juniper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. MacAllister Lyn and Mr. Fred Brooks-Hill of Toronto are at Grassy Istand.

Mrs. Gordon Smith of Montreal is at her cottage "Shota."

Mr. and Mrs. Methuen of Toronto are at Grassy Island for the season.

Mrs. J. M. R. Fairbairn of Montreal and family are at "Juniper Lodge."

Mr. and Mrs. George MacLeod of Toronto are spending the summer at Minnewawa."

Mr. and Mrs. Wadds, and Mrs. George Wadds of Buffalo are spending a few weeks at the lake.

Mr. E. S. Gibson of Brantford and daughters are at "Twin Bluffs" for the season.

Mrs. W. G. Morrow and Miss Morrow of Peterboro are at "Oakdene", Boschink.

The members of the bowling club are reminded of the usual Friday night tournament. To-night has been designated Cherry Night, and sixteen baskets have been donated for the winners.

TOURISTS LOSE TO MILL TEAM

Close Game is Played at Campbellford—Errors Count.

SCORE IS 7-6

CAMPBELLFORD, July 30.—The Mill team of the Softball Association won another exhibition game from the Tourists from Alliance, Ohio, by a 7 to 6 score, at the Agricultural Grounds on Wednesday night. Witherspoon, considered the best pitcher in the Alliance City League, had the Mill batters swinging wild most oft he way, bu they mixed their hits with errors and Witherspoon's wildness to earn the verdict.

LAWN BOWLERS WIN FROM THE EXAMINER

The Lawn Bowlers' softball team kept up their winning streak by defeating The Examiner, 8 to 7, at the Oval last night. Harold Freeman drew first blood, blocking the ball with his nose. The game was snappy, taking less than 40 minutes. For The Examiner Harold Dormer and George Johnson fielded well.

Score by innings:

Lawn Bowlers	110600000—8
The Examiner	302020000—7

Fox and Freeman; Scates and Baker.

"Umpire"—Herb Martin and E. Dormer.

LIQUOR IS GIVEN BACK TO OWNER

NO MORE EXPORTS.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 30.—More than $10,000 worth of Quebec Liquord Commission whiskey an wines, seized April 28 by Provincial police in the yards of the Canadian National Railways here, was ordered returned to the owner, S. Harris, of Walkerville, by Magistrate Gundy in the Police Court yesterday. Harris was charged with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and also was called upon to show cause why a shipment sent to Windsor addressed to himself should not be confiscated. The charge of illegal possession was dismissed by the court, and the request of Crown Attorney James H. Allan for confiscation was denied. Mr. Gundy said there was no doubt the shipment was sent to Windsor for exportation to Detroit, as contended by Harris.

More than $4,000 worth of the original liquor shipment was stolen while the car was in the railway yards, Harris told the court.

No More Bogus Addresses

The use of fictitious addresses in Mexico to cover up liquor shipments to Detroit, a common ruse of exporters in the past, no longer will be tolerated on the Canadian side of the Detroit River, it was announced yesterday.

"Instructions have been received from Ottawa to refuse clearance of shipments where railway bills of lading are made out for points in Mexico and Customs Department vouchers bear Detroit addresses," Andrew H. Dalziel, Collector of Customs for the port of Windsor, said. Mr. Dalziel's statement was made in the case of an exporter accused in the Windsor Police Court of violating prohibition laws by shipping liquor intended for export to Detroit to his own address at Walkerville.

It also developed in testimony that the Canadian National Railways will not now accept liquor shipments on their lines except from distilleries and breweries or their agents.

SEARCH OF LAKE REACHES END

Last Body Sighted Floating By Lindsay Men—Funeral To-morrow.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

BALSAM LAKE, July 30.—The sad activities which have formed the sequel to the tragedy of Balsam Lake have ceased and the waters have given up the last of their victims. The body of Harold Bakewell, aged 19, of Toronto, was recovered yesterday and completed the long list of names reported missing after the accident.

The body was sighted floating about nine o'clock in the morning by Rev. Father J. C. Pratt of Lindsay and Bert Hayes of Mount Pleasant Point, who had just joined the parties of searchers. It was identified by a cousin of Bakewell, W. J. Carlyle of Lindsay. He was brought to the city last night and a funeral service has been arranged at St. Chad's Church to-morrow. The body of Vernon Clark, which also arrived in the city last night, will receive burial to-day after a service at St. Mathias Church, which will be conducted by Rev. Canon Hartley.

Superintendent Lang, together with the members of the Toronto life-saving crew who were detailed to the work of dragging the lake, arrived in Toronto during the afternoon and declared that he was worn out. All three men were badly burnt by the sun, and declared that it had been one of the most difficult operations which they had ever carried on.

A despatch from Galt states that Peter Mills has arrived home, bringing with him the body of his boy Harry. The funeral is to be held from Trinity Church there. Arthur Lambden, one of the survivors of the tragedy, who has been aiding in the search for the past few days, has also returned to his home in Galt.

Special Services.

With the object of providing an opportunity for all classes of citizens to join in paying tribute to the eleven young men and boys who lost their lives in the Balsam Lake disaster, the clergy and pastors of all churches in the city are to be requested to conduct memorial services in their respective churches on Sunday next. This was the decision reached at the conference of representative citizens held at the City Hall yesterday morning. The proposal to hold one general memorial service in Queen's Park was not regarded with favor, and after some discussion all agreed that a much larger number of people would be reached if all denominations co-operated in holding memorial services. To give effect to this decision, Mayor Foster was requested to issue a proclamation urging the citizens to observe Sunday as a day of sorrow and mourning and to invite the clergy of all the churches to hold special services or otherwise commemorate the gallant deed, cut off in the flower of youth.

It was deemed advisable to defer action in the matter of erecting a memorial to the victims, and a special committee, consisting of Mayor Foster, Controller Hacker, Rev. Canon Plumptre and Charles Lewis, was appointed to consider and report upon the matter. When this committee decides on a course of action an appeal for funds will be made to give effect to their recommendations.

POSTPONED RATIFICATION

Ambassador to Washington to try and obtain concessions. It is not believed that any great hurry will be shown about this and it is considered that the French plenipotentiary will be another than M. Berenger.

Committee Delays Fiscal Bill.

The Chamber Finance Committee failed to comply with M. Poincare's request for complete examination of his financial bills last night and adjourned at midnight to resume discussion to-day. This probably means that the financial debate can begin only on Saturday instead of Friday. It appears that considerable opposition developed to some of the new fiscal measures.

While regardless of what the committee may do, M. Poincare will bring his project before the Chamber just as he introduced it. Observers see in the recalcitrance of the committee an indication of the opposition the Government will meet in the Chamber. Although it is still believed the bill will obtain a final favorable vote, it is thought likely that it will not be the vote given to the Government in the Chamber yesterday.

On the crucial vote adopting the enacting clause the Government project obtained 20 votes to 10, with 8 absentations. On Article 4, raising railroad rate the vote was 15 for 12 against.

There was a great deal of comment in Paris to-day on the fall of the franc back to 204 to the pound after it had recovered to 190. This led critics of M. Poincare to say that the fault of his plan is that it does not provide for stabilization of the franc.

LAUNCH BURNS PEOPLE SAVED

Leap Into Ottawa River Clinging To Cork Cushions Till Rescued.

BOAT DAMAGED.

PEMBROKE, July 30. — When about four hundred yards from shore Mrs. F .W. Chambers, Mrs. Alex. Villemaire, Alton Chambers and Walter Chambers jumped from a launch into the Ottawa River at mid-stream last night, when the motor of their boat backfired, igniting a quantity of gas and oil at the base of the engine. The flames mounted to a height of nearly six feet, and the occupants, becoming terrified, jumped into the water. Mr. Alton Chambers closed off the motor and made a heroic effort to smother the blaze, but, being unsuccessful, he threw out the cork cushions. Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Villemaire managed to cling to these until rescued. Both boys are good swimmers, and had little difficulty.

L. Payette, who saw the fire from the wharf, jumped into a canoe, and paddled over to give what help he could. A few minutes later F. V. Ryan arrived at the scene in his launch, and brought the party to shore. Mrs. Chambers has been confined to her room since the accident, suffering from nervous shock. Before the fire was extinguished every one who was on the water at the time gathered about the burning launch. No serious damage was done to the hull or woodwork. The boat is owned by F. W. Chambers, and is used by his family as a pleasure launch.

SARAJEVO PLOT STORY DISPUTED

PRINCE NOT PLOTTER

BELGRADE, July 30.—Light is thrown on the Sarajevo assassination by a statement from Leo Preffer, who as an Austrian official investigated and prosecuted the case, published in the Zagreb paper Obzor.

Herr Preffer denies reports recently printed in Germany that the assassin, Gabriel Princip, confessed that previously he had been received by Crown Prince Alexander, now King of Jugoslavia, and that the Serbian Major Stankovitch instructed him how to use the Browning pistol.

Herr Preffer states that Princip during his examination resolutely denied any connection with official Serbia. He says his impression was that Princip acted under the influence of revolutionary Serbian and Bosnian youth. He thinks the Austrian Government paid the most meagre attention to the Archduke's safety and believes certain influential Austrian circles wanted Ferdinand to disappear.

VIENNA, July 28.—The semi-official Reichspost connecting in Herr Preffer's statements concerning the Sarajevo plot brands his insinuation that some Austrians welcomed the Archduke's assassination as "impudence coupled with imbecility." It believes his motive is a desire to improve his personal position in his new country.

Herr Preffer adopted Jugoslav nationality after the war and is said to receive a Jugoslav pension.

COLORS CONTRAST.

Color contrasts this season are particularly interesting, the combination of yellow and green is extremely popular and so is violet and blue.

POISON LIQUOR MAY HAVE COME FROM GERMANY

Hon. W. H. Price Suggests That Alcohol Came Across Ocean.

MEN ARRAIGNED.

Charges of Manslaughter Laid Against Two Toronto Men.

TORONTO, July 30 (Canadian Press).—That the alcohol which caused the deaths of eighteen persons in Ontario and a larger number in New York State within the last few days may have had its origin in Germany, was the statement today of Hon. W. H. Price, Acting Attorney General of Ontario. "Investigation so far shows that the poison was landed in New York and distributed from Buffalo into Ontario," he said. "Voelker in Buffalo has admitted these things and it is also admitted that it was known that the alcohol was poisonous following a test made by chemists. It was sold chiefly to people who bought six or seven cans and retailed it, these two people under arrest in Toronto (Wurtzman and Goldstein) forming part of the organization. They are on record as being rather notorious bootleggers."

MRS. LILLIE E. DEAN

The death occurred yesterday morning after, a lingering illness, of Lillie E. Weller, of this sity, widow of the late H. B. Dean of Lindsay and daughter of the late Judge Weller of Peterborough.

The deceased, who was a native of the city and a lifelong resident, is survived by three children, one son, Warren W. W. Dean, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Martintown, Ontario, and two daughters Mrs. L. B. Kingston of Montreal and Mrs. Hazel Anderson of Peterborough. A second son, Charles (Barker) Dean, was killed in action in the Great War.

The funeral will take place at ten o'clock on Saturday morning, from the late residence at 326 Rubidge street, to St. John's Church, thence to the Little Lake Cemetery.

WILLIAM O. HOLMES.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 30. — Funeral services for William O. Holmes, 58 years old, a native of Peterborough, Ont., were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family home, Rushing Waters, East Aurora, N.Y. The Rev. Russell Baker, of the East Aurora Presbyterian church, officiated and members of the different branch stores of the Witkop and Holmes Co., tea and coffee merchants of Buffalo, of which concern the late Mr. Holmes was president for many years, acted as pallbearers. Washington Lodge, No. 240, A.F. & A.M., was in charge of the burial, which took place on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Forest Lawn cemetery, Buffalo.

Mr. Holmes died at his home on Sunday following an operation performed a week ago. He was born in Peterborough, Ont., but had lived in Buffalo since early manhood. He has been associated with the Witkop and Holmes Company here for the past thirty-six years. Mr. Holmes was elected president of the National Tea and Coffee Retailers' Association about a year ago. He is survived by his widow, Maud Hilts Holmes, two sons, William and Martin Holmes, and by two daughters, Elizabeth and Maud Holmes, all of East Aurora, and by three sisters, Mrs. Rosalie F. Mortimer, Mrs. Harriet A. Schamber, both of Buffalo, and Mrs. H. M. Christie, of Toronto, Ont.

START INQUIRY ON "MARGARET"

Investigation of Famous Cruise Will Proceed Rest of Probe.

AT EARLY DATE.

Press).—While the customs investigation is not scheduled to open until after the 15th of August, an inquiry into the cruise of the Government steamer "Margaret" may be made at an early date. In accordance with the terms of a telegram received here from Premier Arthur Meighen, Sir Henry Drayton, Acting Prime Minister, has wired A. L. Calder, K.C., counsel, requesting him to take up with Commissioner Sir Francois Lemieux the fixing of an appointment at the earliest possible date to investigate the "Margaret" cruise. The request is made because of repeated protests and denials from Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice, that he was on the ship.

Sir Henry Drayton also gave out the text of a telgram which Mr. Meighen sent to Mr. Lapointe from Summerside, P.E.I. in answer to one sent him by the former Minister of Justice. It reads as follows:

"Replying to your wire, Doucet has already referred to the matter in accordance with the terms of my previous wire to you. However, entirely agree there should be, as early as posible, investigation of the matter including the log book. The whole matter now in the hands of the Hon. Sir Francois Lemieux. I have asked the acting Prime Minister that instructions be given for earliest possible inquiry and disposition of the entire matter reference Margaret. To hasten this the government will give every possible assistance."

IN POLICE COURT.

A young girl aged 17, who stole a diamond ring, a coat, a pair of gloves and a dress from a family who befriended her was sentenced to six months in the Mercer Reformatory.

The husband and son were coming across the floating bridge at Chemong late at night and gave the girl a lift to aid her in reaching her destination. The girl did not want to leave them, so his wife took her into the home and gave her something to eat. The next day was Sunday, and the girl was asked to accompany the family to church but refused to do so. She went part of the way with them and then left them, striking out in the direction of Peterborough. When the family reached home the goods were missing.

The accused appeared to be stubborn, hiding her face and refusing to speak when asked a question by the Magistrate. She continued to act in this fashion and finally brought the comment from His Worship to "stop hiding your face, I've seen prettier girls than you."

The three men who pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing liquor recently appeared this morning on a new charge of having liquor in an unlawful place. Two of the three pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $50 and costs. The third pleaded not guilty and was remanded until August 16. The taxi driver who drove the men on the costly fishing trip pleaded guilty to the same charge, admitting that he had had a drink of beer given to him by the men. His drink cost him $50 and costs.

Denounces Spotters.

The fifth man in one session of the court to be arraigned on a charge of having liquor in an unlawful place pleaded guilty to the charge.

He was defended by J. A. O'Brien, who, in pleading for the minimum sentence, stated that the young man was a victim of the Provincial officers, or "spotters," as he termed them. These officers, said Mr. O'Brien, visited the city last December, got in touch with the young man and made a friend of him. They were the means of getting him intoxicated, and used him as a tool to obtain a further supply of liquor. Mr. O'Brien said that everyone knew there was a certain amount of liquor to be obtained in the city.

"Indeed, there may be bootleggers standing within the reach of my voice or in this court," he declared. "If Your Worship would take into consideration the abhorrence with which decent people regard these men termed 'spotters,' I think you will decide that the minimum fine is sufficient in this case," declared Mr. O'Brien.

His Worship fined the accused $50 and costs.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT AT INQUEST OF WALTER WEST

Fatally Injured When Struck By Train Near Birdsall's Station.

FRACTURED SKULL.

Resided at Mimico and Was Spending Holidays at Hastings.

(By Staff Reporter).

WESTWOOD, July 31. — "This jury empannelled to enquire into the cause of the death of Walter West, near Birdsall's station in the Township of Asphodel on July 28 or 29, 1926, find that same was accidental and caused through by the deceased walking along the railway tracks towards Hasting and being hit by a train while thus trespassing. In our opinion the cause of death was a fractured skull and we find that no blame can be attached to anyone."

This was the finding of the jury called to enquire into the death of Walted West of Mimico who was found lying dead beside the C. N. R. tracks, near Birdsall's station, early on Thursday morning.

The personnel of the jury was as follows: F. Walsh, Foreman; W. J. Breckenridge, G. Clydsale, F. Faux, William Graham, R. Humphries, J. Sharp, J. Davidison, H. Emery and G. Elmhurst.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young presided at the hearing. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K. C., represented the Crown. Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker and County Constable Frank Pratt were also present.

Dr. McDonald, the first witness called stated that he had seen the body in the undertaker's parlors at Hastings. In his opinion death was due to a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Walter West.

Mrs. Walter West, widow of the deceased, examined by Crown Attorney Hatton stated that accompanied by her husband, daughter and a friend she had been visiting Hastings. The last time she saw her husband was at the supper table on Wednesday night. After he had finished supper he got up from the table and she had not seen him since On Tuesday night, she said, while coming from Peterborough in a car they had had a spill which she believed bothered the deceased considerably although no one was injured. He did not seem same since, she said.

Dr. Young: Was he in the habit of going out without a hat and coat?

Witness: No.

Dr. Young: Did he drink?

Witness: He never drank.

Dr. Young: Have you ever had any family troubles?

Witness: No.

Miss R. Wilson.

Miss Wilson said that she was no relation of the family. She lived at Mimico and had come with the Wests to spend a holiday at Hastings. They came to Hastings by train, she said, and were staying at the Clarendon House. She declared the deceased had not seemed his normal self during the last few days. He had been complaining of "hearing a racket" and said that he did not like the place where they were staying, she said. He had talked about getting home again and on Wednesday they decided that they would return to Mimico on Thursday, witness continued.

Dr. Young: Was he like himself.

Witness: :No: He was usually of a jolly disposition but the last few days he had been very quiet.

Dr Young: Would he answer you when you spoke to him?

Witness: Yes.

David McColl

Mr. McColl stated that he was employed as a section foreman on the Canadian National Railways and lived at Birdsall's Station. On Wednesdy night a man came to his door and asked the time the first train left for Toronto. The witness stated that he told the deceased that the next train would pass through Birdsalls at 7.16 the next morning. The deceased told him, he declared, "that he wanted to go home as there was a bunch always scrapping where he stayed and if he did not get away from them he would get in wrong with his wife." He enquired as to the whereabouts of a boarding house. Next morning the witness continued "I found his body lying twenty-two pole lengths east of Birdsall's Station. I got word from Hastings that there was a corpse on the

Sleep Walker May Prowl Without Being Disorderly

NEW YORK, July 1. United News. — Even though he may prowl about and climb fences in his BVDS, a man cannot commit the crime of disorderly conduct while he is alsleep, according to the ruling of a magistrate who dismissed the charge against Edward Devlin, aged 22, a subway guard. Devlin had caused more excitement in the neighborhood than the subway strike. He had presented an eerie figure to Mrs. Margart Palmer as he fumbled the latch on the window of her Columbus avenue apartment. Later the police found him astride a fence.

Devlin told the magistrate that he had been asleep. He said he had once taken a somambulistic bike ride. He was released.

DAIRY PRODUCE SELLS QUICKLY

Was Plentiful To-day, as Were Berries and Vegetables.

PRICES MODERATE.

Prices were fairly stationary on the farmers' market this morning. Dairy produce was plentiful and had a quick sale. Eggs sold generally at 32 cents a dozen and butter at 38 and 40 cents a pound. Young chickens were 40 cents a pound and older birds 20 cents. Ducks were 35 cents a pound.

The sum of twenty-five cents would purchase two boxes of red raspberries on the open market, or two quarts of gooseberries or red currants, while another vendor of the green gooseberry was selling three boxes for the same price. Black currants were two boxes for forty-five cents, and strawberries 18 cents a box, while blueberries were priced respectively at 18 cents a quart box and 25 cents a quart. Red cherries were 10 cents a box, or 55 and 80 cents respectively for 6 and 11 quart baskets. Watermelons were 5 cents a slice.

Green peas in the pod were 5 cents a quart and 15 cents a quart, shell. New potatoes were selling from 45 to 60 cents a peck.

POINCARE WINS FRESH VICTORY

Chamber Votes By Large Majority To Discuss Plans Immediately.

PASSAGE FORESEEN.

PARIS, July 31. — (Canadian Press.)— Premier Raymond Poincare won another victory in the Chamber of Deputies to-day when that body acceded to his demand that it pass to the immediate discussion of the articles in the government's financial bill. The vote which was 380 to 150, was taken as foreshadowing the passage of the bill as a whole.

Get Vote of Confidence.

The Poincare government to-day got its first vote of confidence on financial measures to rehabiliate the French firnances. The vote was 296 to 178 in favour of the first article, raising the tax on the transportation of wine.

Calling National Assembly.

Premier Poincare intends to convoke Senate and Chamber of Deputies as a National Assembly sitting at Versailles, instead of at Paris, to vote a special constitutional law for the creation of a sinking fund for the amortiaztion of the National Floating Debt, it was revealed today. The Premier considers such procedure is the only way to preserve the existence and functioning of the singing fund from the "vicissitudes of parliamentary regimen.'

Mother Wins Baptism For Her Baby As It Dies

MEXICO CITY, July 31. — A woman, her face stained with tears and with a shawl wrapped about a baby which she hugged tightly to her breast, fought her way to-day through the dense crowds in one of the churches of Mexico City. She pushed her way to the side of a priest.

"Father, you must baptizt my baby," she pleaded frantically. "You must baptize it instanlty—baptize it ahead of all the others."

The priest replied that the woman must wait her turn.

"I cannot wait," wailed the woman. "I wish I could wait; I wish death would wait—but it will not. My baby is dying."

Then the protests of the crowd became murmurs of sympathy. The priest performed the ceremony. The woman walked away. The crowd made room for her this time, and some of the women wept with her—for the baby carried in her arms was dead.

PEASANTS SAVE AS MINISTRIES RISE AND FALL

The Money Is There, But How To Get It Is French Puzzle.

FARMERS WORRY NOT.

Go On Making Money and Hiding It In Their Homes.

LONDON, Eng., July 30.—Under the heading, "France's Real Problem," the London Daily Mail carries the following special article from Peter Freeman at Paris:

Will Peasants Help?

When France saved herself 50 years ago by paying off the huge indemnity imposed by Bismarck after 1870 it was the peasant who came forward with his hidden francs and delivered his country.

Today France is in worse peril than she was then under occupation of a foreign enemy, worse than she was in ten years ago, when a 500-mile line of men and guns kept back the Kaiser's hordes; but the present danger, visible enough to the outside world in the falling franc, is unknown to the majority of the people and quite outside the mental horizon of the country folk.

A foreign occupation they understood and were ready to make sacrifices to abate; an economic catastrophe which creeps on a nation like some insidious disease arouses no fear, awakens no resolution to avert the consequences at all costs.

For one thing the farmers and small agriculturists are flourishing. They have hopes of an excellent wheat harvest, and already approval has been given for an increase in the cost of flour; they are able to pay farm laborers higher wages than the most skilled artisans are paid in the towns—more than double as much in some cases; the rise in prices consequent on the fall of the franc hits them lightly. One difficulty they have which is being accentuat- every year as more and more young men flock to the towns—a scarcity of labor.

Not Progressive.

They are not a progressive class, these agriculturists. Assured by the bountiful climate of France of good harvests, owners for the most part of the soil they till, they live quiet lives in the country, unmoved by events so apparently remote as the value of the franc abroad; and though governments rise and fall in Paris with the regularity of the seasons, though successive finance ministers bring forward schemes to save the ship of State from foundering, the farmer's attitude never changes. As a spectator of these events he shows a certain interest, but nothing will persuade him that he is vitally concerned. He makes more and more money and puts it by—often refusing even to put it in a bank and preferring to hide it in his house.

No oratory in the Chamber, no warnings in the newspapers, not even the clearest balance sheet of State losses, can make him change his views or charm from him an adequate contribution towards the revenue. Tax officials all over the people to assess are farmers, and the French Treasury has not yet found a way into the purses of the peasant.

Individual Prosperity

Certain it is that individual Frenchmen were never more prosperous. Prices have soared and are stil soaring, but the cafes and restaurants of Paris are as thronged as ever, the shops were never busier, and every resort is crowded. The money is there; the minister clever enough to divert it from the hoard of the peasant into the coffers of the State will have saved France from when he ousted the Revolution with his cannon.

W. L. M. KING RIDICULES INFERENCE DRAWN FROM SPEECH AT SARNIA IN H. H. STEVENS' OPEN LETTER

Ex-Premier Reads in Full the Portion of Address Upon Which Minister of Customs Based His Accusations and Declares Charge is Unsubstantiated.

"FOR PARTY PROPAGANDA IN CAMPAIGN."

WINDSOR, July 31.— (Canadian Press). — Rt. Hon. Wm. MacKenzie King, leader of the opposition, issued the following statement from his car here yesterday in reply to the open letter of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs: which appears in this mornings press.

In his open letter to me, Mr. Stevens characterizes a certain portion of my speech at Sarnia, as reported by Canadian Press of the 27th, inst, as being "false and unfair," and as constituting a "dastardly innuendo," deliberately calculated to fasten on the public mind the thought that Mr Stevens personally was responsible for the death of the thirteen victims of alcoholic poisoning.

It is only necessary to read in its entirety the portion of my speech from which Mr. Stevens quote to show how untrue it is that the remarks referred to are capable of being construed as Mr. Stevens has sought to construe them, of any inference being drawn from them at all of the character which Mr. Stevens for reasons well known to himself has sought to draw.

Quotes Own Speech.

Here is in full the portion of my speech at Sarnia sent out by the Canadian Press: "Mr. Stevens, the minister of customs, said Mr. King had announced that mounted policemen had been strung along the border yet we read that thirteen people have died of the result of drinking poisoned liquor, smuggled into this country. I am not going to say that Mr. Meighen's administration is responsible but he says that I am responsible for allowing diseased, prison-made clothes to enter Canada from the United States. That only shows how hard it is for any government to solve the smuggling problem. That smuggling took place in Tory, Ontario, with the Ferguson government in office. Will we make a new issue in the campaign on liquor smuggling? If I made that kind of an appeal it would be similar to the present Conservative campaign," said Mr. King.

Point of Remarks.

The very point of my remarks was, at the context of this report plainly shows, to make it clear that it was manifestly unfair to hold any government responsible in all particulars for smuggling and its consequences, and to make clear in the public mind just how unfair were the methods being adopted by Mr. Stevens and the other members of the Meighen administration in seeking to place responsibility upon my colleagues and myself in the late administrtion for certain smuggling operations which we were doing our utmost to suppress.

"The following quotation in the Canadian Press report of my address in St. Mary's on the day following makes equally clear both my reasons for referring to the deaths which had taken place from smuggled liquor and the full bearing of my remarks in reference thereto. The report reads: "Mr. Meighen, in the Maritime provinces, had said that Mr. King had permitted germ-infested prison-made garments to enter Canada. While he was speaking, poisonous liquor was

WITNESS SAYS M'NAB INQUIRED IF TANK EMPTY

Was Assured By Workman That It Was Perfectly Safe.

HAD BEEN CLEANED.

Tank Had Been Empty For Six Weeks and Then Filled With Water.

OSHAWA, July 31. — Before Alexander McNab applied his acetylene torch to the gasoline tank which exploded at the General Motors plant on Thursday, he asked George Sanders if the gas was all out of the tank and if it was quite safe to proceed. Sanders assured him that there was no danger. McNab started to work, and in less than five minutes the disaster which brought death to him and Fred Gaukel and terrible injuries to Sanders, took place. Such was the effect of a statement made by Edgar Kellar at the inquest held here last night to investigate the circumstances under which the two workmen came to their death. Kellar was one of the riggers at work on the tank when the explosion occurred. Although blown 50 feet through the air, he escaped uninjured.

Inquest Adjourned

After three witnesses had been heard the inquest, which is being held by Coroner F. J. Rundle, adjourned until Wednesday evening, August 4.

Isaac Bulmer, land engineer in the employ of General Motors, and under whose supervision all work on the tank was done, stated in the witness box that no special precautions had been taken to ascertain that all the gas was out of the tank. In view of the fact that the tank was pumped dry six weeks ago and allowed to stand with four holes, the largest of which was three inches in diameter, opened, and that the tank on the day before had been filled with water, then emptied and filled with compressed air, Mr. Bulmer did not, prior to the explosion, believe that any other precaution was necessary.

Women Find Journalism Hard Field Of Labor

NEW YORK, July 31. United Press. — Journalism has proved a hard field for women, Prof. A. Brown, acting director of the Columbia School of Journalism, said to-day.

"No women have been graduated for ten years," read the report of Prof. Brown. The highest earnings reported for women five years out of school was $4071.

SOME TROUBLE AS AUTHORITIES TAKE CHURCHES

Stones Are Thrown and Shots Fired, Wounding Several.

FIRE HOSE USED.

Police Declare That Disorders Were Due To Overwrought Nerves.

MEXICO CITY, July 31.— (Canadian Press).—Ten million or more Roman Catholics throughout Mexico to-day were without benefit of clergy.

The putting into effect of the Government's new religious regulations was inauguarated with the stoning of officials, shooting affrays between police and crowds, and the turning of fire hose on malcontents to disperse them as officials began last night their work of taking control of the treasures and other property inside the annexes of the Catholic churches in the Capital.

Attorney General Ortega was among the officials stoned as they were closing the annexes of St. Catherine church here. Disturbances took place in various sections of the Capital resulting in the calling out of police and firemen to disperse the crowds which had clashed with the police guarding the churches.

The priests had been ordered by Episcopate to withdraw from the churches to-day as protest against Government's religous regulations.

Simultaneously with their departure there went into effect the economic boycott of the National League for the defense of religous liberty.

With a view to preventing or putting down any disturbances, the government has dispatched troops to stragetic points. They have been ordered to maintain a state of constant readiness for any eventuality. One of the last acts of the Government before the new law went into effect was the expulsion from the country of Monsignor Tito Grespi, who has been in charge of the Apostolic Legation in Mexico City since the expulsion of Monsignor Saruana, Papal Nuncio. He was the fourth papal representative to be required to leave Mexico during past three years.

Police declare that disorders were more due to over-wrought nerves than to anything else. They express the belief that the situation will pass without serious trouble but nevertheless they have taken every military and police precaution.

The wounded in the fighting last night include one woman, two men, who are suffering from bullet wounds which are not of serious nature, and two firemen, two policemen and three civilians hit with stones.

The last day of services in the churches witnessed extraordinary scenes of religous emotions on the part of communicants. One church priest who was desperately attempting to minister to the miltitude requiring various services, performed 27 marriages at one time—all the couples kneeling simultaneously.

Hear and See By 'Phone New French Invention

PARIS, July 31. — The Matin says it will be possible within a few months for persons telephoning not only to hear but to see each other.

Edouard Berlin, inventor of the tele-photographic apparatus and Prof. Holweck, of the Radium Institute, says the newspaper, after exhaustive experiments, succeeded in adapting the principle of telephotography so as to transmit an ima instantaneously, and reproduce it on a phosphorescent screen.

The inventors for the first time transmittted vision in M. Berlin's laboratory at La Maison in the presence of General Ferrie, chief of the army telegraph service, and M. Fabry, professor of physics at the Sorbonne.

BIG ADDITION TO WESTCLOX TO BE STARTED

Present Plating Room Accommodation is Inadequate, Says Manager.

NEW BUILDING.

Business of Company's Local Plant Has Grown Rapidly.

"Our business has shown such an increase this year that our present plating room accomodation is inadequate," remarked John H. Vernor, Superintendent of the Western Clock Company, to The Examiner yesterday, in announcing the building of an addition to the plating room, 60 feet long, which is to be commenced as soon as the plans have been prepared.

Although the present plant was regarded when it was completed as ample for some years, the growth of the company's business has already caught up to the plant capacity, Mr. Vernor intimated, adding that the production had been increased since the company moved into its new building from 800 pierce to 1700 pieces per day.

At the same time the Western Clock Company, which gave employment to some 80 people in 1922 when the present factory began to operate, now employs a working force of 187, an increase that amply demonstrates the growth of the company's business.

At a directors' meeting held yesterday, J. D. Lent of Peru, Ill., the secretary of the company, and Mr. Matthiessen of New York, the president, were in attendance.

NORRIS TRIAL IN SEPTEMBER

Evidence of Boy is Important, But Still Unknown.

SAW SLAYING.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 31. —Fourteen year old Carl Glaze registered uneasiness and looked to his mother as though asking for help, when he was asked to tell what he saw as he watched Rev. J. Frank Norris kill D. E. Chipps. Hence, the outside world still does not know what evidence he has, either to condemn or acquit the slayer-minister.

The trial will probably be held in September or October. Dr. Norris is anxious to hear that he will have an early trial, it was asserted yesterday by Marvin Simpson, one of his attorneys. An indictment on a charge of murder was made by the Tarrant County Grand Jury.

Both sides declared that the fight to save or imprison the preacher will be fought out on the grounds of the law and the evidence bearing strictly on the case without dragging in personal matters. These give the case some of its most interesting features.

"We are going to convict Norris by proving unmistakeable truths in this case," Sam R. Sayers, one of the attorneys assisting the State's prosecution, declared yesterday.

CHURCH PEACE PROPOSAL TO BE SUBMITTED TO DISTRICT VOTE

Miners Will Vote Upon Terms For Ending Coal Strike.

HEAVY IMPORTATIONS.

Considerable Majorities For or Against Will Be Taken as Final.

LONDON, July 31. Canadian Press. — The peace proposals offered by the churchmen of the Anglican and Free churches, with a view to bringing an end to the coal strike, are to be submitted to a district ballot of the men themselves, returnable August 7th. Should there be a considerable majority either for or against the proposals the vote will be taken as final, but if the voting is close another conference of delegates may be held.

This was decided upon yesterday by the conference of miners' delegates, but as the government and mine owners have already rejected the bishops' plan, the decision is looked upon as giving no hope for peace and its only importance lies in its acceptance of the principle of compulsory arbitration on the wage question. From this aspect, there is undoubted surrender on the part of the hitherto irreconcilable Secretary of the Miners' Federation, A. J. Cook, who has always opposed such arbitration.

Yesterday, however, Mr. Cook received stormy criticism from the extremists of South Wales, and other districts, by his advocacy of the Bishops' plan, which includes arbitration. The plan recommends that the men agree to resume work on the status quo, with a continuance of the coal subsidy by the government for a period not exceeding four months, during which time a settlement would be evolved in line with the report of the Royal Coal Commission.

The reasons given by Mr. Cook for his change of attitude were that the heavy importations of coal were working against the miners' cause, and that something therefore must be be done.

There is no authoritative report of yesterday's proceedings, but it is known that after heated passages Mr. Cook and the executive carried the day in recommending that the men accept the arbitration principle, with the distinct understanding however it was not to apply to hours but only to wages and other conditions of work.

The arbitration part of the bishop's proposals is that a joint board representing both parties should be appointed with an independent chairman, whose award should be accepted by all.

The fact that the miners are sending a deputation to the United States is taken as an indication that no immediate settlement is expected. Reports submitted to the conference show that only 6000 men have returned to work os the basis of the owners' offer of the original wages on an eight hour basis instead of seven.

The House of Commons yesterday voted continuance of the emergency regulations for another month. This was in spite of the strong protests of the Laborites that as there was peace in the coal fields the exceptional regulations were unnecessary.

Rush Weddings Give Work In Mexico City

MEXICO, July 31. — United News. — Scores of weddings every day have kept the modistes, decorators and caterers in Mexico, just as busy as the priests during the last week that the Catholic churches will be open.

Many of the dress making establishments have remained open day and night in order to finish gowns to be used in the hurried nuptials. In some cases efforts have been made to have elaborate weddings despite the sadness occasioned by the religious laws, and decorators and caterers have been in great demand. One priest told the United Press on Friday that he had officiated at more than 50 weddings a day during the week.

CARS COLLIDE NOBODY HURT

Occupants Have Narrow Escape in Collision on Hunter Street.

An alarming car accident, fortunately unattended by loss of life or limb took place last night about 9.15 near the C.N.R. tracks on Hunter street East when a car belonging to J. M. Heard of Hunter street East was badly damaged by a collision with a touring car bearing a Detroit license number.

Mr. Heard was turning into his own lane on the north side of the street when the other car came travelling rapidly down Armour Hill. The driver applied his brakes, but the car skidded 45 feet and, missing a telephone pole and tree by a matter of inches crashed into Mr. Heard's car. The impact carried away the front wheels of the latter car besides breaking the axle and damaging the bumpers and mudguards. The affair has been reported to the police and Sergeant W. E. Wigg visited the spot and took some measurements around the scene of the accident. All the spectators of the accident are agreed that the occupants of the American car had a narrow escape from death or serious injury.

TRYING WEEK IN WHEAT AREA

Many Fields Forced Into Premature Ripening and Shrinkage.

ESTIMATE LOW.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31.—The week has been a very trying one for the crops in Western Canada. Temperatures in Manitoba have not run to great extremes and Manitoba has good showing in the south, but not so good in the north.

There are good areas in both Saskatchewan and Alberta, but there are also large areas irreparably hurt and also many fields that are being forced into premature ripening and consequent shrinkage. Kenyon's estimate of 279,000,000 bushels of wheat for the Western Provinces came as a shock to Winnipeg business men, and they discredit it.

MAN DROWNED.

American Visitor Loses Life When He Fell From Canoe.

NORTH BAY, July 31 (Canadian Press).—An extensive search is being conducted on the upper French River, in the vicinity of Franks Bay, for the body of Henry Keye Jans of Lackawanna, N.Y., who was drowned, according to word reaching here yesterday, on Monday night, when he toppled from a canoe into about 30 feet of water, 200 feet from shore. A diligent search has been conducted for three days without avail, and grappling irons are being put into use.

The profession of writing is popular among daughters of physicians, according to statistics.

MAN DROWNED.

American Visitor Loses Life When He Fell From Canoe.

NORTH BAY, July 31 (Canadian Press).—An extensive search is being conducted on the upper French River, in the vicinity of Franks Bay, for the body of Henry Keye Jans of Lackawanna, N.Y., who was drowned, according to word reaching here yesterday, on Monday night, when he toppled from a canoe into about 30 feet of water, 200 feet from shore. A diligent search has been conducted for three days without avail, and grappling irons are being put into use.

The profession of writing is popular among daughters of physicians, according to statistics.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

NOTICE is hereby given pursuant to Section 56, Chapter 121, R.S.O., that all persons having claims or demands against the estate of the said HANNAH BROWN, deceased, who died on about the 18th day of May, 1926, at the Township of Douro, are required to send by post prepaid or deliver to the undersigned solicitors on or before the 15th, of August, 1926, their Christian and surnames and addresses with full particulars in writing of their claims and statements of their accounts, and the nature of the security, if any, held by them duly verified by statutory declaration.
AND TAKE NOTICE that after the said 15th day of August, 1926, the said executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which they shall then have notice, and said executors will not be liable for said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons, whose claim shall not have been received by them or by their solicitors at the time of such distribution.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

KAWARTHA, PARK, July 31.—This year, for the first time in many years, the Park is not holding a regatta, which is a keen disappointment to many of the regatta faces on the lake. This event, held for years on Toronto's Civic Holiday, drew a crowd only surpassed by Juniper, and so popular was it that Chemong, Lakefield and Rice Lake sent their annual quotas to enter the various events. The committe was live and active and had a very marked community spirit, which was evidenced at every event in their season's programme. There was never a lack of boosters for the Park, which in its turn sent a contingent of generous proportions to all the other regattas, not only to contest the events, but as fans.

Olne hopes that another year the Kawartha Park regretta will return to its old place on the "Gala Week" programme. Instead of the annual regatta dance in the Pavilion on Monday August 2nd there is to be a special dance, the proceeds of which are to go to The Star Fresh Air Fund.

ITALY ACCEPTS MUSSOLINI RULE

May Find It Hard, But Takes Medicine Smilingly.

UNIONS LEGALIZED.

ROME, July 31.—On a certain morning recently, Gaetano Lanfranchi, who ordinarily works in a machine factory,put on his Sunday best clothes, pinned the Italian tri-color of red, white and green in his buttonhole, ate a frugal breakfast of bread and cheese, and told his wife and kids he was going off to his labor union headquarters.

The union was going to have its own band and was going to march through the Corse, Rome's most fashionable shopping street, and into the Piazza Colonna where it would mass with other labor unions and pay tribute to the Duce, who is Benito Mussolini.

Blaring Bands.

All over town other Marios, Giacomos, Giavannis and Pietros were telling their wives the same thing and going to their various unions. And for hours, beginning at about nine in the morning, Italian labor unions, proudly headed by blaring bands and flag carriers, poured into the Piazza.

There were thousands of us spectators seated at little tables in front of cafes sipping coffee. We were a representative crowd, a slice of the life of Rome. The washerwoman elbowed the proud daughter of the aristocracy, the street cleaner stood next to the distinguished looking professor.

Six years ago in Italy, red flags and black flags of Bolshevism and Communism were flying over metallurgical and automobile plants. Today nothing was seen but the Italian tri-color. Six years ago, the flag was torn from the hands of men, thrown to ground and spat upon. Todays, heads were bared as the colors passed and the Roman Fascist salute with the outstretched hand was given.

Mad Applause.

Six years ago bands played and men sang the Internationale and other Communist songs. Today band after band boomed out the catchy inspiring strains of the Fascisti hymn, and men and women applauded madly.

After all the color and music and excitement and patient waiting until 1.30, a Black Shirt leader appeared at a window and said he was very sorry, but the Duce couldn't come.

The crowd quietly dispersed. There was not a murmur. The King of England would not have dreamed of disappointing a great crowd like that. It is the measure of the mastery of this Mussolini and the revolution he has brought about.

Few people outside Italy realize the revolution Mussolini has affected in industry. Whether the workmen deep down in their hearts like it or loathe it is hard to ascertain. Their own former labor unions have been dissolved by law and new labor unions under Fascisti control have been created. Independent labor has no press to voice its thoughts.

Signed Pact.

What has happened in Italy has been this: last October the Confederation of Industrialists and the Confederation of Fascist labor unions signed a pact agreeing to consider each other as the only authorized representatives of capital and labor in industry. And just a few weeks ago the Parliament, under Mussolini's spur, passed a Trade Union act which consolidates them.

Fascist labor unions are legalized. More than that, whether a workman formally joins them or not, one day's wages each year is deducted and goes to the union of his trade. The same thing applies to the employer. The law makes strikes practically impossible. But the same law makes lockouts practically impossible. A special court for adjudicating industrial disputes is set up. It will consist in each dispute of three magistrates and two citizens, chosen from a panel. These citizens are to be drawn from lists of persons known to be experts in problems regarding capital and labor.

If the Italian workman dislikes the whole law, he has the consolation that his boss can't lock him out And certainly on this particular Sunday, when he went to pay homage to Mussolini, he didn't seem to be particularly sore. His wages were small, but they were sure.

It probably would never work in America or England, but so far under Black Shirt supervision it has been a success in Italy. If it is bitter medicine, Gaetano and Pietro have up to date taken it with smiling faces—in public.

DIVINE AND HUMAN LEADERSHIP

TEXT: Exod. 13:17-22; 14-10-16

And it came to pass, when Pharoah had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near: for God said, Lest peradventure the people repent when they see war, and they return to Egypt.

But God led the people about, through the way of the wilderness of the Red sea and the children of Israel went up harnessed out of the land of Egypt.

And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him: for he had straitly sworn the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you: and ye shall carry up my bones away hence with you.

And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness.

And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way: and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light: to go by day and night.

He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.

And when Pharoah drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians marched after them: and they were sore afraid: and the children of Israel cried out unto the Lord.

And they said unto Moses, Because there no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt?

Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness.

And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will shew to you today for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see them again no more for ever.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward:

But lift thou up thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 1. Divine and Human Leadership, Exod. 13 17-22: 14 10-16.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The critical side of the story of Israel's deliverance at the Red Sea does not come under our survey in the study of this lesson. A great deal has been written in pedantic, if not learned, fashion, to explain how the waters could have been pushed back while Israel went through safely.

All of that has little to do with the significance of the narrative. The record that we have is either that of a miraculous circumstance, which would not be miraculous if it could be explained, or it is the story written at a later date concerning a great deliverance in which the miraculous intervention of Providence had been seen.

Those who wish to consider all the critical questions that arise in the study of the Old Testament are recommended to read the scholarly works in which various viewpoints are taken.

We are writing for those whose primary quest is the spiritual truth of the Bible. In the quest of this spiritual truth most of these critical questions are entirely secondary.

The cutstanding teaching of this lesson, along with those which we are considering in connection with it, is that concerning the way in which divine and human leadership blend in the outworking of the destiny of men and of nations. We do not need to go only to stories of ancient Israel to find that truth exemplified.

Other Instances.

Again and again there have been deliverances in the lives of nations that to a devout soul would seem as marvelous as the deliverance of Israel at the Red Sea. One thinks, for instance, of the saving of England from the Spanish Armada.

It looked as if no possible human agency could prevent the Armada doing its destined work of conquest, but with the intrepid courage of an English admiral there came the terrible winds which scattered and wrecked the Spanish fleet. Such instances could be again and again cited in history.

In all these instances we should find divine and human agencies co-operating. Nothing is truer in all life than the saying that the Lord helps those who help themselves. Without the courageous leading of Moses there would have been for Israel no Red Sea to cross. Man, to a greater extent than he often realizes, lays down the conditions under which divine power operates.

None Impassable.

Just as the promised land has become for mankind a symbol of hope and progress, the Red Sea is a symbol of the seemingly impassable barriers of life—the things that rise up before us when difficulties and enemies beset us from behind. At such times can there be any greater watchword than that of this lesson—"speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward?" It is in this spirit that barriers are overcome, that difficulties disappear.

"Forward" be our watchword,
Steps and voices joined:
Seek the things before us
Not a look behind."

It is a glorious lesson, re-enforced in innumerable chapters in human experience, inspiring men, giving them the sense of God's presence and the realization that they may conquer through Him.

Miracles as wonderful as this have happened again and again in history where human leaders have gone forward themselves and have led others with the determination that nothing should turn them back from the fulfillment of their purpose and from the call of God.

Man is never so near to God as when he is going forward in this spirit. His infidelity is never so deep as when he allows the sense of obstacles and difficulties to deter him from the way of duty, progress and freedom.

"When through the deep waters I call thee to go,
The rivers of sorrow shall not overflow:
For I will be with thee thy trials to bless
And sanctify to thee thy deepest distress."

WOLVES IN NORTH DESTROYING STOCK

Are Very Plentiful in Bar River District Says Hunter

SAULT STE. MARIE, July 31.—J. M. Reid of Bar River, who had an encounter with a wolf some time ago which almost lost a Sault editor his $100 guarantee that a wolf would not attack an man, says that there are plenty of wolves in the Bar River district, and that he has seen as many as five in one night.

Too many leaves in the woods make it impossible for the hunters to get a shot at a wolf just now, Reid says and they are dong some damage to the stock in the district.

While out hunting with Duncan Fremlin, Reid said, they came across five wolves driving one after another out of the bush as they shot at the ones they could see. Reid said there was no possibility of mistaking a wolf for a dog while in the bush, as the dog runs with a hollow in his back, and the wolf runs with a hump in his back.

THE PATTERSON PLAN.

Last year H. K. Patterson, a well-known Winnipeg business man, offered a well thought out and most interesting solution of the tariff problem along lines that he believed would be acceptable alike to the people of the East and the West and to the consumer as well as to the manufacturer.

At the time the Patterson plan was announced it attracted considerable attention, but finding that many of our readers have not even heard of it, The Examiner is publishing the details believing that just now when the political campaign is bringing the tariff again into the limelight a plan that would remove this question altogether from the political arena and attempt to solve it on simple business principles will be of interest.

Examiner readers would do well to read Mr. Patterson's article and follow closely his arguments which are entirely non-partizan in their tenor.

A SPLENDID INDUSTRY.

The announcement from the Western Clock Company of an addition to its splendid plant into which it moved four years ago and which at that time was regarded as providing ample accommodation for some time, is most gratifying in its significance.

This company, which started operations in Peterboro with but a dozen hands and which employed eighty people when the present plant was opened in 1922, now has 187 on its pay roll, while the production has increased from 800 pieces to 1,700 pieces a day, and steadily increasing business and output has already necessitated the enlarging of one of the departments of the plant.

The Western Clock Company's progress means much to Peterboro, inasmuch as the number of people finding employment there continues to grow each year, while its products, nationally advertised on a very large scale, attract widespread attention to this city as a manufacturing centre and the Canadian home of Westclox products as well as of other world famous lines.

The announcement of an addition to the company's plant necessitated by the large business done this year is very welcome news to local citizens.

CANADA'S GOLD OUTPUT.

A good tonic for those who are optimistic about Canada's future is to be found in studying the figures in regard to the world's gold output.

The estimated output for 1926 is about $405,000,000, as compared with $409,000,000 in 1925 and $487,500,000 in 1913, the high record for all time.

The total output of the British Empire last year was $282,560,000, as compared with $292,000,000 in 1913.

The Empire's production was 69.7 per cent. of the world total, as against 59.9 per cent. in 1913.

Here is where Canada comes in.

While there was heavy falling off in the gold output of Australia, New Zealand and India, the Rand and Canada more than made up.

Canada, in fact, has more than doubled her output since 1920, Dominion mines producing last year the record of $37,000,000, and it now ranks third among gold-producing countries.

And over 80 per cent. of the output comes from our own Province of Ontario, whose gold fields are a comparatively recent discovery with vast unprospected areas still to be opened up.

It is expected that this year Canada's gold production will reach the $50,000,000 mark, and there seems little doubt that before long we will pass the United States whose output has been declining steadily since the war.

DUPES AND OTHERS.

There is a kind of grim humor about the remark of Mr. Ernest Taylor, police court interpreter and mission worker among the Italian colonies, that these people are unaffected by the death toll of poison liquor. The booze drunk by the Italians and the booze dispensed by their compatriots in the bootlegging business are two very different things, Mr. Taylor said yesterday. These people are too wise, they know the perils of the illicit traffic, know, probably, the character of the people who are concerned in it. But they defend, not unnaturally, the retailers. It is the man "higher up" who is to blame. Who is the man higher up? Nobody professes to know. Mystery shrouds him. He is seldom discovered outside the pages of a thriller or the last scene of a drama.

But the remark of Mr. Taylor about the contrast of the drinking habits of the Italians and the drinking habits of the dupes of the bootleggers should be borne in mind by all, and especially the younger generation. There may be a thrill in the thought of a secret nip of some vile potion, but it is the thrill akin to that which comes to the ignorant yokel taken in by some "skin" game; the thrill of the man who is bamboozled and who vainly imagines he is smart and clever. The man who sells horrible concoctions to the dumb-bells, whom he knows all the time he is fooling, is probably as near a teetotaler as he can possibly be. He has to keep sober. It is one of his qualifications. When he is taking risks, how foolish it would be for him to lose his sense of caution and his cunning.

The thimble-rigger is not usually a gambler. He is a shrewd man with business talents that have been distorted. The same with the bootlegger. He aims to make money out of the folly of humanity, and he finds he has lots of material to work on. The man and woman, the youth and maiden, who keep away from the temptation to be daring, are the wise ones. It is the illicit drinker of bootleg stuff who is the scatter-brained sucker.—Hamilton Spectator.

HENRY FORD.

Henry Ford sat down with his devoted wife 25 years ago to consider the family budget. It was finally determined they could not afford turkey for Chri[illegible] Henry was the [illegible] man in the world with a steady family income of more than $100,000,000 per annum—a figure never before attained in the history of the world.

Last month the University of Michigan conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering upon Mr. Ford, who may now wear an academic cap and gown and exhibit a university parchment. This university degree was "in recognition of his material contribution to social welfare, and his constructive imagination in the field of industry." It also describes Ford as a man "whose genius brought into being an industry that changed the world."

When we study Mr. Ford, it is not his record as a builder of motors or the position in wealth and income he has attained that gives rise to astonishment. It is the vast sweep of his genius in the many fields in which he has proved himself the master workman.

Let us number some of his attainments:

1st: He has led the world in gasoline motor cars, making and distributing more than 13,000,000, and there are not twice that number of motor cars in the world today.

2nd: He is the largest combined individual railroad owner and operator in the world. His 600-mile railroad system he bought from near the scrap heap, rebuilt and reorganized it, and set standards unique in the railroad world.

3rd: He is one of the large ship owners and operators on the Great Lakes and on the ocean, transporting his own material to his factories by water, and shipping the products by water through the Great Lakes and to Europe and South America.

4th: He is today the pioneer commercial aviator of the world, developing airplanes, aviation landings and commercial air transportation without a Government backing or subsidy.

5th: He is a coal miner in West Virginia and Kentucky.

6th: He is an iron miner in northern Michigan.

7th: He leads in blast furnace work, with a model establishment, unsurpassed for organization, efficiency and cleanliness.

8th: He is setting a pace in forestry with new inventions in timber-cutting and the saving of waste.

9th: He is the second largest glass maker; produces plate glass in continuous sheets after three years of experiment, something which experts declared could never be done.

10th: He grows the flax to make 25 per cent. of his linen requirements.

11th: He is a maker of linen cloth.

12th: He is a manufacturer of tires just to keep his hand on the industry while he buys for the most part of other manufacturers:

13th: He is a weaver of wool.

15th: He is a very large drawer of wire for use in his electric parts, making wire to the fineness of the human hair.

16th: He conducts one of the largest experimental work shops in the world.

17th: He is a distiller of coal; takes a ton worth $5 and converts it into coke and by-products worth $12.50.

18th: He is a maker of benzol, 22,000 gallons of which are sold by 66 Ford dealers in Detroit every day under the name of Ford Benzol.

20th: He runs a motion picture laboratory.

23rd: He is a great student and lover of birds. He roamed the country for many years with Burroughs, the naturalist, and on his home grounds are many bird homes.

24th: He is a lover of nature and everything that grows, and is now building a garden with 25,000 rose bushes.

26th: He is a maker and operator of trade and engineering schools, combining studies and profitable industry for orphans or young men who could not otherwise be provided for, making them self-sustaining by their own hands.

27th: He is an educator of the broadest type, righteously holding that history is largely "bunk" dealing with kings and priests and their battles, to the neglect of the real history of man.

28th: Mr. Ford's Dearborn Independent "devoted to the neglected truth" has a circulation of more than 600,000. He dominates it in policy, and therein expresses his ideas every week.

29th: He has put $10,000,000 into a hospital at Detroit, from which physicians and patients alike may draw important lessons.

30th: Mr. Ford is in the ready-to-wear clothing, boot and shoe and meat and fish business, selling $6,000,000 worth of food per annum to his employees. He found that when he put in his minimum wage of $5 per day the storekeepers raised their prices to absorb a part of the increase in wages.

31st: In the book-making field Mr. Ford is both author and publisher, and his books sell around the world.

32nd: He has set a pace in home building, and has made a model village near his works.

33rd: The position of the richest man in the world may be classed as a distinction, a trade, or an achievement, but it is a position Mr. Ford never sought.

34th: He is probably the largest individual bank depositor in the world, although there may be larger aggregates of deposits between banks and bankers. He usually has in bank about $200,000,000.

35th: He is a builder of hydro-electric power plants. In this field as well as in the motor field he can be classed as an engineer of distinction, worthy of his university degree.—Barron's Weekly.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The vigor of the early bombardment suggests that the political fight will develop into a lively argument before long. How the adjectives and the epithets will fly!

The death of Dr. Michael Clark removes one of the most picturesque of Canadian public men. "Red Michael" made his mark in the House of Commons and will long be remembered.

STERLING EXCHANGE

Sterling demand $4.84 3-4.
Sterling cables $4.85 1-4.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 31 (Canadian Press).—The feature of the Montreal grain trade yesterday was the stronger feeling that developed in Canadian Western oats and prices were advanced 1-4 cent per bushel. The export trade continued quiet.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were well maintained under a quiet enquiry.

The turnover in all lines of millfeed was again small but the undertone to the market was steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was inactive, but prices were unchanged.

Little business was transacted in butter and values were about steady. The receipts were 7,200 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was again weak and prices scored a further fractional decline. The receipts were 10,888 boxes.

The trade in eggs was quiet but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 1,068 cases.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, July 31 (Canadian Press).—Unabated drought in Canada forced wheat values much higher yesterday, but heavy profit taking on the upturns brought about a reaction. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4 advance, corn 1-2 to 1 5-8 down; oats 1-8 and 1-4 to 1-2 off; and provisions showing 7 cents to 22 cents down.

With late prices in the wheat market much below, the day's best figures, may traders who sold out on the bulge were credited with buying again just at the last. The fact that export business in North American wheat yesterday aggregated nearly 1,500,000 bushels, acted as a stimulus additional to unfavorable weather in Canada, and to indications of further damage to Canadian wheat already suffering from heat and lack of rain.

Mills and elevators were active buyers of cash wheat here yesterday and premiums paid at the Gulf of Mexico were 1-2c a bushel higher, notwithstanding that 2,152,000 bushels increase of the Kansas City stock of wheat so far this week was announced. On the other hand some Number 2 hard wheat here sold at 1-2 cent under July, a discount for cash wheat the first time on the crop. Primary arrivals of domestic wheat yesterday totalled 3,900,000 bushels, against 3,651,000 a week back and 2,071,000 a year ago.

Good rains in Nebraska, Iowa, the Dakotas and Minnesota led to lower prices for corn. Besides, indications point to wet weather over Illinois and Indiana. Oats were draggy.

Better cash demand both for lard and meats rallied the provision market.

PARDON REFUSED FOR WHITTEMORE

Slayer of Prison Guard Must Die, Says Governor Ritchie.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 31—The last hope of Richard Reese Whittemore, his wife and his father that the robber might escape the gallows on which he is sentenced to die on Friday, Aug. 13, for killing an aged prison guard was dispelled when Governor Albert Ritchie declined to commute the death sentence.

The Governor's decision quickly followed a hearing he gave to Edgar Allan Poe, whom the Court appointed counsel for the condemned man. State Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson, State's Attorney Herbert O'Conor, Rawlings Whittemore, the robber's father; his wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, and relatives of the murdered guard also attended the hearing.

Mrs. Whittemore with trembling hands handed the Governor petitions asking clemency. They bore more than 2,500 signatures of Baltimore men and women, mostly those opposed to capital punishment. Mrs. Whittemore and her father-in-law occupied seats near the Governor, who sympathetically shook hands with them when he took the petitions.

"I have followed the Whittemore's case closely from the beginning, and have read the testimony and court arguments both in the public press and in the stenographic notes," said Governor Ritchie in announcing his decision. "I have not felt any doubt about his guilt of murder in the first degree, and later hearing and considering the earnest and able arguments today I still feel none and see nothing to justify me in commuting his sentence."

The condemned man received the news calmly.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"GRAMMAR PARTIES."

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

A correspondent, writing from a small city in the Middle West, tells of "grammar parties" recently held by a women's club there, and suggests that similar parties might prove interesting elsewhere.

The meetings of the club are held every two weeks. Between meetings, the members make notes of errors in grammar which they observe in their own speech, in that of their friends and relatives, and in newspapers, magazines and books. When possible, search is made for the rule of grammar correcting the error. It is then reported at the meeting of the club, and discussed.

"We have found it quite interesting," writes the correspondent. "We have many members who desire to improve their speech, and who find this an excellent means of doing so. It is not so 'dry' as going back to the grammar which we have forgotten since our school days. And it is really astonishing to note how many errors we find."

To The Editor Examiner,
Peterboro.
Dear sir:

After the meeting Wednesday in Victoria Hall, where Mr. Peck in his speech referred to statements of the Hon. G. N. Gordon in his address before the Ladies Liberal Association on the 16th inst. I have looked up The Examiner of that date and after carefully reading the Hon. G. N. Gordon's speech one is forced the conclusion that there is in it a spirit of chagrin as from dissapointment, and that his object was deal Mr. Peck a knockout blow, but that it might not so appear, his opening remarks dealt with other supporters of the Hon. Mr. Meighen. His newly appointed Minister of Public Works he described as once a partner of a race track gamblers, and Mr. De Witt Foster and Mr. Garland as war grafters, using these gentlemen as a cover for his attack on Mr. Peck. His object was of course to show up the iniquities of the Conservative party, but chiefly to get back at his late opponent for parliamentary honors. He told the ladies, all members of the Liberal party, that Mr. Peck was opposed to the income and stamp tax. This Mr. Peck at once denied, and still denies, but Mr. Gordon continually renews the charge and has made the threat that he will follow it up through the campaign. Mr. Gordon knows that Mr. Peck is not and never was opposed to the stamp or income tax reduction, although he was opposed, as a whole, to the Robb tariff. Therefore it must be clear to any fair or unprejudiced person, that in making the charge Mr. Gordon only told a half truth, which has its definition.

It ill becomes this would-be parliamentarian to stress the purity and morality of the Hon. McKenzie King party, by making futile attacks on the supporters of the Hon. Mr. Meighen and the choice of the electors of West Peterboro.

Yours truly,
J. F. LILLICRAP.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

HEAVY, HEAVY.

"Heavy, heavy, hangs over thy head,"
The children chorus, "what shall it be,
Fine or superfine?" So they've said
For many a merry century.
Their eyes are shut, and they cannot see,
They can only guess what the hand may hold;
For so it is that the fates decree,
And so it is that a fortune's told.

Heavy, heavy, hangs over thy head.
The game of forfeits is still the same.
It's a misty trail that we have to tread,
And life is only a children's game.
It may be fortune, it may be fame,
It may be only a simple task,
It may be praise and it may be blame,
And all that the heart can do is ask.

Heavy, heavy, hangs over thy head,
And it may be fine or be superfine,
For so it is that our fate is read,
The children's forfeit, and yours, and mine.
We need not whimper, we must not whine,
Let us play the game as the children do,
With a laughing heart, with a face a-shine,
And whatever the forfeit, play it through.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

EDUCATION AND HARD WORK.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Mr. John E. Andrus, Yonkers millionaire, recently said that ninety percent of the graduates of Columbia, which graduated an enormous class recently, would not be successful in the various professions.

He said that these people ought to be educated rather for some hard work. Most of the people who engage in the various professions are failures and they had better be sign painters or farmers.

There is some truth in it.

Unfortunately almost all institutions of learning are engaged in the business of turning out professional men, that is, men for white collar jobs.

Too many mothers regard the school as useful for their children in enabling them to escape from the necessity of manual labor.

Henry Ford says that since the assurance that labor would get a square deal, many more young people are going into wage earning than formerly.

There is nothing inconsistent in earning one's own living by one's own labo and at the same time being an educated man. To have an education or a broad outlook upon life does not necessarily mean that we are to make a living by it. St. Paul mended sails, and Jesus was a carpenter. It was the custom among the ancient Jews to teach all their children some handicraft so that all would be equipped to support themselves in an emergency.

Among a vast number of people only a certain proportion are equipped to make their living by their brainwork. Just how this proportion is to be determined no one knows. It is ultimately done by nature, just as nature determines the relative number of the two sexes.

Doubtless many people are following a professional life and gaining a meager livelihood who would be better off working with their hands. And perhaps some manual laborers could make a success as professionals.

As a rule, however, these things take care of themselves. Every man finds his own level. Some are equipped by nature for manual work and some are properly endowed for intellectual work.

The college should be able to train both classes. It should not aim to make every man a teacher or professor, or even a doctor or lawyer. It should aim to give him that education which would be the most satisfactory groundwork for any kind of life, whether that of a farmer, a storekeeper or a doctor.

JAPAN FLOOD LEAVES DEATH TOLL IN WAKE

DISEASE PREVALENT.

Entire Village Swept Away —Rice Crop Totally Destroyed.

TOKIO, July 31. —(Canadian Press). — The total of dead and missing in the terrific floods which have ravaged Niigita prefecture, on the west coast of the main island of Japan, was placed at 400, yesterday, as numerous corps of relief workers entered the stricken district.

Already disease is reported to have followed in the wake of the waters of the Shinano River, adding to the misery of the population.

Seventy bodies have been recovered in the village of Tockio alone. this place having borne the brunt of the disaster. One thousand and five hundred houses were washed away here.

In the whole flooded area about 8,000 houses were submerged while thousands of acres of rice were flooded and the crops destroyed.

CATHOLIC BISHOP TO BE DEPORTED

Mgr. Crespi Must Leave Country Upon Presidential Decree.

MEXICO CITY, July 31. —(Canadian Press)—Roman Catholic Arch bishopric yesterday announced that Mgr. Crespi, in charge of the Apostolic delegation in Mexico City, has been ordered deported by the Department of the Interior upon a presidential decree.

The details of the order have not been revealed but the Archbishopric assumes that alleged activities concerning the present religous situation are in back of it. Mgr. Crespi, who has been stationed with the delegation here some time, took charge of it upon the expulsion of Mgr. Caruana, the Papal Nuncio.

KING'S SALARY RAISED.

Alexander Now Gets Million a Year—and Needs It All.

BELGRADE, July 31.—(Associated Press.)— King Alexander of Yugoslava is one of the highest paid monarchs in the world. Recent additions to his civil list bring his yearly income to $1,000,000 a year.

This is forty times greater than the personal allowance made by Bulgaria to King Boris and about five times in excess of the yearly income of King Ferdinand of Rumania. It is almost fourteen times more than the salary of the President of the United States and probably exceeded only by the civil list of the King of Great Britain.

But out of his million a year King Alexander must maintain a huge palace at Belgrade, another at Topchider (near Belgrade), a third at Bled, in Northern Slovenia, and several smaller villas. The new palace at Topchider cost the State nearly a million dollars, while repairs on the old palace in Belgrade cost about $400,000.

The young King does not entertain on an elaborate scale, but he has an enromous number of servants and others attached to his various palaces who must be paid.

W. L. M. KING

being smuggled into Canada, with the result that many are dead today from drinking it," said Mr. King, pointing out that there were two forces, provincial and federal, to combat this traffic."

"If I did what Mr. Stevens did I would blame the government for the murder of these people. That is the way to make a sensation, but I am going to do nothing of that kind. I know how serious the problem is"

By his open letter Mr. Stevens has only helper to confirm my statement of his methods of political warfare. The open letter is on all fours with the so-called Stevens amendment which was after the customs committee had made its full investigation into all matters referred to it and presented a unanimous report. In the committees' report to Parliament there was no reflection either upon the government or Mr. Boivin, the then minister of customs, yet Mr. Stevens amendment proceeded to censure both the government and Mr. Boivin in a manner wholly unjustified by the evidence or the report of the committee.

"With reference to that part of Mr Stevens' open letter in which he purports to give to the public some ot the facts in connection with the distribution and sale of poisonous alcohol and of which he says of me: this was done with your knowledge and you publicly in the House of Commons exonerated and defended the action of the Minister of Customs in this regard, I would say that my utterances in the House of Commons fortunately appear in their entirety in the printed debates of the house as reported by Hansard, and I now challenge Mr. Stevens to make a single quotation from any of my speeches or from any remarks of mine in parliament or anywhere else which will substantiate in any particular the truth of this assertion of his. May I add in conclusion that if the evidence given before the customs committee had been such as to justify any finding of the character contained in the charges which Mr. Stevens now makes with respect to alleged distribution of poisonous alcohol, it was not only right but the duty of Mr. Stevens and his fellow members on the committee so to have reported to the House of Commons. The fact that they did not so report is of itself conclusive proof that the evidence did not warrant any conclusion such as Mr. Stevens now seeks to draw for reasons of party propaganda in a political campaign."

CRIMINAL ASKS TO BE EXECUTED

Asks Judge To Order His Death as Being Incorrigible.

YEARS IN JAIL.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30. — A young man of 26, neatly dressed, and apparently refined, stepped to the bar in Municipal Court, and asked Judge William M. Lewis to send him to the electric chair, because he knew himself to be an incorrigible criminal.

He explained that since he was 2 years old he had spent most of his life in various penal institutions, starting with a reform school farm, where he was reared. Further, he said he had abandoned hope of learning anything except crime and felt that society would be better off if he were removed permanently. He was sentenced to serve three to six years in the penitentiary.

The unusual request was made by William M. Moore of Boston, and he made it not with bravado but with quiet impressiveness. He readily admitted the raising of a check given to a store here recently for which he was arrested, and said also that he had practiced the fraud for years. He said he was wanted in New York, Boston and Mount Holyoke, Mass., for similar offences, and that he had served more than a dozen prison terms.

"I haven't been free for more than five months at a time since I was 2 years old," Moore said. "I was reared on a reform school farm. I never learned anything in my whole life but how to be crooked. I associated with master minds in those places. It used to be my keenest pleasure to learn a new trick in each jail."

"No, Judge, I really think there is not any reform for me,' the man replied to a question by the court. I think I'd be better dead. You would be doing the community a great favor if you would send me to the electric chair, and I wouldn't mind a bit. If you send me out of here, I'll do the same thing over again. I can't help myself.

"I'm better of dead. I have often thought of suicide. Once I swore off but the old urge came back to pass just one more check, and before I had finished I had passed many."

"Well,' said Judge Lewis. "There would be a chance for you if you had the moral fibre. But as long as business men cash checks for strangers so long we will have to protect them from men like you. Three to six years in the Eastern Penitentiary."

CAVAN PERSONALS.

CAVAN, July 31.—Congratulations are due Miss Ethel McKnight, teacher at Whitfield's School, Cavan, and her pupils, Audrey Larmer and Gladys Williamson, who were successful in winning first and second prizes at the entrance examination, for the two pupils in Cavan, taking the highest number of marks. This prize, which is from the estate of the late Miss Baptie, Springville, is to be paid each year to the two pupils in Cavan winning the highest marks on their entrance examinations. It is most unusual that two pupils of the same school should win the two prizes. All of Miss McKnight's pupils were successful in passing the entrance and three took honors.

Mrs. Totten and daughter, Leafa, have returned from a visit with relatives in Stouffville.

G. Staples motored to Greenhurst on Wednesday with a number of young people from Bethany and spent the afternoon and evening with Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

John and Leonard McNeil, Janetville, have returned to their home after visiting friends in Cavan.

Vance Woodhall, Hamilton, is spending his vacation with his grandmother, Mrs. Touchbourn.

The Domestic Science Class will commence in Cavan Community Hall on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. Cook, Beamsville, will be the demonstrator.

Messrs. Edward Keegan, James Paul and Wm. Williamson attended the Conservative convention in Orono on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Paul and Mrs. R. McKnight also attended.

Mr. Meredith Perrin, Bewdley, visited at Mr. Jas. Paul's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard, Elizabethville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bury (nee Charlotte Johnson), Toronto, are visiting Mrs. McKnight, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. W. Fallis, Millbrook, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul on Sunday.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

track." The only train that passed through during the night was a grain train around 12.30 a.m. On examining the spot, the witness said, "I found a mark in the gravel where he had struck, also a pool of blood and a mark on the rails about six feet from the body."

Dr. Young.—Do you think he was trying to catch the train?

Witness.—I doubt it—I think he was hit by the buffer beam of the engine.

Dr. Young.—If he had been struck by the engine, don't you think the train crew would have noticed him?

Witness.—They should.

Dr. Young.—Was the foot crushed?

Dr. Young.—What position was he in?

Dr. Young.—If he was trying to steal a ride on a train travelling towards Hastings, wouldn't it be possible for him to be caught by a projection from the train?

Witness.—I don't see how it would.

Norman F. Maker

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker stated that on Thursday morning he received a call saying that a man had been found dead beside the track about one miles east of Birdsall's Station. Upon investigating he found the body about three feet from the track facing east. There was a cut over the right eye about three-quarters of an inch long, a cut under the right elbow and the right foot was crushed as if a wheel had passed over it. He searched the pockets of the deceased and found money, a watch and four return tickets to Toronto. On interviewing witnesses, Mr. Maker continued, he discovered that the deceased had left the hotel on Wednesday night without saying anything to anyone about it. Tracks in the neighborhood of the station showed that someone had tried to get away with the hand car but was unable to do so, as it was locked. In his opinion, the deceased had been suffering from loss of memory, and from the appearance of things it looked as if he had been trying to get back to his wife and family, and had been struck by the steps of a car. There was not gravel in the wounds and no limbs were broken. There was every indication that he had grabbed for a train, witness declared.

William Dixon

Mr. Dixon stated that he was a County Constable. He received a telephone call on Wednesday night saying that a man was missing from the hotel. He traced his tracks as far as Birdsalls. The next morning he went down the tracks and saw the body there.

This concluded the evidence.

The jury retired and returned in twenty minutes with a verdict of accidental death.

WOOLER NEWS.

WOOLER, July 31.— Wm. Stacey had 21 sheep badly mangled and killed by dogs last evening. His loss is estimated at over $300.

The GREATEST McLAUGHLIN -BUICK EVER BUILT

An Engine Vibrationless Beyond Belief

This achievement, we earnestly believe, will rank as one of the most important in all motor car history.

Our engineers, working in conjunction with the engineering staffs of General Motors Research Laboratories and General Motors Proving Ground have divorced the annoyance of vibration to a point never before attained.

They have given McLaughlin-Buick motor cars a new luxury of quietness at every speed, exceptional among all cars, no matter what their price.

Never in all the twenty-two years of McLaughlin-Buick success has there been offered such convincing proof of engineering and manufacturing leadership. McLaughlin-Buick offers you today a brilliant example of the quality of McLaughlin-Buick craftsmanship—

Confident that acquaintance with its performance and value will fix in mind the conviction that money can buy nothing finer—

Certain that you will discover, in this great new car, further evidence of the deep meaning in the longstanding pledge: "When Better Automobiles are built, McLaughlin-Buick Will Build Them."

Four Vital Engine Improvements

To produce the silent power-flow in the 1927 McLaughlin-Buick, McLaughlin-Buick engineers have made four fundamental improvements in the structure of the famous McLaughlin-Buick Valve-in-Head engine, including a Counter-Poised Crankshaft and a Torsion Balancer; new lightweight pistons; and then a Completely Cushioned Engine, insulated and isolated by rubber mountings, fore and aft, from all metallic contact with the chassis.

Other Vital Improvements

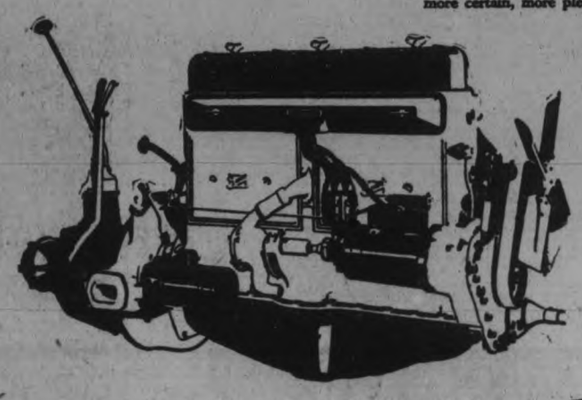
Another revolutionary improvement in the 1927 McLaughlin-Buick is the vacuum-cleaned crankcase. Crankcase moisture, the vicious foe of engine efficiency, is now drawn out of the crankcase before it has an opportunity to do harm. The crankcase is cleaned and kept free of dilution by the McLaughlin-Buick Vacuum Ventilator, a new device, operated by the air flow; positive and certain in action, and without a single moving part. The oil in the crankcase of the 1927 McLaughlin-Buick need be changed only four times a year!

McLaughlin-Buick performance is now made more certain, more pleasant and more economical by thermostatic control in the cooling system. Water circulation is prevented and the heat held in the engine, until the proper operating temperature is reached.

Gear noise is removed by McLaughlin-Buick's new giant-tooth transmission, which is quiet in all of its speeds. Further quietness has been obtained by a new muffler design.

And in this remarkable new car McLaughlin-Buick introduces balanced wheels, another contribution to better driving.

The princely beauty of the new Fisher bodies is in thorough keeping with the unusual and incomparable performance standards now attained.



The Most Remarkable Fact of All—Value

This Greatest of all McLaughlin-Buicks is the Greatest of all McLaughlin-Buick values. McLaughlin-Buick volume has permitted engineering research and development on a scale far beyond the reach of most manufacturers.

Constant improvement has leveled one price barrier after another, until now you are offered, in this new McLaughlin-Buick, a car as fine as money can buy, at the price of cars of very ordinary quality.

This car will convince you, as no other car can, that money can buy nothing finer—no matter how much you may be able to spend!

Miss Meredith, or I'll go and give the whole thing away from beginning to end. I know that Barry and this girl was in that road house all night, and unless I am paid for keeping that information from the newspapers, it goes into tomorrow."

Again that hated voice seemed to act surprisingly on Mrs. Cornwall. It seemed to put the breath of life into her. She regained enough strength to raise her head. I sprang forward and put a pillow under it.

As soon as she was settled, she said in a low distant voice, "Oh, come off, Smith, come off with the threats. I, too, know that both Miss Meredith and Barry was there at the road house, for I was with them myself. I'll swear to that. Now do your worst, I'm going to stick to my own sex, especially when it is between a lady who always treated me square and you, who have always double-crossed me.

A spasm of pain contracted Lela Cornwall's mouth. Jean Smith noticed it and rushed out and left us alone.

"Please get me a doctor," said Lela.

Joan turned to me and said, "Go and telephone to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Tell them to have one of the best rooms ready and send an ambulance with a nurse and doctor over here as soon as possible. Tell them it is an emergency case and say that I, Joan Meredith will foot all the bills.

"Do you think, Joan, that I had better leave you alone?"

"Yes, if you go quickly," fairly snapped my friend, and as I rushed to the telephone I knew that it was perfectly safe to leave Joan Meredith from now on anywhere with anyone, for she had found herself.

In a few moments I was back in the room again. Joan met me at the door.

"It's all right," she said. "Lela knows that I will take care of her and the baby, and she is as happy as she possibly can be under the circumstances."

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

Henry the Eighth's fondness for matrimonial variety caused much confusion in the relationship of the noble Seymour family.

Queen Elizabeth was the daughter of Anne Boleyn and Henry. Lord Thomas Seymour, her lover, was the brother of Anne's successor, Jane Seymour, Henry's third wife and he was also the husband of Henry's discarded sixth wife, Queen Catherine Parr and was eventually executed on the charge of treason against the young King Edward VI., who was the son of Jane Seymour. The comic opera situation came to pass wherein Lord Seymour made love to his wife's stepdaughter and his own niece, Elizabeth, then Princess Elizabeth, a girl of fourteen. This was after he had married Queen Catherine. The latter was very much disturbed at the open flirtations between her husband and Princess Elizabeth but fates ordained that she should die soon after her marriage to Seymour, although it was rumored that the fates were expedited by poisons.

When Elizabeth grew to young womanhood, Lord Seymour was still her suitor. He was one of the handsomest men in England, excelling in the arts of love and war, and he was probably the only man whom England's "virgin" queen gave as much love as her nature was capable of. Yet when he offered her his hand she drew the boundary line in the following letter

"February 27, 1547.

"My Lord Admiral

"The letter you have written me is the most obliging and at the same time the most eloquent in the world. And as I do not feel myself competent to reply to so many courteous expressions I shall content myself with unfolding to you in a few words my real sentiments. I confess to you that your letter, all eloquent as it is, has very much surprised me. For, besides that neither my age nor my inclinations allows me to think of marriage, I never could have believed that anyone could have spoken to me of nuptials at a time when I ought to think of nothing but sorrow for the death of my father. And to him I owe so much that I must have at least two years to mourn his loss. And how can I make up my mind to become a wife before I shall have enjoyed for some years my virgin state, and arrived at years of discretion?

"Permit me then, my Lord Admiral, to tell you frankly that as there is no one in the world who more esteems your merit than myself, or who sees you with more pleasure as a disinterested person, so would I preserve to myself the privilege of recognizing you as such, without entering into that strict bond of matrimony which often causes one to forget the possession of true merit. Let Your Highness be well persuaded that though I decline the happiness of becoming your wife, I shall never cease to interest myself in all that can crown your merit with glory, and shall ever feel the greatest pleasure in being your servant and good friend, Elizabeth."

MEXICANS CROWD FINAL SERVICES

Churches Are Jammed With People Wishing Offices of Priests.

MEXICO CITY, July 31.—Mexican Catholics attended services conducted by their priests for the last time last night, under orders contained in the pastoral letter from the Nattional Episcopate withdrawing priests from all churches to-day, until the Government rescinds its decree that they must register with municipal authorities. By noon today every priest in the country will be gone from the church.

For more than two weeks the churches have been jammed with Catholics attending services, and late last night it seemed likely that thousands would be unable to make their last devotions under the leadership of priests.

An overpowering demonstration of religious faith took place all over Mexico yesterday. It was the last opportunity the people expect to have for some time to go to confession and communion, to have the children baptized and confirmed and for their sons and daughters to be married in the faith of their ancestors.

Probably 80 per cent of the population of the country went to church yesterday. Here in the capital more than 200,000 faithful ones flocked to the great cathedral in Zocalo. Mile-long queues stretched from the doors of the edifice. Seven out of ten of the patiently waiting participants in this amazing outpouring were women and children.

Mothers with babies in their arms stood in the pitiless tropical sun for hours. Half a dozen children were born in the streets. As the day wore on the immense cathedral became so fetid that scores of women and children collapsed.

A picturesque feature of the day was the unending procession of bridal couples. It is estimated that 1000 marriages took place in Mexico City.

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1926.

Astrologers read this as rather an unfortunate day for conflicting planetary influences are strong.

Newspapers are to profit by heralding accounts of extraordinary events in which ill tidings are prominent.

Advertising continues subject to the most stimulating influences making for increased recognition of the value of publicity.

This is not an auspicious day seeking financial support or other aid from persons who yield commercial power.

It is unfavorable for those who desire political appointment or preferment.

Women are to make new demands for political recognition and to express dissatisfaction with their present status as officeholders, it is forecast.

Mars is in an aspect threatening to harmony or good will in public or domestic relations. Dissensions may be easily precipitated.

Under this sway surgical operations may not be so successful as in other aspects of the stars.

The mind should be closed against discouraging suggestions of all kinds, for there is a direction of the stars making for depression and despondency.

Evil rumors and scandals are supposed to be prevalent under this sway, which makes for wrong thinking and consequently for reckless living.

Sophistication which has been the aim of the young will be marked in effect upon social judgments, it is prognosticated. Fashion will shut the eyes, but will not effect the memory.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet sudden dangers in the coming year, which should be fairly successful.

Children born on this day may be intense in nature and fond of independent ventures. Eventful lives are generally the lot of these subjects of Leo.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

EMMA.

Few feminine names have a simpler origin than Emma. It is one of the many names derived from Teutonic forefathers. Tradition assigns its origin to the lispings of a child since amme was nurse in Germany and ame is translated housekeeper in Spain. Amme was quickly transposed to Emma, probably from a latent sense of euphony.

The Karling daughters of Teutonic fame were first to use the name. Later a daughter of Charlesmagne was so-called. A romantic story surrounds her to the effect that she is said to have carried her lover, Eginhard the chronicler, on her back over the snow that his footprints might not betray his visits.

Emma was popular in France, where it was the name of one sister of Hugh Capet who married Richard the Fearless, of Normandy. Her grandmother was first the wife of Ethelred the Unready, then of Knut. It was in this way that Emma became much in vogue in Saxony. There were also Emmes among the daughters of the Norman Dru de Baladon, who came over with William the Conqueror.

Prior, in his beautiful ballad of the Nut Browne Maid, which was supposed to be the history of the shepherd Lord Clifford, called his poem "Henry and Emma," which fact brought Emma romantic fame and spread the popularity of her name. Emmeline, curiously enough, bears no relationship to Emma, but come rather from Amaline, the progenitor of Amy.

The bloodstone is Emma's talismanic gem. It has medicinal qualities and was much used by the ancients to stop hemorrhages. It is said to preserve the faculties and the bodily health of its wearer, bring consideration and respect, and guard her from deception, especially of lovers. Tuesday is Emma's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

Water marks on paper, which date from the fourteenth century, are probably the oldest of all trademarks.

YOUR CHILD'S CAREER

(By Roy J. Gibbons, NEA Service Writer.)

CHICAGO, July 31.—Banking offers a splendid field of public service to the young man of good character and judgment who seeks to enter it not solely for what he can get out of it himself but for the good that he can do to others, says S. W. Straus, nationally known finacier and head of the great banking house of S. W. Straus & Co.

"No special training or particular amount of education is necessary for the young man who is willing to start at the very bottom in this business," says Straus. But no one should attempt to enter it who is without sterling character, honesty and judgment.

"I should say that one of the primary requisites for success in banking is the virtue of thrift. The young man who has acquired this habit will reflect the confidence in his dress, speech and conduct which thrift begins.

Confidence Essential

"Confidence is the main essential to a banker's progress. Without it he cannot succeed.

"The work of a beginner in the field of banking is usually at the dry bottom of the ladder. Beginners start quite often as messengers and clerks.

"From that point they progress on up through the various departments or as tellers in the cages where people deposit and withdraw their money.

"The rewards in banking are commensuate with the ability of the individual. And I should say that with average success a young man possessed of real ability and the capacity for earnest study and hard work should rise within five years to a position of fair responsibility.

"He must not be afraid to begin in humble place or fail to keep himself alert.

Opportunities

"Opportunities come in the banking world especially to the man who has judgment, courage and vision. All these factors, of course, are premised upon unimpeachable character and the quality that will reflect sincere confidence in others.

"Selfishness has not place in banking. Any young man seeking to enter the banking business simply for what he can get out of it for himself had better stay out. Banking in its real meaning and successful terms means service.

"Good understanding is a sufficient requisite for the beginner. He can build on such a foundation by hard study, earnest application and contact with banking in its practical form.

"The technical end he can acquire later. But let him bring with him to begin as his tools, thrift and honesty. These will advance him far. The rest depends upon himself."

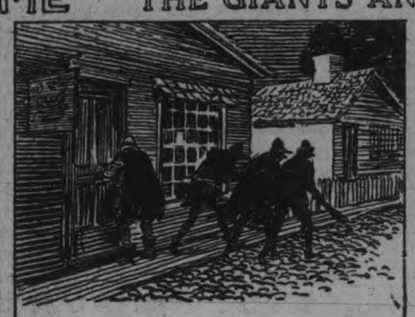
ONCE UPON A TIME — THE GIANTS AND THE HERD-BOY—VI — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

ONCE A POOR BOY LOOKED AFTER THE SHEEP OF A GREAT LORD. ONE NIGHT HE WRAPPED THE INJURED FOOT OF A GIANT IN HIS SHIRT, AND TO REWARD HIM THE GIANT TOOK HIM TO A PARTY OF HIS FRIENDS UNDERGROUND. THE HERD-BOY WORE A BELT THAT MADE HIM INVISIBLE, AND WHEN HE RETURNED TO EARTH HE HID THAT AND A LOAF OF BREAD FROM THE GIANTS' FEAST. WHENEVER THE BOY TOOK A BITE OF THE BREAD A GOLD COIN DROPPED FROM HIS MOUTH. WITH SOME OF THEM HE BOUGHT FOOD AT THE VILLAGE STORE.

THE STOREKEEPER THOUGHT IT STRANGE THAT A MERE HERD-BOY SHOULD HAVE SUCH WONDERFUL GOLD PIECES TO SPEND AND MADE UP HIS MIND TO FIND OUT WHERE THEY HAD COME FROM.



SO HE CALLED TOGETHER SOME MEN WHO WERE AS WICKED AS HIMSELF, AND ON A DARK NIGHT THEY SET OUT WITH THE INTENTION OF ROBBING THE HERD-BOY.

BUT THE LAD HEARD THEM COMING AND, HIDING THE BAG AND THE MAGIC LOAF, HE PUT ON THE BELT THAT MADE HIM INVISIBLE AND WAITED UNTIL THEY WERE ALMOST UPON HIM.

PROTECTION FOR CONSUMER IN TARIFF PLAN

Winnipeg Business Man Outlines Scheme For Encouragement of Industries.

CANADIAN MARKET.

Gives Opportunity For Reasonable Profit on Large Turnover.

Below is given an outline of the Patterson Tariff Plan which has been widely discussed in Eastern Canada and on the prairies during the past few weeks. Mr. Patterson, the author of the plan, is a Winnipeg business man well known in both East and West, and he gives what he believes is a business man's solution of the tariff difficulty now facing the country, the difficulty of giving the manufacturer sufficient protection to enable him to become prosperous and extend his business without at the same time penalizing the consumer.

By H. K. PATTERSON.

For many years I have felt that something had to be done, the sooner the better, to solve the problems "East and West" and "Consumer and Manufacturer." I therefore started to think over ways and means by which this situation could be improved, and about five years ago formulated a plan in my mind, and at every opportunity from that time until the present interviewed manufacturers, consumers and others to get information which would give me an idea how my plan would work, although I told no one of the plan itself until quite recently when I wanted to test the plan in the judgment of others. I now offer it to the public of Canada simply as a suggestion.

Year after year we go ahead in Canada keeping the tariff question ready for debate and contention, while all the time all parties are anxious to see developments and extensions in agriculture and manufacture in fair proportion to our resources and advantages. We did the right and best thing in the war period in a national way all round; this is the clearing up period and I am satisfied we can look after the national debt and the railway deficit, and with time and industry reduce taxes, if we set about it in the right way.

Eastern Opinion and the West.

My frequent trips East kept me in touch with manufacturers and others, most of whom regard the industrial interests of central Canada as of great importance in the economic life of the country. They are concerned in a national way about Western conditions and sincerely want to see the West advance, but I found there was concern about the growing antipathy in the West to the protective system and opposition to the tariff. This comes close to them and they can not quite appreciate why we in the West are not in favor of a policy which will build up the home market. My business connections are chiefly in the Western Provinces right West to the Pacific Coast, and I find the contrast between the opinion freely expressed in the East and West is very marked. Out here the bulk of the people are for low tariff. Selling their grain products as they do in a world market they are inclined to feel strongly against the restrictions under which they are compelled to buy in a closed market for many of the commodities they require, in some cases at higher prices than is equitable, while the difference in price between what is paid and what the goods could be bought for with free trade is supposed to go to the manufacturer and not into the public treasury.

It was reflections on this situation in which our country is so much divided and the conviction that something had to be done to preserve our national existence against the competition of the great neighbor nation to the south, that urged me to seek a remedy and I believe I have found one, which, if fairly applied, will result in greater development than has ever been seen in Canada and will evermore remove the barrier which the present protective system has built up between East and West.

Canadian Market for Canadian-Made Goods.

The end to be accomplished is to hold as far as possible the Canadian market for Canadian - made goods, manufactured out of Canadian raw material by Canadian workmen, in order that the population of Canada may be employed, that it may be greatly increased, that the railways may secure an ever-increasing traffic, that the home market may be enlarged and that Canada may be made a much more self-contained country than it is at the present time.

First—The plan must be satisfactory to the consumer as well as the manufacturer. We all know that the consumer does not want to pay more than the present prices for his goods, but we also know that the manufacturer must have protection against foreign importations which today are killing the Canadian industries and, therefore, the solution of this problem is not high tariff without control of selling prices, for in the past this has proven unsatisfactory, on account of it being alleged that the manufacturers raise their prices to just below what similar goods can be imported for, and that system has destroyed the object of what we call "protection." Protection to my mind is something that will increase the difference between the selling prices of the Canadian product in Canada and the selling price of the imported article in Canada, and my plan is along these lines.

Increased Output for Manufacturer.

I don't figure on giving the Canadian manufacturer a higher selling price, in fact, I would prohibit any increase in today's prices, but I would increase the Canadian manufacturers' output by eliminating from 75 to 80 per cent. of foreign competition, thereby giving the Canadian manufacturer practically all of the Canadian market, and that would mean lower costs on account of big production and a fair profit, so that the Canadian manufacturers could put in up-to-date machinery, plants and methods, and thereby be in a position to make a bid for foreign or export business. As our manufacturers' costs should steadily come down till they were very near to what United States manufacturers' costs are, in many cases they should be lower than the American costs, on account of smaller overhead. This would mean a reduction, eventually, in the Canadian selling prices, which would follow as the Canadian manufacturers' plants became efficient.

I am sorry to say that today our manufacturing plants are gradually being forced out of business owing to their not being able to get the volume of business to bring their costs down to handle competitive business. This, I am safe in saying, applies to by far the larger percentage of Canadian industries. There are, of course, exceptions where the businesses are large enough and have money enough to control a volume of business that allows them to make a fair profit.

Giving Power to a Tariff Board

Let me explain how my plan could be put into action without delay:

"A"—The government would have to appoint a tariff commissioner, and pay him a very substantial salary, so that he would be absolutely beyond the reach of any outside influence (a commission of three strong and fearless men would be just as suitable, only would cost the government more money). This committee of three could consist of one paid commissioner, one representative of consumers and one representative of manufacturers, the last two in an advisory capacity without salary, as they would only need to met two or three times a month (in case of dispute minister of customs to be arbiter and his decision final). Power must be given to the tariff commissioner to change the tariff, without notice, and also he must be given control over selling prices, but only when Canadian manufacturers of certain articles agreed in writing to abide by today's selling prices as a maximum (the manufacturer to retain the right to sell for less than that if they wished, but not more). The commissioner must also have the power to examine the books of any and all the companies who come under the protection of this plan.

"B"—The commissioner would call all manufacturers of any one lien of goods together, and outline the plan to them. If they were agreeable to have it applied to their particular line, then the manufacturers would be asked to give the commissioner their today's selling prices, labor wage scale and the raw material costs. The commissioner would then ask the manufacturer of that line to sign an agrement that they would not increase their prices based on today's labor and the raw material costs. The manufacturers would also have to agree to allow the commissioner to investigate their books as to costs on labor and raw material, and also selling prices at any time. The commissioner would agree when this document was signed by the manufacturers, to raise the import duty on imported goods to such a point that from 75 to 80 per cent. of the foreign competition would be eliminated, thereby giving the Canadian manufacturer of that particular line of goods about 80 per cent. of the total business of Canada in that particular line.

"C"—In the past the Canadian manufacturers it is claimed have raised the selling prices in Canada on Canadian goods to a point almost equal to the price of the imported article. This could not happen under my plan, as the penalty would be so severe in case the manufacturer broke faith with the commissioner, that it would put them out of business—the penalty being the elimination of all duties on imported goods in that line.

"D"—The commissioner would grant the right to manufacturers to raise their Canadian selling prices, provided the cost of wages and raw material increased, but only to the amount of the actual increase, and if labor and raw material costs were reduced, then the manufacturer must reduce the selling prices in Canada by the actual reduction of costs of these two items, meaning wages and raw material.

"E"—The commissioner should reduce the duty on raw materials and plant equipment of a class or kind not produced in Canada and wherever possible allow such to come in free of duty. On these items for the equipment of factories of a class or kind not produced in Canada there is now a 5 per cent. sales tax to be paid, and in some cases even this sales tax should not apply. This would make very little change in the present income to the Dominion Government over the present system. The commissioner would have to decide each case on its merits. The present law in regard to rebate of 99 per cent. of the duties paid on material brought in to go into the manufacture of Canadian goods for export, should remain the same.

"F"—If at any time a group of men come to the commissioner with a proposition to start a new industry in Canada—this new industry should come under this protective plan, provided the manufacturers agreed to sell at today's prices, and give equal quality of goods. In this way new industries would be gradually started in Canada.

"G"—In regard to quality of goods. The quality of Canadian goods would steadily improve, for when manufacturers are making money, they will spend money freely to improve their plants, and will eventually have as fine plants as the most efficient United States plants.

Jobs n Canada for All Comers

Let us stop for a moment and consider the results of keeping Canada for Canadians, by shutting out a large percentage of the manufactured goods from other countries:

First.—Our factories would be busy, in fact so busy that they would have to double, triple and in some cases quadruple, their present plants to handle the volume of business which would naturally come to them under this plan.

Second.—Our immigration problem would be solved, for when we have jobs in Canada waiting for men—the men will come, and quickly, and the right kind of men will come to us, as they will be experienced artisans in various lines of business.

Third.—As a consequence of increased factory output and immigration, Canada would require additions to present factories, also new factories and homes for the additional workers in the west as well as in the first, last and alwsys. I have seen with my own eyes large numbers of manufacturing plants in Canada, and I feel that if something is not done soon to protect our industries, we might as well get out of the manufacturing business and settle down to farming, lumbering, mining and fishing as in the early 70's, for the way we are heading means that the United States and foreign manufacturers will supply the demands of Canada, and will force the larger percentage of the Canadian manufacturers out of business. Our present tariff is doing this. It is not too late, so let us decide now to keep Canada for the Canadians, by adopting a plan along the lines suggested, for with my plan in force, Canada will double her population in a few years, and that will solve our biggest financial problem, namely, the Canadian National railways, for with people enough, and freight and passenged trade enough the Canadian National railway would be on a paying basis, including the interest on its indebtedness, as the freight movement would be east and west instead of north and south as it is today.

Under this plan, as statistics will prove, the income from the tariff will be greater even though the quantity imported will be less. This will be an income for the government from luxuries, such as imported shoes, jewellery, dresses, etc., and would be paid for by the wealthy class who in some cases insist upon buying imported goods.

Country's Revenue Would Not Be Loss

The Dominion Government revenue from income and other taxes would be increased tremendously on account of greater population and from more and prosperous industries and our natural resources would be developed more quickly under this plan.

In regard to natural resources in Canada—These should be developed in Canada. We should never export our raw products. For instance, let us export paper, but never pulpwood. Let us sell the manufactured products, but never export power which would go to build up foreign factories, wheeras, under my plan all our power will be needed to develop the Canadian industries.

It is perfectly plain that under this plan, our Canadian manufacturers as they get their production up so their costs will be down, can compete in the world markets on manufactured goods.

When the Canadian manufacturers costs come down, the competition between Canadian factories for Canadian business will be keen, and the selling prices to the Canadian consumer will be reduced, till the consumer will be buying his goods as cheap as anywhere in America.

This plan is the solution of the probem of "East anod West" so let us get together and urge upon the government to act immediately, for Canada can never be built up as the big nation it should be, under the present tariff policy.

The final result of this plan would mean a big prosperous country, with everyone busy and happy, and the Dominion Government with the increased population should steadily reduce taxation, till our taxes were no higher than those of any other country, meaning the United States

Eighty Per Cent. for Canadian Producer

Notes:

1. In handing any one industry, the commissioner should find out approximately the percentage of that line of goods manufactured in Canada, and also the percentage imported, and if only a small percentage was made in Canada, I would put on an extra rate of duty that would immediately throw a large volume of business to the Canadian plants, and then, as these Canadian plants were able to handle more orders, I would increase the duty again, and from time to time, as needed, until the Canadian manufacturer was getting about 80 per cent of the Canadian business in that particular line.

Don't overlook the fact that the selling price on the Canadian article would remain the same, whereas each increase in the duty the price on the imported article would have to be increased, thereby increasing the gap between the price of Canadian goods and the price of the imported goods.

2. I would not advocate putting the duty to a point where it would obsolutely eliminate the importation of foreign goods, for this would mean that we would eventually kill our export trade, for we all know that to have an export business, we must have an import business, or we could never expect a reasonable balance of trade. That is the policy adopted at present by the United States, for they have their tariff so high that it is practically prohibitive, with the result that they expect export business and begrudge any of their home market to foreign manufacturers. That plan is not practical and will only work for a few years until the foreign countries can make arrangements whereby they they can buy their goods from some country that is willing to do business with them. As far as the Canadian manufacturer is concerned, he needs approximately 80 per cent. of the Canadian volume of business, the other 20 per cent. will be made up of imported goods, which will help out international trade balances.

Encouraging Purchase of Canadian Goods

3. I would suggest a law being made to prevent any retailer in Canada from raising today's price on Canadian goods, and make the penalty in the first instance a severe fine, and in the second case a jail sentence of at least six months. This would prevent an unscrupulous Canadian retailer from attempting to charge as much for the Canadian-manufactured article, as the consumer would have to pay if he insisted upon buying imported goods.

The basic principle of my plan is to adopt a system whereby, as the duty was increased on imported goods, it would leave a larger gap between the price of the Canadian manufactured article, and the imported article, and the answer to that will eventually be that the Canadian public will not pay the price for the imported article, when he can save a large percentage of his money by buying the Canadian-made article.

This basic principle, if adopted by the government, could be worked out and put into force in any way they think best, and I have only enlarged on the basic principle to give others an idea how this plan could be put into action without delay.

I take pleasure in offering this suggestion for the serious consideration of the Canadian public, and I feel that the Canadian consumer is the man to get behind this plan and urge the government to put it through. The Canadian manufacturer will reap his benefit by the increased production, but not by a higher selling price.

Public demand is but the evidence of public appreciation of a product or a service. This has been accorded Coca-Cola in unstinted measure. During the twenty-five years since this business was founded, hundreds of other drinks have come and gone, but Coca-Cola still remains the favorite beverage of thirsty millions.

16,000 Canadians—as many people as make up the entire population of many a thriving Canadian city to-day—men and women, boys and girls, from Nova Scotia to the Yukon, liked Coca-Cola so well they wrote to tell us about it within a period of six weeks last summer. From artists, farmers, business and professional men, police constables and public officials—from women in city dwellings and prairie homes, we have heard the repeated story of Coca-Cola's delicious and refreshing qualities.

That it finds favor among so many people of widely different circumstances and tastes is the most convincing proof we could possibly secure that Coca-Cola is a part of the domestic life of this great Dominion to-day. It has a deserved place earned through the wholesome pleasure it gives, the purity of the product itself and the institution devoted to nation-wide service.

* * * * * *

Not only do these 16,000 letters present a cross section of our social structure from top to bottom, but they reveal the amazing extent of the geographical distribution of Coca-Cola.

They came from hamlets and settlements so small and obscure as to be known only to the Post Office Department. From camps deep in the wilds of northern Quebec; from outposts on the prairies and in the mountains far from rail head. There seemed to be no corner of the country that did not possess some knowledge of and appreciation for Coca-Cola.

Such has been the outgrowth of an institution founded on a nickel drink, which started in Canada some twenty-five years ago with a modest syrup factory and bottling plant at Toronto. As business expanded with the increased popular demand, three other factories and plants were next opened at Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Before long these facilities proved inadequate and, to insure regular and efficient service wherever Coca-Cola might be called for throughout this country of vast distances, bottling plants were opened in fifteen other cities. And these were further augmented from time to time, by the addition of licensed bottling plants in about fifty more cities and towns.

This Coca-Cola manufacturing and distributing organization now stretches from Halifax to Vancouver. Under one management and operated throughout according to one single standard of excellence in its product, it is engaged in supplying the people of Canada with the most wholesome, delicious and refreshing answer to healthy, natural thirst.

* * * * * *

Of all the hundreds of beverages offered to the public, Coca-Cola is the one which has most definitely registered its taste and appeal in their memories. It is not just something sweet and colored, made in a haphazard way. But an outstanding beverage in whose production science and sanitary methods combine to make it uniformly pure and good, for old and young alike.

The Company has invested millions of dollars in plants, equipment and methods to safeguard the essential purity, flavor and wholesomeness of Coca-Cola.

At each of the syrup factories every ingredient is tested by qualified food experts for purity and strength, before being used.

Tests are made at every step in the process of manufacture and distribution so that you may get Coca-Cola at its best—everywhere and always the same.

ROW OF TREES MUCH NOTICED

MUCH CARE TAKEN.

Travellers along the Peterboro-Port Hope Highway frequently comment on the fine row of maples that lines the road near Stonehedge Farm, about three miles from the city limits.

The trees were planted forty years ago by George Webber, grandfather of the present owner, Harvey Webber. The ground was summer fallowed for several years before planting and was later sown in grass. This preparatory work largely acounts for the straight appearance of the trees to-day. During the work on the making of the Provincial Highway, some years ago, considerable precautions were taken to save the trees from damage from the heavy blasting operations. Large mounds of earth were cast around the base of the trees and strong boards were laid in front of the trunks. One tree, situated at the point of the heaviest blasting, decayed, and died this year, but the others are still thriving.

Mrs. Elizabeth Webber, mother of the present occupant of Stonehedge resides on Gilmour street.

ARTISTS PAINT LOCAL PICTURES

Students of McGillivray Knowles Exhibit Good Landscape Work.

FINE INTERIORS.

Scores of pictures hanging on the walls of the gymnasium of the Y.W.C.A. Building in Simcoe Street, have given that room the aspect of an art gallery. They are the work of the pupils of McGillvray Knowles, a New York painter and instructor. It is probably safe to say that never before have so many local views been brought together in one room.

Mr. Knowles' party of pupils, the majority being ladies, is comprised of Canadians, Americans and English. The work of the various artists is a credit to themselves and to their instructor.

Two pictures, "The Interior of the Woods at Jackson Park," and "Birches at Pigeon Lake by Miss Lilah Taylor are especially attractive; Mrs. Knowles, among many others, has some fine sketches of the poultry in neighboring farms, several views of the countryside under the light of the moon; Scott Brewster shows sketches of pines and streams, and a particularly fine effort described as a phantasy in yellow; Miss Grace Whitmore, a new pupil, shows great promise with efforts depicting a field of wheat in Otonabee and views of Jackson Park; Miss F. Sanderson depicts scenes on the Otanabee River and of White's Creek; Edward Bell Smith, grandson of a well-known Canadian artist of the same name who died two years ago, shows signs of an inherited talent in pictures of grain and hay fields in the neighborhood of Inverlee Bridge; Rinshall Price has also sketched Inverlea Bridge from another angle, and the interior of a workshop; Miss Lee-Smith has among others, a view of the Canadian Packing Plant on a summer day, the sunshine and the reflections in the waters of the river being faithfully reproduced; Miss C. Burgoyne has a view of the interior of the blacksmith shop in the Alfred McDonald Lumber Company's plant and of views of birches on the banks of the Otonabee near Lakefield; Miss Abraham has views of fields and woods and a fine sketch of the Quaker Oats factory as seen from the Hunter Street Bridge; and Frank Panabaker has landscapes of the river and of fields in the neighborhood.

It is hoped that in the course of a few days arrangements may be completed to have an exhibition of the pupils' efforts in the Y.W.C.A.

A Cosy Square Plan House

By J. E. Harris, Architect.

A square compact house, with well proportioned and good sized rooms, no wasted hall space—and a simple well balanced exterior—a house that was built for four thousand five hundred dollars, is illustrated herewith.

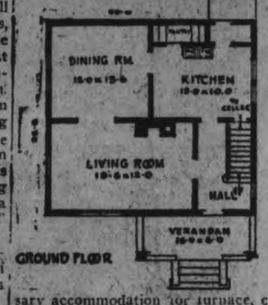
As the house faces south the plan admits of a bright, sunny, living room, with a large fireplace, and the dining room "en suite." The kitchen with outside and cellar entrances, is well placed, the various rooms being very simply related and in such a way as to make an easily "run" house.

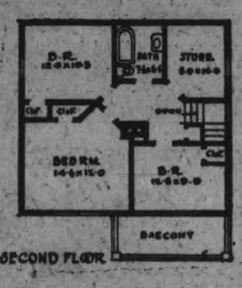
On the second floor are three bedrooms with cupboards, each room of a fair size, also a bath room and a store room.

The exterior shows a simple and dignified colonial type of a house, the walls being finished with cedar shingles over boarding and insulation. The roof is finished with asphalt slate shingles of varying tones.

It will be noticed that one set of flues answers for the furnace, fireplace and kitchen uses, a great saving in cost.

The basement contains the necessary accommodation for furnace, coal and general storage.





This house was especially planned to be erected where the climatic conditions are trying, both as regards low temperature and also the alternate thawing and freezing which is so destructive to exterior work, particularly roofs, care being taken in this instance to eliminate all unnecessary gables, dormers, etc., so as to give a clear open roof and cornice.

The interior of the house throughout has been finished in clear spruce, for oil finish, the floors being of hardwood.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. J. E. Harris, Architect, Charlottetwn, P. E. I. opyright 1926, MacLean Building Reports Limited.

LIBERALS MEET; MAY NAME DATE

Association May Decide Date of Riding Convention To-night.

MANY ASPIRANTS.

With a meeting of the Women's Liberal Association and the Men's Association of the city and the riding scheduled for to-night, it is expected that the date of the coming convention will be definitely set to-night.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., told The Examiner that the meeting would be held at his office but declined to comment as to the possibility of his being a candidate.

Street rumours mention the names of the following gentlemen as being possible aspirants: R. R. Hall, K.C., J. J. Duffus, W. G. Morrow, G. A. Gillespie, N. E. Phelan, Mayor W. T. Holloway and the Hon .G. N. Gordon.

Hottest Part Of Summer Coming Now, Says Cicada

NEW YORK, July 31. —(United News).— The hottest period of summmer is at hand, according to the rasping announcement of the Cicada, harbinger of dog days, at the New York Botanical garden. The Raucous Song of the Cicada, informally known as the locust, heralds the offical opening of a torried six weeks before fall, according to naturallists.

Toronto Markets Close For Week End Holiday

TORONTO, July 31. — (Canadian Press.)— The Toronto stock exchange and the standard mining exchange were closed to-day and will also remain closed on Monday, August 2, which is Toronto's Civic Holiday.

Upward Movement Resumed With New Stocks Featuring

NEW YORK, July 31.—(Canadian Press.)—The upward movement of stock prices, which was interrupted by a heavy selling movement late yesterday, coincident with the marking up of the call money rate to 5 per cent., was resumed in to-day's brief session of the stock market with new leaders brought forward in Steel, Motor, Public Utility and Railroad groups. United States Steel common met with heavy profit taking around its recent high level, but the offerings were well absorbed while General Motors worked higher on active short covering. Youngstown Sheet and Tube assumed leadership of the Steel group by jumping nearly 5 points to a new 1926 high at 90 3-4. Nash, Studebaker and Hudson all recorded sharp gains in the Motor group. Pools were active in a number of specialties, particularly Radio Corporation, Public Service of New Jersey, Woolworth, and International Comustion Engine. The closing was firm.

Canadian Hot Weather Sends Wheat Price Higher

CHICAGO, July 31. — Canadian Press. — With no relief in sight for the Canadian hot weather and the drought the wheat market here showed an upward trend to-day, but the buying failed to become aggressive and the advance was soon more than wiped out. Starting at 1-8c off to 1 3-8c up, wheat prices fluctuated nervously within a range of about 2½ cents. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to 3-4c lower and subsequently weakening all around.

THREE DENIALS OF RYAN CLAIM

Telegrams Received Saying That Evangelist Did Not Visit Carmel.

ONE FROM ORMISTON.

LOS ANGELES, July 31. —(Canadian Press). — The authorities investigating the reports that a woman answering description of Aimee Semple McPherson, spent ten days at a cottage at Carmel, Calif., during the time of the Evangelist's recent disappearance are confronted with telegrams from Chicago and San Francisco denying. Pastor visited the resort town as claimed by Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan.

The telegrams were signed by Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Mrs. McPherson's Angelus Temple, Belle Owen, who identified herself as a sister of the woman who really stayed at Carmel and George McIntyre, who stated he stayed at Carmel during the perior Mrs. McPherson is alleged to have been there and who offered his aid in disproving Ryan's allegations.

TEN INDICTMENTS WILL BE SOUGHT

Evidence Enough in Alcohol Case To Warrant Prosecutions.

TWO CONSPIRACIES.

BUFFALO, July 31 (Canadian Press)—At least ten indictments for murder or manslaughter in connection with the poison alcohol fatalities will be sought by district attorney Guy B. Moore, when the September grand jury convenes. Evidence gathered by the police was sumitted to the prosceutor last night and after going over the data, Mr. Moore expressed the belief that there was sufficient to make strong cases against ten men and probably more.

Although the Ontario authorities apparently see the connection between the retailers of wood allcohol concoctions, which also caused numerous deaths in the province and the gigantic alcohol conspiracy revealed by federal grand jury report at Jamestown, the Federal authorities here have failed to link the two groups in any way. The conspirators, it is alleged, dealt almost exclusively in alcohol taken illegally from government warehouses while the wood alcohol vendors received their supplies either directly from abroad or through agents in New York having European connections

MAN SURRENDERS.

Rocco Perry, Wanted in Booze Case, Gives Himself Up.

HAMILTON, July 31 (Canadian Press)—Rocco Perry, named in an indictment of the federal grand jury of Buffalo on a charge of conspiracy in connection with bootlegging and wanted here on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the recent deaths from alcohol poisonings, gave himself up to the police today.

Family Hides In Bananas To Effect Entry To Canada

OTTAWA, July 31. — A daring attempt by a family of Central American natives to evade the immigration laws of Canada, has been revealed. A marsupial mother and her three children were discovered hidden away among a shipment of bananas consigned to an Ottawa merchant —J. B. Derraugh. He notified the Federal Government officials at once and turned the family over to them, and they are now held, not in jail, but at the National museum in this city. For be it known that the marsupial is the family name of the pigmy opossum. The mother opossum had built her nest among a cluster of bananas, which hung in Mr. Deraugh's store three days before he discovered that he was entertaining some strangers unawares. The pigmy opossum, when full grown, is no larger than a chipmunk.

Eastern Star L.O.B.A. Members Gather at Home of Bride.

The officers and members of Eastern Star LO.B.A. No. 525 gathered at the home of Mrs. G. Harris (nee Pearl Davis) 239 Princess street, on Friday evening last and presented her with a beautiful silver casserole and the following address:

Dear Sister Harris,—We the officers and members of Eastern Star L. O.B.A.No. 525 gather here this evening with great pleasure to present to you this small token, and wish you health and prosperity in your new home.

You have always been ready to help us in all our undertakings and we hope that you will continue in the same way.

Again we ask you to accept our good wishes.

Signed on behalf of Eastern Star, L.O.B.A. No. 525, Edith Brown, W. M., Myrtle Frost, D.M.

July 23, 1926.

Mrs. Harris then thanked the members of the lodge in a few well chosen words for the beautiful gift and hoped she would still be able to continue the good work of the Order. The evening was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments and the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Wife Kisses Husband Who Set Her On Fire

STEPHNEY, Conn., July 31. —A wife just recovered from burns her husband was charged with inflicting, when he poured gasoline over her and lighted it, kissed her torturer at his arraignment here on Friday, and refused to testify against him. But Claude Sanford, aged 42, was held under bond of $5000, despite his wife's refutation of her written statement relating to the alleged attempt on her life. Sandford explained that he had been drunk, and that the incident was only a nightmare to him. He is charged with assault with intent to murder. The testimony of the neighbors caused him to be held.

RAILWAY TO BLAME.

Should Have Posted Flagman at Crossing, Says Coroner's Jury.

LAKEWIOD, N. J., July 31. — (United News). — The Central Rail road of New Jersey has been found responsible for causing the deaths of five persons killed at a grade crossing at Whitesville, last Wednesday. A coroner's jury exonerated the crew of the train which struck the automobile in which the victims were riding but held the railway was guilty because of its failure to post a flagman at the crossing.

C.N.R. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

RATIO LOWER

An increase of $11,114,314.69 or 296.99 per cent. in net earnings for the first six months of 1926 as compared with the same period of last year, is shown in the financial statement of the Canadian National Railways for the period January 1 to June 30, 1926, issued today. This statement also shows the highest gross for any first half-year since consolidated system figures were set up in June, 1922, and the highest gross and net for any June since that time.

For the first six months period ending June 30 in each year, net earnings and operating ratios were as follows:

	Net Earnings.	Operating Ratio.
*1922	$ 2,869,596	102.82
1923	1,591,357	98.63
1924	2,629,430	97.63
1925	3,742,346	96.45
1926	14,856,661	87.72

*Operating deficit first half of 1922.

For the half-year ending June 30, 1926, gross earnings were $120,989,008.00 as against $105,543,743.00 in the first half of 1925, an increase of $15,445,265.00 or 14.63 per cent. Operating expenses in the 1926 period were $106,132,847.48 as compared with $101,801,397.17 in the first half of 1925. Net earnings for the first half of 1926 were $14,856,660.52 as against $3,742,345.83 during the corresponding period of 1925.

The summary for June shows gross earnings of $22,303,899.00 as compared with $18,204,662.00 in the same month of 1925, an increase of $4,099,237.00 or 22.52 per cent. Operating expenses in June, 1926, were $20,362,821.34 as against $18,637,038.12 in the corresponding month of 1925, an increase of $1,725,783.22 or 9.26 per cent. Net earnings in June, 1926, totalled $1,941,077.66 as against an operating deficit in June, 1925, of $432,376.12, a betterment of $2,373,453.78. The operating ratio in June this year was 91.30 per cent. as compared with 102.37 per cent. in June, 1925.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

On Saturday afternoon, July 24, the Juniper Island committee held a splendid reception at the Pavilion for all Stony Lakers, and being very well attended was a most enjoyable affair. Those in charge of the arrangements were Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mrs. J. M. R. Fairbairn, Mrs. Perry Goldsmith, Mrs. J. M. Gouinlock, Mrs. W. Sym, Miss Nan Hall, and others. Mrs. Sam Henderson and Mrs. T. H. G. Denne poured tea at either end of a beautifully flower bedecked table, and there were assisted in dispensing it and delicious refreshments by a bevy of pretty girls. Prior to the reception, a decorated flotilla called forth many expressions of admiration. The first pribe going to the Misses Wotherspoon of Port Hope, who represented an Indian family, each detail being faihtfully carried out.

Miss Sheila Cronyn of Montreal, Miss Louise Hall, Peterborough, and Master Tom Currier, Ottawa, captured the second prize with their true-to-detail float of "Old Dutch Cleanser," this was a most artistic canoe.

"Moses in the bulrushes" came third, a most picturesque float with the Misses Frances and Hope Morson of Toronto as the beautiful Egyptian ladies, and Jane Currier of Ottawa as Moses. Three or four other boats were well decorated, and a kind gentleman gave each of them a box of candy.

The dances at Juniper are being well attended, and much enjoyed.

Mrs. George Greening and family of Montreal is at "Catamaran."

The Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers and Mrs. Sawers of Toronto are at Clergy Cottage. Canon Sawers will have charge of the services at St. Peter's Church for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chisholm of Port Hope are at "Sea Breeze." Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hall and family of Toronto are spending a week at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goldsmith of Orange, N.J., are at "Forest Nook," the guests of the former's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb and Miss Laura Lamb of Ottawa have been the guests of Mrs. Currier at "Matameta."

Mrs. Albert Morson and Miss Hope Morson, Toronto, are staying at "Yononda" with Mrs. W. Morson.

Victoria House, McCracken's Landing, is a very popular resort this year, every one being delighted to welcome Mr. Jack Strickland back again, as the genial and capable manager.

A number of handsome cruisers have passed through Stony Lake recently, the majority of them being from the United States.

WEDDING BELLS.

VALLEAU—BAKER.

WARKWORTH, July 30. — A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning, July 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Baker, when their seventh daughter, Helen May, was united in marriage to Mr. Blake Valleau, Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Valleau, Norham, Ont. Rev. Major James Belford conducted the ceremony and Miss Blanche Baker played the wedding march.

The bride was given away by her father and looked very pretty in an orchid georgette gown, trimmed with Venetian lace, with shoes and stockings to match, and carried Columbia roses and baby's breath.

Previous to her marriage the bride received many beautiful gifts, besides one hundred dollars and a presentation of a beautiful piece of hand-work from the neighbors.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Millar Entertain Friends of Their Children.

BURNBRAE, July 31—A delightful party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Millar, Town Line, on Tuesday afternoon, when over forty young friends and neighbors of Miss Ada and Master Clarence Miller assembled to enjoy an afternoon together. All the games popular with the younger generation were played and after each and every one had had his or her fill of fun, they were still further filled with the splendid refreshments provided by the hostess. Among the guests from a distance was Miss Viola Oddie of St. Catharines. Everyone present thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon's sport and all unite in voting Mrs. Millar a real hostess.

Two new barns are in the process of erection near Burnbrae. That on the farm of Mrs. George Hay and Sons, Menie, is nearing completion, while Mr. Robert Cleugh's building is well under way. The barns are being built by a prominent steel company, and the local carpenter and contractor, Mr. H. M. Donald, is working his gang in conjunction with the men from headquarters. These barns will be modern in every respect and will add much to the generally prosperous appearance of the district.

Burnbrae lawn social on August 5th is to have an interesting softball game. Mount Pleasant vs. Menie. This will be Menie's first venture into softball as a united team this year.

Personal

Mrs. Alex. Oddie, daughter Viola and little grand-daughter of St. Catharines are visitors in this vicinity.

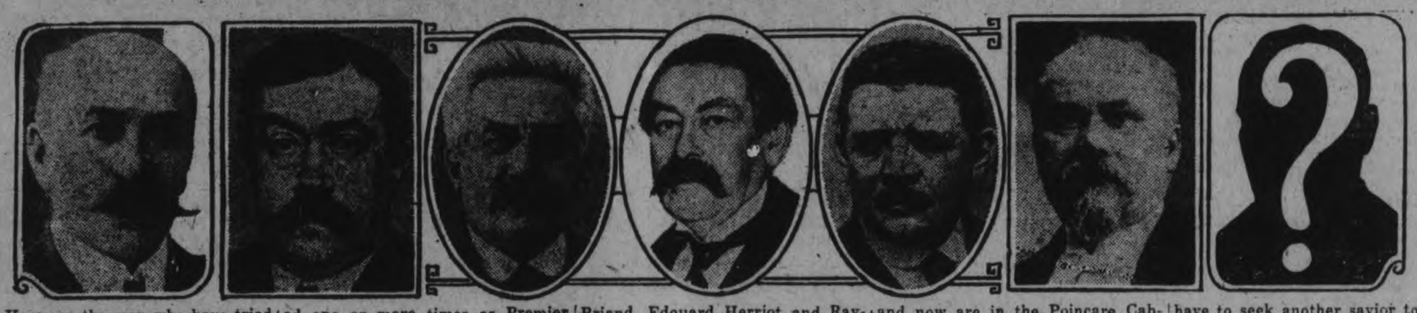
Rev. J. J. and Mrs. Black and family of Barrie are spending part of their holidays here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Millar and family were Sunday visitors in East Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum and family visited in South Monaghan last week.

Miss Gwen Anderson of Midland is holidaying with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson.

CAN POINCARE DO IT OR WILL FRANCE SEEK ANOTHER SAVIOR?



Here are the men who have tried during the last four years to lead France out of its financial crises and save the franc. All have served one or more times as Premier since 1922. Left to right they are Georges Leygues, Paul Painleve, Alexandre Millerand, Aristide Briand, Edouard Herriot and Raymond Poincare, the present Premier. All of these except Millerand now are in the Poincare Cabinet. Will Poincare be able to stabilize the franc, or will France have to seek another savior to lead her out of financial chaos? That's the big question in Europe today.

LAWN SOCIAL HELD.

MARMORA, July 31.—Despite a dull sky, a goodly number from the surrounding district attended the Lawn Social and Musical Concert on the United church grounds on Thursday evening. The grounds were prettily decorated for the occasion and the presence of officers and men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in good numbers added to the attractiveness of the event. Marmora Community Band played selections liberally, exhibiting further improvement. A male quartette consisting of Messrs. J. F. Baker, William Lester, W. L. Rigg and W. A. Sanderson sang several numbers very pleasingly. The refreshment booth was kept very busy while the candy stall, operated by the young ladies of Mrs (Dr.) D. L. Curtis's class entirely disposed of its wares. Last but not least, is the fish pond, to be mentioned for its yield.

All's well so far at the Regimental camp. It was learned on Thursday that the Regimental Band from Picton will arrive on Sunday to remain for the remainder of the camp term. For the services on Sunday best of preparations are being made. Capt. T. H. H. Hall, the chaplain who will be in charge, may possibly have the assistance of Capt. (Rev.) S. E. Morton of Lyndhurst, who is holidaying near by.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kennedy and children of Lindsay are spending a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kennedy.

FISH FOR COYOTES.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Kas., July 31. —To go fishing and catch no fish, but capture a couple of wild coyotes with their hook and line was the experience of two Marion County men, J. W. Mader and Ross Volk. The men were returning empty-handed when they saw two coyotes, trailed them to their hiding place under a culvert and fished them both out.

LAWN BOWLING

The first sporting event of its kind to be held in Eastern Ontario will make its appearance here next week when the Peterborough Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club will hold its first annual tournament on August 4.

Entries have been received from Toronto, Campbellford, Cobourg, Belleville and Orillia, thus ensuring that some of the best lady bowlers in the province will participate.

The tournament will be held on the greens of the Peterborough Bowling Club, Brock and Aylmer streets, and a hearty invitation is extended to the public to be present.

Mrs. J. N. Bacon and Mrs. F. Miller are president and secretary of the club respectively.

On Tuesday evening four rinks of All Saints' Bowling Club met four rinks of the Peterborough Bowling Club on the green at the church groups.

Four games were played and at the finish All Saints were down 52 points, the score being 138 for Peterborough and 82 for All Saints.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

East Versus West.

That there is little if any difference between the athletes of the east and west, is indicated by the marks hung up at the Drake and Penn games recently staged.

Track conditions at the Drake relays were bad, due to much rain; as a result much better time was made at Penn.

In the four feature relays, the half-mile, two-mile, three-mile and four-mile, the easterners turned in the better marks.

However, in the field events, the westerners as usual topped the best showing of the Penn athletes in most of them.

Roland Locke's record of 9 5-10 seconds for the 100 yards was easily the most sensational performance of the day.

Summing up the showing made at the two meets proves it was about a 50-50 proposition as to superiority.

Locke's Record Feat.

Prior to Locke's record performance at the Drake games the best time for 100 yards was 9 3-5 seconds. That official figure is shared by several sprinters.

Locke's feat of being timed in 9⅗ seconds stands alone. Due to the fact that he had the wind at his back, it may not be allowed. In all probability no one will argue that the slow track offset the advantage of the strong wind that was blowing.

In this connection I recall a remark that the late Mike Murphy once made to me. At that time he had charge of track at University of Pennsylvania.

"I really think it is physically impossible for any sprinter to cover 100 yards in better than 10 seconds," said Murphy.

"It is my belief that any marks under that figure should be credited to faulty timing rather than unusual ability."

It will be interesting to see what Locke does in the 100-yard dash at the National Collegiate championships in June.

Derby Eligibles.

Not in years has there been so much interest in the Kentucky Derby, due largely to the fact that the race seems far more open than usual.

The news that Carlaris, so-called "wonder horse," might not start has, of course, added much zest to the affair, since it removes one of the decidedly outstanding entries.

Down Kentucky way turf followers seem to think this is going to be a Bradley year.

The recent showing of Bubbling Over and Boot to Boot in finishing first and second in a field made up of Derby eligibles, has caused the stock of the E. R. Bradley stable to soar.

In fact, some of the experts are inclined to the opinion that Bradley colts will run one, two, three.

That would be a most amazing and unusual performance and yet it is possible.

Disputed Advantage.

Is a short right field fence an advantage or handicap to a home team?

The right field stands are 15 feet father away than last year, but due to the fact that a 15-foot screen which was on top of the old wall has been removed, I don't believe the drive is as difficult.

It might be argued that since the home team plays 77 games on the field, it has a batting advantage if the team has a number of hitters who drive them to right field.

However, I believe the strain on the home team's pitching staff, more than nullifies any batting advantage, should such a thing exist.

Who is out when one runner passes another on the lines?

Such a play can only happen when runner pulls a "bone." However, it is almost an annual occurrence in the majors.

The player who passes a preceding runner, is the man who is out.

When a baserunner pulls such a "bone," he automatically retires himself and should immediately be called out by the umpire.

When is it possible for the umpire to rule a balk and interference on the same play?

There is only one instance in baseball where such a double decision on the same play is possible.

At all other times the calling of a balk takes precedence over everything else and no other action is possible.

This is the situation in which the umpire must so rule: With a runner on third, he starts for home on either a steal or the squeeze, only to have the catcher brush aside the batter and leave the lines of his position in order to hurry the play on the runner trying to score from third.

Regardless of whether the runner is retired or not, the umpire permits the batsman to go to first because of the catcher's interference; also calls a balk because the catcher left the lines of his position to make the play, permitting run to score.

A double penalty is placed on the offender, otherwise catchers would constantly resort to such tactics to break up the steal or squeeze.

CANADIAN LADIES WILL BE HERE LATER

Wednesday's Game Postponed Owing to Toronto League Play-off

The expected game of ladies' softball between the Canadian Ladies, of Toronto, and the C.G.E. team, is off for a few days, due to the fact that the Toronto League has ordered the Canadian Ladies to go into the play-off, and their first game is on Wednesday, the evening on which they were expected to play here.

Arrangements, however, are being made so that this team will appear in Peterborough in the near future.

In a boxing match the wisdom of resting the hands by giving them perfect freedom while not actually delivering a blow has been illustrated by many prominent fighters. Jem Mac and Joe Cobourn, two of the greatest battlers of their day, always maneuvred in the ring with hands as open as if they were about to wrestle, not to strike with the fists.

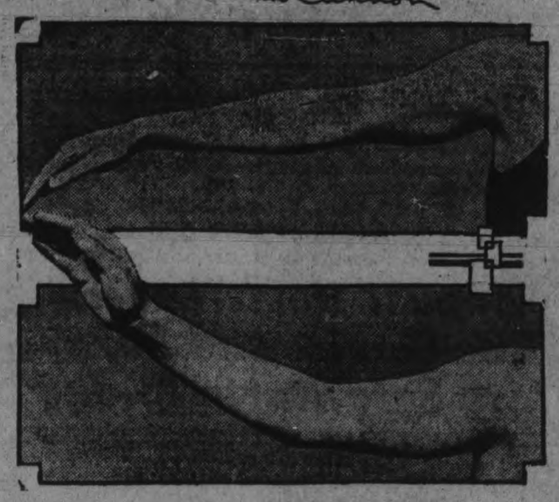
HOW TO SWIM

by William Cavanagh



HOW THE HANDSARE CUPPED

In perfecting the overhand stroke, one's aim should be to make as little splashing as possible and to swim with as little effort as possible.

The hands should be very slightly cupped so that each strikes the water with an appreciable "plop" and without splashing.

If this is attained, the arm will make no splash. The best idea is to think of the stroke as "shoving" the arm and hand into the water, rather than striking the water with the open hand.

The scissors kick in this stroke should be synchronized with the movements of the hands just as in the dog-paddle.

The breathing should also be in the same co-ordination as in the dog-paddle. This is not a standardized stroke, but one very generally used when not trying for speed. Coaches call it incorrect, but it is much used.

JUDGE ADVISED EMPLOYMENT OF DETECTIVE

Says He Acted as Friend and Adviser To Mrs. MacPherson.

NEW EVIDENCE.

District Attorney Promises Revelations When Jury Sits on Tuesday.

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—The seventy-fourth day of the Aimee Semple McPherson case found no slackening of sensations and no lack of new developments. Most startling of the day's events was the connection of Superior Court Judge Carlos Hardy with the case. It was learned that Judge Hardy had been instrumental in having Mrs. McPherson employ a private detective to conduct an independent inquiry of her own.

Judge Hardy is quoted as saying that as a friend and adviser of Mrs. McPherson, he had advised her "to employ the best detectives in the country to dig up evidence to support her story."

He emphasized the statement that his advice did not constitute a reflection upon his colleague, Judge Keetch of the Superior Court, who is in charge of the grand jury, nor upon the grand jury itself. Asked whether he felt that the district attorney's office and police were not giving the evangelist a square deal, Judge Hardy is quoted as saying that from newspaper accounts he felt that they had concentrated their efforts of breaking down Mrs. McPherson's story, rather than finding the kidnappers, and that in view of these circumstances he advised the evangelist to employ good detectives to help her substantiate her story.

Judge Harry for some time has been a leading supporter of the evangelist, having had a prominent part in her welcome home from the Holy Land earlier in the year and prior to her disappearance.

District Attorney Asa Keyes promised new and startling evidence for Tuesday. Indications, however, are that the finger-prints found on articles at Carmel will be useless. Experts report that those found on the famous spice can from the Carmel cottage are blurred and probably will not be used for identification purposes.

Armed with more than twenty subpoenas, process servers from the district attorney's office were enroute yesterday to Carmel to serve commands to appear before the grand jury next Tuesday upon the several affiants who have sworn to their belief that the occupants of a cottage there were Kenneth Ormisto and Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson continues to affirm the truth of her story as strenuously as ever, and frequently delivers scorching attacks upon her accusers during the course of her daily and nightly radio talks. Angelus Temple is being crowded more thickly than ever at the daily meetings. On Thursday night several hundred people were turned away for lack of room long before the meeting was to commence, and automobiles jammed all available areas for several blocks.

Mrs. McPherson appeared without warning at the Hall of Justice late yesterday. She demanded the subpoena issued for her appearance next Tuesday before the grand jury. The document was handed to her, and she left. At the same time, Attorney R. R. Wooley of the evangelist's staff, returned from Carmel and issued a statement, in which he asserted his belief that Kenneth Ormiston was implicated in Mrs. McPherson's kidnapping.

In their battle for their eighth straight International League pennant the Baltimore Orioles are encountering the stiffest opposition they have had for some years.

FIREMEN BEAT TRIPLE LINKS

Winners Play First Class Ball Behind Good Pitching.

LOSERS ERRATIC.

Last night the Firemen upset the Triple Link in a game of softball in Central Park by a score of 13-3, this being the first time this year that the Firemen have been able to beat the Triple Link. The game was very open on the losers' side, many errors being made. The Firemen seemed unable to go wrong and as a result gave their pitcher wonderful support. Barrie for the Triple Link was the wonder of the game when he leaped into the air and made a one-handed catch and a double play. There were two home runs on each side, and if Carruthers had been called to the box sooner by the Triple Link the score might have been closer, but the way the Firemen were playing it was impossible for any team in the league to defeat them.

The result of last night's win puts the Firemen at the top of the league, but they have a very hard week ahead of them, as they meet the Belmonts twice and have to play three games. On Monday night at 6.15, in Central Park, the Belmonts and Firemen meet and again on Wednesday night at James Stevenson Park. On Wednesday night the C.G.E. play the Triple Link in Central Park, and on Friday night the Firemen and Triple Link meet again in Central Park.

The line-up:

REGATTA FINAL EVENTS TO-DAY

Two Canadian Crews and One American in Senior Finals.

ST. CATHARINES, July 31. — (Canadian Press.) — The senior championships will be decided this afternoon, the closing day of the C.A.A.O. regatta. The elimination of Toronto University and the Argonauts from the senior eights in the preliminary heats yesterday, by Winnipeg and Lachine respectively, will provide a three crew race, with Wyandotte, Michigan, the winners of the junior eights, completing the line-up.

Johnny Curnan, senior single champion two years ago, will make another bid for the honor to-day. He is the only Canadian competitor, Walter Hoover and Nelson of the Philadelphia Undines, being his opponents.

The sunny course is smooth for to-day with a high temperature.

THEATRE

BASHFUL BEAUS SEE "DIXIE MERCHANT"

Bashful swains, who have endured one refusal after another from the girl of their dreams, should take a few lessons from Jack Mulhall, in Fox Films production of "The Dixie Merchant," which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre.

In this story of the South, Jack is cast as Jimmy Pickett, only son of a wealthy plantation owner. He has always had everything he wanted and when he falls in love with little Adia Fippany, the proud little daughter of the poverty stricken merchant whose caravan Jimmy accidently wrecks—he can't understand her attitude.

A worse factor is that he can't learn how to get in right with the merchant's family. After Adia has snipply told him that they are perfectly comfortable and that the roof hasn't leaked and that there really is nothing he can do to add to their complete satisfaction with the lodge in which they are living, Jimmy decides on action.

He lays in wait for the pert little lady, carries her off bodily, rows her out into the middle of a lake where she has to listen to him or be dumped unceremoniously overboard. Then he proposes.

The scheme is drastic, but it provides one of the cleverest situations in the story.

AT THE CAPITOL

BIG PARAMOUNT SPECIAL—"THE BLIND GODDESS"

Based upon the law that every man is innocent until proven guilty, "The Blind Goddess," opening at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, brings to the screen a heart-gripping, human-interest drama, in which love and duty, romance and a murder-mystery are some of the complex elements.

The story, directed by Victor Fleming, is based on the Arthur Train novel of the same name, which originally appeared in serial form in "The Designer." Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton attended to the film adaptation.

Matching the plot in strength and power is the formidable cast Director Fleming has assembled, featuring a quartet of stellar players—Jack Holt, Esther Ralston, Ernest Torrence and Louise Dresser.

While the production was primarily made to entertain, it also serves to emphasize in a very spectacular way the gross injustice of convicting any person solely upon circumstantial evidence.

The action of the story, which is laid in New York, opens in the society atmosphere of smart Fifth Avenue, but soon switches to the sombre background of the criminal courts, where the dramatic events reach a sensational climax in a murder trial of gripping intensity.

Holt, a brilliant young lawyer, falls in love with Esther Ralston, only daughter of Ernest Torrence, a powerful though scrupulously honest political boss. When the latter is mysteriously murdered, Holt, in his capacity o Assistant District Attorney, is asked to proecute the case against Louise Dresser, charged with the crime.

Although eevry bit of circumstantial evidence points unerringly to Miss Dresser as the guilty one, Holt becomes convinced of her innocence Rather than send an innocent woman to the electric chair, Holt resigns his position and sacrifices the girl he loves in order to defend the woman. The subsequent events are charged with excitement and thrill, working up to a surprising denouement and a happy ending.

MILL WORKERS START WAKES

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 30.—(United Press).—Cotton-mill sirens in fourteen Lancashire mill towns shrieked this afternoon to indicate that the famous Lancashire "wakes"—the ten days migratory holiday of the Northern mill-hands—was formally begun.

Not a mill will start up until a week from Tuesday when their employees will have returned, having spent to the last farthing—all except fifty cents left prudently under the clock at home—every penny which they have saved for the annual "wakes."

The total sum thus saved and disbursed is enormous. Figures published early in July for fourteen Lancashire towns showed that the workers, in spite of the strike and of short hours in the American cotton-spinning section, had saved nearly $5,000,000 for their holidays. Similar figures from mill-towns in Yorkshire, Cheshire and other industrial districts bring the totals up to many millions.

This money is collected by weekly subscriptions at every mill throughout the year and is a big item in Lancashire and Yorkshire banking. It amounts to about $15 a head or around $50 a family. It is saved separately, and has nothing to do with the family's ordinary savings account. The banks' passbooks plainly label it "wakes money." It was drawn out yesterday on such a huge scale that the banks, as usual, were forced to draw heavily on the London money market in order to finance the "wakes" with clean new banknotes, clean new bills and clean new silver.

Tomorrow every mill-town will human with the exodus. Trains will be packed to suffocation; charabancs will crowd the town squares, load up and whirl their happy occupants to Blackpool, New Brighton, Southport and other holiday places.

Yorkshire sends thousands flooding eastwards to Scarborough and Bridlington and Whitby. Other charabancs invade the South, down as far as the Isle of Wight. Other parties, pooling their resources, make a bee-line for the Continent. Couples go off happily on their own, much to the interest of English playwrights who have more than once found the Lancashire "wakes" a fruitful theme for drama. A motor-bicycle with side-car or even a "peach-perch" behind, complete with "peach," is a favorite vehicle for the grand exodus.

Authorities agree that very little money is spent for drink during the "wakes," though the crowds are rather noisy in trans and charabancs and might give the stranger a contrary impression. The money has to be spent with some care lest it give out and the holiday-makers forced to return home prematurely. The great aim of those who participate in the "wakes" is to come home on the very last day—without a penny.

From every viewpoint the famous Chrysler "70", in no way changed except at sensationally lower prices, continues more than ever to be the car of the hour—the car you want and need.

With savings of $65 to $410, the Chrysler "70", at its new lower prices, is making even greater automobile history and establishing higher sales records than at any time since it was introduced two and a half years ago.

During this period Chrysler "70" unapproached roadability and unfailing sturdiness have won the enthusiasm of more than a hundred thousand owners who have driven their cars thousands upon thousands of miles.

Fleet and agile, even to 70 miles and more an hour, with all the engineering and manufacturing fineness that such speed implies;

Light and graceful in charming contrast to the unwieldy and the cumbersome;

Long-lived, economical and compact with entirely new comfort development;

We will be eager to show you why Chrysler "70" continues, despite the flattery of imitation and emulation, to be the one really modern expression of motor car satisfaction. 619

LOOK OUT, MR. MAN

DAILY SHORT STORY

: : SMILING MARY : :

Harry was undoubtedly harassed. Going away from home so much as he was compelled to left his mother alone far too much. Of late he had observed in her an increased depression of mind that worried him tremendously.

"Mother, if you would only get out among people a little. Surely it does you no end of harm to refuse to see anyone and to draw so entirely within your own shell—it makes me miserable to think of you all alone here while I am away."

Mrs. Walker smiled wanly. "You know I've never been the same since we lost your father. All these fifteen years I have had no interest in anything. Life has just been an utter void. You see, my dear, you never lost anyone you loved so devotedly—it is difficult for anyone to feel as I do."

It was not until he was rushing through one of those great department stores in New York, in search of the elusive embroidery counter, that the girl who was to help him out of his troubles leaped into vision.

To Harry it seemed as if Mary Mander's smile lit up the entire world, to say nothing of the department store. She radiated wholesome joy.

Mary was one of the store employees, and was there to hold out a helping hand, as it were, to perplexed shoppers.

Harry was one of them. He knew no more about embroidery silk and cushion tops than Mary perhaps knew of the price of galvanized tin, but he was determined to get something bright and cheery for his mother to work on.

When he had finished with his purchases he got up courage to ask this girl if there was a chance in the world that she would try acting as a cheer-up companion to his mother.

"I've been a wee bit tired of this work for some time," said Mary, "and would love to be a —companion—if you think I could lift some of the gloom—"

"I think," said Harry, almost staggering under the light in the eyes she turned up to him in doubtful questioning," that you could lift a three-ton truck with that smile of yours."

That evening when Harry got home he told his mother about the young lady whom he had asked to stay with them for a month. He made up quite a wonderful yarn for a truthful man.

"Miss Mander is an orphan friend of Wetheral and he has asked me if you would mind having her here while she visits New York. You don't mind, do you, mother?"

Mrs. Walker was anything but pleased, but tried valiantly not to let Harry know how she felt.

But Mary swept everything before her with a ready smile. In spite of herself Mrs. Walker took an instant liking for her. Big love is sometimes born on just such a fleeting moment. Mrs. Walker went in and kissed the smiling face before putting out her own light that night.

"I sneaked into the kitchen," said Mary, "and took the tray by shee force from Bridget." She laughed. "And now we can have a nice chat and I'll have another cup of coffee."

When Harry came in to kiss his mother before going on his long Western trip, he stood unbelievingly on the threshold. His mother was smiling and on her shoulders was flung a softly colorful scarf that she had always refused to wear because it didn't tone with her moods.

"We're having a lovely time," said Mary.

And when he had gone his mother looked fondly after him. "Poor boy, he's had an awful time trying to make me cheerful, but then you young people don't know what it is to really suffer. It's easy enough to smile and be happy when you have your loved ones with you, but—"

"My dear," said Mary very softly, and for one fleeting moment the whole depths of tragedy through which she had fought her way lay revealed in her eyes, "I lost everyone I held dear in the earthquake in Japan. The dear mother who bore me, the father who worked so hard that we might have all that we wanted, and two fine brothers. I came home—alone, penniless."

Mrs. Walker drew the fair head against her breast and stroked it tenderly. "You poor, dear child—how—how have you ever managed to smile—to live through it?"

"I had to," said Mary softly, "because God gave me a life to make the most I could of and I'm not—well, I wasn't born a coward, and I'm not going to die one."

"Mary Mander," laughed Mrs. Walker through her own tears, "it has taken you to teach me what a selfish, wicked person I've been all these years—but—you just watch me from now on. Now smile darling," she tilted Mary's head up, "and this afternoon you and I will go to some shops and get a lot of cheery clothes and go on a regular bust to all the good shows and when Harry returns he will quite naturally think I have gone mad. But somehow I think he knows already that he was putting the one thing I needed into my life—a daughter."

Look Out, Mr Man

BY CYNTHIA GREY.

The waitress!

All women are waitresses, says the cynic. Those who haven't men are waiting for 'em, and those who have are waiting on 'em.

This little girl does both. Service with a smile may mean a big butter and egg man of her own some day. So while she waits on them all, with the same cheery twinkle in her eye, the other eye is looking out for that man of men who will take her away from the endless vistas of tables and the heavy trays.

And when she finds him—well, she'll know what to do!

It's her smile and her crisp frilly cap and her blue eyes that lure one's thoughts away from the rancid butter or the cracked restaurant dishes.

"Corned beef and—" comes garnished with merry quips, and the thin blue "cream" in the pitcher turns thick and yellow at the sound of her laughter.

A long string of clever wisecracks she has in that fluffy head of hers, and she chooses the right joke for the right man. But if a man displeases her, won't he just have his coffee slopped in its saucer every time?

It's a sorry business—this lone-man-dining-out business. Heaven knows how many men have been driven into matrimony just to escape it.

And the waitress knows too. If she makes herself a pleasant enough dinner companion, presto! the cap and apron will come off and she'll be sitting across the table from him.

And then—it'll be he that does the waiting on her!

A NOVEL IN THE MAKING.

We haven't written a novel yet, but here are a few lines we shall include in that work:

The alarm clock went off. Horace arose and brought it back.

A deep silence filled the stillness—several drowned in it.

KEEP A HAIRPIN HANDY

Here's an extraordinary picture! You might go for months on a still-hunt, and never be able to find another like it.

See what the young lady is buttoning her shoe with?

She's Miss Gertrude Allen, and she had to ask 97 other girls for a hairpin before she could find one at the beach. The "girl" who finally discovered one was 60 years old and the only "unbobbette" on the beach.

Who can remember the good oln days when a woman used a hairpid to hang pictures, test pies, wash out the children's ears, mend clocks, do tatting, fry steak, fix the carpet sweeper, regulate her watch, clean lamp wicks and stop the alarm clock so it wouldn't ring Sunday morning?

Who?

Hardly anyone.

"Minutes always pass."

PROTECTION NUMBER

If, after what we said last week, you thought this would be a protection number telling about the tariff you think Canada should have, or about insurance, or lifebelts, turn right over to the back page. It's too hot and life is full enough of good advice, without our devoting a Magazine Section to giving more. If, on the other hand, you wish to know the advantage of having pedestrians carry stop lights, or the approved method of keeping a husband, or safe flirting methods, or the advantages of camouflage—read on, beloved of the god of humor.

Human nature is of such a temperament that we are always looking for safety and always trying to protect ourselves against something. If we have not anything tangible, we scare up a ghost. If there is not a lion handy, we flee from a mouse. We have invented the Northwest Mounted Police, the ordinary variety of police forces, serums, anti-toxins, prohibition, the franchise, and what not to protect us from all imaginable ills. We invent airplanes to take us up in the air, and then we invent parachutes to ease the bump in case the airplane leaves us to float. We invent poison gas, and then a mask to keep the gas from working. We put fenders and bumpers on our cars and sue the man who bends them.

And what chances, withal, we take! A man will fight any six for the woman to whom he has taken a fancy, and then risk all by yawning when she is telling him the plot of the last moving picture she saw. And the woman will use all her wiles to attract the man, and then risk all by telling it!

If out of the nonsense in this section you gather a few grains of sense, be assured it is quite accidentally written.

CRITICAL MOMENTS.

The man who knows what to do in a critical moment is to be admired. Often he is to be envied. But the distressing point is that there are so very few of these know-what-to-do-on-the spur-of-the-moment men. More of them should be cultivated; and the way that should be done is simply to use common sense, instead of continually referring to standard etiquette books The following examples of common sense are offered:—

1. Whenever someone accidentally drops an immense Chinese vase upon your head, you should immediately turn to the person and ask him, rather quietly, if he likes spinach. This display of tact will be a revelation.

2. Or if you are ever held up on a dark street, the thing to do is just to tickle the bandit under the arms. If he is not ticklish in that part of his anatomy, remove his shoes and tickle the soles of his feet. Nothing is more successful in thwarting robberies.

3. Or if ever you are riding a bicycle downtown and you fall off, simply take a set of tenpins and a bowling ball from your pockets and commence bowling. It really is the quickest way to hide your embarrassment.

4. Or if you ever happen to appear in a public place minus some necessary part of your apparel, the thing to do is to run to the nearest fire alarm and ring it. The consequent confusion will always divert attention from your own person.

5. If you ever get lost in darkest Africa the proper thing to do is to cut your fingernails immediately and then you will discover that your inconveniences will be greatly lessened.

PROTECTION - - - - - By J. T.

The average citizen who for almost a year has been a creature of normal habits will, during the next four or five weeks, shake himself and come to life for a brief but interesting period.

Due to the efforts of aspiring politicians and henchmen he and indeed she, will have dinned into their ears the pros and cons of protection. In thestreet, in the home, on the streets car in fact any place where people are prone to meet, arguments will be heard discussing this all-important (to some) question. One of the parties last year had as a slogan, "Vote for Protection." This article, while no referring to the same kind of protection, deals with a problem more far reaching than mere politics. It deals with the all-important question of saving human life.

Due to the same continually increasing number of automobiles that are travelling on the streets and roads of the country it behooves every citizen of this dominion to make a resolution that no matter what comes or goes he will protect himself.

Judging from the number of accidents that appear in the columns of the newspapers a new sport is rapidly endangering the popularity of baseball and the numerous other sporting activities. Automobile owners, not satisfied with the thrill of hitting trains on crossings and seeing just what their car will do, have like Alexander of old, sighed for fresh fields to conquer. As a result a new game has made its appearance, and for want of a better name we will call it pedestrian hunting.

The latest figures show that there are 700,000 motor vehicles owned in Canada, which means that for every fourteen persons in the dominion, there is one car. Every person is at one time or another a pedestrian so that the quota for each auto owner works out at 13.3 pedestrians. This is significant in itself as the unlucky number has worked havoc in the minds of a great many people.

The little blue book containing the Highways Traffic Act and numerous municipal by-laws all aim at protecting one motorist from another. About the only provision in the Act for the protection of the pedestrian is the clause requiring a motorist to stop after an accident. He may stop, but he has added another nick to hs steering wheel or wherever he keeps track of his victims and returns home to his family boasting proudly of his prowess as a marksman.

In the city of Peterborough the happy hunting grounds of the pedestrian hunter seems to be Charlotte and George streets, although McDonnel and George seems to be favored by a great many. The less skilled and no doubt nervous drivers who have not attained a sufficient degree of accuracy seem to concentrate their energies on the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets.

At any time of the day and on Saturdays especially, a person who takes the time to stand at any of the four points on the corner of George and Charlotte will have presented to his view a comic opera that far excells even the famous Gilbert and Sullivan at their best.

Mr. Pedestrian takes a look at the bus and figures his chances are small. In a moment he is galvanized into action. Throwing all discretion to the winds he starts out on high and a moment later, if he is lucky, strikes the other corner a mass of puffing and perspirin humanity, breathing all sorts of imprecations against he unfortunate driver.

Again it may be a light car, perhaps not quite so imposing in appearance but deadly enough if it hits you in the right place. Mr. Pedestrian takes a look, sniffs, and starts out across the street endeavoring to look innocent as to the proximity of the car but at the same time keeping the car in view out of the corner of his eye. He attempts to crawl across in an altogether unsportsmanlike manner, or else navigates in a zig-zag manner to the most conspicuous part of the intersection, where under the guardian wing of the traffic policeman he finds time to gaze around before starting out on the final lap. Another class of pedestrian who savors of Kipling's barrack-room lawyer recollects that the pedestrian has the right of way. He endeavors to cross in a dignified manner and if he maintains his dignity usually ends up in a hospital proving conclusively that pride goes before a fender.

Another rule now barred by the experts but occasionally violated by those who are trying out the main street for the first time is that of passing standing street cars. This has been discouraged owing to the fact that the cramped space does not allow the pedestrian to run far enough, consequently detracting from the intended beauty of the game.

The game has become so popular that it has taken various other forms of activity. What few remaining pedestrians who are not fortunate enough to own a car have even gone the length of taking baby carriages along the George street sidewalks usually at the busiest hours, thus causing an additional hazard to the life and limbs of the citizens.

One case occurred in the city a few months ago when a baby in its carriage evidently tiring of the monotony of the sidewalk crossed swords with a car at the corner of George and Simcoe streets. Through a miracle the baby escaped injury, but it goes to show how far the game has spread.

In an attempt to simplify the sidewalk traffic it is suggested that pedestrians adopt a system of traffic signals which, while affording them little, if any, protection against the auto pedestrian hunter would at least protect them from the actions of their fellow pedestrians who promenade the sidewalks.

Who has not met the pedestrian who strolls around with an umbrella sticking out at the rear, or a member of the fair sex engaged in a shopping tour and walking around with packages of every description projecting in all directions? The obvious remedy is a red bandana handkerchief tied to the rearmost parcel—a signal that would be readily recognized and the resulting detour could take place without the usual risks.

Stop lights could also be used to advantage by the members of the fair sex and when combined with a mirror would give double service.

We feel that regulations such as are herein suggested, or at least some rules of a similar type should be authorized and put into force with as little delay as is possible so that that form of wild life—the pedestrian—now threatened with extinction, may be preserved.

In conducting exhaustive research for the purpose of securing authentic and reliable material for this article, we came across an admirable set of regulations compiled by one Harry Daniel for Thrift magazines. These, we feel, cannot be improved upon and we take the liberty, therefore, of giving Peterborough participants in the game the benefit of said rules which may be summarized as follows:

Rule 1—All persons desiring to engage in the regular pursuit of crossing streets must take out a license and leave a statement showing name of their favorite hospital. This permit will be revoked after holder has been knocked down and run over three times, unless he gets a license entitling him to additional accidents.

Rule 2—Pedestrians who start across the street in the middle of the block are allowed three downs. If they can't make the morgue at the end of the third down, they then have the right to take a gun and shoot themselves.

Rule 3—In being knocked down by an east-bound car, pedestrian must make a left turn. If driver fails to shout, "Look out there," after he has run over a pedestrian the latter is liable to fine and arrest and may, at the discretion of the court, have his name misspelled in the telephone directory.

Rule 4—In crossing a street slow down to a run. The driver's score does not count unless both shoulder blades of the pedestrian touch the pavement.

Rule 5—Pedestrians who find themselves unable to get flattened out in any other way have the right to try crossing a street corner diagonally. Every man must stand up for his right to be knocked down.

ADVICE FOR THAT BIG SUMMER RESORT.

1. Practice some unusual thing that will show your individuality, such as wearing a dress shirt and derby while playing golf. This should be very effective.

2. Put pep into the party at all times. Wisecracks always go big. Should you meet the mother of the sweet young thing, ask her to dance with you. Then place your feet on her toes and let her carry you around the floor. Don't fail to thank her when the dance is over. Your clever idea will instantly appeal to her and you will be mentioned at once in the family will.

3. Make yourself known as "Chaperon Remover." That is, always explain football tactics to her before starting. Illustrate. Carefully take aim and then with sureness clip her off in such a manner that she will be carried off the scene cold. Nature does the rest.

4. Chew tobacco and expectorate freely on all occasions, carry a pennant on a cane with you, and when on a party suddenly rise and give several '09's for yourself. Always be ultra-collegiate as it will be expected of you.

FLIRTING---IS IT SAFE - - - By W. E.

Is flirting safe? Alas, for the majority of mankind, the answer is, as the Cabinet Ministers say, in the negative. The trouble is that anyone can flirt, but it is given to so very few to be able to flirt and get away with it. (It is clearly to be understood that this subject is herewith treated entirely from the masculine viewpoint.)

The average man can't last the pace. He loses his head. He figures that when a girl's eyes get dreamy, they need looking into. And as he continues the process he falls more and more under the spell. He feels himself slipping. It is at this stage that he becomes interested in zephyr breezes, in the moonlight, and in the stars at night. In the car on the way home from the dance or from a trip to Chemong he speels off all kinds of romantic and dramatic stuff. In cases of a very severe nature he finds himself possessed of the gift of the Muse. When he begins to compose poetry the trouble has reached a very acute stage. The shadow of the Registry office or the Civil Court lies athwart his path. If he commits his effusions to writing his case is hopeless. Nothing on earth can save him from one or other of these institutions.

It is their respective attitudes towards this poetry and writng business that distinguish the practised accomplished flirt from the mere bungling amateur. The adroit one may compose sonnets to the moonlight or odes to his fair one by the square yard, but he never allows them to be put into writing. Not he. Rather he waits till the setting is appropriate when he delivers himself of his production to the accompaniment of, "How clever," or "However can you do that?" But the other poor guy leaves behind him a trail like that of an elephant, in the form of bundles of letters or poems that prove to be the means of his undoing. However, he continues in his lotus eater's dream until one fine day he wakes up to find himself treading up the aisle of a crowded church, keeping time with the music of a selection from Lohengrin, or worse still, the waking process takes place in a well-filled court-house, where he confronts a stern-faced judge and sees a shrewd looking lawyer concealing with difficulty a lurking grin as he reads out to an unsympathetic world the soul rhapsodies of the too-ardent wooer—and the tittering of the assembled spectators is checked by the gruff voice of the Sergeant, who calls out "Order." Oh, yes, there is no doubt about it, an old flame with love letters can make things hot for a man.

He hears the counsel for the plaintiff thrill the court with an eloquent declamation against well-to-do young men (defendant earns 10 per week) who trifle with the affections of unsophisticated young women, and it is with a start that he realizes that he himself is the horrible example. As he leaves the court with a heavy countenance and a very light pocket-book he recalls an old adage that he heard, oh, ever so long ago, one that he wishes he had only kept in mind during recent years and he curses his luck as he repeats it—

"Do right and fear no man,
Don't write and fear no woman.

Outside he meets the young lady of the blighted affections and she winks knowingly at him as she remarks irrelevantly, "So's your old man."

But the real trifler with female hearts avoids the church and the court with equal dexterity. As he explains it, making his get-away is an art, not a science, and no amount of teaching can supply the lack of the needful elasticity. Making his approach is almost equally difficult. The best authorities on the subject tell us that good looks are not absolutely essential to success in the art. Neither are brains.

Indeed we have been led to believe that brains are rather a hindranc. than a help to the aspiring Don Juan But it is absolutely indispensable that he should have a necktie that becomes him and that not a hair of his oil-irrigated head should be on the wrong side of the parting. He must also get the proper inflection into his voice as he describes to his prospective conquest the fact of his loneliness away from home, knowing nobody in this strange town, and that he should have the right kind of appealing glance as he tells her how all his friends have hitherto misunderstood him and that she and she alone seems to view him in the right perspective. He also has to know how and when to adopt the direct method of attack in which case he leans boldly over to his fair young neighbour in the street car and remarks somewhat dubiously, "Er-er Miss—eh—have I not met you before in——?" and the knight errant has made another conquest.

It is perhaps in answering questions regarding his financial and social status that he achieves his master-piece of fiction. A greenhorn would overdo the business of lying, but the experienced prevaricator paints his picture with very light strokes. He drops hints: slight, but significant, which convey the impression of the enormous salary he draws and of the exalted position he holds in his home town, and usually manages to make his escape before the facts of the case leak out.

Of course, this masquerading in borrowed plumes is not by any means confined to the lords of creation as a very circumspect young gentleman now located in Peterborough found, some years ago. While stationed at Cobourg as a member of a military unit he made the acquaintance of a lady who resided in that part of the town that is sacred to the American millionaire. The Peterborough man was in khaki and his lady friend was attired in the height of feminine fashion. In other words they were both dressed to kill. With this bond of union between them the friendship ripened. In the absence of the "old folks" many invitations were extended and accepted to the family mansion, when select little parties were held, attended by "friends of the family." Visions of entering the ranks of high finance, via the marriage route filled the warrior's head. But a promising romance of real life was nipped in the bud when a cold-blooded Cobourg man made the announcement that the patrician lady was, in his own forcible phrase a "kitchen mechanic," and the Electric City man sheered off in alarm to avoid a "mesalliance."

In spite of the earnest efforts of reformers, we find that no enthusiasm can be aroused for a campaign to make flirting safe from male flappers. As one whom we approached recently on the subject remarked, the general belief is, that it is not desirable that flirting should be made safe. To do so it is claimed would have the effect of taking away all the zest of the chase. So it looks as though dates will continue to be made in pretty much the same way as at present for all time to come.

CAMOUFLAGE a Form of Protection

By Jennette

"The garment of his good lady—a hood of honor, trimmed with wise self-control. Her sack, or undergarment, should be of chastity, dread and shame: her kirtle of constancy, with buttonholes of continuance or endurance. Her gown should be of godliness, with ribbons of renown, a belt of benignity, a mantle of humility, a hat of justice, a tippet of truth, a ruff of good thoughts and a necklace of ruth. Her sleeves should be of hope, her shoes of security, her hose of honesty——"

Excuse us. We were dreaming. We looked at this picture, and realized we had to write something that would live up to it, and then we started to think about the old-time ladies that the long-dead English poet wrote of, in "His Garmond of Faire Ladyes," when he moralized in the terms quoted above.

Well, the lady of his thoughts may have been all he imagined her,but we wouldn't like to bet any money on the supposition that she hadn't a lot of unlikeable qualities tucked up those "hopeful" sleeves, and "secure" shoes and "honest" hose, just the same as this little lady of today, with her apparel, or lack of it, that recalls the verse about the Mother of the Race "If Eve came back to the world today, after being away this many a year, she'd probably turn to Adam and say 'the styles haven't changed very much, my dear!' "

The wiseacres say that woman's attitude of the present time, her habit of outspoken thought, her liking for freedom and emancipation and few clothes, is merely an expression of honesty, that the female of the species is stretching out her arms for liberation from age-old bonds. Which is, like most stuff written about women, pure bunk. The modern woman is merely having a change. For years she went around, swathed from head to foot in materials that concealed her absolutely, but she wasn't a bit different at heart, when she wore stays and four petticoats and boned collars and rats in her pompadour, than she is today, with nothing to retrieve her chiffon hose from collapse but a pair of jazz garters, nothing to keep her from absolute transparency but a shadow-proof slip, and nothing on her head but a few wisps of hair. Yes, he was a wise Oriental who said "Among the philosophers, the Chinese: among the beasts, the fox: among the birds, the jackdaw: among men, the barber: and in all the world, woman—i is the most crafty?"

Women are certainly crafty, and given to camouflage, but they have to be. Despite all efforts and assertions to the contrary, it still remains a man's world, and wise is the woman who refuses to deny the fact, and who trims her sails accordingly.

See the ladies in the picture, for instance. How silly it would be for the topmost specimens to exchange bathing suits. The beauty would suffer from an effect of over-fussiness and the lady with the angular curves would be given the "once over" and nothing after that. As it is, the damsel with the stream lines chooses a severe type of costume, and—takes a siesta on the sands, while her less fortunate companion dons a ruffly frock and a coquettish hair bow, and paddles in the water. Could anything illustrate to better advantage the wisdom of the woman, which has been an attribute of the sex ever since the days when they chose a lioness with a lady's face to represent the Sphinx of old Egypt.

Or, take the lady with the cap. She encases her charming head, beautifully modeled, in a tight sheath of the sort portrayed in the sketch, and then she poses. But the Dickensque sister to the right pays out some good money for a spotted-fever creation, and gets just as much attention as her more pulchritudinous companion. Each of them is perfectly sensible. As for the damsel on the cape, she again is fulfilling her mission in life. She is displaying her charms to the very best advantage, and using the cape as an accessory to the picture, while the vertical female who rests on a more or less skimpy understanding contents herself with showing off the excellence of the garment which covers her bony points.

If one is pretty, swimming lessons should never be taken too seriously. Suppose one gets beyond one's depth, there will always be a man around somewhere to do the rescue act. But an expert study of aquatic arts should be included in the curriculum of the plainer specimen of the human form divine. She can get herself a place in the limelight, just as surely as the maiden reclining on the pier, by mastering the trudgeon and the crawl and the intricacies of the back flip. To her can be addressed the words of the poet "Sabrina fair! Listen, where thou art sitting, Under the glassy, cool, translucent wave, In twisted braids of lilies knitting, The loose train of thine amber dripping hair." Only, nowadays, there aren't any twisted braids, and amber hair is only beginning to come into prominence again. It will take some years yet, and a mastery of the intricacies of peroxide tinting, before we have blondes in any great number about us. A northern climate is more conducive to locks of deeper hue.

Only the lady with swimming proclivities would have to remember the peculiar properties of the human body, and the fact that it might take a notion some time to revert to essentials, for the scientist who seeks to convert all things to the least common multiple declares that the human form is composed of a bushel of charcoal (carbon), three gallons of air (nitrogen) a hod of lime and a shovelful of salt dissolved in five bucketfuls of water.

The Hindus say that Twashtri, the Vulcan of Hindu mythology, created the world, but that when he had made all other things, and had come to the creation of what was to be his chef d'ouevre, he found to his annoyance that he had run out of materials. He had not a single chunk of solid material left. With a mental execration upon his carelessness, he fell into a profound meditation, the result of which was the following formula, the recipe for the creating of the sweet confection known as woman

He took, according to the legend, "the roundness of the moon, the undulating curves of the serpent, the graceful twist of the creeping plant, the light shivering of the grass blade and the slenderness of the willow, the velvety softness of the flowers, the lightness of the feather, the gentle gaze of the doe, the frolicsomeness of the sunbeam, the tears of the cloud, the inconstancy of the wind, the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock, the hardness of the diamond, the cruelty of the tiger, the heat of the fire, the chill of the snow, the cackling of the parrot, and the cooing of the turtle-dove." That, however, is an Oriental description of woman, and hasn't much to do with wiser thoughts of Western sages.

The art of camouflage is ancient and respected among the gentler sex. Eve practised it in the first garden, when she answered Adam's stern question with an attempt to put all the blame on the serpent, and they have been doing it ever since—for the same reason—to satisfy some man. Women know that they are born with many deficiencies, "to match the men, my dear," as the old lady asserted, but their best interests demand that they conceal them as much as possible. After all, as Maeterlinck writes, in "His Portrait of a Lady," when discoursing on "Vices and Virtues:" "A virtue is but a vice that raises instead of lowering itself; and a good quality is but a defect that has turned itself to use. How should she have the necessary energy if she were deprived of ambition and pride? How could she thrust aside unjust obstacles if she did not possess a reserve of selfishness proportionate to the awful exigencies of life? How should she be kind if she were not a little weak? How should she be beautiful if she knew not mirrors and did not seek to please? How should she be generous if she were not a little improvident?"

Cynthia Grey, one of those ladies who has the courage of her convictions, comes right out with some hints for the bachelor girl, in a triolet of maxims with regard to winning the elusive male. She says, "First of all, he must flatter him. For beauty and wit haven't a chance compared with the art of a raw compliment. And feed him. For all the charm in the world goes down before the vulgar appeal of onion soup and a sizzling porterhouse. And, above all, listen to him. For a man is like a radio, whose function is to make a noise. And he has just about as much use for a talkative woman as a receiving set has for one."

Perhaps the idea contained in the second bit of advice quoted above is better described in the little bit of frankness from the pen of a masculine writer: "If a woman but cooks, we care not how she looks, for we never can find her peer. She may write many books, or convert all the crooks, but we'd tire of her in a year. Though wise as the owls and rooks, and pure as the babbling brooks, she must cook, or from her we steer clear."

Which merely goes to show that severe bathing suits for the beauty, and swimming lessons for the uncomely are mere flipflop, as one might say. What these damsels, who all, from appearances, belong to the class of the "unclaimed blessing," should do, is to don any old dress at all and hie them, top speed, to the nearest bookseller's establishment, there to spend some of the money they have been squandering on shingle bobs and fluffy clothes, in a laudable effort to acquire the nucleus of a cook's library. And then, instead of posing on bathing beaches and piers, they should stay at home and attempt to master the art of dressing a chicken without having to cut the bird away from its insides and fry the resultant portions, and of making a cake without forgetting the baking powder. It is "old stuff," perhaps, this line about good cooking, but it has always proved to be one of the most successful forms of camouflage. Many a girl of triangular formation and catty ways has got by and landed a perfectly good husband, solely on the strength of her mother's raspberry cordial.

HOW TO KEEP A HUSBAND

BY A MARRIED MAN

There are three classes of women, I've been told — those who want husbands, those who have them, and those who wish they hadn't. But in between these classes I believe I have found another group, composed of women who have sought and won and now desire to keep their husbands. To them this rambling dissertation is addressed, in the sincere hope that the reading of it by their wives may make life more pleasant for many of my men friends.

In Peterborough we are not greatly troubled by divorce actions. In fact, I only recall one during the past two years. But there is scarcely a fortnight when there is not reported to the police or to some other benevolent society the desertion of wife and family by a brute husband. He's always wrong, of course. And then there are the innumerable cases, even here, of husbands who gallivant with other women than their wives. If these wives want to keep their husbands, let them read on.

The preface to any treatise must contain an analysis of the subject. In this case we shall go beyond the three points sacred to the ministry and develop our analysis under four heads. Algy the Sheik is usually the first love of life. He wears a multicolored sweater, walks at a crawl and speaks with a drawl. The only time he hurries is when he hears a gurgle. His hair is plastered down smoothly, evenly parted and he allows it to grow down alongside his ears. Freddie the Farmer, on the other hand, is the bulky he-man and brawny caveman from the great open spaces where men are men and women are not always ladies. He wears garters, a string necktie and sleeve bands. Percy the Poet enters the girl's life at the age when she is turning up her nose at her bourgeois neighbors and longing for smocks, cigarettes, and romance. He will wear a flowing tie with egg stains on it and a bob like old gray mare's tail. Ralph the Rotarian will probably be the ultimate choice. He is sure to be a solid business man, perhaps inclined to an expanded equator. He will be docile; he will always remember to wipe his feet on the mat. Women may worship the poet, but they like to marry a man who can maintain them in a state to which they would like to become accustomed.

Having chosen her own particular fancy or type, the problem of how to keep him looms up on the horizon o the wife. Perhaps it's easy for a year or two, but—

Jim Smith had been married a year when his wife said to him one night, "Jim, you do not speak so affectionately to me as you used to when we were first married. I fear you have ceased to love me." "Ceas ed to love you?" growled the man in the case. "There you go again. Why, I love you more than life itself. Now, shut up and let me read the baseball news."

It's not so bad if it's only baseball with which you have to compete, but when another woman enters the arena it's more serious. One corner of an eternal triangle usually gets knocked off, and your main business in life should be to see that you are not the corner. Ten chances to one your opponent flatters your hubby by pretending she doesn't know as much as he. Go thou and do likewise. If your'e a fiend for bridge, kid him into thinking he's the leader in the social art in your family. Your women friends will pity you, but you'll find keeping the bonds of matrimony pays dividends higher than the spoken favor of women friends. Your swing and stance on the green may be perfect, but never fail to look up at him with that adoring—you know—look, and express the wish that you could drive half so well as he. You may be able to swan dive to the admiration of all your friends, but don't do it when hubby's around. After he's taken a flop from twenty feet and-zits dripping on the shore, you should shiver and shake on the edge of the springboard while he encourages you to just try once. You may drive like a fire chief through traffic at George and Charlotte, but when you're out with hubby you should remark after he has narrowly missed a light pole, a baby carriage, and a street car, "My, how I wish I could handle a car in an emergency like you!"

These are masculine activities, mostly. The dear men pride themselves upon their accomplishments and ability. You may be better than your husband at all of them, but if you want to hold him, never let him know it.

Never fail to flatter your husband about his work. He will not show much interest in yours, but do not let that stop you. Tell him how wonderful his system in the office is, how great good he is doing for the world through his work in the factory. Marvel at the ability that enables him to do so exacting work. But never, never, expect him to take an interest in the reason why the top right element in the gas stove doesn't work, or enquire into the knack that enables you to turn out the tastiest muffins in Peterborough, or compliment you on your way of preserving fruit. If he knocks the meal he gets at Mrs. Jones' when you go out for Sunday that's the greatest compliment you may expect.

If this doesn't work, write an enquiry to my wife.

Protect Yourself.

CANOE CROSSES BAY OF FUNDY

Daring Trip Made in Peterborough Boat by St. John Men.

The following extracts, taken from The Telegraph-Journal of St. John, N. B., are interesting, as they relate the success of a difficult feat achieved through the assistance of a Peterborough Canoe. The first extract, from the edition of July 15, is as follows:

"In an endeavor to accomplish what, so far as is known, has never been achieved by white men, William C. Currey, local barrister, son of the late L. A. Currey, K.C., a former prominent member of the Saint John legal profession, and Eric Fowler, son of the late Senator George W. Fowler of Sussex, propose to leave here either today, tomorrow or Saturday afternoon in a 17-foot Peterborough canoe in an attempt to paddle across the Bay of Fundy to Digby. Mr. Currey said yesterday afternoon that he was awaiting word from D. L. Hutchinson, Director of the Meteorological Observatory, as regards propitious weather forecasts. The craft has been loaned by Miss Leslie Pickett.

"The proposed departure will be made at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon as this will give the canoeists the greatest possible advantage of the tides. A fisherman's compass will be fastened to the stern port side of the canoe and, with the aid of this instrument, the adventurers hope to reach the other side safely. They plan on making the 48-mile trip in about 12 hours. No sail will be used, Mr. Currey said last night.

"It was remarked by Mr. Currey that his father, an expert canoeist, had often expressed a wish to accomplish just such a feat as this, but his dream had never been realized.

"The adventurers were in conversation with Captain MacDonald of the steamer Empress last night, and obtained information regarding tides and other dangers likely to arise during the experiment. Mr. Currey said that a very light load of provisions would be taken along and all precautions against accident would be taken.

"So far as could be ascertained last night, only one attempt to paddle across the Bay of Fundy in a canoe has been successful. About 30 years ago two Indians of Bear River, N. S., reached Saint John safely in a long, high-walled canoe."

The second extract, from the edition of July 17, tells of the success of the two men:

"After 12 hours and 35 minutes of continued paddling, William C. Currey and Eric Fowler, who left here Thursday night in a 17-foot Peterborough canoe for Digby, arrived at their destination at 8.20 o'clock yesterday morning. They returned to Saint John on the steamer Empress last evening.

"When 10 miles out of Saint John the canoeists ran into a rain storm. They were undecided as to the course they should pursue, but tinue. They found the tide quite strong at Digby Gut and experienced difficulty getting into the basin."

DISCUSSES

THE ART OF SPENDING

BY ARNOLD BENNETT.

Despite the advancing strides of science, a few mysteries remain in this, our earthly life. One of the most remarkable of them lies in the different results obtained by possessors of the same or similar incomes. The ashman has the spending of as large an income as the decent clerk whose refuse he carries away of a morning. Yet the clerk lives in better surroundings, is dressed better both when at work and when not at work, brings up his children better, has better furniture and more comfort, than the ashman.

And the ashman provides by no means an outstanding example of the curious relative discrepancy between income and the fruits thereof in well-being. There are a very large number of artisans who handle from three to five hundred pounds a year. There are some who make a thousand a year—and spend all of it, or at any rate nearly all of it. A thousand pounds a year is a good salary for a middle-aged Civil servant, with thirty years service behind him. It is a very good salary for the managing clerk, of a big firm of solicitors, who works long hours and has endless responsibility. It is an astonishing salary for a branch bank-manager.

Yet compare the conditions of the family of the star-artisan with those of the families of the Civil servant, the lawyer, the banker. The latter send their children to schools of recognized standing, they are well-dressed and their women are well-dressed: they keep a servant or servants: they sit in reserved seats in theatres: they go for a regular holiday: they belong to clubs: they even buy or hire books. Their success in the art of daily living is out of sight, immeasurably, superior to the artisans. How do they achieve it? How does the artisan not achieve it?

It is the second of these two questions which at the moment is the most interesting.

In my opinion the British, as a race, have a tendency towards extravagance and waste which is not usually seen in continental peoples. The British understand how to make money, but they do not understand personal and family expenditure. In other words, compared with continental peoples, they do not properly know how to live. This, to my mind, is particularly true of the artisan-class. Its truth is well shown whenever the average artisan gets hold of a bit more money than he has been accustomed to. In the years preceding the great general slump of 1920 it was shown again and again in the extraordinary demand by certain prosperous sections of the class for ridiculous and perfectly futile luxuries.

The successful artisan too seldom distributes his expenditure with commonsense, for the reason that he does not appreciate what is really important and what is not. And further, if an increase of income happen to him, he does not, as a rule, either save or alter the general curve of his expenditure. Great blobs or excrescances appear on the curve—in the shape sometimes of pianos or gross food and drink or gambling—and the symmetry of the various spending departments of daily existence, always very imperfect, becomes more imperfect than ever.

This lack of due proportion is of course noticeable in the expenditure of some members of other classes. An extreme example of it may be seen in the budget of a rising young actress who has attained the second or third rank, who lives by herself, and whose total income reaches a thousand a year. Her home establishment is of the simplest and modestest, and compares very ill with the home of a fairly prosperous professional family whose total income is not greater than her own.

I have referred to the superiority of the continental artisan in the art of living. The French peasant farmer is generally cited in Britain as a model of economical living. But in my opinion the French of that and similar classes carry economy to the point of exaggeration. They work too hard and they pinch too much, with the result that though they live well so far as they try to live, they do not try to live enough. They are martyrs to work and to saving, and have developed ferocious instincts of avarice. I would prefer the example of the Austrian or German artisans.

The Englishman is improvident, but my charge against him would be that in spending he does not get a good return in health and comfort, for his money. To begin with he does not understand food values, nor take care that his women shall understand food values. It is not merely that his cookery (though now a little improving) counts among the most unappetising and execrable in the civilized world: it is that his diet is restricted, costly and wasteful. There are plenty of inexpensive foods that he refuses to touch, simply because he never has touched them. Ask him to try a salad, and see the face he pulls. His beverages are on the plane of his food.

As for clothes, and the moral and physical advantages of becoming and hygienic clothes, he recks naught of it. Nor does his wife. (But his daughters are happily teaching him a thing or two.) It is an infinite pity that we have no "national costume" in this island. Think of the ravishing effect of a Dutch milk-girl carrying round the milk of a morning, and consider how a similar phenomenon of dress would add to the amenities of existence in Britain!

As for the artisan's pleasures, he seems to like sitting in the dark at a cinema or in carbonic oxide gas in a public-house bar. But the simpler, healthier, cheaper family joys of the large open cafe or the beer-garden, with gay music therein, have not yet occurred to him.

It may be said that there is no adequate supply of the above named articles. I admit it. But there is no adequate supply because there is no demand. It may also be said that my criticisms would supply in some degree to classes above that of the artisan. I admit that too.

One other thing the artisan might get, if he had a taste for it (as most of his continental contemporaries have), in instruction in right deportment, than which few accomplishments contribute more to the dignity and smoothness of existence and to the best kind of democracy.

The papers are adorned with numberless advertisements of experts who offer to teach the art of craft of earning incomes. But I doubt if I have ever seen the advertisement of an expert who was ready to teach how to spend incomes. There is room here for a new profession. Nobody, and especially nobody of limited means, can obtain full value for his money in health and happiness, comfort and dignity, until he has grasped the principles of hygiene and diet, and learnt a little about markets, and about the comparative worth of materials, and about fashions and harmonious designs, and perceived the importance of manners. I have singled out the artisan class for criticism because another class so plainly surpasses it in the business of living: but every class is deficient. Mere ignorance is the matter with all of us.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Robert C. Hall, National advertising manager of The Phoenix (Arizona) Republican, says

THAT newspaper advertising is one of the best stabilizers any community has.

Where newspapers are missing the blood of business life coagulates. New York and London strikes, when newspapers were forced to suspend publication, have proved this. Business in those places stagnated, when advertising failed to bring business news to prospective shoppers.

Without confidence we have chaos. In government, finance, love, or dealings with one another—confidence must be there to establish the relation on a sound footing.

And that is one of the principle uses for advertising. It instills confidence in the product or service advertised. You know that a national concern cannot spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on a worthless product. Advertising a poor product is the boomerang that will wreck the business advertised.

Advertising has made it possible, in this day of shifting populations, to count on the same quality of a product wherever you go, for the same advertising that originally induced you to buy has established distribution elsewhere.

The housewife knows before she starts her shopping that advertising has stabilized values for her. She knows when she picks her bargains or products in the paper that she is getting the best on the market at the lowest price. The merchant dares not, even if he cared, misrepresent his merchandise.

So advertising stabilizes business by instilling confidence in buyer and seller. It stabilizes business by keeping volume of sales where it belongs. Thus advertising stabilizes the ride that everybody takes in the machine of modern business.

TRENT RIVER, July 31.—A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Lyla Ruttan (eldest daughter of Mr. John Ruttan and the late Mrs. Ruttan, a bride to be, whose marriage is arranged for Saturday at the United Church, Trent River), at the home of Mrs. John Scott on Wednesday night. There were about seventy friends and neighbors present. The evening was spent in a flower guessing contest and three prizes were given the winners. The gifts to the bride were many useful articles and were packed in a large clothes basket. The parcels opened and the names of the donors were read out, Miss Ruttan thanked all those present by a few words, after which all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," after which a delicious lunch was served.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JULY BUG.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"High ho hum!" said Uncle Wiggily one day, sort of singing the words which didn't mean anything. "This is the last day of July I see," and he looked at the evening paper which Charlie, the rooster boy, had just left on the front steps.

"Yes, it will be August tomorrow," said Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady wife of the bunny gentleman.

"And I suppose you will soon be thinking of going to the seashore, will you not?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was mending holes in some of the bunny children's stockings. As there were forty 'leven little boy and girl rabbits, to say nothing of Baby Bunty, who came now and then to visit at the hollow stump bungalow, Nurse Jane was kept very busy mending stockings.

"Yes, we shall go to the seashore in a few days," said Mr. Longears. "August is the month for the shore—it is such fine bathing then. How about my bathing suit?" he asked his wife.

"Yes, how about it?" she asked. "I told you to put it away carefully, so the moths wouldn't eat holes in it, but I'm sure they must have had a fine meal off it. I saw the suit in your room. You never put it in the camphor chest. I don't believe you can wear it any more."

"I'll go take a look," said Uncle Wiggily. "As it will be August as soon as the clock strikes twelve, I must get ready for the seashore. I'll see if the moths have eaten holes in my bathing suit."

And they had. Ah, so many holes! Uncle Wiggily's bathing s it looked like a colander that the kitchen sink washes berries in.

"Dear me" sighed the rabbit gentleman as he held the suit up toward the electric light so he could see the holes more plainly. "I shall need a new one. Well, my wife will have the laugh on me, for she warned me to put this away in the camphor chest."

One thing led to another when Uncle Wiggily began looking about his room to lay out the things he wanted to take to the shore with him. So it was almost midnight when he was ready to go to bed. He was wondering what color to choose for his new bathing suit, and wishing he did not have to spend the money for it, when all of a sudden, he heard a banging, thumping sound on his window and a little voice asked

"Is it 12 o'clock yet?"

"Just about midnight," answered the rabbit gentleman, wondering if this was one of the bad chaps trying to play a new trick. "But why do you ask, and who are you?"

"I am the July Bug," was the answer, "and I was supposed to get here before midnight, because, after twelve o'clock, it will not be July any more, but will be August. And then I would be an August Bug instead of a July Bug and I wouldn't like that. Please tell me if it is past midnight, when the new day begins."

Uncle Wiggily looked at his clock. The minute hand was past the mark of the X and two l letters, which make twelve. But the rabbit gentleman did not want the July Bug disappointed, so the bunny slyly turned back the hands of the clock a few minutes, making it five to twelve, instead of midnight. Then the rabbit opened the window and asked

"Can you tell time, July Bug?"

"Oh, yes," was the answer.

"Then look at my clock," said the bunny. And when the big, spotted bug had looked, he joyfully flapped his wings and buzzed

"Oh, goodie: I'm in time! It isn't twelve yet and I'm a July Bug instead of an August one. I'm just in time! I'm so glad you let me look at your clock!"

The July Bug was really an August Bug, but as long as he didn't know it he was happy and it made no difference to anyone else.

"Now, I want to do you a favor," said the Bug, who had not seen Uncle Wiggily turn back the clock hands. "You seem to be in trouble."

And when the bunny told about his bathing suit being full of moth holes, the July Bug buzzed

"Oh, I am wonderful at mending moth holes. I'll fix your suit!"

And the bug did, darning the holes with threads from the web of a spider so that the bunny's suit was soon as good as ever and he got ready to go down to the seashore the following week.

So this teaches us that we should always be on time, even if we are late, and if the pussy willow doesn't scratch the pansy's face so it can't go to the movies, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the lost ant.

Daily Short Story

CHLOROFORM, LOVE AND MURDER

(By Martha McCulloch-Williams.)

The dog was smallish. Wriggling happily through a gate left carelessly ajar, it ran after a pair a little way ahead—a stiff-moving woman dressed in new spring garb, as was the small lad clinging reluctantly to her hand. Heading the pair the black dog wheeled, put paws upon the child's shoulders, wagging his tail joyously, and making to lick his face. Instantly the woman jerked the child away, and planted a kick midway the dog's length—one so violent it sent the poor beast whirling into the roadway—and right in the path of a passing car.

Ensued tragedy—an agonized yelp, then piteous moaning whines. At souud of them a tall girl burst through the straggling hedge, ran and knelt by the dying animal, lips quivering but eyes shooting sparks. The other woman had halted—the child was crying bitterly—and said stiffly: "I'm right sorry—but you shouldn't have let your dog attack my baby."

"Attack!" the girl said hoarsely—her eyes adding violently: "You murderer!" But to a man who had sprung from the car, and came toward her, hat in hand, she said clearly: "Chloroform—please."

Half a minute later, she had her wish—the man luckily was a doctor, with an emergency case. As she held her hand for it he waved it away, saying softly: "Let me! I'm more experienced."

Neither man nor woman stirred till the last painful quiver stilled itself forever. Then the man fetched a robe, and said gently: "Let me take her—home for you."

Dr. John Woodley drove homeward with extra caution, considering his daze. He knew the murderer—Mrs. Quintus Moore, half-sister and guardian of the girl he had until half an hour back been wild to marry. She had seemed to him half fairy, half angel, whole tender woman—she had charm, poise, breeding, eke a comfortable portion. He need not be mercenary—he had a sound patrimony and a growing practice—so Annette's dower had appealed to him mainly as sign manual that she belonged. His wife must be a lady—that was imperative—he meant to go to the very top. Now he was all unsettled. She could not, of course, be held to answer for her sister's cruelty, yet blood told strongly. He had made up his mind to venture that very night—he was taking Annette to the Allison dance. Now—he had better look a little further before taking the leap.

Allison House dominated Briafield society. The crowd it held that evening was fine, fit and gay. Annette, swathed in canary yellow, was at the full bloom of her brunette beauty. Almost Dr. Woodley's misgivings vanished, as he held her close. Then in a pause for breath, she murmured liquidly: "Sorry to disappoint—but I can't show you the new girl—she sent a regret—at the last minute."

"Very, very naughty of her. She must have known I was all set to see her," Dr. Woodley bantered.

Annette giggled softly: "Wait till you hear her excuse. Her dog had died suddenly! Ever hear the like?" Of course we all know it's a tarry-diddle—she really had nothing to wear—so I can't blame her too much. I know her well—we were together a year at Pine Grove—but I haven't called on her since she came to the old Wheat place—inherits it, you know, and is going to stay all summer."

"What's her name? I've forgotten—if I ever knew," Woodley asked shamelessly. "Moira Wheat—a real story book name," Annette flung back.

Just then Bruce Baker cut in, crying mendaciously: "Dr. Woodley's wanted on the 'phone!" Then to Annette: "It's like I tell you—doctors are no good to their wives—you'd a heap better say 'Yes' to me."

Woodley was glad of Bruce's jest—in flight there was safety. Sudden madness fell upon him, sending him swiftly to the old Wheat place. A white moon riding high above the summer world showed him the house, dim, deserted. But he had a sense its owner was not far away. There was a white huddled mass low among the gravestones at the back of the blossomy garden—it stirred at his approach, and Moira said calmly: "You came because I was thinking of you so hard."

"What were you thinking?" Woodley demanded. "Something untellable," was the answer.

"Then—I'm bound to hear it," from the man. She shook her head undecidedly, then cried quickly: "It really doesn't matter—I was wondering if—if Annette Betridge will make you happy."

"I can tell you—she will not. She won't have the chance."

"Don't lie," sharply, suddenly standing up: "I knew before I came here you two were engaged."

"Then—you know more than I do—or ever will," from Woodley. "Yet it was in my mind—that I don't deny—until this morning——"

"She mustn't have to pay for her sister's cruelty—" Moira cried breathlessly.

"No! Only for her own," Woodley flung back. "I meant to be fair with her—quite fair—until she mocked your grief, measuring you no doubt by herself. It was that sent me here—to you."

"You ought not to have come—I am alone—except for my memories. Tess was—everything to me—friend, guide, guardian—I knew I was safe while she lived—" stopping and biting her lips.

"Moira—if only you'll let me, henceforth I will love you and guard you even better than Tess."

Which seems a mighty proper ending for the story.

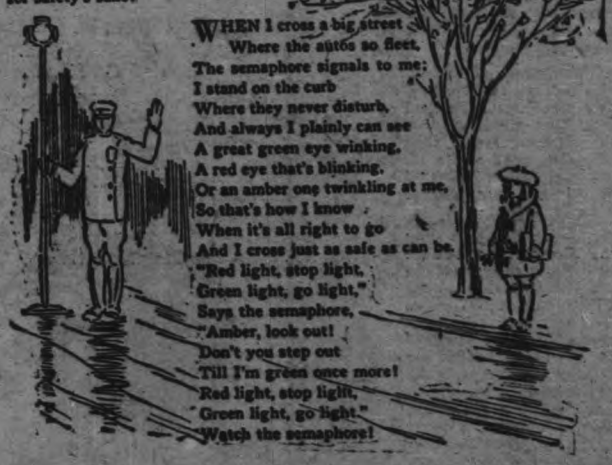
The Semaphore

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

WE pray for the safety of our children, and we are sad with those whose little folk suffer accidents, yet every day I see grownups grimly dragging children by the hand and taking deliberate chances in traffic. They blandly ignore the policeman or the semaphore, and hurry the child along. Traffic signals come often enough that it seems the minute gained disobeying the signal isn't worth the risk of having the child do the same thing when he's alone, and possibly losing out on the gamble. Why not stand on the curb and use the extra minute to teach the child? Say to him, "Now, you tell me when it's safe to go." The child will not only be proud of the confidence you place in him, but will learn to respect traffic signals which are put there to be obeyed for safety's sake!



WHEN I cross a big street
Where the autos so fleet,
The semaphore signals to me;
I stand on the curb
Where they never disturb,
And always I plainly can see
A great green eye winking,
A red eye that's blinking,
Or an amber one twinkling at me,
So that's how I know
When it's all right to go
And I cross just as safe as can be.
"Red light, stop light,
Green light, go light,"
Says the semaphore,
"Amber, look out!
Don't you step out
Till I'm green once more!
Red light, stop light,
Green light, go light."
Watch the semaphore!

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

WHERE SUNDAY IS THE BUSIEST DAY OF THE WEEK.

When Gocomeback, the wee Travel Elfin, saw Betty sitting on the steps of her porch, he had to laugh at the expression of her face.

"Oh, Gocomeback," Betty cried, jumping up and grabbing his hands, "I'm so glad you came along. My, this has been a miserable day. It has raiped so hard all morning I couldn't go to Sunday School, and now there's nothing to do this afternoon. I wish Sunday was like every other day."

"Goodness!" laughed Gocomeback merrily. "You'll have to go and see how some folks I know spend their Sundays. Maybe you'd like to go and live with them." Before Betty had a chance to answer, she found herself standing in a strange land at the foot of a beautiful mountain.

"Why, Gocomeback, where in the world are we anyway?" she whispered. "Isn't that a high mountain? What is it? See those funny little houses all over the cliffs."

"Just a minute," laughed the elfin. "One question at a time. In the first place, this is Sunday in Darjiling, India. That mountain towering above is the second highest mountain on the globe, Mt. Kunchinjunga, just about twenty-eight thousand feet high. It's beautiful with its snow-covered peaks. Here in Darjiling, the wealthy folks come to spend their Summers. They build their houses on every ledge that is large enough to hold a house."

"It all looks so beautiful," mused Betty. "My, what crowds over there! Let's go over and see them. I've never been here before. The fact is, I don't think I've ever heard of the place before."

Gocomeback led Betty over to the very center of the town. Here was their market place and it was crowded. Everyone, both men and women wore their hair in great long braids down the back. The women dressed much the same as the men only they wore their hair in two braids down their backs. The women were covered with gay colored beads and jewelry.

"Market day, which is always on Sunday," whispered the elfin, "is a great holiday here. The folks who live in the hills all come in to do their marketing and trading. You'll find almost everything in the stalls here, old bottles, umbrellas, tobacco, cotton and woolen goods, pigs, goats and poultry."

"It's just like fair time at home," said Betty. "Only we never have market or the fair open on Sunday. It seems funny, doesn't it, Gocomeback?"

"You're right," replied Gocomeback. "But I suppose all through the week days they have to work hard, and Sunday being the only day they can get away they come in to do their trading.

So you don't think you'd like to stay and be one of them Gocomeback laughed.

Betty closed her eyes and shook her head and when she opened them again she found herself sitting on her own steps all alone.

"That just goes to show one never knows when she is well off," she said. "I'm glad I live in Good Old America, where Sunday is a day of rest."

Carrick Of Toronto Leads In Somerville Match

C.G.E. LADIES BEAT SPORTS

Exhibition Game at Chemong Park Results in 7-5 Victory.

A CLOSE BATTLE.

One of the closest ladies' softball matches that has been played this year was that played by the C.G.E. and Sporting Girls at Chemong last night. The final score was 7 to 5 for the C.G.E. team, and the result was in doubt almost to the end of the game.

More consistent hitting with runners on the bases gave the C.G.E. Girls the victory. Both teams played an excellent game in the field but the losers were unable to connect solidly when there were runners on. On three occasions the last batter of the inning was struck out with runners on.

The C.G.E. hurler struck out nine of the opposing batters. Her opponent struck out only two but forced nine others to hit grounders to the box. The rather hilly ground made fielding by the other infielders more uncertain, but good work was done by Miss Johnston and Miss Plunkett.

Miss Plunkett led with the bat, having four hits in four tries, one of them a double. Dorothy Mortimer had three hits in four tries, including a double and a triple. Misses Fowler, Cranham, and Muir, with two hits each, led the losers.

The losers started well by scoring two runs in the second, while the winners were able to secure only one. In the next innings the scores were reversed, making the total three all. The C.G.E. scored one in the fourth and the Sporting Ladies got it back in the fifth. In the last half of the fifth the winners scored two, while each team scored one in the seventh. The lineups were:

Sporting Girls.. ....0210101— 5 9 4
C.G.E. ....0121201— 7 13 3

Umpires—E. Williams at the plate, W. Naish on bases.

The same two teams will play an exhibition game at Central Park on Tuesday evening of next week. Owing to the Canadian Ladies being ordered to play off a tie existing in their league in Toronto they will be unable to play the C.G.E. here next Wednesday, but will come later in the month.

PHILLIES BLOCK PIRATES RUSH

OPPORTUNE HITS.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press)—The Phillies, the Cardinals and Robins won yesterday's three National League games. The Cincinnati game at Boston was postponed.

Playing on their home grounds with Carlson hurling tight ball, the Philadelphia team stoped the Pirates of Pittsburgh, 6-1. Philadelphia hit opportunely and were assisted t o victory by Kremer's wildness. Cuyler saved the Corsairs from the goose-egg by smacking a homer. Cy Williams also hit for the circuit.

At the Polo Grounds, the Cards turned back the Giants, 5-2, when Rhem yielded but seven hits. Circuit drives by Flowers and Bell netted the visitors three runs. Bell hit safely in his 21st consective game.

Burleigh Grimes let the Chicago Cubs have six hits at Brooklyn and the Robins turned in the first game of a series with a score of 4-1.

In the training of the early-day pugilists in England particular care was taken to harden the skin of the hands, face and feet, and for this many peculiar decoctions were in use.

CLEVELAND WINS FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PHILLIES

Errors By Rommell and Hauser Allow Indians To Score.

THREE HOMERS.

Ruth's 32nd Homer Makes Three Hits and Two Runs.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press) — Babe Ruth knocked his 32nd homer over the St. Louis fence yesterday and made three hits and two runs. The Yanks won the hard-fought fight in eleventh when they scored twice to make it 10-8. Paschal for the Yanks clouted a circuit blow and Williams countered for the Browns.

Cleveland made it four straight yesterday by winning from Philadelphia 4 to 1. Errors by Rommel and Hauser allowed the Indians to score all their runs. Shaute held the Athletics to eleven hits which were well scattered.

At Chicago, Johnny Grabowski's three base hit started a batting rally in the ninth which gave the home team a 5-4 victory over Washington. The Sox played an uphill game driving Coveleskie off the mound in the eight only to have the rally checked by Marberry. Goslin smacked a circuit blow with a man on.

Boston made it three out of four from Detroit at the Michigan City yesterday, inning 4 to 3. Zahniser weakened after the seventh and Heimach finished. Heimach hauled himself out of a pretty bad hole in the ninth with two out and two on.

READING WINS TWO STRAIGHT OVER SKEETERS

New Jersey Loses Both Games By One Run.

DOUBLE HEADER.

Reading Heads Score By Seventh Inning Rally in Second.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press) —Toronto, Buffalo, Newark and Baltimore were all idle yesterday while Jersey City was losing twice to Reading, and Syracuse visited a defeat on Rochester.

The Skeeters, at Reading, lost both ends by single runs, scores 2-1 and 4-3. In the second contest Jersey City led up to the final inning, the seventh, when Reading came through with a three-run rally. The mound work of both teams was excellent, fifteen hits were donated in the first, and fourteen in the second.

Syracuse used up three Rochester pitchers for sixteen hits, only one more than Boyd yielded. But the Stars had them better bunched than Rochester for a 12-8 victory.

ROYAL COLORS WIN.

King's Stable Wins at Bibbury For First Time This Season.

On every occasion of a success in the royal colors on the turf in England the incident is received with acclamation. At Salisbury recently, that being the second day of the Bibury meeting, the Bibury Welter Handicap for gentlemen riders was won for King George by his eight-year-old horse, Bowood, ridden by A. Cottrill, son of the well known Lambourn trainer.

Satisfaction over the victory took on a deeper meaning and significance in the sense that it happened to be the first success in the royal colors since the present season started toward the end of March. Every one had deplored the want of success of the King's stable, "but there is no magic by which bad horses can be turned into good ones, if, indeed, they really are bad," says Hotspur, the international turf critic, in The London Telegraph. "Those serving his Majesty have had a thankless task, though they must have been aware that possibly no one more than the King had sympathized with their lack of good fortune.

"In the circumstances, what Bowood and his rider achieved was of unusual interest. It seems odd that the one to break the ice, as it were, should be about the oldest horse in the stables at Egerton House. Bowood has run races in the past, but there has been a long interval since his last win, while he has been made much use of as a lead work horse. We are particularly grateful to him now, and to his youthful rider, who, at 17 years of age, has not only ridden his first winner but that winner has carried the young man in the royal colors.

Another prominent golfer who will be at Montreal, is Ross (Sandy) Somerville, of London Hunt, the present amateur champion of Canada.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

They ain't been enough doing in local sporting circles since I last writ you to make the weekly budget very heavy, but as yrs. truly expects to be too busy dropping lines to the fish for the next 2 weeks to drop you any, I thought I better give you something now.

In the Central loop the Belleville gang has give notice that they ain't counted out yet by bumping Mister Daley's boys good and plenty in Belleville Wed. This Mister Cairns is a regular square meal for the Belleville hitters, and if he had nobody else to pitch to but Mister Gerow's crew his winning average would be about the size of his collar. Mister Cairns goes good against everybody else, but the Railroaders is generally poison to him.

The Petes is still a game and ½ ahead of Belleville, and after Sat. has but 4 games to play, so that with any luck Mister Johnston's boys should oughta th find themselves in the playoff with Kingston. And the ball the lads has been dishing up behind the gilt-edged throwing of Mister Heckman'll give Mister Daley a lot to think about in the playoff serious.

By the way, the Kingston pilot brings his highly-trained athaletes here next Sat. for their last scheduled visit, and the game oughta to be full of excitement. The last 2 times they was here the Ponies was flung for a total loss, and the Petes is hopeful of handing out the same treatment again next week.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, for the next 2 weeks I won't be looking at no sporting events except watching a fat Clevelander sitting in the stern of a skiff with 50 dollars worth of fishing tackle and a doubtful cigar, while a guide rows him hither and yon in search of the famous "muskies" that is said to infest these waters. Personally I been able to paddle around a good many times without having no maddened 'lunge jump into my canoe, and I ain't never had my boat loaded to the danger point with the fish I hauled in. But that ain't saying they ain't any muskies left. They must be, because nobody ain't taking many out. Anyway, Mac, you can gather from these lines that your chances of a fish dinner from what I catch is small, but they ain't no law against hoping. So go ahead and hope your head off.

If I think of anything up at Stoney Lake that I feel the customers oughta know I'll send you mebbe a postcard next week.

Meanwhile, so long.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

DONALD CARRICK OF TORONTO TWO UP AT THE END OF FIRST

Four Canadian Golf Professionals Met in Semi-Finals.

WESTERN TITLE.

MacWilliams Leading Cuthbert By Four in Championship Match.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31. (CP) —The stage is all set for two good golf battles to-day. Carson MacWilliams, Cargary, and Jack Cuthbert, Winnipeg met in one of the struggles and C. Ross Somerville, London, and Don Carrick, Toronto, made up the other. Four of the best golfers in the dominion, all holding titles of some nature, got away at 10 o'clock yesterday in the first lap of the semi-final of the western Canada amateur championship. Carrick was 2 up on Somerville, and MacWiliams 4 up on Cuthbert at tho end of 18 holes.

Carrick-Somerville.

Hole one 347 pards, par 4. Both players purpgsely put their drives down the tenth fairway, apparently to avoid the trees around the first They were both in the rough. Their second shots both hit the trap. Carrick played out with his niblick and was dead for a four. Somerville took his putter out and also laid his ball dead. The hole was halved.

Hole three, 440 yards, par 4. Somerville sliced to the edge of the woods. Carrick got a long drive down the middle about, 260 yards. Somerville chipped out of the bush. Carrick played a lovely mashie iron about ten feet from the pin. Somerville's pitch stopped dead about six feet inside Carrick's ball. Carrick's putt stopped about five inches from the cup near Somerville's line. Somerville failed to get past and Carrick got the hole 4 to 5. The match now all square.

Fourth hole—186 yards— the water hole—par 3— Carrick's tee shot found the rough at the left among the trees and Somerville just met the edge of the green. Both used mashie irons off the tee. Carrick put his approach about ten feet past the hole. Somerville was about three feet over. The hole was halved in four.

Fifth hole—380 yards, par 4—Carrick drove about 310 yards and Somerville was just about 310 yards and erville was just over the green out of the trap. Carrick put his approach about twenty feet to the right of the pin. Somerville's approach was about ten feet shot, Carrick hit back of the cup with his putt but did not hole. Somerville holed his putt to halve the hole in par four. Match still sure

—Sixth hole—par 4—Both were away to long drives nearly on to the green. Carrick's pitch hit the rise in the green and came back about three feet. Somerville was short on his approach. Somerville overran hole about two feet. Carrick laid his putt dead. Somerville holed his putt for a half in par four. Match still square.

Seventh hole—432 yards, par 4—Both drove straight down the middle about 270 yards, against the wind. Carrick was strong with his second and carried over back of the green into the rough. Somerville just rolled off the green with his second. Carrick's third bobbed over the bunker about twenty feet short of the pin. Somerville played a beautiful chip shot, which stopnd two feet past the hole. Carrick's putt stopped on the lip of the cup and Somerville holed his to go one up.

Eighth hole, 330 yards, par 4 — Somerville drove about 230 yards and Carrick at least 40 yards further. Somerville put his approach over the back of the green, while Carrick pitched to within ten feet of the pin. Somerville chipped to within six feet of the cup. Carrick holed his putt for a birdie three and the match was again squared.

Ninth hole, 380 yards, par 4 — Both drove again down the line well over 300 yards. Somerville was slightly in front. Carrick put his approach shot about forty feet to the right of the pin. Somerville was about 25 feet to the left. Carrick played a beautiful approach putt to within six inches of the hole Somerville was just about two feet short out holed his putt for four to remain all square at the turn.

Tenth hole, 405 yards, par 4.—Somerville hooked to the trees. Carrick's was a long carry to the left of the trees and pitched to the green twenty feet to the right of the pin. Carrick pitched to ten feet a right of the pin. Both were beautiful shots. Somerville holed a dandy putt for three. Carrick missed and Somerville took the hole with a birdie. Somerville one up.

Eleventh hole, 231 yards, par 4. —Somerville played his iron with the wind behind him just short of the green. Carrick also used an iron and pulled to left tee high but in the rough. Somerville over-ran the green on the second. Carrick pitched two feet short of the pin. Somerville rimmed the back of the cup with his third and was down in 4. Carrick won the hole with a birdie three.

Twelfth hole, 375 yards, par 4— Somerville had a slow drive which hit the top of the bunker on the left and rolled thirty yards past. Carrick sliced his drive over the trees on the right of the fairway and was in the rough of the 13th. Carrick lost his second shot and the ball dropped back into the trees. Somerville pitched his second to the left of the pin. Carrick pitched long and high and landed at the right of the green but the ball fell back into the trees. Carrick failed to get out and conceded Somerville the hole by picking up ball. Match all square.

The above match will be played at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday afternoon, commencing at 1 p.m. The following players have been chosen to represent the local club: C. Elliot, G. Monkman, C. Thorpe, J. Dunkerley, D. Stuart, D. Hammond, Dr. Hewitt, G. Coutts, J. Stratton, Massey-Cooke, Hamilton, Jr. Umpires, Dr. Young and Miles Hamilton.

The famous trotting horse Dexter did not begin his racing career until he was six years of age, Lady Thorne not until she was eight, and Goldsmith Maid, one of the greatest racers of her time, not until she was nine years old. More wonderful still, Goldsmith Maid had reached the advanced age of seventeen when she made her best record of a mile in 2:14.

BAILIEBORO NEWS

BAILIEBORO, July 30.—Messrs. C. Dawson, G. Bebee and R. Perrin filled their silos with sweet clover this week.

Mr. N. Brackenbridge raised his barn on Tuesday. There were fifty-eight present at the raising and a good afternoon's work was accomplished. Mr. Brackenbridge's barn was burned down some years ago and he is erecting a new one upon the old foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fletcher have moved into their new home on Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Byers and son of Brandon are the guests of Mr. Byers' sister, Mrs. John White.

Mr. John Dawson left for Detroit on Firday, where he expects to take a position. His wife and family will follow him shortly.

The sports of Bewdley are planning to hold a regatta there on August 4th.

Continuation School.

Although the ratepayers of South Monaghan have been anxior for years to have a continuation school built in their township, still their waiting and hoping has not been in vain. It has been decided to hire an extra teacher here and plans have been arranged to hold a continuation class of at least the first and second forms in high school work, in teh building formely occupied by the Bank of Toronto, until at least a new room can be erected at the school. It has been decided that the fourth grades and the first and second year students in continuation work will be taught in the bank building, and the junior grades will continue in the school house.

There are many students who have completed their public school education in this township and who are yet too young to leave, so that a large continuation class is looked for. This new plan will be invaluable to the ratepayers who have small children ready to enter high school as they will not be forced to send their children away from home now, until at least they are older.

Haying is almost finished in this district for this season, and in most cases the hay crop was good, averaging from two to three loads an acre.

The farmers are now busily engaged in getting their alsike cut, and it also promises to be a gor crop, although short in the straw the heads seem to be very full of seed.

Next week will find a large percentage of the fall wheat cut and stooked as it is ripening very fast.

ask him the question

FOR years automotive engineers had striven to find a simple and thorough method of car lubrication. Open oil holes had proved most destructive, since the dirt that collected in the oil holes was carried into the bearing with each squirt of oil—forming a destructive, grinding compound.

Grease cups replaced them, but the low pressure—not over 50 lbs.—exerted when the cups were turned down, threw them into the discard.

Alemite equipment revolutionized Automotive Lubrication. Here was a hand gun, easy to load, exerting up to a ton pressure that drove lubricant into and around the bearings, forcing out old, caked grease and leaving a film of lubricant around the bearing.

But—and this is important.

We found that the types of lubricant on the market would not do a real greasing job, even with this wonderful gun and the fitting to protect the bearing against the dirt of the road. Cheap greases, composed of "filler", jammed and clogged the bearing.

Now, there is a perfectly good reason for this—Lubricant is sold by the pound. Competition forced manufacturers to use some substance, other than oil, to give their product bulk and weight in order to reduce manufacturing costs and outsell competitors. Whether your car suffered did not enter into the matter. What was the result? Hard grease caked in the bearings, "grease" that did not lubricate, and finally heavy repair bills.

We had to come to it. Those little "Imps of Friction" had to be driven out. We made our own lubricant—All Oil—no filler. It does not carbonize. It is impossible to separate its ingredients by pressure and, since there is no solid matter or moisture in it, it will not clog the bearings.

Protect yourself and your car by asking your Service Station for Genuine Alemite Lubricant. Don't let him use anything else. Be sure that he uses GENUINE ALEMITE LUBRICANT in the Alemite Gun. If he does not use GENUINE ALEMITE LUBRICANT there is a Service Station down the street that does.

Carrick Of Toronto Leads In Somerville Match

C.G.E. LADIES BEAT SPORTS

Exhibition Game at Chemong Park Results in 7-5 Victory.

A CLOSE BATTLE.

One of the closest ladies' softball matches that has been played this year was that played by the C.G.E. and Sporting Girls at Chemong last night. The final score was 7 to 5 for the C.G.E. team, and the result was in doubt almost to the end of the game.

More consistent hitting with runners on the bases gave the C.G.E. Girls the victory. Both teams played an excellent game in the field but the losers were unable to connect solidly when there were runners on. On three occasions the last batter of the inning was struck out with runners on.

The C.G.E. hurler struck out nine of the opposing batters. Her opponent struck out only two but forced nine others to hit grounders to the box. The rather hilly ground made fielding by the other infielders more uncertain, but good work was done by Miss Johnston and Miss Plunkett.

Miss Plunkett led with the bat, having four hits in four tries, one of them a double. Dorothy Mortimer had three hits in four tries, including a double and a triple. Misses Fowler, Cranham, and Muir, with two hits each, led the losers.

The losers started well by scoring two runs in the second, while the winners were able to secure only one. In the next innings the scores were reversed, making the total three all. The C.G.E. scored one in the fourth and the Sporting Ladies got it back in the fifth. In the last half of the fifth the winners scored two, while each team scored one in the seventh. The lineups were:

Sporting Girls.. ....0210101— 5 9 4
C.G.E. ....0121201— 7 13 3

Umpires—E. Williams at the plate, W. Naish on bases.

The same two teams will play an exhibition game at Central Park on Tuesday evening of next week. Owing to the Canadian Ladies being ordered to play off a tie existing in their league in Toronto they will be unable to play the C.G.E. here next Wednesday, but will come later in the month.

PHILLIES BLOCK PIRATES RUSH

OPPORTUNE HITS.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press)—The Phillies, the Cardinals and Robins won yesterday's three National League games. The Cincinnati game at Boston was postponed.

Playing on their home grounds with Carlson hurling tight ball, the Philadelphia team stoped the Pirates of Pittsburgh, 6-1. Philadelphia hit opportunely and were assisted t o victory by Kremer's wildness. Cuyler saved the Corsairs from the goose-egg by smacking a homer. Cy Williams also hit for the circuit.

At the Polo Grounds, the Cards turned back the Giants, 5-2, when Rhem yielded but seven hits. Circuit drives by Flowers and Bell netted the visitors three runs. Bell hit safely in his 21st consective game.

Burleigh Grimes let the Chicago Cubs have six hits at Brooklyn and the Robins turned in the first game of a series with a score of 4-1.

In the training of the early-day pugilists in England particular care was taken to harden the skin of the hands, face and feet, and for this many peculiar decoctions were in use.

CLEVELAND WINS FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PHILLIES

Errors By Rommell and Hauser-Allow Indians To Score.

THREE HOMERS.

Ruth's 32nd Homer Makes Three Hits and Two Runs.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press) — Babe Ruth knocked his 32nd homer over the St. Louis fence yesterday and made three hits and two runs. The Yanks won the hard-fought fight in eleventh when they scored twice to make it 10-8. Paschal for the Yanks clouted a circuit blow and Williams countered for the Browns.

Cleveland made it four straight yesterday by winning from Philadelphia 4 to 1. Errors by Rommel and Hauser allowed the Indians to score all their runs. Shaute held the Athletics to eleven hits which were well scattered.

At Chicago, Johnny Grabowski's three base hit started a batting rally in the ninth which gave the home team a 5-4 victory over Washington. The Sox played an uphill game driving Coveleskie off the mound in the eight only to have the rally checked by Marberry. Goslin smacked a circuit blow with a man on.

Boston made it three out of four from Detroit at the Michigan City yesterday, inning 4 to 3. Zahniser weakened after the seventh and Heimach finished. Heimach hauled himself out of a pretty bad hole in the ninth with two out and two on.

READING WINS TWO STRAIGHT OVER SKEETERS

New Jersey Loses Both Games By One Run.

DOUBLE HEADER.

Reading Heads Score By Seventh Inning Rally in Second.

NEW YORK, July 31 (Canadian Press) —Toronto, Buffalo, Nowark and Baltimore were all idle yesterday while Jersey City was losing twice to Reading, and Syracuse visited a defeat on Rochester.

The Skeeters, at Reading, lost both ends by single runs, scores 2-1 and 4-3. In the second contest Jersey City led up to the final inning, the seventh, when Reading came through with a three-run rally. The mound work of both teams was excellent, fifteen hits were donated in the first, and fourteen in the second.

Syracuse used up three Rochester pitchers for sixteen hits, only one more than Boyd yielded. But the Stars had them better bunched than Rochester for a 12-8 victory.

ROYAL COLORS WIN.

King's Stable Wins at Bibbury For First Time This Season.

On every occasion of a success in the royal colors on the turf in England the incident is received with acclamation. At Salisbury recently, that being the second day of the Bibury meeting, the Bibury Welter Handicap for gentlemen riders was won for King George by his eight-year-old horse, Bowood, ridden by A. Cottrill, son of the well known Lambourn trainer.

Satisfaction over the victory took on a deeper meaning and significance in the sense that it happened to be the first success in the royal colors since the present season started toward the end of March. Every one had deplored the want of success of the King's stable, "but there is no magic by which bad horses can be turned into good ones, if, indeed, they really are bad," says Hotspur, the international turf critic, in The London Telegraph. "Those serving his Majesty have had a thankless task, though they must have been aware that possibly no one more than the King had sympathized with their lack of good fortune.

"In the circumstances, what Bowood and his rider achieved was of unusual interest. It seems odd that the one to break the ice, as it were, should be about the oldest horse in the stables at Egerton House. Bowood has run races in the past, but there has been a long interval since his last win, while he has been made much use of as a lead work horse. We are particularly grateful to him now, and to his youthful rider, who, at 17 years of age, has not only ridden his first winner but that winner has carried the young man in the royal colors.

Another prominent golfer who will be at Montreal, is Ross (Sandy) Somerville, of London Hunt, the present amateur champion of Canada.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

They ain't been enough doing in local sporting circles since I last writ you to make the weekly budget very heavy, but as yrs. truly expects to be too busy dropping lines to the fish for the next 2 weeks to drop you any, I thought I better give you something now.

In the Central loop the Belleville gang has give notice that they ain't counted out yet by bumping Mister Daley's boys good and plenty in Belleville Wed. This Mister Cairns is a regular square meal for the Belleville hitters, and if he had nobody else to pitch to but Mister Gerow's crew his winning average would be about the size of his collar. Mister Cairns goes good against everybody else, but the Railroaders is generally poison to him.

The Petes is still a game and ½ ahead of Belleville, and after Sat. has but 4 games to play, so that with any luck Mister Johnston's boys should oughta th find themselves in the playoff with Kingston. And the ball the lads has been dishing up behind the gilt-edged throwing of Mister Heckman'll give Mister Daley a lot to think about in the playoff serious.

By the way, the Kingston pilot brings his highly-trained athaletes here next Sat. for their last scheduled visit, and the game oughta to be full of excitement. The last 2 times they was here the Ponies was flung for a total loss, and the Petes is hopeful of handing out the same treatment again next week.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, for the next 2 weeks I won't be looking at no sporting events except watching a fat Clevelander sitting in the stern of a skiff with 50 dollars worth of fishing tackle and a doubtful cigar, while a guide rows him hither and yon in search of the famous "muskies" that is said to infest these waters. Personally I been able to paddle around a good many times without having no maddened 'lunge jump into my canoe, and I ain't never had my boat loaded to the danger point with the fish I hauled in. But that ain't saying they ain't any muskies left. They must be, because nobody ain't taking many out. Anyway, Mac, you can gather from these lines that your chances of a fish dinner from what I catch is small, but they ain't no law against hoping. So go ahead and hope your head off.

If I think of anything up at Stoney Lake that I feel the customers oughta know I'll send you mebbe a postcard next week.

Meanwhile, so long.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

DONALD CARRICK OF TORONTO TWO UP AT THE END OF FIRST

Four Canadian Golf Professionals Met in Semi-Finals.

WESTERN TITLE.

MacWilliams Leading Cuthbert By Four in Championship Match.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31. (CP) —The stage is all set for two good golf battles to-day. Carson MacWilliams, Cargary, and Jack Cuthbert, Winnipeg met in one of the struggles and C. Ross Somerville, London, and Don Carrick, Toronto, made up the other. Four of the best golfers in the dominion, all holding titles of some nature, got away at 10 o'clock yesterday in the first lap of the semi-final of the western Canada amateur championship. Carrick was 3 up on Somerville, and MacWiliams 4 up on Cuthbert at tho end of 18 holes.

Carrick-Somerville.

Hole one 347 pards, par 4. Both players purpqsely put their drives down the tenth fairway, apparently to avoid the trees around the first They were both in the rough. Their second shots both hit the trap. Carrick played out with his niblick and was dead for a four. Somerville took his putter out and also laid his ball dead. The hole was halved.

Hole three, 440 yards, par 4. Somerville sliced to the edge of the woods. Carrick got a long drive down the middle about, 260 yards. Somerville chipped out of the bush. Carrick played a lovely mashie iron about ten feet from the pin. Somerville's pitch stopped dead about six feet inside Carrick's ball. Carrick's putt stopped about five inches from the cup near Somerville's ilne. Somerville failed to get past and Carrick got the hole 4 to 5. The match now all square.

Fourth hole—186 yards— the water hole—par 3— Carrick's tee shot found the rough at the left among the trees and Somerville just met the edge of the green. Both used mashie irons off the tee. Carrick put his approach about ten feet past the hole. Somerville was about three feet over. The hole was halved in four.

Fifth hole—380 yards, par 4—Carrick drove about 310 yards and Somerville was just about 310 yards and erville was just over the green out of the trap. Carrick put his approach about twenty feet to the right of the pin. Somerville's approach was about ten feet shot, Carrick hit back of the cup with his putt but did not hole. Somerville holed his putt to halve the hole in par four. Match still sure

—Sixth hole—par 4—Both were away to long drives nearly on to the green. Carrick's pitch hit the rise in the green and came back about three feet. Somerville was short on his approach. Somerville overran hole about two feet. Carrick laid his putt dead. Somerville holed his putt for a half in par four. Match still square.

Seventh hole—432 yards, par 4—Both drove straight down the middle about 270 yards, against the wind. Carrick was strong with his second and carried over back of the green into the rough. Somerville just rolled off the green with his second. Carrick's third bobbed over the bunker about twenty feet short of the pin. Somerville played a beautiful chip shot, which stopnd two feet past the hole. Carrick's putt stopped on the lip of the cup and Somerville holed his to go one up.

Eighth hole, 330 yards, par 4 — Somerville drove about 230 yards and Carrick at least 40 yards further. Somerville put his approach over the back of the green, while Carrick pitched to within ten feet of the pin. Somerville chipped to within six feet of the cup. Carrick holed his putt for a birdie three and the match was again squared.

Ninth hole, 380 yards, par 4 — Both drove again down the line well over 300 yards. Somerville was slightly in front. Carrick put his approach shot about forty feet to the right of the pin. Somerville was about 25 feet to the left. Carrick played a beautiful approach putt to within six inches of the hole Somerville was just about two feet short out holed his putt for four to remain all square at the turn.

Tenth hole, 405 yards, par 4.—Somerville hooked to the trees. Carrick's was a long carry to the left of the trees and pitched to the green twenty feet to the right of the pin. Carrick pitched to ten feet a right of the pin. Both were beautiful shots. Somerville holed a dandy putt for three. Carrick missed and Somerville took the hole with a birdie. Somerville one up.

Eleventh hole, 231 yards, par 4. —Somerville played his iron with the wind behind him just short of the green. Carrick also used an iron and pulled to left tee high but in the rough. Somerville over-ran the green on the second. Carrick pitched two feet short of the pin. Somerville rimmed the back of the cup with his third and was down in 4. Carrick won the hole with a birdie three.

Twelfth hole, 375 yards, par 4— Somerville had a low drive which hit the top of the bunker on the left and rolled thirty yards past. Carrick sliced his drive over the trees on the right of the fairway and was in the rough of the 13th. Carrick lost his second shot and the ball dropped back into the trees. Somerville pitched his second to the left of the pin. Carrick pitched long and high and landed at the right of the green but the ball fell back into the trees. Carrick failed to get out and conceded Somerville the hole by picking up ball. Match all square.

THE WEATHER.

Just take the weather as it comes,
and never make a fuss,
Don't you suppose the good Lord knows just what is best for us?
Then don't find fault on summer days because it is too hot,
Make up your mind to take what comes—you'll find it helps a lot.

You can't improve on things, you know, no matter how you fret;
Fussing won't make a hot day cool
or make a dry spell wet;
In fact, the more you fuss the more unhappy you will be
And nobody'll admire you—take that, now, straight from me.

We need all sorts of weather, and we're going to get it, too;
The programme won't be changed
at all, not even to please you.
So make the best of what you have
and do not fret and fuss,
And you can make a humid day seem quite salubrious.

WEDDING BELLS.

TRUMPER—OSBORN.

The United Church, Port Hope, was the scene of a pretty wedding, the contracting parties being George Albert Trumper, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Trumper, Cavan street, Port Hope, and Miss Winnifred Florence Osborn, Dale. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. F. W. Anderson.

The bride, who was give in marriage by her father, looked charming in her wedding gown of powder blue crepe with trimmings of white and hat with trimmings of powder blue. The bridesmaid, Miss Elsie M. Brooks of Cobourg, wore a dainty gown of peach crepe de chine with picture hat. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Frank A. Beatty of Port Hope. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bridal party left for the bride's home for the wedding luncheon, which was followed by a dance. Mr. and Mrs. Trumper will spend a brief honeymoon at western points before taking up residence at Port Hope.—Mail and Empire.

THOMSON—ERSKINE.

On Wednesday, July 28, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at Monkton, when Edith Harris, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Erskine, was united in marriage to Rev. E. A. Thomson of Elora. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, father of the groom, assisted by the Rev. T. O. Miller, of Knox Presbyterian church, Monkton. The bride who was given away by her father, looked lovely in a gown of ivory satin crepe trimmed with rosepoint lace, and wore a long embroidered veil caught with a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of sunset roses and lily of the valley. Miss Lyall Erskine was her sisters bridesmaid, wearing a French gown of crystal beaded chiffon over rose taffeta and carrying pink roses and baby's breath. Miss Ruth Thomson of Guelph, niece of the groom, made a sweet little flower girl. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. W. C. Thomson of Toronto. Mr. J. M. Erskine, Atwood, played the wedding music. Following the ceremony luncheon was served, after which the bride and groom left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a grey georgette dress, with hat and shoes to match, and French black coat with ermine trimming. On their return they will reside at "The Manse," Elora. — Mail and Empire.

McIVOR—MORAN.

A wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George McIvor, Buchanan street, Cobourg, when Miss Beatrice Mable, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Moran, became the bride of Mr. Henry McIvor, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. McIvor. Rev. Dr. A. Brown officiated. The bride was becomingly attired in powder blue crepe with hat to match. Miss S. Tait, of Toronto, was bridesmaid. She was gowned in apricot silk with matching hat. The bridegroom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Fred McIvor. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. McIvor will reside in Cobourg.—Mail and Empire.

BASSETT—COX

A pretty house wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Digby Cox, Tremaine street, Cobourg, when the Rev. J. N. Norton united in marriage Miss Violet Georgina Cox and Mr. Clifford L. Bassett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bassett, of Port Hope. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of summer bloom and ferns. The bride was assisted by Miss Amelia E. Scott, while the bridegroom was supported by Mr. John W. Holgate, of Cobourg. Following the wedding luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Bassett left for a trip to Toronto and points west. Upon their return they wil reside in Port Hope. —Mail and Empire.

AT FORD PLANT

Has Wing Spread of 22 Feet and Fuselage Length of 15 Feet.

WEIGHS 350 POUNDS.

DETROIT, July 31. — Henry Ford yesterday showed visitors the latest product of Ford Laboratories—an "air flivver," a tiny monoplane that may be forerunner of a wasp fleet that will drone along the airways as commonly as Ford automobiles move about roads. It has been successfully tested at Ford Airport.

The plane's wing spread of 22 feet, and its fuselage length of 15 feet, made it one of the smallest single-seaters ever flown. Equipped with a three-cylinder Anzani air-cooled motor of French make, the plane weighs only 350 pounds. A two-cylinder Ford-built motor, which will replace the present 125-pound horsepower plant, will reduce the weight to approximately 310 pounds, Ford officials say.

Building Shrouded In Secrecy.

The building of the plane, a task assigned to three trusted employees working in a locked room, was shrouded in secrecy. Its first appearance, when it was brought out to be tested, came as a surprise, been installed, was placed on them.

Several days ago, while Henry and Edsel Ford watched, the baby plane was assembled on the flying field. The wings, two ten-foot panels, were brought in an automobile and placed on the ground. The fuselage, in which the motor and near the bottom of the fuselage, and a few bolts made fast.

A pilot climbed into one cockpit and a mechanic spun the propeller. The engine sputtered and burst into a roar and the craft moved down the field and mounted into the air. It circled about for several minutes before descending.

Credit For Young Engineer.

Otto Kappen, a young engineer employed in the Ford experimental laboratory, is given credit for designing the plane, a task to which he devoted the greater part of his time for several months. Kappen was born in Germany, received his education in eastern technical schools and came to the Ford Company last fall .He is 26 years old.

The plane, built of fabric stretched over a metal frame, has a total sustaining surface area of 97 square feet. Wings are mounted near the bottom of the fuselage, and the pilot sits above them, To prevent the wings touching the ground, landing wheels are mounted near the wing tip, each seven feet from fuselage. The motor develops 36 horse power at 1,600 revolutions a minute and spins a propeller six feet in length. The estimated maximum speed is 85 miles an hour, and the landing speed 30. It is believed the machine will travel from 25 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Further tests to ascertain the efficiency of the plane will be made within a few days.

OBITUARY.

MONA SULLIVAN.

The death occurred yesterday of Miss Mona Sullivan of Park Street, South, in the City of Hamilton. The remains wil reach this city tonight on the local C. P. R. tram. The funeral will take place in this city at a later date.

JESSE TRENT.

The death occurred this morning of Jesse Trent in his 63rd year after a short illness. The late Mr. Trent was born in Dorset, England, and came to this country 15 years ago and has been in the employ of William Thompson, Lakehurst, most of the time since.

The funeral will take place on Monday at 2 o'clock from the funeral chapel of D. Belleghem and Sons, 188 Hunter street. Interment in Little Lake cemetery.

ALBERT E. TODD

Albert E. Todd, who died yesterday in this city, at the age of 46, was a native of Montreal. He was a former member of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association and a player in the serior lacrosse team. He was employed as a clerk with the De Laval Company and came to Peterborough when the cream separator factory was transferred here. During his residence in this city he was greatly interested in sporting activities, organizing several championship teams in the De Laval and managing a lacrosse club.

Surviving him are his wife, four sons, John, Fred, Albert and Robert; three daughters, Muriel, Margaret, and Thelma and one brother, Fred of Montreal.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 188 Lake Street, on Monday at 2 o'clock, Rev. N. R. McLeod officiating.

RICH MEN GAIN BY ROBB BUDGET SAYS MEIGHEN

But Tax on Poor Man's Clothes Has Been Increased, He Adds.

DIVIDENDS TAXED.

This Will Tend To Contract Investments in Dominion, Is His Claim.

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., July 31 (Canadian Press).—"Some mysterious virtue semed to have been attached to the Robb Budget," said Mr. Meighen, during the course of a speech last night. "I do not know what it is. I know that Budget reduced taxation. Nobody would dispute that, although not as much as they say. But I ask you, do you not think we should be able to reduce war taxes eight years after the war is over? Do you know any country that waited so long as we did? I do not know that there is any great credit in reducing taxes until you are sure that you are not doing it at the expense of your debt. We are not sure of that yet."

Rich Men Aided.

He was willing, he said, frankly to admit that the lower salaried man got a reduction in income tax under the Robb Budget and he was glad to see it. But the tax on dividends from investments in Canadian corporations was increased by this means. Millions more would be taken from those investments in Canadian corporations and that would tend to contract investments in Canada. Moreover those that got the biggest tax reduction under the Robb Budget were the rich men.

"The higher up you go the bigger the reduction," said Mr. Meighen.

His own Government, Mr. Meighen said, had taxed the rich man every dollar it could without driving the rich man and his taxes to the United States. The King Government had reduced taxes on the rich men until there were some in Canada whose income tax had been reduced by as much as $250,000.

"While they have reduced the tax on the very rich," declared Mr. Meighen, "they have added to the tax on the poor man's clothes by 66 2-3 per cent."

Stresses Moderate Protection

Mr. Meighen pressed his policy of moderate protection, urging that while the farmer should take all the advantage he could of the outside market, he should bear in mind the importance of the home market. He compared the prosperity of the United States since the war with the closing of factories in Canada, while the United States had been spending millions to keep people out Mr. Meighen pursued. Canada had been spending millions to cajole them in.

TWO CITY TAILORS LODGED IN CELLS

M. J. Hickey and Godfrey Villeneuve Arrested By License Inspector.

Two local tailors are in the cells to-day, one of them facing a charge of being intoxicated in a public place, and the other who was in his car when found facing two charges, one for being drunk while in charge of a car and a second charge of having liquor in an unlawful place.

License Inspector Joseph Stewart told The Examiner that he received a telephone call about 6 o'clock this morning saying that two men were on the Lakefield road in an intoxicated condition.

Mr. Stewart started out for Lakefield and on nearing the filtration plant met a car coming toward Peterborough. He stopped the car and found Godfrey Villeneuve in the read seat. His face was bleeding and his clothes were covered with blood, Mr. Stewart said. He brought him into town and lodged him at the police station. He again started out the Lakefield road, he said, and met a man coming toward town who told him that a drunk man had passed him not many minutes before and that he had turned on to the Buckhorn road. Mr. Stewart went on to Selwyn and found that the man had not been there, having apparently turned off the road. On going on to Lakefield he found his man sitting in the car outside a garage in a dazed condition suffering from head cuts and a wound in the arm that required four stitches to close it. He called in Dr. J. R. Fraser, who dressed the wounds.

On making enquiries from the garage men Mr. Stewart learned that they had received a call to go to a car which was disabled close to the House of Refuge. When they got there, Mr. Stewart said, they found M. J. Hickey lying beside the car, covered with blood. The windshield of the car was broken and to all appearances he had been pitched through it when the car struck the post which brought it to grief.

The men also informed Mr. Stewart that they had seen Hickey throw a bottle away and upon Mr. Stewart searching in the neighborhood he found a quart bottle with a little whiskey in the bottom, also a six-ounce bottle with half the contents gone. Later Mr. Stewart removed Hickey to Peterboro and lodged him in the cells at the police station.

THE NEW ALL STEEL BODY OF THE ESSEX COACH

Striking Features of Construction—Hudson Organization's Wonderful Plant.

A new all-steel body of radically improved design is the feature of the Essex coach, announced and placed on display to-day by the BREWER MOTOR CO. SALES and F. C. WEBER., the Hudson-Essex dealers, this city. The real story of this new car is said to be the story of a $10,000,000 plant which Hudson Motor Car Co. erected especially for the building of these bodies High spots of this new plant are:—

1. In its body building has become for the first time in the industry primarily a steel-stamping process.

2. For the first time, also, bodies are manufactured on the 100 per cent progressive-assembly system which has previously effected such remarkable saving in motors, chassis and other automobile units.

3. The plant is said by Hudson officials to be the largest single body-building unit in the world.

4. It has the largest battery of steel-stamping presses and the largest enamel-baking ovens in the world, by far.

A Wonderful Plant.

"The Hudson organization, a year ago, completed the design of this new body and laid out a program for a building to construct it.' said Mr. Brewer." In his general expansion program, $10,000,000 has been invested in the body plant, and $5,000,000 additional in other manufacturing departments to bring them up to the capactiy which it is expected this new car will call for. On the very day determined on a year ago, the plant was complete and a schedule of 150 new all-steel bodies was put through, as against a task of 100 bodies which had been originally laid out.

"While the new bodies are radically different in construction from anything known up to the present, they retain generally the characteristic Essex lines; however, the rear quarters have been somewhat curved and the whole body is two inches lower. The finish is a lustrous black enamel, baked on in the 600 foot ovens at high temperatures which assure a long life and a glossy appearance for the life of the car. A bit of colour is added by a nickled radiator, and by a double striping around the belt line.

"Possibly the most striking feature of the new body is its unusual rigidity of construction. By the use of steel sills, all lines of weakness between the chassis and the body has been eliminated, in fact, the body and chassis are really one. The steel sill itself is 60 per cent. stronger than the wooden member it displaced.

"Tested over the roughest stretches of road to be found around Detroit, the body has been found to be absolutely free from squeaks and rattles. The car was repeatedly run up on curbs of various heights, the doors tried and found to open and close freely. A 200-pound man was placed on each door as a final test of the stability of the body, and the car was driven over several hundred yards of rough road. The doors did not sag in the least, fitting just as perfectly after this rigid test as before. This remarkable rigidity in the body is gained by the scientific sectioning of the pressed steel from which the body is made. All of the pressed steel parts are formed with not only ease of assembly in view, but also from the standpoint of rigidity.

"The door is an interesting and typical example of the construction of this body. Its rigidity is gained by box sections formed by the presses. After the assembly of the door parts are complete, the entire door is placed in a 130-ton hydraulic press for a final operation that leaves no doubt about the correctness of the door shape. A piano type of hinge, entirely new idea in automobile practice, suports the door. Besides the remarkable gain in strength and accuracy, this type of hinge brings about a marked improvement in appearance

The Plant.

Has a normal capacity of 1500 bodies per 9 hour day. In true progressive fashion, the raw material enters on the lowest floor where the presses are located and from that point moving along until the bodies leave the final assembly complete. All the main and sub-assembly work is done on moving conveyers which is the first time this has been completely accomplished in an automobile body building plant.

"As an instance of quality, the steel sheets used in the bodies, doors and fenders are of the same quality and same weight as is used in $4,000 sedans—it is described by Hudson officials as the best obtainable. One economy of this is that the sheets stand up to the action of the presses with practically no breakage. Scraps of steel left over from the stamping of large parts are used in making smaller units, so that final waste is less than 1 per cent.— which is sold as scrap metal.

"Unlike practice in previous steel bodies, the parts are not welded together, but are bolted and riveted by an entirely new and exclusive process. The rigidity gained from this method has been proved by the most severe road tests in which there has been no tendency whatsoever for the bodies to loosen up. The elimination of spot welding in all points of strain is said to eliminate the possibility of loose joints.

"As another economy take the manufacture of the windshields. Even the glass cutting is progressive, the plates passing over a series of grinding wheels. The waste has been cut to almost nothing, the glass is accurately cut and polished and all at small expense. The windshield hinge is formed by rolling over the edge of the stamping which forms the top of the windshield frame and similarly rolling up the flange on the windshield frame support. This leaves, no joints into which rain can leak and no chance for rattles to develop. The windshield and all windows are genuine plate glass.

"Most of the ingenious economies which have been introduced are grounded fundamentally on volume. The ideas are original, and in many cases far ahead of current practice; but their use is of course dependent upon large volume. The entire unit from the raw material to final inspection is an outstanding study in economy, with the sole object of making the finest possible body at the most favorable price.

"The whole interior of the car is exceptionaly neat and trim — the dash well arranged and pleasing. The door handle and lock are combined in one unit. The steering wheel is solid walnut mounted on a cast aluminum spider. The windshield wiper switch is on the dash and forms part of an attractive instrument board arrangement.

"These bodies are mounted on the standard Essex chassis, with no mechanical changes whatever. Standard equipment includes shutters and motometer, stop-light, electric windshield wiper, rear vision mirror and tire carrier. The price announced is $960, f. o. b., Windsor, duty only paid."

CAR OVERTURNS.

Bethany Man Has Narrow Escape From Serious Injuries.

BETHANY, July 31. — While driving to work on Friday morning Tom Ward met with an accident which might have been serious. He was driving his car along the highway in front of T. J. Jackson's property when a back tire blew out. Not being very familiar with the car he didn't put on the brake but tried to get the car back to the centre of the road with the result that it turned over into the ditch which was a level one, with him under the machine.

The windshield was smashed, a front wheel broken of and the top destroyed.

Mr. Ward escaped uninjured although somewhat shaken up.

POINCARE WINS FINAL VICTORY FOR CABINET FINANCIAL BILL BY BIG MAJORITY IN CHAMBER

In One Day Sitting French Premier Rushes Through the National Council, His First Great Measure For Financial Reform.

BANK RATE GOES UP SEVEN PER CENT.

What Is To Be Done Now Is To Encourage the Return of Exported Capital Says Premier.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—In a one-day sitting, just one week after the constitution of his Cabinet of National Union, Premier Poincare has rushed through the Chamber his first great measure of financial reform. Once Saturday during the discussion he obtained a maorijty of 380 to 150, and the measure finally passed by 295 to 188.

Thus to the revenue of the country there will be added 2,500,000,000 francs this year and 9,000,000,000 next year. Such an increase of taxation could not have been considered possible a month or even a fortnight ago, and certainly would not have been then accepted by the Chamber.

To M. Poincare's success the dramatic fall of the franc two weeks ago, the failure of MM. Briand and Caillaux to hold a majority, and the failure of the Radicals to make a Government have all contributed. But the main credit for Saturday's success must go to M. Poincare himself. In getting the Chamber into a mood of national unity and in getting the country to realize that everything was not lost, he has done more than any other man could have done. His difficulties are not over but the momentum of Saturday's success will inevitably carry him through many weeks and over many hard obstacles yet to be faced.

Tells Deputies Cost of Delay.

During the morning session the Premier himself made a clear, emphatic statement in defense of the measure he had introduced. Every day's delay in its passage, he said, would cost the State 16,000,000 francs ($40,000,000), and he promised that the increased taxation incorporated in his bill would be the maximum imposed on the taxpayer.

"Balancing the budget was the first step and that has been accomplished," he went on. "What has now to be done is to lighten the burden of the treasury and create a sinking fund while re-establishing confidence in the country so as to encourage the return of exported capital. But before stabilizing — which is our ultimate aim— we intend to raise the value of our money. There are some people who wish to stablize at the low level and even to wipe out existing values and begin to rebuild on the ruin of the franc. That is not our policy. We have faith in the country and its perserving will to recover."

To that program M. Poincare said the present bill was only the prologue. With economy by the State and by individuals, with improvement of the taxation system and by fulfillment by the State of all its obligations, confidence could be restored, and the restoration of the confidence "which is the key to finanicial rehabilitation" was the whole purpose of the Government.

Would Reassure Creditors.

In one sentence only did he make reference to France's foreign debts, and that was to say: "Let our foreign creditors know that France is resolved to acquit herself to the full extent of her ability, and let our internal creditors know that she is resolved not to repudiate her obligations and confidence will be reborn."

The fall of the franc, he continued, was due even more to lack of confidence at home than abroad. It had fallen far below the level at which it could be maintained by the gold reserves of the bank. This fall was due to wild selling, which must be stopped.

Next week, he announced, he would introduce and seek passage of a project instituting a sinking fund guaranteed on the firmest bases.

Later in the corridors of the Chamber the Premier let it known that it was his intention to give the sinking fund a constitutional instead of a purely Parliamentary character by obtaining its final vote in the National Assembly of the Senate and Chamber meeting jointly at Versailles. Both houses would be asked to vote resolutions preventing the introduction of any other constitutional amendments before the joint session in order to protect the Government from the suspicion that it wishes to alter any Parliamentary rights.

It is pointed out that the organization of a sinking fund which could not be interfered with by either house would enable the Government to ask several important personalities who had offered huge sums to the fund on condition that it should be entirely free from political interference to make their offers good. Among others M. Coty, the perfumer, has offered 100,000,000 francs in the columns of his newspaper which the Government is sure it can collect once is sinking fund plans are realized.

The sinking fund will get 200,000,000 francs this year from the revenue voted by the Chamber yesterday, and next year it will have an income of 3,500,000,000 francs. Until further notice the Dawes plan receipts are earmarked for the liquidation of foreign obligations. As the balance to France owed by Germany this year is estimated at 830,000,000 while France must pay 1,123,000,000 to Britain, the United States and Uruguay there will be a deficiency of 400,000,000 which is provided for by yesterday's bill.

National Tobacco Company Planned

There will be embarked for the sinking fund revenue derived from certain taxes, such as succession duties and property sales, while M. Poincare is now woking out the details of a plan for the conversion of the State Tobacco Company into a kind of national company in which State bondholders will take an equivalent in tobacco bonds.

Yesterday it was annouced that the rate of interest of the National Defense bonds is to be raised from 5 per cent. to 6 per cent., as from August1, so as to be more in keeping with the money rate of the twelve-month bonds and with a view to checking demands for reimbursement. The General Council of the Bank of France also to-day decided to raise the discount rate from 6 per cent. to 7 1-2 and the interest rate on advances from 8 to 9 1-2 per cent.

The passage of today's bill with its huge increases in railroad fare, in taxation, in revenue from wines, on motor transport, on income from bonds and on agricultural profits was a comparatively simple affair. Raoul Peret, the new President of the Chamber, rushed the articles through one after another, keeping discussion down to the very limit. Every minute's discussion, Premier Poincare said, cost 11,000 francs and that figure set the pace.

New Tax on Foreigners Adopted.

Without even a division the Chamber passed the article increasing the tax on foreigners residing in France longer than a month to 375 francs, and with equal celebrity it adopted the proposal to increase the salaries of the Deputies to 45,000 francs a year.

That done the Chamber adjourned until Wednesday, when it is hoped the bill will have received the approval of the Senate and its terms become immediately applicable.

After so many months of hesitation and argument about a hundred different schemes for saving the franc there has been passed this first real measure. It is not a perfect bill, and its value will depend on what is done afterward. But in this week of intensive work and hurrying political tactics, M. Poincare has done more than any of his predecessors. He has tamed the Chamber and is beginning financial reform that is an enormous accomplishment.

THE WEATHER.

Sunday was warm and sultry, with the thermometer rising to 84 degrees, and the atmosphere filled with moisture, which culminated in a heavy down pour of rain. The total for the night was .87 of an inch. This was about one-half of the total for July, which was but 1.77. The rainfall for July was only one-half of the average. The highest temperature in July was 89 degrees; the lowest 44 degrees. Last year the warmest weather of the season came in the first two weeks of August. The latter half of the month was remarkably dry. — W. P.

Planes Rush Londoners To The Continent Smashing Record For Commercial Aviation

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Seventeen years ago Louis Bleriot electrified the world by flying across the English Channel. Yesterday twenty-five big planes flew from England to France carrying more than 400 passengers, many of them holding return tickets, good for twelve days.

The rush to the Continent by air yesterday was so great that all records were broken. This was part of the unprecedented exodus of Londoners due to the August bank holiday. The great demand for seats on airplanes flying between London and Paris and other Continental cities necessitated the tripling of the continental air services yesterday.

For to-day every available seat has been reserved, and there is only a remote possibility of anybody finding a seat on an airplane next Monday despite the fact that it is the last day of the week-end succession of holidays, which began for some workers Friday and for others yesterday. So great is the demand for airplane seats that several special continental services have been opened in addition to the regular services now running.

Return tickets by air issued here are available over the August bank holiday—that is, until next Monday— at the reduced rate of £9 for the round trip.

"Holidays by air have become a recognized feature nowadays, and special tourist tickets have proved a great incentive to travelers," an official of an airplane company said yesterday.

While these record scenes of activity were being enacted at the Croydon Airdrome, the London railway stations were packed with throngs of holiday makers and mountains of luggage. The August bank holiday always lures thousands of Londoners to the seashore and other resorts, but this year the crowds are surpassing those of former years. This is largely due to the beautiful weather, which started Friday and kept a promise of more yesterday despite threatening clouds.

Trains ran yesterday on a fifteen minute headway to Margate, Ramsgate and other popular resorts. A favorite express from Waterloo Station to the coast resorts in the South of England ran yesterday in five sections, all packed with holiday makers. The same was true of the express from Paddington Station to the resorts in Cornwall, which, for the first time since it began to operate twenty-two years ago, ran in five separate sections. The above mentioned trains totaled eighty-seven cars and carried fully 6,000 passengers. The service to the Channel islands also was doubled as a result of the holiday rush, which showed no signs of diminution as a result of Friday's news of earthquake shocks in the islands.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT NAMES PROSECUTOR FOR LIQUOR CASES

Peter White, K.C., Appointed To Look After Smuggling Charges.

NO MORE ARRESTS.

Ontario Police Hold All For Whom They Have Secured Warrants.

TORONTO, Ont., August 2. — (Canadian Press).— The appointment by the Dominion Government of Peter White, K. C., as special prosecutor of smuggling charges in connection with the recent deaths from poison liquor was an important development over the week-end in the wood alcohol situation. The action was generally accepted as heralding the widest possible investigation under Federal Auspices of the means by which liquor capable of leaving such a trail of death behind it comes into Canada.

The charges under the smuggling act were laid against the prisoners which the Ontario Provincial police hold at the direct request of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs in the Meighen Cabinet.

Ontario Provincial Police were active over the week-end but no further arrests resulted since the surrender of Rocco Perry, on Saturday in Hamilton, the Provincial authorities secured the last of the persons for whom they had issued warrants.

Acting Attorney General Price stated last evening, that the evidence supplied to him indicated that the ring of liquor smugglers which recently wrought so many deaths in Ontario have been in operation for two years. Their organization, he finds, is increasingly elaborate and their transactions upon a scale of millions of dollars yearly.

EXPECT SURRENDER.

BUFFALO, August 2. Canadian Press. — The surrender of twenty members of the international alcohol diverting and liquor smuggling ring, is expected early this week by Richard H. Templeton, Federal Attorney.

This belief is based on statements made to them by defendants' lawyers who said they have attempted to communicate with their clients for the purpose of persuading them to give themselves up to the Federal authorities.

WESTERN CLOCK PLANS INCREASE

Present Addition Forerunner of Others as Business Warants.

ANNUAL VACATION.

Despite the addition to the Armour Hill plant that has been decided upon by the Western Clock Company, no additional help will be required, in the meantime ,the Superintendent, J. H. Vernor, informs The Examiner. The addition, which will cost between ten and fifteen thousand dollars, will be completed before the advent of winter.

The new building is part of an expansion programme, which will be put into operation as increasing demands on present capacity justify it.

On Saturday the factory closed down until August 16 for the annual summer holidays. In addition to the salaried staff, all the factory employees who have been in the service of the company for five years, receive a full week's pay at the time of the summer vacation.

SOUTH AFRICA TO HAVE FLAG OF NEW DESIGN

Will Fly Union Jack Beside National Flag on Special Occasions.

MINISTER STRUCK.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Aug. 2.— The Hertzog Government has no intention of backing down on the flag question, notwithstanding that it withdrew the bill providing for a national flag after considerable opposition at the last session of the South African Parliament. That the bill will be reintroduced next year, as intimated at the time of its withdrawal, was plainly set forth recently by Hon. Dr. Daniel F. Malan, Minister of the Interior, in a speech at Germiston, Transvaal.

Dr. Malan said a Commission would be appointed to consider new designs for the proposed national flag. The Commission would not consist of politicians, he said, but of citizens representative of all sections of the country, and the Commission would report to the Government in time to allow of the Flag Bill being brought up again at the next session of Parliament.

To Have National Flag.

The Minister declared that South Africa must have a national flag, a flag that would give expression to her status. Legislation would be passed at the same time as the Flag Bill, Dr. Malan said, stipulating that the Union Jack should be flown on certain occasions as a symbol of the South African Union's connection with and friendship for the British Commonwealth of Nations.

There is considerable divergence of opinion in the Labor party over the proposed national flag, and this uncompromising declaration by the Government, through the Minister of Interior, probably will lead to interesting developments in view of the fact that the Government is a coalition of the Nationalist and Labor parties.

Minister Is Struck.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The excitement which has been engendered by the flag issue in South Africa is illustrated by an incident reported by the Evening News, Cape Town correspondent. The News' despatch states that Col. F. H. P. Creswell, Minister of Defence and Labor in the South African Government, was addressing a crowd from the balcony of a Durban hotel, when one of the hotel residents struck him, crying, "You want to pull down our flag, do you?" The Minister of Public Works, Hon. T. Boydell, who was standing on the balcony, returned the blow.

A number of Labor supporters in the street saw the incident and tried to rush the hotel, but the doors were closed and Col. Creswell resumed his speech.

One Little Dog Enough To Frighten 14 Elephants

EDMONTON, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—A little dog caused a panic among fourteen circus elephants here last night, and they went on a wild rampage through the west end of the city. Smashing through fences, gardens and outbuildings, the great animals sent pedestrians scuttling to cover before they finally broke into the bush outside the city. Police and circus men rounded the animals up.

JOY IN TEMPLE AS CASE ENDS

Mrs. McPherson Hopes Soon To Prove Her Kidnapping Story.

RYAN TO EXPLAIN.

LOS ANGELES, Aug 3 (Canadian Press).—The discontinuing of the Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance case by District Attorney Asa Keyes brought expressions of joy from the evangelist and her followers. Mrs. McPherson declared she hoped soon to produce conclusive evidence substantiating her kidnapping story.

Deputy District Attorney Ryan, who has been active in the case, declared he would make a statement after finding out the reasons for dropping the case.

Ryan declared he had found evidence that Kenneth Ormiston, the Temple radio operator, had visited Carmel during the visit there of a woman "who resembled Mrs. McPherson."

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press)—A deposition made public today by Kenneth G. Ormiston exonerates Aimee Semple McPherson, from any connection with his movements following her disappearance thus refuting allegations that a woman resembling Mrs. McPherson had been seen at a cottage at Carmel, Calif., which Ormiston had rented. Ormiston says that another woman who made a trip through California with him would if necessary disclose her identity in order to free Mrs. McPherson.

New Mourning Fashion Set By Prince Of Wales

LONDON, Aug. 2 (United Press).—The Prince of Wales has set a new fashion in men's wear.

While the royal family was still in deep mourning for the late Dowager Queen Alexandra, the Prince appeared at all formal functions in full dress but with a black vest.

Many people wondered at the Prince's deviation from his usual practice of wearing an immaculate white waistcoat, with full dress, until it became known that the Prince had adopted the black waistcoat as an indication of mourning with formal dress.

LLOYD GEORGE PAPER CHARGES THAT GOVERNMENT PERMITTED SALE OF ARMY RIFLES TO TURKS

Hundred Thousand Modern Weapons Sold By British Firm.

DONE SECRETLY.

Departs From Great British Tradition, Newspaper Asserts.

Press).—

LONDON, August 2. —(United Press).— The Daily Chronicle, London organ of the David Lloyd George Liberal faction, to-day charged that the British Government had secretly entered into negotiations for the sale of arms and ammunition to the Turkish Government.

In a two column article, the Chronicle said that it was able to reveal that "secretly through the agency of a British armament firm, the Baldwin Government has, with the necessary sanction of the foreign mininster, entered into negotiations for the sale of a large quantity of modern arms and munitions to the Turkish Government.

These negotiations, according to the Chronicle, concern 100,000 British Government rifles of the 1914 pattern with bayonets and scabbards and 100 million cartridges for the rifles. The price asked for this lot was stated to be $4,450,000.

The Chronicle recognized the fact that the transaction violated no international law but said that was "departing from a great British tradition."

Accompanying the offer, Accordto the Chronicle, was a letter from the firm involved expressing gratification at the sanction of the British foreign office and the war office.

"The letter was written at the end of March," the Chronicle says "and mentions that the offer could not be made earlier owing to the absence of Sir Austin Chamberlain, whose consent was necessary."

Sir Austen was then in Geneva.

King Albert Sets Exampl Of Strict Belgian Economy

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—King Albert, by strict adherence to his own decrees as financial dictator of Belgium, is making a forceful example to his subjects in the matter of economy. Black bread now is exclusively served at the Royal table and only one of the King's three motor cars has been seen since the beginning of the economy campaign.

DEBT CRITICISM IS PAPER TALK

Lady Astor Makes Statement on Her Arrival in Boston.

COMES FOR REST.

BOSTON, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Lady Astor arrived here on the Samaria today. She was accompanied by her four children, Charles Dana Gibson, a brother-in-law, with whom she will spend three weeks in Maine, met her. Lady Astor repeated that she had left politics behind her in seeking rest in Maine and Virginia, but did make some comment on war debts and world peace.

Lady Astor, on her arrival, declared the English criticism of America's war debt attitude was stirred up only by newspapers and had been quickly suppressed as contrary to the opinions of the public and statesmen.

"Of course debts of any kind never make for good will," she added.

"England has made up her mind to pay, and she will pay. It seems a pity that England should have been discriminated against in the terms of settlement, but England in the end will not lose by it. The members of Parliament with whom I discussed the recent attacks on the American attitude expressed themselves thoroughly ashamed of condemnation."

LIBERALS MEET NEXT SATURDAY

Executive Decides To Call Nomination Convention For Week End.

IN G.W.V.A. HALL.

The Liberal Convention will take place next Saturday at the Great War Veterans' Assembly Hall on Murray street. This was decided at an executitve meeting of the Women's Liberal Association and the Men's Association held on Saturday night.

While rumor is connection the names of prominent Liberals as being possible nominees, nothing definite can be ascertained in this connection.

Advertisements which appeared in American newspapers during 1925 are estimated to have cost more than $600,000,000.

TRAIN HITS CAR.

Tweed Men Injured at Crossing Accident on Saturday.

TWEED, Aug. 2—On Saturday evening about 7.15 o'clock a car carrying Walter Boyce and Murney Hall ran into the Kingston-Tweed express train on the C.N.R. crossing about one half mile south of Tweed. The car was approaching the crossing at a good speed. It was owned and driven by Boyce.

Engineer Grant blew the whistle the brakes were applied within fifty feet of the accident. The train was apparently sliding when it struck the car.

Both boys were put on the train and taken to Tweed Hospital. Boyce was slightly injured while Murney Hall had three ribs broken and his face, arms, side and shoulders cut by flying glass.

AT. ST. JOHN'S

At St. John's Church yesterday, the following message from Archdeacon Davidson was read to the congregation:

I wish to express my deep sense of the loss sustained in the passing within so short a time of three earnest and faithful members of the congregation with whom my association have been very close.

Mrs. Gladman, belonging to an old Peterborough family, was an exemplary wife and mother and a faithful member of St. John's.

The death of Mrs. Dean carries one's thoughts back to her parents' commemorated by the lectern and to her own family. Together with them, Mrs. Dean has been a most earnest member and devoted worker as well as a personal friend.

I take this opportunity of also honoring the memory of Miss Margaret Wilson. Gifted with a loving heart and a sparkling personality she has shown a tireless interest in the welfare of others and has endeared herself to many. Miss Wilson is another who has come close to the heart of the Church in which she found her life and happiness.

"We bless Thy Holy Name, O God, for these and all other Thy servants departed this life in Thy faith and fear."

FORMER PASTOR RECEIVES CALL

Rev. F. A. Connors Accepts Office in Large Flint Church.

FORMERLY HERE.

Rev. F. A. Conners, formerly pastor of Park Street Baptist Church here, has been chosen as pastor of the new Calvary Baptist Church of Flint, Mich. Rev. Mr. Connors writes as follows of his church:

"We are worshipping in the basement yet, but when Calvary Church is finished, it will be the largest Baptist Church in Flint.

The Flint Daily News says the following:

"A special business meeting of the Calvary Baptist Church was held on Wednesday evening for the purpose of calling a pastor. The meeting was called to order by J. L. Simmon who acted as chairman for the occasion, and after the regular opening exercises, singing, reading of Scripture and prayer, the question of a leader was submitted.

"At a previous meeting of the deacons' board who acted as a pulpit committee and had agreed on the name of Rev. F. A. Conners who had supplied the pulpit for three consecutive Sundays, the chairman asked the congregation for their disposition of the question, urging every member to express their free choice in the matter. The vote was taken by ballot, and when the vote was counted it was shown that every member had voted and the vote was unanimous for Rev. Conners.

"Rev. Conners has already intimated his acceptance of the call and will begin his duties as pastor the first Sunday in August. The hearty co-operation of every member in every department of the church is urged that the work may be carried forward with the greatest possible success."

NEWS OF WARSAW.

WARSAW, Aug. 2.—Miss Edith Bullock, whose home is in Flint, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Cooper and other relatives near Warsaw.

Rev. Hugh Brown is visiting old friends in and around Warsaw. He will be here until after Sunday. His headquarters are at Mr. Watts' home.

Last Thursday evening the Warsaw United church Ladies' Aid gathered at the newly-made home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt (nee Vera Taylor). A number of useful kitchen articles comprised the shower; there were no duplicates. In nice little speeches Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt thanked the people. There were several very amusing and interesting contests, some recitations and refreshments.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid and the Anglican Ladies' Guild have omitted the July meeting.

QUEBEC TO HAVE EVEN JUSTICE SAYS MEIGHEN

Says Every Part of Canada Will Be Treated Fairly If He Is Elected.

GASPE RAILWAY.

Promises Sympathetic Consideration of Transportation Difficulties.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—"We pledge ourselves, as our first task, again to restore to this country, decent, honest administration of its property and of its funds." In these closing words, Premier Meighen, at Campbellton, N.B., on Saturday completed the first lap of his trans-continental tour. Since he left Ottawa, twelve days ago, the Prime Minister, by train, boat and automobile, has swept swiftly across three Maritime Provinces. He has also opened his campaign in Quebec. To the Province of Quebec he intends to return later for a more extended series of meetings.

Yesterday he arrived in Ottawa by automobile from Montreal, but remained for only a few hours. In the evening he left again for Toronto on his way to the West.

Bilingualism Given as Solution.

It was by the historic waters of the Baie des Chaleurs that Premier Meighen made his first speech of the campaign in Quebec. Leaving Bathurst by tugboat, he crossed the bay to Carleton, in the County of Bonaventure. He spoke in the open, at first with difficulty, owing to hoarsenes, but he received attentive hearing. There were frequent outbursts of applause, particularly when he made some point in French, a language in which he is rapidly acquiring fluency. He spoke of the part the Gaspe Peninsula had played in Canada's early history—there it was that Jacques Cartier had first planted the Cross; there it was that Abbe Bourg, the first of Acadian missionaries, had found his field. He told of his pleasure to find that the people of the country were teaching their children both official languages of the Dominion. Were more people in the country bilingual, he argued, many of our most difficult problems would be solved.

He turned to railway difficulties in the Gaspe Peninsula. "One could not help realizing," he said, "that there might be, indeed, a gratifying development if there could be found a method of extending to this district, as yet relatively thinly populated, something of the help which the Dominion has been able to give to other parts of Canada. I know your resources are many and precious. You have splendid timber resources. You have mineral resources. Your agricultural resources are as yet only tapped. It will be impossible that these should progress as you expect, and have a right to expect, unless something is done to help with the transportation of your commodities.

Dificulties in the Way.

"I am quite aware that there are difficulties in the way," he went on later. "I never could be convinced that it is—not going to mean considerable outlay over a considerable time. But I intend to give sympathetic consideration to this question. I am going, as it were, to put my head into it. I hope to say to the people of this Province—I promise you I will say to them whenever I occupy the post of Prime Minister by the verdict of the people—that, whatever is done for any part of the Dominion, the same measure of generosity, the same measure of justice will be given to the Province of Quebec, and to every part of the Province of Quebec."

Patenaude Lauds Meighen

Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Minister of Justice, speaking at Carleton, said the speeches made by Premier Meighen showed that the Conservative party had again taken the way and was following the traditions of old. "The declarations Mr. Meighen has made in meeting after meeting," said Mr. Patenaude, "recall to us declaratons of the great men who made our country."

"If the Prime Minister and I have come closer together," added Mr. Patenaude, "it we are fighting this electoral campaign together, we come together for the highest and the most honorable of motives. Side by side, we recall to the people those principles which made for the greatness of our party and of our country."

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

SUPERSTITION ARE IN EARLY DAYS FROM IGNORANCOSE PRIMARILY

Every Phenomena of Nature Was Attributed To Spirits.

BIRTH PREDICTIONS.

Superstition arises primarily from ignorance. In early days, men believed that every phenomena of nature was the work of good or evil spirits. To this belief was often added fear. Thus superstition was born. There is not a nation, how ever ignorant or advanced, which does not recognize customs, rites and usages, which have their origin in superstition. The prophets spoke strongly against the existing immoral and superstitious rites. In Egypt, Greece and Rome, superstition gave birth to mythology with its pagan rites and ceremonies. During the dark ages, when for the most part people were illiterate, superstitions flourished with unprecedented vigor. There are few persons, no matter how level headed, who are not given to superstition in some form. Some hold the deep seated belief that evil will result from an infraction of a rule. Others have an amused idea, that if the ceremony can do no good, it can do no harm and to be on the safe side carry out some mummery. One reason why superstition has not died out among intelligent people is because it is contagious.

Certain Days

There are many superstitions in every country. In most, the belief is held that certain days bring good or bad luck. A day that is good for one person may be correspondingly bad for another; Friday is considered unlucky by many on which to begin a journey or any new undertaking; this superstition arises from the day of the Crucifixion. If Friday falls on the 13th of the month, it is doubly unlucky for business or speculation. John Gibbons, an eminent scientist, considered Friday an unusually lucky day. He was born, christened and married on that day and was fortunate in all his undertakings. To move into a new home on Friday is considered unlucky. To be born on the 29th of February, leap year, is considered lucky and the person will be successful as a speculator. A rhyme runs:

"There are days of which the careful heed,
When epterprises will sure succeed.

Astrologists give the following unlucky days:

January— 1, 2 4, 5, 10, 17 19.
February—8. 10, 17, 26, 27, 28.
March—16, 17, 20.
April—7, 8, 10, 16, 20, 21.
May—3, 6, 7, 15, 20.
June—4, 8, 10, 22.
July—15, 21.
August—1, 9, 20, 29, 30.
September—3, 4, 6, 16, 24.
October—4, 6, 16, 24.
November—5, 6, 15, 20, 29, 30.
December—6, 7, 9, 15, 22.

According to ancient astrologers there are six days which are perilous to sick people, January 3, July 1, October 2, April 30, August 1, December 31.

Days of Birth

The following are predictions concerning the day of birth, "Born on Monday, fair of face; born on Tuesday, full of grace; born on Wednesday, sour and sad; born on Thursday, merry and glad; born on Friday, worthily given; born on Saturday, work for your living; born on Sunday, you'll never know want. An Italian belief fixes Tuesday and Friday as unlucky days for a voyage and for marriage. The French regard Sunday very lucky for any enterprises. The Japanese have designated five days of the year as unlucky, and in order to avert their bad influence have made them the days of great festivals. It is customary to wish one another happiness on those days, in order to oppose their otherwise unhappy effects. They never begin a journey on an inauspicious day and there is a printed table in their roadhouses and inns, showing what days of the month are unfavorable to travel. The third of May has been called. The Dismal Day by the Scottish. The Hindus consider Monday lucky for a trip; Sunday is lucky for sowing seed or beginning a building. Tuesday is lucky for soldiers in battle; Wednesday is lucky for merchants; Thursday is good for beginning new business; Friday is lucky for making friends and wearing new garments; Saturday is unlucky as it excites quarrels."

Finding a four-leafed clover is supposed to be a sign of good luck. It should be worn by the finder to be most efficacious. A well-known couplet is:

"See a pin and pick it up; all the day you'll have good luck.
See a pin and leave it lay; you will have bad luck all day."

A superstition which has become almost universal is that of knocking on wood. Its origin is much in doubt. It has ben attributed to the touching of a crucifix, a religious ancient rite, when taking an oath. To brag about success according to the general belief invites the powers of evil and to counteract this, one must "touch wood." Charms made of wood are frequently worn. Sir Walter Scott, when he used to recite at school, always fumbled with a wooden button. Once, his fellow students cut this button off and he was at a great loss.

Spoon in Mouth.

In the middle ages, a child was usually presented by its godparents with silver or gold spoons. A rich sponsor often gave a set of 12 spoons, one for each disciple. Less wealthy people gave one or more spoons. These were considered lucky and induced the child to lead a virtuous life. Hence the expression, "Born with a silver spoon in its mouth." A silver cup is often given and the child that drinks from it is supposed to drink happiness during its life. When a baby smiles in its sleep, it is supposed to converse with angels.

Other Superstitions.

Lucky pennies or other coins are to be found in many pockets. They drive away all evil influences in business operations and bring luck in money matters. They must be turned in one's pocket at the time of the transaction. Horse chestnuts carried in one's pocket are supposed to be a charm against rheumatism. In the Orient, jade is used as a charm against disease or disaster. It usually has some symbolic figure carved thereon. Amber is a favorite charm in countries adjoining the Mediterranean. To find a horseshoe is considered lucky. It should be hung over the door, open end upwards, so that it will "hold luck." If hung the other way, it will "spill luck." To get out of bed with the left foot is considered a forecast of bad luck. When a person is cross or irritable, we often say "He got out of bed with the wrong foot." To give a coin to a cripple ensures good luck.

Some of the commonest household beliefs are: A hot cinder jumping out of the fire betokens good luck. If the kettle sings, it is a sign of contentment in the home. If you wash in the same basin with someone else, it betokens a quarrel. To break a looking glass is considered unlucky, and the person breaking one will have bad fortune for seven years. Salt has been regarded as the symbol of friendship, therefore the overturning of a salt cellar is considered as the breaking of friendship. To change the spell, however, it is only necessary to throw a pinch over one's left shoulder. It is considered unlucky to accept a knife from a friend without giving something in return to avert the "cutting of friendship." Many queer superstitions attach to candles. A birthday cake should have as many candles as there are years of a person's age. This will ensure another year of happiness. To walk under a ladder, when it is leaning against a wall, is considered bad luck. Every nation had its lucky numbers, that occur in mythology and history. The Greeks believed in the sacredness of number nine. They had nine muses, nine principal deities, nine oracles, etc. The Romans believed in the mystic three, the Egyptians in twelve. The Jews revered the number seven. Seven days of creation, seven lean days, seven fat days, seven stars, seven times bathing in the Jordan. Thirteen is regarded by Christians as most unlucky on account of the events following the Last Supper.

Even kings are not exempt from superatitions. October 14 was supposed to be a lucky day for the kings of England. The 6th of April was a lucky day for Alexander the Great. On that day he conquered Darius and won a great battle. Cromwell considered the third of September his lucky day. He gained several victories on that date.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD ENJOYABLE OUTING

C. G. I. T. Girls and Trail Rangers of Millbrook Have Picnic.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 2.—The Wide-Awakes group of Canadian Girls in Training, with the boys of the Senior and Junior Trail Rangers and of the Tuxis Square, motored to Wallace's Point, Otonabee River, on Thursday afternoon and enjoyed a picnic outing.

Over fifty of the members, with their friends, were in attendance, and a very jolly time was spent, games, boating and swimming affording plenty of entertainment for the younger folk, while the opportunity of a visit together pleased the older people.

A game of softball, umpired by C. C. Garside, was the feature of the afternoon, the fact that the personnel of the players changed with almost every innings rather adding to than detracting from the pleasure both for the onlookers and those taking part.

The well-known kindness and hospitality of Mrs. Cardwell in giving any assistance in her power to aid the picnickers added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The picnic tea was laid on the long tables under the trees and appetites sharpened by exercise enabled everyone to do full justice to the meal provided. Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mr. Brown and Mr. Garside were among those who assisted in serving the hungry boys and girls.

A second game of softball after supper, apparently played with as close adherence to the rules as the one earlier in the afternoon, gave opportunity for late-comers to take part, the pitching of F. McMahon, home run hits of P. Stinson and A. J. Brown and the nice work at first base of G. E. Burnham and Rev. F. H. Howard, for their respective sides, being features of the game.

The outing was the first of the kind attempted under the combined auspices of the boys' and girls' groups, and the success achieved will probably lead to its being made an annual affair.

During the holiday season the groups do not hold any regular sessions, the leaders endeavoring to plan some special gatherings. An invitation from Mrs. Edgar Fallis asking the C.G.I.T. group to hold a picnic at her home will be accepted in the near future. Miss Eleanor Fallis is a charter member of the Wide-Awakes group.

ANIMATED HAZARD.

A friend encountered a Scotchman, just coming back from the Florida golf courses, leading an alligator along.

"What are you doing with the alligator?" he asked.

"The son of a gun has got my ball," replied the Scotchman. — New York Sun.

87 Candidates in Field

Eight-seven candidates for Ontario's 82 seats have been nominated in the Province to contest the approaching Federal election. The Conservatives lead the list, with the Liberals second and the Progressives third, while the Labor party has not as yet named a straight Labor standard-bearer, although it has participated in the selection of two or three joint candidates. The list of nominations already formally made at party conventions is as follows: Conservatives 50; Liberals, 28; Progressives 5; Liberal-Labor-Progressive, 2; Liberal-Progressive, 1. In a large number of the cases where candidates are yet unnamed it will be merely a case of choosing the member who sat in the last House. To date, no member of the last House has lost his party convention in Ontario, although one or two battles, especially in Toronto and the Yorks, are in prospect.

WHY DOESN'T THE BOAT GO?

The current number of a popular women's magazine contains a story about a boy. He is just an ordinary boy, whose mind, instead of turning toward fire engines or railway engines, is set upon boats. He is making a boat; a boat that will go by itself. He chops the block of wood into the correct shape, adds a cabin and a rudder and sails. The sails are only for show, because this boat is to sail under its own power. But the boat does not sail. It topples over. So he adds a keel and a smoke-stack. Still the boat does not move. What is needed? Ah! the little boy finds the secret—smoke. A fire is kindled under the smoke stack; it rages and roars, and bellows smoke, but the little ship is motionless as before.

Does the little boy's temper flare up, and does he throw down the product of his brain and hands in exasperation because his hopes are unfulfilled? In the story he does not. He looks at his masterpiece in sorrow, because to his mind there is no reason why it should not work. It has a cabin, a smoke-stack, an engine-room, a rudder, and smoke—all that he can see in the really-truly ship that sails on the lake. It must go—but it doesn't.

* * * *

Long, long ago hopeful pioneers set up their rough shelters on the banks of the Otonabee and called their new home Peterborough. They worked, and their sons and daughters after them worked, in the building of the hamlet, village, town and city until today it stands on the threshold of completion. It has beautiful homes, peaceful environs, huge factories, powerful churches, mighty water powers, industrious people. But does it go? Is Peterborough forging ahead as, with all these external signs of building, it should?

And if you agree that it is not, is there not some analogy between its condition and that of the little boy's boat? He couldn't see the engine down in the bowels of the lake steamer, but that was what was lacking in the boat he made.

If Peterborough is motionless while all around other cities are being carried toward prosperity, it is because it lacks something that will put life into all these visible signs of progress and supply the driving force.

Peterborough needs community spirit.

MINNOWS, MUSKRATS AND MEN.

A muskrat tripping down George street at 3 o'clock on Saturday morning was pounced upon and killed by a dog; house wrens in East City are slain by blackbirds; minnows in Jackson creek are gulped by water snakes. A hawk passes over the woods in a swift flight of wonderful wings, and all things scurry to cover. All nature seems to be a savage battle ground.

But man is the only creature who has the brains to invent engines for his own destruction. And how deadly some of his inventions are! Automobiles, airplanes, canoes, guns, railway locomotives, steamships, electricity, poison gas—he makes them or gathers them from the elements for his use, and is slain by them.

Because he refuses to recognize the power of the thing he conceived.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UP.

Twenty years ago a man found a two dollar bill on the sidewalk. All those years he has walked with his head down and his eyes fixed on the ground, hoping to find another two dollar bill. He has found hairpins, lipsticks, matches, buttons, pins and used street car tickets, but he has never found any more money. He is now a humpbacked old man. In his stooping he lost thousands of smiling faces, hundreds of cheery greetings from his fellows, hundreds of blue skies with white clouds scudding across them, thousands of beautiful flappers with school-girl complexions, and the chance to laugh at the antics of little children, fat men and fighting dogs. He has missed much which makes life worth living for the sake of a second two dollar bill he never found.

You know him. There are many like him in every community. There are some in Peterborough. They are not good citizens.

A good citizen enjoys the friendship of his friend and the love of his family. He looks the world in the eye and has a cheery greeting for his fellow-men. He gets a "kick" out of life in general, and he renders service to his city.

If you have got the habit of counting the black streaks across the sidewalk, without even the hope of finding a two dollar bill, try sitting quietly in Central or Victoria Parks, watching the folk go past. Pick out the one who looks most like you, and decide whether you are satisfied.

Keep your head up.

BEAUTIFUL PETERBOROUGH.

The claim frequently advanced on behalf of Peterborough, that it is the centre of a region which, from the point of view of scenic attractiveness, is fully the equal of many of the world's beauty spots whose praises have been sung for centuries, is borne out by the selection of the city as the location of the summer studies of the pupils of Mr. McGillvray Knowles, the well-known New York artist and instructor in painting.

It is easy to understand that the art student, combining holiday-making with aesthetic labors, is invariably more fastidious in the choice of a vacation ground than is the ordinary tourist. In this case, natural scenery, tempting the brush and the pencil, containing subjects for inspiration and affording scope for development, is absolutely indispensable.

Judging from the well lined walls of the gymnasium of the Y.W.C.A., where the party has made its headquarters, Peterborough County has not been found wanting in this respect.

Twelve students, working indefatigably, have transferred to canvas scenes in the neighborhood that have captivated their fancy. Our lakes, our rivers, our fields, our streams, have been fruitful in suggestion to our visitors. There are scores of pictures in the room, and in very few cases have two artists chosen the same scene for depiction.

Quite a number of views are of places within the city limits, a fact that indicates that Peterborough has natural charms of its own in addition to that of being the gateway to a holiday-maker's paradise. Mr. Knowles has stated that his pupils are still far from having exhausted the spots in the neighborhood that are considered fit subjects for sketches. In fact, he declares that they are now only beginning to gain a knowledge of the topography of the district.

When such a group of visitors from a city outside the political boundary, few of them Canadians, none of them natives of these parts, makes Peterborough its summer headquarters, we may safely conclude that some knowledge of the richness of variety and charm of the Kawartha Lakes district is percolating to the outside world. It is a good augury for the future.

PUBLICITY—A FORCE FOR GOOD.

These are the days of forceful and true advertising, and of dynamic and faithful news. It is claimed by many that the trend toward sensationalism in newspapers is a blemish and a weakness, but those who claim this have not thought. They denounce large heading type, and would put all crime and accidents in the inside pages, if, indeed, they printed the stories at all. They would "headline happiness," and blue-pencil everything that might cause a shudder or entice a tear.

The Examiner does not believe in sensationalism, but it does believe that the honest and striking presentation of news will do more to promote law and order than all the jails in existence. "Killed by Moonshine" is the greatest temperance lecture ever written. The picture of a car in a tree, with the caption, "Going 60 miles an hour," is the greatest speed eradicator. "Banker goes to jail" is the chief protection for our money. Publicity is the scourge of evil-doers. The man who would pay a thousand dollar fine with bravado shrinks from the jail sentence that carries with it the loss of caste in the public mind through publicity.

The Examiner does not "play up" crime, but at the cost of a few cents a day it tells the wages of every sort of sin. It would cost a fortune in fines to learn as much as is presented in the newspaper at one supper table. It would take a hundred years in jail and a score of beatings to learn what is taught here for fifteen cents a week.

The greatest curse of the age is the unpreparedness of the young to face life. They learn—aye, what do they not learn?—on the street corners and in their automobile parties, but they learn there only the gaudy, sugar-coated side of wrong. It is through the newspaper that they find the ultimate end of sin is death—death of self-respect, death of opportunity, death of achievement, death of love.

So long as the legal and moral rules of conduct of the world are founded upon fear of the law, just so long will fear of the consequences of wrong-doing be the principal deterrent to crime. Society is still a long way from the place where love of society will encourage good as a universal practice.

A man who is dressing to meet an attractive lady who is not his wife may have no respect for the commandment, "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife," but if his eye catches a heading in the evening paper, "Wife shoots rival," he does not need to read very far into the article to keep him in line for that night.

Or if he be bent upon a liquor party, and scans a heading telling of deaths through poisonous moonshine, he will at least not enjoy his night's debauch so thoroughly as if he had not been warned.

It would be a small outlook and a poor hope to consider a world always kept in order by fear. But it cannot be denied that today respect for the law is founded upon fear, and the newspapers, branded "sensational" though they may be, are doing their mighty best to uphold the sanctity of the home, the safety of the citizen, and the moral code of the country.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

The defeat of Mrs. Ferguson in the Texas primaries is referred to by an American paper as another example "of the lengthening list of women who have attained high political position (in the United States) but have been unable to win re-election." Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, of Wyoming, is the only female Governor, except Mrs. Ferguson, the country has had. The preliminaries in her State will not take place till late in August, and it is too soon to say what are her chances of re-election. There are three women representatives in the present Congress, and it is possible that one or all of these may seek a second term and succeed; but so far, it seems, no woman candidate for Congress has been able to win a second time. One woman was allowed to become Senator for a day, as a matter of courtesy.

It would not be safe to generalize too freely from such facts. It is true that the people of Texas lost their enthusiasm for a woman Governor after a short experience of Mrs. Ferguson in office, and it is also true that women who have served one term in Congress have not been very successful in securing a second; still it is not to be assumed that women in politics have proven a failure, even in the United States.

On the other hand, it must be admitted that so far there is no convincing evidence that women by participation in politics will bring about an early regeneration of the world. But why should they be expected to do so?—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., August 2. — Owing to the facts that foreign bids were again below local exporters' views, the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday was again extremely dull. The domestic trade was also inactive but prices for Canadian western oats were unchanged.

Prices for spring and winter wheat grades of flour were well maintained under a quiet enquiry from all sources.

The millfeed trade was quiet but firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet ubt the undertone was steady.

There was little business transacted in butter but the prices ruled steady. The receipts last week totalled 17,797 packages.

The market for cheese was again weaker with western qualities being quoted at 16¼c per pound at the close of the week. The trade volume was small. The receipts last week were 67,038 boxes.

Extreme dullness marked the egg trade but the feeling was steady. The receipts last week were 6942 cases.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, August 2. Canadian Press. — In a spectacular five minute flurry, wheat for July delivery-made a record breaking advance yesterday of 11 3-8c a bushel. Adventurous traders looking for an end-of-the-month downturn in values discovered too late that contracts could only be filled by handing over instanter the actual grain or by purchasing on a wildly advancing market.

An excited, irregular finish of the day's dealings in the wheat pit was the result, with July wheat quoted 8 3-4 to 11 3-8c net higher, but with other deliveries at 1-8 to 7-8c decline as compared with 24 hours before.

Corn closed 3-8c to 1c down; oats unchanged to 3-4c off and provisions varying from 15 drop to 40 upturn.

The sudden buying stampedes in the wheat market whirled into action, without giving signs of the usual accompaniment of a big market fluctuation. About the first indication of something out of the ordinary was a notice from a large commission house declining to be responsible for execution of orders to buy or sell just at the close. Other houses quickly followed suit and then the market shot skyward with official closing price out done and 1½c a bushel in some transactions overlooked in the hubbub.

The latest official quotations on the July delivery stood at $1.56 to $1.58½.

The actual top prices for July wheat to-day were $1.60 a bushel, an advance of 12 7-8c since Friday. The maximum reached was much beyond all previous quotations for July this season and wa. 16c above what July wheat had been selling at yesterday, a few minutes before the final upward rush of the market began.

Exporters and Winnipeg interests were apparently the holders of July contracts who either realized big profits by yesterday's advance in prices, or who acquired out-and-out ownership of the grain which they insisted should be delivered according to the agreements expiring yesterday. The grain delivered was said to have been previously sold for trans-Atlantic shipment and will thus be moved east from here without delay.

Huge absorptions of newly harvested wheat of late by the United States millers is in some quarters held responsible in part for the remarkable end of the month scorcity of offerings that developed here yesterday. Usually the stock of wheat in Chicago at this time if of much more liberal proportion than is the case at present. In fact the position of July wheat ocntracts to-day was almost unique in the history of the trade. With primary domestic receipts of a size smashing all records, and with the largest movement of winter wheat ever known in July, the outstanding feature is that contract stocks of wheat here simply fail to accumulate.

Profit taking sales in September and December deliveries of wheat more than offset during the late dealings an advance which those months scored early owing to dry and hot weather over the Canadian northwest. Besides bearish private estimates regarding winter and spring wheat crops in the United States were expected to be issued here on Monday.

Provisions were depressed by expected announcement Monday of an increase in Chicago stock of lard.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 2.—By the abolition of a 50-year-old law, Turkish women now have the right to marry Persians. The former ban against intermarriage is said to have been due to a slight difference in religion and the system of trial marriages practiced by the Persians. Turkish women still may marry only Moslems, although the men may marry women of any faith.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

GOOD ENGLISH REMAINS.

In spite of the attempts made, from time to time, to defend errors that are commonly regarded as such by grammarians, good English remains about the same from generation to generation.

"There are more dialects in England than in America," said a recent writer, "but the true form of the language is world-wide the same, as its source is the same.

"Words, of course, are being bent and trampled out of shape daily but an adverb is always an adverb and will never qualify a noun, even without the guardianship of a high magistracy like the French Academy. The common law of syntax, for the guidance of literary and lay public alike, finds unofficial ways to make its mandates effective.

"Despite all the assaults of the seemingly privileged, despite mass attacks, the citadel of English syntax has remained impregnable."

Daily Short Story

HER MATINEE JOB

(By John Evans.)

June Aiken was facing, for the first time in her life, the necessity for helping to earn the family income. Gradually he father's salary was becoming insufficient for the needs of the household and children and June, at twenty-two, began to look about for something to do.

It was seldom that June was discouraged but today she felt blue and the outlook was anything but cheerful. Nothing her mother could say gave her a lighter view of the future, and she picked up her hat and said she would go out and try to walk off her doldrums.

June had never cared for picture shows and seldom went inside the theater, but today something took her to the box office almost before she realized what she was doing. She took her seat quietly in a rear row of the darkened house.

Next to her sat a young mother who was trying to keep an active child quiet. She had given the tot her handbag and the lipstick and metal vanity case had both dropped to the floor and rolled down the aisle. June had recovered them for the impatient mother.

In a distant part of the house another small child kept up a continuous shouting. A wee baby cried lustily. June could hear and see nothing but these outraged children, cooped up within a stuffy, dark theater. Then, like a flash, an idea came to her. Her discouragement was replaced by wave after wave of enthusiasm for the inspiration that had come to her and was unfolding with rapid possibilities in her mind.

"Mother—I have a great idea!" she cried as she descended upon her tired parent in the kitchen getting supper. "I'm going to start a new profession of my own—movie mothering!"

"Movie—" gasped Mrs. Aiken.

"H—no—no—no, dear! Not in the movies. I'm going to be a mother to kiddies whose own mothers are so picture-made that they can't stay home from matinees to care for them. I shall charge only twenty-five cents for a child for the whole time from three to five—or whenever the show is out—and I shall advertise myself thoroughly so as to be able to get as many as eight or ten kiddies each afternoon.

Her mother, always mentally keen if bodily tired, responded at once to her daughter's mood and began to plan with her for the new venture. In a short time they had made definite arrangements to use their own living-room and porches, turning the former into a sort of nursery playroom. They telephoned to several friends who might send them some little tots to begin on, and it was only a short time until June found herself custodian of kiddies all the way from two months old, asleep in their prams, to boys and girls of five.

"Mother, what do you think I've made this week?" asked June at the end of the third week of business.

"I couldn't guess, but you've been a busy girl and your youngsters seem to thrive on your care," said the mother fondly.

"I've made exactly $17.25—with no expense," she said, happily. "Isn't it wonderful? And to think the idea came out of a clear sky."

The mothers always brought the children's milk if they were to have any, or biscuits or fruit, so that June found herself without even the expense of buying a few things to eat.

During the fourth week she had a call from a young man who at first glance she knew could hardly be the father of children.

"Miss Aiken?" he asked.

June nodded. "June Aiken—Matinee Mother," she replied, laughing.

Bob Stoner told her quickly what he wanted. His mother was dead and he and his sister, eighteen, had helped to bring up the two babies the poor mother had left. His sister wanted to get out now and earn her own living and there would be no one to take care of the babies. His sister wanted to do only some part-time work she had been offered and Bob had heard of June Aiken. Could she care for the little brother and sister during the afternoons?

June was delighted. The children were to be brought to her by their sister early each afternoon on her way to her own work and Bob was to call for them in the evening.

"It means seven dollars regularly, Mother," said June.

What she did not say, however, was that she would be glad to look forward each evening to the coming of big Bob Stoner. They had not smiled into each other's eyes for nothing that first day.

But June did not let her growing fondness for Bob interfere with the profitable and enjoyable little profession she was building up for herself. She kept adding to her equipment as she found it necessary and in time had to press her mother into service and hire a woman to do her mother's heavier work.

"But—some day, you will want to—to have a home of your own?" Bob asked her after he had known her for months.

"Oh, yes, some day, Bob, when—when your sister and brother andall the other kiddies are old enough not to need me. Then we—we will think of—our home. Meantime, let's be happy as we are."

And Bob, having learned his lessons of patience and unselfishness was willing.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

PA ON CATS AND DOGS

I always have contended that
A dog is very nearly human.
A dog is like a man—a cat
In lots of ways is like a woman.
A cat will scratch, a cat will purr,
A woman, too, without a reason;
That's how a cat resembles her—
A dog's the same in any season.

Poor man a hundred thousand years,
Or more or less, it doesn't matter,
Has had to stand for woman's tears
And had to hark to women's chatter.
A dog has nothing much to say,
He's just the shadow of his master;
He sticks around from day to day,
And closer than a mustard plaster.

Man, if a woman makes you weep,
If in some hour of melancholy
You want a love that you can keep,
Then get an airedale or a collie.
Yes, when a woman slips a cog,
You thought so beautiful and clever,
Just go and get yourself a dog,
For then you've got a friend forever.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

SNOOPERS

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Much has been said lately in the public press about "snoopers."

This means people who are investigating violators of the prohibition amendment.

We have other snoopers, however, who are just as bothersome and much more injurious to business.

They are the snoopers who come around and investigate a man's or a concern's affairs for the income tax.

The income tax implies snooping. It depends for its enforcement at the last upon a number of legally authorized spies.

These spies make it a business to investigate every one's books and papers, and it is rumored about some of them that they are not always everything that might be asked of them. Unfortunately they are human and a certain portion of them look for a bonus or present. Thus the business man is hampered in his affairs, as he knows that his sworn statement about his income in the first place is not going to be accepted by the government.

The income tax was a war measure and with the cessation of the war it should have been abandoned. It is not a proper tax, and one upon which we should not depend for its support even in part.

Many other ways of taxation, such as the sales tax and the land tax, have more to be said in their favor.

The income tax was socialistic or communistic in its origin and it is oppressive in its continuance. It is a part of the plan of certain parties to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. For all the profits in this country arise from successful business men, and those business men should be encouraged and not hampered in their prosperity.

It is bad enough to have people snooping about and smelling your breath to detect whether or not you are using liquor. But it is far more detrimental to business to have other persons snooping about to see how much money you have made and how you have made it.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED IN FALL OF NAVY PLANE

Lieutenant and Mechanic Crushed as Craft Strikes Harbor.

ENTERED FOG BANK.

Men Had Flown From Washington Just Before the Accident.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Aug. 2.—A naval lieutenant and his mechanic attached to Forbes Field, Washington, met instant death late yesterday, when their seaplane crashed into the harbor about 800 yards from shore. The men were Lieutenant Howard F. Council of Hickory, N.C., pilot of the plane, and C. T. Giddens of Jacksonville, Fla. Their bodies were recovered.

The accident happened after the plane had landed here and left Captain E. S. Land of Washington, who came to visit members of his family who are spending the summer at Vineyard Haven. The plane took off from the waters of the harbor about two hours later for a trip to Newport, R.I., for gasoline and oil.

Only a few minutes after the ascent, however, the plane entered a cloud or small fog bank, about half a mile from shore and at an altitude of 600 feet. As the seaplane sped into the cloud it was apparently running perfectly, but as it emerged it took a sharp nose dive and plunged with bullet-like speed straight into the harbor just outside the breakwater. As it struck the water it collapsed.

The body of Giddens was found some distance away, on the bottom of the harbor in 18 feet of water. He still wore a parachute, which had been opened. Lieutenant Council's body was recovered later still strapped in the pilot's seat of the plane. Both bodies were badly crushed.

The seaplane, the A-7061, of the amphibian type, left Washington at 2.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Chatham, where Captain Land planned to inspect the buildings at the Naval Airplane Station. The men spent last night at Rockaway, leaving there at noon.

Captain Land said yesterday that the seaplane gave no indications of any defects during the trip from Washington, and that the engine ran perfectly. He said that, with the exception of the fog encountered just before landing here, the journey was ideal.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIAL MOST SUCCESSFUL

Booths Are Well Patronized by Large Crowd Which Attends.

PRIZE WINNERS

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 2.—In spite of lowering clouds which threatened a downpour all day, there was a very large crowd at the annual social of St. Paul's Church, Lakefield, and St. Mary's, Young's Point, under the direction of Rev. J. J. Garvey, parish priest. In the afternoon a game of softball was played between Centre Douro and Lakefield, which proved most interesting and resulted in a victory for the home team after a spirited contest.

A fowl supper was served in the exhibition building at six o'clock and was a beautiful meal, and was in charge of a competent and efficient committee of the two parishners who fully lived up to their well-known hospitable reputation, sparing no effort in serving their guests. In the evening the Citizens' Band was in attendance and provided a splendid programme of music. Miss Kearney and Miss Clara Young, Miss Flynn and Mr. Francis Conden were in charge of the refreshment stand and did a rushing business as the evening was warm and the demand great. Mr. Leo Spencer was in charge of a fascinating "cocoanut shy," which was particularly popular with the men and boys.

The fancy booth, with its quantities of beautiful articles ranging all the way from a practical wash boiler to a handsome down comforter and from a baby's swing to a rocking chair, was the attraction which drew scores of people to its vicinity and held them there all evening. Mr. T. Turcotte, of Peterboro, was in charge of the wheel of fortune and was assisted by the following efficient committee: Misses Emma Kennedy, Mona Fortier, Lillian Condon, Mary O'Toole, Helen Brookes and Minnie McCarthy, Dr. S. J. Gibson and Messrs. George Heffernan, James Garvey, Frank Carroll and others.

When a four and a half months' old pure bred Pomeranian puppy named "Teddy" donated by Master John Allen was put up, excitement ran high and this fascinating little creature was won by Rev. J. J. Garvey.

The social wound up about eleven o'clock and the large gathering, many of whom had come many miles, dispersed. Among the clergy present were: Rev. P. J. McGuire, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. Father Butler, Rev. Father Guiry and Rev. Father McCarney, all of Peterboro, Rev. J. V. MacAuley of Ennismore, Rev. Father Galvin of Downeyville and Rev. Father McCarthy of Rochester.

Among other out of town people who were present were: Acting Mayor Nagle Phelan, Mrs. Phelan and son Basil, Messrs. G.A. Gillespie J. J. Duftus, Kelly and and Hickey of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pringle of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Osborne of Toronto and Mr. Valentine Cavan of Buffalo.

The drawing for the prizes took place during the evening as follows: Miss Alice Charlton doing the drawing with Dr. G. E. Renwick holding the bag of tickets.

3rd prize—$5 in gold won by Michael Flood.

The beautiful doll named "Kitty" was won by Mrs. Rodey.

Before closing Father Garvey spoke a few words of appreciation for support and co-operation which contributed so largely to the success of the social.

hygienic problem now solved. A new and different way

THE old-time "sanitary pad" is fast becoming a rarity. Millions are discarding it as a needless hazard.

"KOTEX", a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his precription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

HOLD CONVENTION NEXT WEDNESDAY

Hastings-Peterboro Conservatives Meet—Norwood News.

NORWOOD, Aug. 2.—The annual meeting and convention of the Conservative Association of the Federal riding of Hastings-Perteboro will be held in the Town Hall, Marmora, at 1 o'clock p.m., on Wednesday, August 4, 1926, for the election of officers, transaction of business and the selection of a candidate to represent the party in the coming Federal election.

Addresses will be given by Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., W. E. Tummon, M.P., and John A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P.

Farewell Meeting.

On Thursday afternoon a number of the ladies of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. B. W. Squire to say farewell to Mrs. J. Buck, who leaves shortly for Western Canada to reside with her daughter. During the afternoon an address of appreciation was read to Mrs. Buck by the hostess and a W.M.S. life membership badge presented by Mrs. (Rev.) Stillman on behalf of the ladies. Mrs. Buck was entirely taken by surprise, but replied in a few well-chosen words, after which refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Mrs. Buck will be greatly missed in the church where she has labored faithfully and willingly for a number of years. Her numerous friends wish her God-speed.

Entertained Friends.

Mrs. F. C. McRae entertained a number of her friends on Thursday afternoon in honor of her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Maple, of Rochester, N. Y. In the evening a cup and saucer shower was tendered Miss Mary Barrie, who has been teaching in this district and who has made a large number of friends during her residence here. Miss Barrie is to be married shortly.

UNITED CHURCH GARDEN PARTY

Tabernacle Church Social is Great Success—Many Attend.

RECEIPTS LARGE

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 2.—The garden party held on Thursday evening on the lawn of Mr. Clement Russell, under the auspices of the Tabernacle United church, English Line, was a decided success. Although the weather was threatening, there was a splendid crowd and the various booths were busy throughout the evening. The Northumberland Regiment Band supplied the music for the evening. The grounds were well lighted with torches and many colored lanterns and pennants were used for decorations overhead and the various booths were gaily decorated with pennants and colored streamers.

The supper table was constantly filled from six o'clock until long after nine o'clock and the conveners Mesdames Peake, Mitchell, Smith, Maybee, Stepehens and Thain, with their many assistants, looked well after the needs of the crowd.

Miss Haig and Mrs. Peake, Sr., had charge of the booth for candy and fancy sewing, while Miss M. Peake as convener, with aid of many assistants, was in charge of the ice-cream tables. Miss Gould, Miss Haig, Messrs. Maybee, Stephens and Craighead were busy people serving ice cream, fruit and soft drinks and judging by the number around the booth eating watermelon, that trait cannot be all laid at the darkey's door.

Mr. George Stollery, who is a semi-invalid, had an attractive booth of wicker work which he had worked and the many different designs and articles showed the work of an an artists. Miss Stollery and Miss L. Locke were in charge of the booth and many of the baskets and trays were sold before it was time to close.

The gate receipts amounted to $212.

For the early evening a softball match was played between Pethericks Corners and English Line, the latter winning 12 to 11. Softball has made great strides among the country boys this summer and it is more than likely a softball league will replaced the present hard ball, by another season.

VENUS BECOMES AN EVENING STAR

Planet Is Daily Growing Dimmer—Now Morning Star.

Venus, brightest of all the planets, is modestly retreating from her stronghold in the blue northeastern skies of day, headed for the dark sides of the night, where she will make her abode in the southwest on the night of Nov. 21 and become an evening star.

Daily since last January, when she was in her brightest phase, Venus has been growing more dim, this dimness increasing as the year grew older and as she traveled farther away from the earth in her annual revolution.

But at that Venus remains still visible to the naked eye, although harder to see each day, according to Prof. Harold B. Curtis, visiting professor of Lake Forest college, at the Northwestern university observa-

"The best time to see her by daylight now is from dawn—the planet rises two hours before the sun—until noon, when the sight of the planet is blotted out by the strong rays of the sun, which is just two hours west of the planet," he said.

Back Again Next Year.

After Nov. 21 Venus will be in superior conjunction in its relationship to the earth, the sun hiding it from our view, but the first of next year it will again be dimly visible by day getting more brilliant daily. It will assume its full crescent-shaped brightness on August 4, 1927, when the seductive morning star will be in its most brilliant stage for the year.

Prof. Curtis said the sun is getting closer to the planet each day and, being brighter, is detracting from its glory. He also ascribed the difficulty one has in seeing the planet now to its close approach to the horizon.

Venus is always better seen at the greatest elongation of the planet from the sun, he explained. Before it becomes an evening star an eclipse of the planet by moon will take place. It will occur after setting, when the two planets will disappear below the horizon. This process, known as occultation among astronomers, will not be visible to the naked eye.

Mars Brightest Nov. 1.

Of the other bright planets, Mars will be visible on Nov. 1 in its brightest stage. At sundown it will appear to the observer as a massive red star showing itself in the eastern skies. It will remain bright all winter, rising each morning at 2 o'clock. Jupiter will send its bright rays from the dark heavens as an evening star this fall, but will not make itself seen until late in the evening—about 10 o'clock.

"The change in positions among the planets will not affect the weather," said Prof. Dinsmore Alter, visiting professor of astronomy at Evanston from the University of Kansas. "According to quantitative calculations the only temperature effects the planets have on the weather is a temperature variation of at most only two hundredths of a degree. This is the result of changes of insulation, owing to variations in distance from the earth to the sun caused by the planets.

MAN CONFESSES MANY CRIMES IN LONG CAREER

MANY ROBBERIES.

Prisoner Claims To Be Son of Canadian Jurist Named Johnson.

SEATTLE Wash., Aug. 2. —(Canadian Press). — Tom Smith, who said his real name was Tom Johnson, and that his father was a Canadian jurist, made a confession to the police here last night, purporting to show that he had committed six murders and taken part in a hundred hold-ups.

Smith said his home was in Salmon Arm, B. C.

He allegedly confessed he had committed murders in Minneapolis, Peoria, Ills., Ethelton, S. D., Mangati, Minn, Sioux City, Iowa, and Kansas City.

Shortly before the San Francisco earthquake, he said, he had killed a young companion in robbery. In 1914, he killed two railroad workers near Hazelton, B. C., and took $4,000 which they had hidden in their shoes.

The Seattel police were inclined to laugh at Smith's story but yesterday afternoon after some investigation declared they believed he was telling the truth.

PLOT UNCOVERED.

Nine Held Under Arrest For Attempted Assassination of President.

MEXICO CITY, August 2. Canadian Press. — While the Roman Catholic world prayed for Mexico yesterday in response to instructions from Pope Pius, and Mexican Catholics knelt in priestless churches, members of the Regional Confederation of Labor, together with government employees, paraded through Mexico City streets and other important centres of the country as a demonstration in support of the government's religious regulations.

The Venerable Archbishop Mora y del Rio, lay abed in his suburban residence, utterly exhausted from his labors of recent weeks, when he was on duty from early morning until after mid-night each day, saying masses and confirming thousands.

So far as could be learned, the people, their feelings inflamed by the events of the past few weeks, kept themselves in control throughout the demonstration yesterday. But reports continued to come in indicating disturbances and clashes in various parts of the republic yesterday afternoon and last night when the churches were turned over to the citizens committees as the priests withdrew.

The utmost police and military vigilance was continued throughout the day, every soldier of the Federal army resting upon his arms in readiness for instant duty. Officials of the presidential staff and secret service operatives, continued their investigation of the plot disclosed last night against the life of President Calles by a group under the leadership of Senor ita Dolores Lemus, a young stenographer employed at the city hall.

With six other women and two men she is being held under arrest, while the authorities are seeking others alleged to be implicated. Whe and how the plotters intended their attempt to kill the chief executive has not been disclosed.

The economic boycott proposed by the League for the defence of Religious Liberty, composed largely, if not altogether, of Catholics, is taking effect in some parts of the republic, according to special despatches. This boycott is designed to bring about a cessation of purchases, except absolute necessities, thus creating an economic slump, which the League's director hopes will react so unfavorably as to force the government to modify its religious policy.

In some towns all Catholics are reported to be wearing mourning, the houses are draped with crepe, while all Catholic-owned business places were closed for five minutes at noon Saturday. Meanwhile, all Catholics meaning a vast majority in these places—knelt in front of homes and stores bemoaning the plight of their church and praying for its relief.

The Episcopal Christ Church Cathedral doors were open yesterday permitting those desiring to meditate and pray, to enter. Dean Peacock, forbidden to officiate, conducted communion in his private residence at 8 o'clock this morning, which was construed as not constituting a violation of the law.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD IN CATHEDRAL

"They Were Christian Young Men," Says Rev. Dr. Seager.

TORONTO, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press)—Words of consolation were brought to lighten human sorrow at the memorial service for the victims of the Balsam Lake tragedy in St. James Cathedral last night. The service, said the Rev. Dr. C. A. Seager, Bishop elect of Ontario, was to honor the memory of the youths.

The first consolation, he said, was found in the very memory of those to whom the tribute was being paid. "They were Christian young men," he said. "In the sanctuary of God they found interpretation and inspiration for their lives.

"Well for them that when the hour of trial came this had been their experience."

New Frocks Employ Skirt Fulness

As the season advances, the vogue for prints is being more frequently evidenced, as the dainty frock above attests. The dress is cut in one-piece and displays a round neck-line opening in front, short kimono sleeves and a silhouette that would be straight, except for the employment of fulness in the apron tunic at the front. This little apron drapery is an important fashion item, and so is the shirring at the upper edge where it is sewn to the dress. A belt of contrasting color ribbon ties about the hips. The small back view pictures the frock with long sleeves, which are provided in the pattern. NO. 1155 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¾ yards 36-inch figured material; long sleeves ⅝ yard additional; ribbon for belt 1¼ yards. Price 20 cents.

The garments illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her desires fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

MARRIAGE AS LAST RESORT.

Joan and I were so busy getting Lela ready for the hospital that it seemed no time at all before the ambulence came shrieking up to the door.

After the first burst of grief and horror Lela seemed apathetic. She put herself absolutely in our hands.

"I'll have to go with her to the hospital," said Joan to me.

"Of course," I answered, "and I'll come along a little while afterward when I have put the place in order."

After they had left I suddenly felt physically weak. I grew frightened. I wondered if I were going to faint. I felt greatly depressed, but why I should be I could not explain to myself. With that startling truth, which is almost always stranger than fiction, providence had entered, and ignoring our plans had taken all of us and treating us like pawns had settled everything.

Everything now was going on splendidly. We really had nothing more to fear. Joan would in a few days be of age and her stepfather, according to the terms of the will, would have to turn her money over to her. She could do what she pleased. She would probably go to Europe, at least I would advise her to do so. And I? Well, after the series of thrills I had been having I could hardly see anything that did not look monotonous ahead of me.

I wondered if this were the end. I wondered if it were possible for a girl to carve out her own way. After all my fine ambitions and plans, was I going to be just like all the rest of my sex and settle down and marry after all?

Was it going to be Jerry, just because I did not know what else to do with myself? Though I knew Jerry was worth loving, that little speech of Mamie's still kept bobbing up in my mind. And measured by it, I was sure that I did not really love him.

Mamie had said to me while talking of Buddy Tremaine, "We don't know why we love this man and do not love that man. We don't know when love will come, neither do we know when it will go. But there is one iact we never mistake, we know when we are in love."

Because I had doubts I knew that as splendid as Jerry was, I did not love him well enough to marry him.

And if I did not do that, what was I going to do? I could hardly go back to the Department Store even if I wished. At this moment I hoped I would never see anyone connected with it again.

I wondered if any other girl had mulled over a problem as I was mulling over one now. If I married Gerald Hathaway, Jr., I would never want for anything. He was rich, good looking, and as far as I knew, very much in love with me. I liked to be with him, what more did my restless heart desire?

JERRY MAKES A MISTAKE.

"What more than a man like Jerry was needed to make one a happy wife?

"What a little twist was there in my own brain that made me hesitate? Was it because I had been so unfortunate as not to find anyone who after ten years of married life seemed very happy?"

The first memories of my mother were of seeing her gentle eyes misted with tears. She had been nagged all her life by my father, and yet he was what the world called a good husband. He provided for her bountifully. He was always with her—more is the pity—for he never allowed her to have an idea of her own. She was as much his chattel as though he had bought and paid for her.

This seemed to be the status of all the husbands and wives in that little country town from which I had come. The women were comparatively busy and possibly contented in caring for their children, and that was all.

Since I had come to the city I had seen an entirely different kind of life—a kind of life I had read about and seen upon the screen. But these people were not any happier. There was Robert Tremaine. He had not been happy with his wife long before he knew Mamie. And yet she had told me that when they were married, Bobby Tremaine was crazy about his wife. What had made them grow apart? What was this terrible thing that came between always?

In the lives of all my acquaintances, rich and poor, there was some hitch somewhere which made life and love a very different proposition from the life I had dreamed.

As if to further mix up my problem, I met Jerry as I left the apartment house.

"How did you know I was here?" I asked.

"I saw Mamie on the street," he answered promptly, "after you ran away from me this morning and she told me that I would probably find you at The Circle. I went there, and after describing Joan and you to Jem Smith, he said that you probably were over here.

"It's a queer place for you to be, Judy," he said looking around. "I don't like you to go to such places without some man with you."

Immediately the old fighting spirit rose in me. Here was Jerry finding fault with me for doing someth ng that he knew nothing about. Just when I had softened toward him, just when I had made up my mind that perhaps the safety of Jerry's home was best for me, I knew that I could not accept it.

Furtively, I looked up into his face and saw his mouth had settled into decisive lines. I knew he was thinking that he knew what was best for me—perhaps he did, but I also knew that I did not love Jerry Hathaway well enough to let him decide my life for me. I must still go on my own way.

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

Monday, August 2, 1926.

(Copyright, 1926, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Friendly stars rule today, according to astrology which finds the aspects helpfu for many important projects.

It is a lucky sway under which to do business with bankers or to settle outstanding debts and obligations.

Women are well directed in all their larger enterprises and again the seers prophesy for them important national campaigns.

Reforms will come much to the front in public interest at this time when there probably will be great planning activity in organizations.

The moon today is in a sign making for stimulation along certain intellectual lines of work. Teachers, educators and writers should benefit.

There is an especially good sign for advertising and persons in the artistic professions will benefit from publicity, it is foretold.

Mars is in a place making for big advances in constructive enterprises and appears to promise immense contracts for engineers and contractors.

Much public work in building is prognosticated and again there is to be the element of surprise in the development of big undertakings, the seers predict.

Mars is approaching the opposition of Saturn and serious controversies may be looked for among our legislators.

Again election campaigns of unusual features in which rivalries are keen and not altogether fair in their manner of seeking success are forecast and the autumn is to bring out many manifestations of human frailties.

London astrologers have predicted an international sensation due to the discovery of forged bonds or banknotes. Russia is to be nvolved in this, it is prophesied.

Shipping disasters foretold early in the year have been numerous, but apparently more are to be expected.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect a fortunate year in wh ch they will receive good news from legal sources. Change: that are lucky may be looked for.

Children born on this day probably will enjoy unusual financial success, but they may sustain heavy losses through the failure of a bank or a corporation

Pirate Play

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

A BANDANNA handkerchief, a sash, a wooden sword, and the imaginative child is living a different character, perhaps in far away lands. Familiar things and places assume fascinating strangeness in the heat of imagination. It's not just make-believe, either: that is, conscious make-believe, but children have the faculty of actually living the situation w'th very real reactions. Something about the fancy free and daring roving of the buccaneers of old grips most of us in song and story, and it's no wonder that playing pirate is a favorite with children. Even the most timid child can develop into a bold pirate, which play will be stimulating instincts he certainly needs to develop.

There the pirates gather for a council in the sand.
Far across the ocean have they brought the king's fair daughter,
Stealing her with treasure from her royal father's land.

Hotly chased by warships have they crossed the rolling ocean
Pirate flag a-flying; wind a-singing in the sails,
Riding all the storm waves with a rolling, rocking motion,
Headed ever westward have they weathered all the gales.

Safe on strange shores landed, now the treasure must be buried,
Thirty paces from the tree and forty paces north.
Pirate chief and princess by a strange form will be married
And she shall reign as pirate queen on this day and henceforth.

High up in the willow is the pirate lookout spying,
At a far call sounding, down he slips to warn the bunch
Chief and queen and pirates in a scramble all go flying—
Forgotten is the treasure—for it's mother's call to lunch!

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

SIR WALTER SCOTT AND CHARLOTTE CARPENTER.

"She is not a beauty by any means but her person and face are very engaging."

This was how Scott, the Scotch novelist, described his sweetheart, Charlotte Carpenter. But despite his modesty on her behalf, Charlotte was a very fair girl and a bright person, a brunette with a mischievous eye. She was Scott's second love, his first sweetheart having jilted the raw literary beginner in favor of a learned professor. Charlotte's real name was Charpentier, and she was a French girl whose relatives resided in England. Her French spiritedness is shown in this letter to her fiance:

"If I could only believe that my letter gave you half the pleasure you express I should almost think, my dearest Scott, that I should ge very fond of writing merely for the pleasure to indulge you—and that is saying a great deal. I hope you are sensible of the compliment I pay you and don't expect I shall always be so pretty behaved. You may depend upon me, my dearest friend, for fixing as early a date for the wedding as I possibly can; an d if it happens to be not quite as soon as you wish you must not be angry with me.

"It is very unlucky you are such a bad housekeeper—as I am no better. I shall try. I hope to have very soon the pleasure of seeing you and to tell you how much I love you; but I wish the first fortnight was over. With all my love, and those sort of pretty things, adieu.—Charlotte.

"P.S.—Etudiez votre Francais. Remember you are to teach me Italian in return; but I shall be but a stupid scholar.—Aimez Charlotte."

AMANDA.

Though not generally considered a romantic name, Amanda has, by heritage, the right to be considered the essence of sentiment. The name signifies 'worthy to be beloved' and is one of the feminine names derived from the Latin verb 'amo,' to love. There are many modern derivatives of the little Latin word, especially in all the Southern languages of Western Europe.

The Gallic Christinas found pleasing religious significance in employing amo as a root of names given to their children. Amabilis (lovable); Amator (lover); Amata (loved); and Amandus (about to be loved) are successive steps in the evolution of Amanda. The existence of St. Amand caused the last-named to survive and find popularity among the religiously inclined. Amanda was considered one of the complimentary noms de plume of the Eighteenth century, and Amandine became a favorite fanciful French version.

Amanda has always been popular in Sweden. The Swedish poet, Eric Stagnelius, is the author of a charming lyric to her:

"Where sun and flower are beaming,
Amanda's charms appear;
Her beauty's rays are streaming
Round all this earthly sphere:
The breeze when lightly blowing—
The rose that scents the grove—
The vine, when brightly glowing—
And tell of her I love."

Amanda's talismanic stone is the amethyst, which has a sobering effect upon its wearer. It strengthens her self-control, quickens her intelligence, and preserves her from evil. To dream of an amethyst signifies freedom from harm. Saturday is Amanda's lucky day and 4 her lucky number. The primrose, signifying youthfulness, is her flower.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Today's talismanic stone is the lode stone, which attracts friends, riches and fame to its wearer, according to an old legend, and makes a woman irresistible, whether she be beautiful or not.

Today's natal gem is the opal. Under the proper conditions this stone brings rare good luck, so the ancients believed. It should be set in gold and worn around the neck or as a brooch. In this way it is believed to bring good luck to affairs ot the heart.

Black should be worn today.

The sweet pea is today's flower; symbolic of thoughtfulness, it brings good judgment to those who wear it.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A DAINTY SUMMER COSTUME.

"Girls, I have a problem in which you must help me," Haidee announced while we were enjoying the early morning lull in the manikins' room today.

We glanced at her inquiringly, and she continued

"I have a pretty young cousin of eighteen who lives in a small town out West, and as she never gets to New York to see the fashions, she often writes for my advice on the question of clothes. This time she wants a simple afternoon costume, which will serve for all the party occasions of Summer. I must add that her means are limited and that she usually makes her own clothes."

"A lovely slim blonde, with very yellow hair," Haidee answered.

We al agreed that there is nothing more effective than the proper yellow for a pretty blonde, though not many years ago, yellow was considered a brunette color only.

'I'll tell her to choose a soft yellow, not too brilliant," Haidee said. "And now for the design."

We all combined our talents to produce the simple frock above, which Pam sketched with care making copious footnotes. We advised her that abbreviated sleeves would be the thing, making the frock ideal for afternoon and also for evening occasions where a strictly evening dress was not necessary. The rest is simple, and there is a soft crushed girdle of the material.

Haidee advised her to get a simple yellow hair hat from a good milliner, and to have it trimmed with two yellow roses. She remarked

"Thin black hair would be smart and very practical, but I do think she would look adorable in an all-yellow costume."

We all agreed that it was fun planning clothes for someone who appreciated our talents, and sent her a note offering free advice whenever she wanted it.

FAMOUS BELLEVILLE ATTACK BRINGS VICTORY TO VISITORS IN SATURDAY SLUGGING MATCH

FINAL SCORE 10-9

Winners Use Three Pitchers to Stem Rallies by Peterboro Club.

There was only one fly in the ointment for the customers who visited James Stevenson park on Saturday to see the Belleville-Peterborough game. There was plenty of hitting, some fine fielding, and even the odd error to add to the excitement. But—when it was all over Belleville had won; the Petes' dying kick had fallen one short and the score was 10-9 for the visitors.

For five innings the game went calmly along without any excitement. Al Heckman was pitching a fine brand of ball and was backed up by airtight fielding. His team mates were finding Ouellet's offerings to their taste, getting men on in every inning and sending two of them across the scoring station.

Suddenly all was changed. One of those batting rampages for which the Belleville team has been famous ever since the opening of the C.O.B.L. was staged, following an error when the side should have been retired. Five solid hits, a hit batsman, another error, and six runners of the Quinte city had wended their way across the pan.

Then the Petes went after Ouellet in real earnest. Four hits, with an error by Harry Mills, sent Ouellet to the showers and four Peterborough runs in to tie the score.

Again the game went peacefully along for two innings. Then came the ninth, destined to prove fatal to the Peterborough hopes. Three hits, a sacrifice, and two errors sent in four runs.

Again the Petes went forth to tie the score and to win if possible, but it was not to be. They drove "Hoot" Gibson from the mound and loaded the bases by taking advantage of Goyer's wildness, but when three runs had been scored on three hits and three charities, he struck out two batters to end the game.

The Features.

From the Belleville point of view Stan Hagerman was the star hitter. He secured only one hit, but it counted. It was a double and came when the bases were full, driving in three runs. Palmer, Meagher, and Blakely had two hits each, securing them at opportune moments.

For the Petes Ash, with three hits, one a double, was the leader. Max Swanston's two doubles were both effective in the scoring column, as were Wolfe's two hits.

Both infielders and outfielders produced some sparkling plays. Jim Hall and Hagerman both made hard catches look easy in left, while the other four outer gardners did their work well.

Every one of the infielders made one or more fine stops and some bullet like throws went across the diamond. Helson and Rose made probably the most difficult stops, recovering their balance to turn and beat the batters by inches.

Heckman pitched a fine brand of ball but the concerted attack of the Belleville team in the fifth and ninth brought about his downfall. Ouellet was going nicely until the fifth, while Gibson, who gets credit for the win, hurled nice ball. Goyer pitched to five batsmen and issued three charities, but was able to fool Hardill and Rose at the crucial moment, striking them out when a hit of any kind would have meant the game.

The Play By Innings.

Weir lifted a high one which Hall took out near the fence. Meagher rolled to the box. Ross made a fine stop of Harry Mills' hot grounder and recovered in time to throw the batter out.

For the Petes, Wolfe walked and stole second. Ouellet managed to catch Ray Rose's tap on the fly and made a quick throw to double Wolfe. Swanston doubled down the left field foul line. Heckman lifted a high one to deep left which Hagerman was unable to hold after a hard run and one-handed stab, the drive going for a double and scoring Swanston. Hall grounded to Weir.

W. Mills tapped one down in front of the plate which Swanston snapped up to throw him out. Blakely bounded to Holyman and Hagerman flied to Hall.

Ash struck out in the Petes' half Harrison grounded to H. Mills, the first baseman winning a close race for the bag. Helson singled but W. Mills fielded Holyman's tap.

A Belleville Hit.

In the third the first Belleville runner got on the sacks when Palmer hit a hot liner through short. Young sacrificed, Ouellet struck out, and Weir flied to left field.

The Petes scored another in their half. Wolfe singled, stole second, and went to third when Rose rolled to Mills. He scored after the catch on Swanston's fly to Hagerman, beating a good throw from the outfield. Heckman was safe on Weir's error but was forced by Hall.

The Trunks went out one, two, three, in the fourth. Meagher grounded to Holyman, H. Mills rolled to Rose, and W. Mills flied out to Ash.

The Petes got two men on but couldn't score. Ash beat out a hit to Blakely but was forced on Harrison's roller to the same player. Helson walked but Holyman struck out and Wolfe hit to the box.

In the fifth the visitors left two men stranded. Blakely beat out a hit to Holyman, Hagerman sacrificed and Palmer struck out. Young was walked, Blakely stealing third, but Ouellet struck out.

For the Petes, Rose lifted to Young, Swanston was safe on Meaghers error. Heckman struck out, and Hall flied to Palmer.

The Big Inning.

The sixth inning didn't start as if it was to be one of heavy scoring, but before it was over ten runs had been scored, six by the visitors. To start, Weir rolled to the box, Meagher got a single on a hot bounder that Heckman knocked down with his bare hand, the Belleville second baseman beating out Tommy Holyman's quick recovery. H. Mills popped to Helson, making two out.

Then the trouble started. Rose messed up W. Mills' grounder and Blakely was hit. Hagerman obligingly drove all three runners home with a double to right centre, going to third on the throw to the plate to get Blakely. Palmer slammed a hot one back at Heckman, the pitcher just deflecting it out of Rose's reach. Hagerman scored on the hit. Young was safe on Holyman's error and went to second on Ouellet's hit to right. Weir, up for the second time, doubled, scoring Young, but Meagher grounded to Holyman.

The Petes tied it up in their half and sent Ouellet to the bench. Ash started it with a single and went to third on Harrison's double. Blakely threw out Helson after a feint that held the other runners. On Holyman's roller Mills elected to get Ash at the plate, but through the ball into the dirt in front of brother Bill, allowing the runners to score. Harrison tried to come in and was out, Mills to Ouellet, but Umpire Kay ruled that he go back to third. Wolfe and Rose then produced doubles, Harrison, Holyman, and Wolfe scoring, and Ouellet proceeding to the bench. Gibson, the relief twirler, threw out Swanston and forced Heckman to roll to Blakely.

The teams proceeded on even terms until the ninth. In the seventh flies to Wolfe, Harrison and Ash retire the Mills brothers and Blakely.

The eighth was George Helson's inning, the stocky third baseman throwing out Hagerman, Palmer, and Young. His fine stop of Hagerman's drive near the bag was an especially good effort.

Helson was hit to start the Petes' half, but Holyman struck out, Wolfe lifted to Hagerman, and Rose to Meagher.

The Final Runs.

The excitement that prevailed in the sixth was as nothing to that in the ninth. The visitors scored four runs in their half and then the Petes scored three and filled the bases with only one out, forcing Manager Gerow to call on Gilly Goyer to stop the advance. Over anxiety proved costly and the tying run stayed on third base.

Gibson helped to win his game by starting the inning with a single on a drive back of first which Rose knocked down. Weir provided the conventional sacrifice and Meagher singled. H. Mills hit to Holyman, who fumbled, and then Rose pulled one for the book when he stood several yards from second while Meagher ambled down from first. Rose then fumbled W. Mills' roller, allowing Meagher to score. Blakely singled, sending home the Mills brothers and going to second on the throw to the plate. Hagerman and Palmer ended the inning with rollers to Rose and Holyman.

The Petes nearly tied it up. Swanston doubled but Hagerman spoiled Heckman's fine bid for another pretty catch near the fence. Hall and Ash followed with two base drives, sending in two runs, and Gibson was banished. Goyer started by walking Harrison and Jack Hall, who batted for Helson. With the bases full Jeff Hardill batted for Holyman. With the count three and two he reached for a high one and stuck out. Goyer then hit Wolfe, forcing in Ash. Abby Rose crossed the plate, although Goyer was having trouble with left handers, and struck out, apparently fooled by some wide ones, which would have forced in the tying run.

QUAKER OATS WHACK DE LAVAL GORDON CUP TIE

Mitchell Converted All the Goals in the First Half.

WEAK DEFENSE

Second Half Was Very Slow —Hanson Clever on the Ball.

The semi-final of the Gordon Soccer Cup resulted in the Quaker Oats eliminating the De Laval by three clear goals on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval, before a good attendance of spectators. Mitchell was the marksman for the day with all the goals to his credit.

Goal in Seven Minutes.

Dyer of De Laval kicked off 15 minutes late with only nine men against the Quaker Oats full eleven, who had the sun at their backs while their opponents had difficulty in seeing the ball facing the sun. Each goal was visited in rotation but the Quakers pressed home the advantage when Burgess broke away on the right. Smith and Jory shouted "offsides" as he banged the ball into the goal where Mitchell trapped it quickly, to let drive into the net, far out of Jones' reach. De Laval now had a full team when Fowler completed the eleven. Midfield play continued, until Wilson broke up a Quaker attack, to let Hanson make progress on the left and swing the ball across on the run. It was a splendid effort because Curtis fisted clear when Dyer was on him but Cross put pass from the opportunity presented.

Defense Slow to Tackle.

A concentrated movement by the Quaker half-backs resulted in their forwards hovering around Jones' citadel for the next ten minutes when "offsides" was the dominant factor, with flag-kicks coming next in favor of the Quakers, who were shooting at the De Laval custodian to no purpose. Twice in succession he run out of his goal to pick the ball away from an opponent's foot. Then two corner kicks, taken by Williams, caused excitement around the goal area when Jones pulled off spectacular saves in mid-air.

Mitchell Made it Two.

Wilson headed clear but Carmichael passed across to Burgess. The De Laval claimed "offsides", but referee ruled otherwise. Burgess beat along the wing and lifted the sphere into centre, where Mitchell gained the advantage when Jones tried to intercept the play in front of the goal, but the ball came his way to make the Quakers two up. Exchanges were even thereafter until a similar play as before resulted in the same marksman doing "the hat trick." The remainder of the first half was in favour of the De-Laval but the Quaker defense replied with close tackling which held them outside the shooting distance and giving W. Curtis ample time to keep his goal intact. Half-time arrived with the Quakers 3 and De-Laval 0.

Half-Time.

On resuming, DeLaval arranged their team to a better understanding and they are just as good as any other team, but they never have the same defense, which is certainly the stronghold. The Smith-Lindsay defense was certainly missed on Saturday last, in fact, Honour was trying to do two men's work while his partner lacked the necessary practice.

Hanson Always Dangerous.

Throughout the entire tussel, Hanson was the star in defense and attack. His clever tackling and swinging passes into goal while on the run caused the Quaker's defense plenty of trouble as Dyer would tackle as the ball dropped in front of goal. As time rolled on, the play deteriorated into a kick-and-rush style thereby terminating in kicking out at touch and foul kicks for illegal body checking.

Quakers Held Lead.

From a foul kick against Cross, the Quakers again visited Jones citadel to find the custodian making no mistakes as he stopped long distance efforts ranged at him. With only five minutes to go, the De Laval made a desperate effort to bring down the lead but the Quakers gained the decision to go into the final of the Gordon Cup against the Omemee vs Thistle, by the score of three clear goals to nil.

Goal-scorer—Mitchell, Quakers 3.

Quakers—W. Curtis, goal; Cridland and Harry Curtis, backs; W. Logan, Carmichael and A. Maker, halves; Burgess, Geo. Logan, A. Mitchell, A. Wilson and T. Wilson, forwards.

De Laval—Jones, goal; Jory and Honour, backs; Smith, Wilson and Fowler, halves; Cross, Lindsay, Dyer, Pulley and Hanson, forwards.

Referee—Wm. Rickard.

Linesmen—T. Stewart and A. McKinley.

WESTERN ACE WINS AMATEUR GOLF HONORS

CANADIAN TITLE

Toronto Player Loses With Three Up and Two to Score.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— Carson MacWilliams, of Calgary, Alta., retained his title of Western Canada amateur golf champion, in the final of the Western Canada Golf Association tournament here Saturday.

After a week of remarkable golf Don Carrick, of Toronto, fell before the brilliant playing of the western ace, and lost to MacWilliams, three up and two to play.

Throughout the match MacWilliams displayed golf of championship calibre, completing the last nine holes of the morning round in the splendid score of 33, four under par, and finished the round four up.

Carrick played a steadier game in the afternoon and at one time had regained two holes on his opponent, but was unable to catch the western star, who continued his steady march to the championship. The cards follow:

Morning.

MacWilliams—
Out—456, 444, 344—38.
In—324, 444, 535—38—71.

Carrick—
Out—445, 544, 544—39.
In—436, 644, 436—40—79.

Afternoon.

MacWilliams—
Out—355, 354, 554—36.
In—444, 444—24.

Carrick—
Out—446, 345, 543—38.
In—435, 444—24.

Earlier in the week, Ned McKenna, of Minaki, Ont., annexed the Western Canada open and professional titles, and Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., Canadian amateur champion, won the Manitoba amateur championship. The Western Canada junior championship was won by Ronald Bannister, of Winnipeg, on Saturday.

BUFFALO WIN OVER SYRACUSE IN DOUBLE GAME

Bill Kelly Smashes Out Thirty-Third Homer of Season.

TORONTO DEFEATED

Howley and Stewart Ordered Off Field by Umpire Cook.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.— (Canadian Press).— Harb Thormahlen won his fifteenth game of the season at Rochester yesterday. The Leafs were the victims, 1-0. A close decision at first gave the game to Rochester and resulted in Umpire Crooke chasing Dan Hawley and Stewart to the clubhouse.

Billy Kelly, slugging first sacker of the Bisons, celebrated the day named in his honor by smashing his thirty third circuit swat of the season before his home town bleachers. The Bisons spanked the Syracuse team on both ends of the double-header, 8-6, and 2-1. Kelly was presented with a diamond ring and a diamond stickpin by his admirers.

The Bears made a Sunday dinner out of the Orioles to-day, winning the first, 4-1, and making 16 runs in seven innings to take the second 16-2.

Reading played at Jersey City and lost both games, 11-5 and 5-3.

CHICAGO LOSES TWO STRAIGHT TO YANKEES

Pennock Has Excellent Control—Keeps Hits Well Scattered.

SCHANG HIT HOMER

St. Louis Browns Comes Out First Over Washington.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.— (Canadian Press).— New York's Yankees bunched hits off Thomas and Connally at Chicago yesterday and made it two straight by an 8-4 win. Pennock had excellent control and although freely hit kept them scattered in all but two innings.

The St. Louis Brown came from behind to cheer their fans and won from Washington, 8-7, yesterday. Schang hit a homer scoring behind Robertson to tie the count in the eighth. Then Williams singled to bring in the winning run. Judge hit a homer in the first with two on.

At Cleveland a pitcher's battle between Ruffing and Levsen ended in a 2-1 victory for Cleveland over Boston. Neither team scored until the ninth when Ruffing scored for Boston.

Wyatt, pinch batting for Levsen, started Cleveland's half of the game with a single. He took second on Regan's wild throw and Jamieson's sacrifice hit, only to be run down when Spurgeon hit to Rigney. Speaker walked and Spurgeon and he worked a double steal. Barns followed with a single that scored both. Levsen allowed but four hits and Ruffing five.

CANADIAN AMATEUR OARSMEN HELD 44TH ANNUAL REGATTA

Ottawa High School Wins First Honors in Class Event.

ROWING CLUB EVEN

Ottawa and Toronto Varsity Clubs Fail to Land Championships.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug 2. (Canadian Press).—Honors were exceptionally well distributed among the competing clubs at the 44th annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, which was concluded on the Royal Canadian Henley Course Saturday evening. Ottawa and Toronto University clubs were the only two who failed to land a championship, but both were strong factors in all their events. The Ottawa High School eight, which is closely allied with the Rowing Club, won first honors in the school boys' class and only lost out because of oar and seat accidents early in the school fours. These accidents came just too late to have the race restarted. Below is the regatta summary:

Club.	1	2	3	Pts.
Argonauts, Toronto	2	4	3	17
Westsides, Buffalo	3	3	1	16
Dons, Toronto	3	1	2	13
Lachine, Montreal	2	1	4	12
Niagara Aquatic,
St. Catharines	1	4	0	11
Detroit, Detroit	2	1	0	8
Undines, Philadelphia	2	1	0	8
Winnipeg, Winnipeg	1	2	0	7
Wyandotte, Wyandotte	2	0	0	6
Ottawa, Ottawa	0	1	4	6
McGill University,
Montreal	1	1	0	5
Brockville, Brockville	1	0	0	3
Toronto Varsity,
Toronto	0	1	0	2

The victory of Wyandottes junior eight champions in the senior eights over the crack Winnipeg eight which had made such a remarkable showing on Friday was somewhat of a sensation. The Michigan crew, taken in hand only this spring by Coach Stanley Hartman, secured an early advantage and expanded it to over three lengths at the finish. Lachine was third by two lengths.

The time of the final was over five seconds slower than that of the junior eights on the previous day when Wyandottes defeated Detroit and Ottawa and eight seconds slower than the preliminary senior heat on the day previous when Winnipeg ran away from Argonauts by nine lengths. It was practically the same as that of the preliminary heat in which Lachine eliminated Toronto University. The head wind was probably a trifle stiffer than on the previous day.

One hour and twenty minutes later half of the westerners senior eight competed against four fresh crews in the senior four and took second place, forcing Puchard's Argonaut crew to go the limit to win by a length and a half with Lachine third by a big stretch of water; Band's Argo crew was fourth. Buffalo westsiders quit after a mile.

McDonald and Conacher of Winnipeg, in winning the senior doubles, earned the admiration of the crowd by their beautiful style, powerful stroke, and smooth recovery.

Walter Hoover, former Duluth oarsman, now with the Undine Barge Club of Philadelphia, had little difficulty in capturing the quarter mile dash against his team mate, Nelson, and F. W. Burns of Toronto Dons. Hoover made a complete walkaway of the senior singles, his only opponent, Johnny Durnan of Toronto Argnauts, senior champion in 1924, failing to put up a serious argument at any stage of the race. Hoover romped in with a margin of ten lengths.

Coach Hartman stated last evening that it was unlikely that the Wyandotte Legion Club's crew, winners of the Hanlan Memorial trophy, would compete at the N.A.A.O. regatta at Philadelphia next Saturday.

Hoover and Nelson of Undines, though entered in the senior doubles, were unable to compete, failing in their efforts to procure a shell.

The new McGill University four from Montreal, had no trouble in defeating St. Catharines in the working boat fours.

Detroit's victory in the senior 140 pound eights over St. Catharines was equally one-sided. Argonauts, who were third to St. Catharines in the junior event on Friday, were obliged to scratch their entry because Scace Nomi had contracted boils.

On the whole, the contests were scarcely up to the mark of some previous years and the day's events did not produce as good racing as some of the contests on the previous days of the same regatta. The first and last races of the day, however, were positively thrilling. Lachine pulled out a win in the senior 150 pound eights by a bare half length on Paulus' Detroit crew. Argonauts and a second Detroit crew, winners of the junior 150 lb. eights were also strong contenders right to the final stage. Spicer, the Montreal coxswain, made a crafty move when in outside water he steered wide and went under the lee of a high bank protecting his crew for considerable distance against the wind.

It was the first defeat for the Detroit crew in three years.

Part of the same Lachine eight figured in the last event, the senior 150 pound four, which had most unusual features. Buffalo Westsides squeezed out a win by less than a quarter of a length from Ottawa, who went off the course in the last quarter of a mile after having rowed bow to bow with Buffalo for a mile. Shouted warnings to the Ottawa crew brought no response from the overtaxed Senators, whose shell was headed straight for the concrete foundation of the Maple Leaf works. They were saved from crashing by a submerged slimy post upon which the bow of their shell was suspended by its own impetus. Fraser, the bow man, notwithstanding his semi-exhausted state, leaped from the shell into the water to relieve the shell and caused some alarm until he came to the surface very slowly. Lachine was third by a length.

Unfortunately no time was taken for the senior 150 pound eights, due to the breaking down of the judges' boat. Incidentally it may be remarked each day had its accidents of this kind which were contributed to by weeds near the starting point. It is possible that these mishaps may hurry a change in the course which will place the start in deeper water and will mean a new grand stand in a different location which is already projected. President Louden of the C.A.A.O. will have a survey made on the ice next winter.

MILL TAKES LEAD BY BEATING CLERKS

Errors in Field Cause Loss—Teams May Finish Tied.

The Mill went into the lead in the Softball Association by winning last night's game from the Clerks 15 to 12.

The Clerks started strong, scoring five runs in the first innings, but played indifferently in the field after the second innings, and the Mill boys were mixing their hits with Clerk errors for runs in bunches, while the Clerk batters fell down with men on the bases.

The biggest crowd of the season was on hand expecting a tight battle and they were not disappointed.

If both teams win their remaining games, they will finish in a tie for first place.

Line up:

Mill.—Blakely, ss; Ayrhart, lf; Cochrane, 2b; Montgomery, 1b; Storie, p; Reeves, 3b; Blake, cf; Bennett, c; Diamond, rf.

CARDINALS LOSE THIRD STRAIGHT GAME TO GIANTS

Keely Slammed Home Run, Bringing in Two, in Eighth.

FLOWERS OUT

Robins Win Three Straight Over Chicago Cubs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—(Canadian Press). — The New York Giants won their third consecutive game from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday 7-2. Jackson hit a home run with one on in the fourth and Kelly slammed for the circuit with two on in the eighth. Bottomly turned out his 15th homer in the fourth. Jakes Flowers, St. Louis second sacker was out of the game with a sprained thumb.

Charlie Root held the Robins to five hits in Brooklyn yesterday but the Robins won 2-1 making it three straight over the Chicago Cubs. The visitors gathered seven safeties off Doug McSweeny.

Only two games were scheduled for the National circuit yesterday.

HOPE AT LAST.

There was a landlubber with the shipwrecked crew that had been adrift for two days, with hope at low ebb.

"What's that?" exclaimed the landsman, pointing into the distance. "That's land, isn't it?"

"I see nothing but the horizon," replied the first mate.

"Well, hang it, that's better than nothing. Let's pull for it."—Capper's Weekly.

Diamond Disputes Decided

On infield fly what are rights of runners to advance?

* * *

When umpire rules batted ball an infield fly with first and second or first, second and third occupied, with less than two out, the batsman is auto matically retired.

Due to the fact that major leagues once differed on this rule, it is confusing to some.

The rights of runners to advance on an infield fly are the same as on any other fly ball that is caught or muffed.

If ball is caught, runners must return to their bases to escape being retired. If muffed, they can run a their peril.

There is no difference as to proper advancement of runners, between an infield or outfield fly.

MOVIGRAPHS

HOLLYWOOD.—The movie world has become the haven of notables in sports; champions who turn to the films between triumphs in their own sphere; near champs and old-timers who have lost their "silk;" relics of past glories on field, ring and track who bring atmosphere and frequently a decided acting aptitude to the screen.

Red Grange, football ace, is the latest recruit. Dempsey, of course, has had his fling in film. Duke Kahanamoku, great swimmer, has been in several pictures. Gene Tunney is starting cinematics.

Checking off a few scintillant names in sports now engaged by one company alone, Paramount, the list is formidable: Tom Kennedy, once heavyweight title aspirant; George Godfrey, "Black Shadow of Leiperville;" Gene Delmont, veteran of a hundred battles; Tom Wilson, famous black-face comedian and one-time sparring partner of Bob Fitzsimmons; Charlie Maddox, Shorty Hall, Haeffle and Rice, all famous jockeys of their time; Bill Hurley, Tommy Grimes and Jack Padjen, famous cowboys; Pardner Jones, great "deadshot" of the west, who traveled with Buffalo Bill; Lefty Flynn, Yale's one-time great fullback.

Others who have appeared in films are Benny Leonard, Georges Carpentier, Al Kaufman, Gunboat Smith, Phil Salvadore, Sailor Sharkey and "Broken Nose" Murphy. Among the wrestlers there are Kala Pasha, one-time body guard for Mack Sennet; Abdulla the Turk, trainer for Douglas Fairbanks, and John Hackenschmidt.

In the old days when a champ had passed his prime he usually passed out of the picture; today he passes into the motion picture.

Interesting sidelights on Jack Gilbert, now among the most popular screen actors, is that eight years ago he was writing scenarios. His first script was "The Great Redeemer" for Clarence Brown. Now Brown is directing him in Metro-Goldwyn's "Flesh of the Devil."

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer script writer was extolling the apparently unexpected philanthropy of one of the company's high officials. paid the excited one:

"He's just hired a war veteran to write scenarios, although the soldier has never done a script before. Isn't that a fine act of kindness!"

The inexperienced veteran proved to be Laurence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory," who was just then starting "The Big Parade."

The shyest man in Hollywood is one of its most celebrated wisecrackers, George F. Marion, jr. Young Marion's picture titles have won him enviable repute for their pungency, and he rates among the top-notchers of his craft.

But the man who is so volatile and versatile with words on celluloid is notoriously silent and embarrassed in personal codtacts. He learned to make every word count during years on a newspaper desk.

In coming to terms with Louis B. Mayer for his next picture, "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut," Jackie Coogan made one stipulatiop before agreeing with his father to the contract.

"I want it understood," he required, "that the electricians and the carpenters are allowed to play baseball with me every noon on the lot." And so it is, duly incorporated and attested, in the contract.

first novelty having gone from world premieres of big feature films, Broadway producers seem to lie awake nights seeking sprightly innovations.

Thus the first presentation of Peggy Joyce's picture, "The Skyrocket," was given in the salon of one of the largest European liners lying at Manhattan pier. And, again, "A Woman of No Importance" was put on at a Broadway night club, while amused soda sippers sat upon the dance floor enjoying the novelty.

The most recent was Gilda Gray world premiere of "Aloma of the South Seas." QMite a thrill w ....oMWd when it was whispered she give an intimate showing in the studio of her Long Island home.

Instead the witching hour of midnight was chosen at a Broadway moM house. All Broadway, large and sundry, deserted its tables in prominent night clubs to take a peep, and Gilda was on hand to entertain with her famous "wiggles."

The game of roller polo originated with the fashionable summer colony at Newport in 1874.

Trials will begin August 9 for the selection of the American tennis team to defend the Davis cup.

LAKEFIELD TO GET BIG GAME

Cogs and Keene Play Sudden Death Contest on Wednesday.

Keene and Cognawagnas who are tied for the first half of the East Peterborough Baseball League will play a sudden death game in Lakefield on Wednesday evening, commencing at 5.15 o'clock. As Keene won the second half, the Cogs must win Wednesday's contest to bring about a play-off for the county championship. In the event of a Cogs victory the teams will play home-and-home games and if a third game is necessary it will be played in Lakefield. Keene drew the first contest of the playoff.

SECRETS OF STARS INSIDE BASEBALL

by Billy Evans

(By Tris Speaker, World's Greatest Outfielder.)

Some baseball statistician has expressed the opinion that twice as many ball games are lost through throwing the ball to the wrong base than on muffed fly balls.

I am inclined to agree with such a statement.

Throwing the ball to the proper base is one of the strongest fundamentals of good outfielding. It classes the player either as one who thinks or merely gets rid of the ball by throwing it in the general direction of the infield.

Scores of ball games are lost every year because some outfielder makes a foolish throw to the plate, there being no chance to get his man and thereby permits a runner who should have been held to first to advance to second.

When a runner reaches second he can usually score on most any kind of hit. If held to first, as a rule, it takes a couple of base hits to drive him around.

Here is a choice bit of advice to all ambitious outfielders. It deals with the proper throwing of the ball with the winning or tying run on the bases.

To illustrate my point we will assume it is the first half of the ninth inning and the score is 6-5 in favor of the home team, two out and there is a runner on second, the tying run.

Proper baseball calls for the runner to get a big lead so as to be in a position to score if the batsman hits safely. In a majority of cases the runner on second can easily score on a safe hit.

The outfielder should remember this, and if he feels there is no chance for a play at the plate, should get the ball into second in order to hold the batsman to first. Foolish throwing of the ball to the plate would permit the batsman, the winning run, to reach second, where he would be in a position to score on a hit.

New York Lady Swimmer Makes Attempt at Channel

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press) — At one o'clock this afternoon, five hours after entering the water, Miss Clarabelle Barrett, of New York, was twelve miles out, on a straight line between Dover and Calais, in her attempt to conquer the English channel.

She had thus negotiated half the distance in almost record time and her chances of being the first woman to swim the channel seemed good.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lilian Cannon

THE SINGLE OVERARM

The single overarm stroke is very much like the side stroke, except that in the single overarm the arm breaks above the water instead of below, with more roll toward the side on which the arm reaches above water.

Care should be taken to throw the arm just high enough and not too high, so that the arm will splash when it goes into the water.

The elbow should be bent as it comes above the water and the hand reached forward and into the water while the elbow is bent.

This keeps the muscles well under control and is not nearly so tiring as a fully outstretched arm meeting the full leverage resistance of the water.

ASIATICS ATTACK WHITE DOMINATION

At First Session of Pan-Asiatic Congress at Nagasaki.

NAGASAKI, Japan, August 2. — (United Press). — A general attack on white domination coupled with references to American feeling against Japan was heard at the opening of the Pan-Asiatic Congress here on Sunday.

Japanese speakers in discussing American antagonism toward their country urged Asiatic unity as a means of securing equal treatment and freedom from white domination. The so-called "White Australian" policy and the policy plan of a naval base at Singapore also came in for attacks. The agenda of the meeting includes a proposal for the establisment of a league of Asiatic races and a revival of Oriental civlization.

Delegates from Japan, China, India, Korea, the Phillippne Islands, and Afghanistan are attending the meeting.

HATS OFF!

He is a self-made man who won, without anyone's favor, the highest prize in the country—one which escaped a Clemenceau and cheated a Millerand.

He is a compromiser, a peacemaker among warring parties, a graceful acceptor of ministerial resignations and a good layer of cornestones.

Doumergue is 63 years old today.

FEDERAL NOMINATIONS

Cape Breton South

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—D. W. Morrison, Mayor of Glace Bay, was nominated by the Labor party of Cape Breton South to contest the constituency in the Federal election September 14, at a convention held here Saturday.

South Wellington

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—The nomination of the Progressives of South Wellington was tendered to William A. Burnett, well-known farmer of Nichol Township at a meeting of the United Farmers' Political Association held here Saturday afternoon. Others nominated were Rev. B. Parkhouse, Everton; Mrs. John O'Toole, Elora, and Thomas J. Mahon, Guelph. Mr. Burnett will most likely accept the nomination.

Frontenac-Addington

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—At a convention of Frontenac - Addington Progressives here Saturday, R. J. Bushnell of Bath, market gardener, was chosen as the candidate in the coming federal election. Only two names were submitted, the other nominee being J. A. Aylesworth of Newburgh, brother of Sir Allen Aylesworth of Toronto.

A resolution was adopted at the convention, expressing gratification with the way in which Robert Forke, Progressive House leader, had handled the party in the House of Commons, especially during the last session and predicting that the time would come when Progressives would not only hold the balance of power, as they had in the past, but would have control of power with Mr. Forke as premier.

Frontenac-Addington constituency was represented in the last parliament by Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative, who defeated W. S. Reed, the Progressive candidate.

Lincoln

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Hon. J. D. Chaplin, Minister of Trade and Commerce and acting Minister of Customs, was unanimously chosen as candidate at the Liberal-Conservative convention for Lincoln held here on Saturday. The candidate met a charge that had been raised at Niagara Falls to the effect that the Victoria Park Commission, Niagara Falls, of which he is a member, purchased goods in the United States which had been admitted without payment of duty. Enquiry proved that the duty had been paid and the two officials responsible for it had been punished by having increase of salary withheld. He said that only the fringe of the customs matter had been touched.

Hon. Dr. Manion, who addressed the convention, declared that Hon. Mackenzie King was raising the question of constitutionism to detract attention from the customs scandal.

East Essex

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Edmond G. Odette, Tillbury manufacturer, was given the East Essex Liberal nomination at a convention here Saturday afternoon. Dr. Gustave Lacasse's name also came before the convention, and a ballot was taken, Mr. Odette receiving the larger number of votes. The nominee was the Liberal candidate for the riding in the 1925 election and was defeated by Dr. R. D. Morand, a member without portfolio in the Meighen Cabinet.

Carleton

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2—M. N. Cummings, lumber merchant, was the unanimous choice of the Carleton County Liberal Convention, held at Highland Park Saturday to carry the Liberal banner in the forthcoming election.

Only one other was nominated—Fred Honeywell and he withdrew to leave the field clear for Mr. Cummings.

The convention selected its candidate despite the declaration of John Armitage representative of the Farmer-Progressives of the County that Progressives of Carleton were not inclined to favor a Liberal candidate but might unite with the Liberals to support an Independent candidate opposed to W. F. Garland, the former Conservative member for the riding.

The amounts submitted were Adamson and Dobbin $2310, G. A. Brenton $2352, A. W. Archibald $2582, and W.R. Turner heating alone $1968.

PLANE KILLS FIVE.

Crashes Into Spectators During Exhibition at Stuttgart.

STUTTGART, August 2. — (United Press). — Five persons were killed and ten injured on Sunday, when an exhibition airplane crashed into a fenced off enclosure where spectators were seated.

The plane was destroyed but the pilot was uninjured.

King Alphonso of Spain was recently honored with the degree of D.C.L. by Oxford University. The royal guest was enthusiastically received, and after the ceermonies he took tea with the president at Magdalen college, possibly regardede as great a distinction as the degree. TREATY REPORT LOOKS TO PEACE

Shows What Has Been Done Toward Understanding Since War

LEAGUE ISSUE.

GENEVA, August 2. — With Europe in a turmoil, governments falling and being succeeded by other governments that, in turn, fall, currencies skating toward oblivion, dications holding the reins of government in many countries, and widespread unemployment, the bewildered common man may well wonder whether anywhere in the picture there is an encouraging vista.

He might find it in a large brown paper-backed report, compiled recently by the League of Nations legal department for submission to the League Council in September. It is a compilation and study of the arbitration conventions and treaties of mutual security entered into by the nations since the end of the great war, and thus is a record of what the nations have accomplished toward preserving peace.

In this mass of treaties, there is evidence for concluding that Europe has made considerable progress toward preventing future wars, even if, at the same time, she is staggering under the weight of economic problems left over from the 1914-18 war, and so far has been unable to find leaders and means to solve them.

Most of these treaties were negotiated under the influence of the League of Nations, although such treaties as those signed at the Washington Arms Conference and the prolongations of the Hague Arbitration Treaties can not properly be credited to the League, although they are all on file with the League.

Locarno Treaties.

The most important are, of course, the Locarno treaties, which go a long way toward guaranteeing the future peace of western Europe. They were initialled Oct. 16 1925, at Locarno, and signed finally Dec. 1, at London.

The first, known as "Treaty of Mutual Guarantee" between Germany, Belgium, France, Great Britain, and Italy, provides for the compulsory settlement by peaceful means of all questions of every kind which may arise between Germany and Belgium or Germany and France. Any question "with regard to which the parties are in conflict as to their respective rights" shall be submitted to judicial decision. All other questions shall be submitted to a conciliation commission. If either party refuses to accept the decision of the commission it then shall go to the Council of the League which has final authority.

Arbitration conventions providing the same machinery for settlement of disputes also were signed between Germany and Poland, Germany and Czechoslovakia, Germany and Belgium and Germany and France individually.

The only disputes expected are those which can be settled in the national courts of either party, disputes arising out of events prior to the convention and belonging to the past.

In addition to the above treaties agreements were concluded between France and Poland and France and Czechoslovakia by which they agreed each to aid the other in case either suffers from an unprovoked attack.

Moral Relaxation

Finally, an act was signed by all of the nations declaring "their firm conviction that the entry into force of these treaties and conventions will contribute greatly to bring about a moral relaxation of the tension between nations, that it will help powerfully toward the solution of many political or economic problems in accordance with the interests and sentiments of peoples, and that, in strengthening peace and security in Europe, it will hasten on effectively the disarmament provided for in Article 8, of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

The weight of authority of the most powerful western European nations thus is thrown behind judicial machinery devised to settle peaceably all future disputes. They agree to oppose collectively any nation that violates the provisions of the treaties.

The Locarno treaties do not end, however, the list of agreements under which nations pledge themselves to arbitrate all disputes and to accept the decisions. Others, with the dates, of signatures for the treaties, are:

Uruguay and Venezuela—Feb. 28, 1923.
Austria and Poland—Nov. 13, 1923.
Austria and Hungary—April 10, 1923.
Peru and Lima—July 18, 1917.
Argentina and Venezuela — July 22, 1911.
United States, Brazil, and Switzerland—June 23, 1924.

Conciliation Pacts

There are then the treaties of conciliation, which demand that all disputes be submitted to a conciliation commission, but which in themselves do not bind the parties to accept the decisions. There are:

Sweden and Chile—March 26, 1920.
Great Britain and Brazil — April 4, 1919.
Norway and Sweden—June 27, 1924.
Finland and Sweden—June 27, 1924.
Finland and Norway—June 27, 1924.
The American States—May 3, 1923.
Denmark and Finland—June 27, 1924.
Denmark and Sweden—June 27, 1924.
Denmark and Norway—June 27, 1924.
Sweden and Switzerland—June 2, 1924.
Austria and Switzerland—Oct. 11, 1924.
Denmark and Switzerland—June 6, 1924.

The bulk of these treaties were signed as result of the recommendation of the Third Assembly of the League of Nations, Sept. 22, 1922. Many of them have the practical force of compulsory arbitration agreements in that the contracting parties have accepted fully the Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice. All of them leave the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations open to exercise their mediatory functions.

Another important group of treaties combines conciliation for disputes which because of their nature can not be arbitrated, successfully, with arbitration where that form of settlement is most proper. They number the following:

Switzerland and Germany — Dec. 3, 1921.
Switzerland and Italy—Sept. 20, 1924.
Switzerland and Hungary — June 18, 1924.
Esthonia, Finland, Latvia and Poland—Jan. 17, 1925.
Germany and Sweden — Aug. 29, 1924.

18 Treaties Renewed.

The 18 arbitration treaties signed following the Second Hague Conference of 1917 also have been renewed as they have expired and are on file with the League. They are the weakest of the International agreements, providing for arbitration only of questions of law and excluding questions which affect the honor of vital interests of the countries concerned. The United States has such treaties with Portugal, Great Britain, Norway, Holland, France, Japan and Sweden.

A large number of treaties dealing with special problems, such as the agreement between the United States and Holland covering sovereignty over the Island of Palmas, also are on the file at Geneva. In many other of the international instruments drawn up by the League and signed by the governments, such as the Protocol of the Statute of the Court of Justice, the Treaty of Lausanne, and others, there also are clauses demanding compulsory arbitration of particular points.

These treaties throw a network over a great part of the world, and provide the means for settlement of disputes which, otherwise, under the hysteria of the moment, might lead to outbreaks of wars involving finally the entire world. The western world is fairly well covered and it is declared in Geneva that the League of Nations now will turn its attention toward devising similar machinery for eastern Europe.

Guarantee Treaties.

Then there are treaties of guarantee, more political in their effects than legal, but containing most of them, statements declaring that the guarantees between the states are designed, within the framework of the League of Nations, to strengthen respect for peace by adding to the sanctions which would be imposed in event of peace being broken. Some of them concern territorial guarantees.

The list follows:

France and Belgium—Sept 10 and 15, 1920.
France and Czechoslovakia Jan. 25, 1924.
France and Poland — Feb. 19, 1921.
United States, Great Britain, France, and Japan, concerning the Pacific area—Dec. 13, 1921.
United States, Belgium, Great Britain, China, France, etc., relating to China—Feb. 6, 1906.
Servia and Czechoslovakia— Aug. 14, 1920.
Rumania and Czechoslovakia— April 23, 1921.
Poland and Rumania—March 3, 1921.
Italy and Servia— Jan. 27, 1924.
Italy and Czechoslokakia—July 5, 1924.
Restoration of Austria, Protocol No. 1, signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Austria—Oct. 4, 1922.
Financial reconstruction of Hungary, signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Rumania, Servia, Czechslovakia, and Hungary—Mar. 14, 1924.
Austria and Czechoslovakia—Dec. 16, 1921.
Esthonia, Finland, Latvia, Poland—March 17, 1922.
Esthonia and Latvia— Nov. 1, 1923.

TWO MORE ARRESTS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Provincial Police Take Men at Niagara Falls To-day.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Two more arrests were made by the Provincial Police today in connection with the death from alcoholic poisoning of three men at Allanburg on July 22. Frank Boyd, a mail carrier and John Tychinski, a laborer, both of this city, were chargeed with manslaughter, and remanded in custody until August 6.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of hte people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM JOSEPH GALLAGHER.

The death occurred very suddenly in Toronto on Monday, July 26th, of a well known resident of the city, William J. Gallagher, 219 Reid street, in his sixty-first year. The deceased, who had been in his usual condition of health prior to two days before his death, went to Toronto a few days before he took ill, to visit his daughter, Mrs. George Pacey. On Friday, the 23rd ultimo, he was taken suddenly ill, and, after an operation which was apparently quite successful, performed at St. Joseph's Hospital, passed away on the following Monday.

The funeral took place on Wednesday last, from St. Helen's church, Toronto, Rev. Father Bennett officiating, to Mount Hope cemetery, Toronto.

Survivors are his sorrowing wife and three daughters: Mrs. George Pacey of Toronto, Mrs. Charles Quinlan of Peterborough, and Miss Helen, at home. A brother in Toronto and one in Kingston also survive.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, of Stirling, were guests at the parsonage, visiting Rev. F. H. and Mrs. Howard, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton, of Picton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mrs. Dayton being a sister of Mrs. Bentley's.

Mrs. Kenneth McKenzie, of Regina, Sask., was the guest of ex-Warden A. J. and Mrs. Henderson on unday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Farewell, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston, of Boston, have been recent visitors of Rev. F. H. and Mrs. Howard at the parsonage. Mr. Johnston is a brother of Mrs. Howard's.

Dr. Lawrence Fallis, of Detroit, is holidaying with his parents, Mr. A. J. Fallis, M.P.P., and Mrs. Fallis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Downey and Mr. and Mrs. T. Cruikshanks, of Peterborough, were recent visitors with Rev. F. H. and Mrs. Howard at the parsonage.

Mrs. Henry Lord left for Winnipeg on Wednesday night in response to a telegram stating that her son, Albert, was seriously ill following an operation. Albert is employed in the boiler works of the Canadian National Railway, and it is feared that an accident of a serious nature caused the necessity for an operation; no particulars were given in the message received.

Misses Ella Elson and Kathleen Lancashire returned from Toronto on Friday evening, having accompanied their cousin, Miss Evelyn Tye., who has been visiting relatives in the east for the past year, that far on her return journey to her home in Vancouver, B.C.

The Liberals of Durham are holding their convention at Orono on Thursday, August 5, at 3 p.m. (standard time). A number of prominent speakers are expected to address the gathering, and a candidate will probably be chosen to represent the party in the forthcoming election.

Miss Matie Fitzgerald, her brother, Mr. Basil, of Toronto, and Mr. Bruce Fitzgerald, manager of the Bank of Toronto, Meaford, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakins.

Mrs. R. J. Doak, and son Albert, motored to Orillia on Thursday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bolton Price. Walter Sayles acted as chauffeur for the trip.

M. and Mrs. John J. Hislop, of Stratford, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Eleanor Elizabeth Hislop, B.A., to Dr. T. W. Alvin Gray, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Gray, Millbrook, the marriage to take place in August.

Miss Marjorie Sayles is being congratulated on winning honors in her recent examinations at the Peterborough Business College, heading the list for her class.

Miss L. Burton is taking her annual holiday visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Smith, Sandwich, Ont.

Misses Audrey Larmer and Gladys Williamson, two of Miss Ethel McKnight's pupils, S. S. No. 8, Cavan, were successful in winning first and second prizes, respectively, in connection with the Baptie Scholarship which is donated to pupils taking the highest number of marks in the Entrance examination among those writing from Cavan Township. Both the girls were honor pupils when the entrance results were announced.

C. H. ACKERMAN TELLS ROTARY ABOUT MINING

Northern Ontario Still Conceals Large Ore Resources of All Kinds.

PUBLIC DUBIOUS.

Attitude Is Similar To That Towards Prairies 50 Years Ago, He Says.

"In the last two weeks I have seen samples of a very high grade of coal which has come out of Northern Ontario, and in the next four years we will be getting out of that portion of the province coal that will be of a high quality and which will be superior to any other in Canada," stated C. H. Ackerman in his address on the mining industry in Ontario and Quebec at the Rotary luncheon to-day at noon.

"To-day one large company is commencing to mine coal in the north and the speaker prophesied that it would not be long until the coal burners would be taking the place of oil burners in Ontario. He advised nobody to go into the mining game unless he had considerable backing and that one would be better to rely on experienced prospectors rather than on buying stock.

"The immediate industrial outlook in Canada offers but scant promise in comparison with the achievements of the past 25 years so the exploitation of natural resources is the logical field," said the speaker. "The popular attitude of mining to-day embodies all the indifference and hostility felt to the development of the western prairies fifty years ago when it was freely predicted that the C.P.R. would never earn its axle grease. Grain exports of an average annual value of approximately $150,000,000 for the last ten years are the heritage Canada owes to the courage and foresight of industrial and financial geniuses fifty years ago, who refused to be daunted by public disapproval. The mining industry will unfold a similar or possibly much greater story of achievement," said the speaker.

"One man can see under the ground as far as another and no further. Mining, of all enterprises, is therefore most dependable upon scientific knowledge. The greatest engineers recognize their fallibility and proceed only by slow stages, checking every step. Public interest in mining to-day is in the inverse ratio to the degree of technical skill employed and the public's only trusted counsellor is the enthusiastic promoter.

"Canada is a young country, but potentially very rich. We do not know yet how rich. We have only begun to study our resources .Canada with just one-half of one per cent. of the world's population contains much of the world's discovered copper, five per cent. of the gold, 12 per cent. of the silver, 20 per cent. of the world's cured fish, 32 per cent. of the pulpwood, 85 per cent. of the nickel, 88 per cent. of the asbestos and 90 per cent. of the cobalt.

"We have produced in one year, 12 per cent of the wheat and 12 per cent of the barley of the world and what is more important, one half of the world's exportable surplus of wheat. We rank third in gold production and the Canadian gold fields are the only large fields in the world to-day, that are increasing their production,' 'this last statement South Africa challenges, stated the speaker.

"The gold development in the Province of Ontario in the last few years has caused world wide comment. It has increased from practically nothing in fourteen years ago to a production of $25,669,262 in 1921 and it now looks as if the Province of Quebec in the next few years will have the same results. Ontario and Quebec have to date produced five grand prizes. The Cobalt district since 1905 has had a silver production of over $212 millions. Porcupine district, witha gold production of $136,771,309, since 1910 has an estimated ore reserve of $250 millions with potential ore of fabulous amount. Kirkland Lake district with a gold production of $13,851,471 since 1913, has an estimated ore reserve of $100 millions. The famous Sudbury nickle range district has for many years, has produced 85 per cent of the world's nickle, with a total, since 1908 of $190,589,628 and the Noranda find in Rouyan, Quebec, is now under extensive development and has every indication of being another grand prize and there is now a further property in Quebec called Amulet which is also looking very favorable,' 'concluded the speaker.

Mrs. Clark, of Ottawa, formerly Miss Chalmers sang two solos in a fine clear voice. The solos rendered were "We Come Down the Vale" and "Until."

WEDDING BELLS.

SMITH—TOOMS

On Wednesday evening, July 28th a very quiet wedding was solemnized at the Parsonage, Mark Street, when Ruth Dorothy Tooms became the bride of Orvel Louis Smith. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of Copenhagen crepe, with large hat to match. The young couple were attended by Miss Viola Smith as bridesmaid and Mr. W. G. McNabb, who acted as best man. The happy couple will reside at 214 Munroe Avenue, Peterborough.

GRAHAM—SPEERS.

On Saturday, July 31st, at Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, the marriage took place quietly of Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speers, Yorkton, Saskatchewan, and Dr. S. Jethro Graham, of Peterborough. Rev. W. A. Cameron officiated. After a short honeymoon trip by motor, Dr. and Mrs. Graham will take up their residence in Peterborough.

AROUND THE CITY.

The government employment bureau reports for the week ending July July 31, placements 41; new applicants 20; number on the list 48.

Customs receipts for the port of Peterborough are considerably ahead for the month of July this year for the same month last year. For July, 1926, they were $92,926.57, and for July, 1925, the returns were 83,150.15, an increase of $9,776.42.

Building permits in this city show an increase for the month of July over the same month last year, but for the first seven months of this year the amount of permits issued are less than for the same period in 1925. Two large permits were issued this past month; the extension to the court house and the addition to St. John's Sunday school rooms. The permits for July were $44,135, and the total so far this year $157,153; for July, 1925, $36,751, and the total to date then, $174,367.

The number of deaths in the city for the month of July shows an increase over the month of June, but a decrease over the same month last year. Births show quite an increase over the month of June, and marriages show a decrease. For July, 1926, there were 27 deaths, 18 marriages and 50 deaths, and for June there were 25 deaths, 20 marriages and 43 births.

The C.G.E. and Sports Ladies' softball teams will play to-morrow night at Central park. The last meeting of these two teams produced a close, exciting game, and to-morrow's encounter, which starts at 6.15, will doubtless attract a large crowd.

A serious accident was narrowly averted on Saturday night at the corner of Rubidge and Charlotte Streets when a car driven by H. W. Wilgar ran into a horse and buggy. The occupants of the buggy were fortunately uninjured but the horse had its left leg broken. Dr. W. T. Rogers, vetinary surgeon, was called to the scene and after examining the horse gave orders to have it shot.

The unfortunate animal was despatched by Sergeant John Deanard of the local police.

Mr. Wilgar told the police that when the accident ocurred a street car was coming east and owing to the poor lighting on the corner, he did not see the horse until he was on top of it. He attempted to swing his car south to avoid the collision.

John McQurrie, who was driving the horse said that he was driving south on Rubidge street and had stopped at the corner of Charlotte Street in order to let the street car pass. He had just started up, he said, when he was hit.

One of the doors of the car was smashed while the glass and the windshield was broken.

George Street South added to the toll of auto crashes on Saturday when two cars came together at the intersection of Perry and George Streets. One car driven by Joe Paquette was going east on Perry, while the other was driven by W. C. Simmons was going south on George.

The cars were slightly damaged, but the occupants escaped unhurt.

Two cars came together in a head on collision at the corner of George and Hunter Street, late on Saturday afternoon. One car driven by Gordon Lane of Apsley was proceeding north on George Street and while turning west on Hunter collided with a car driven by Charles Dunnett who was going north on George. Mr. Dunnett had his lip bruised, it is believed by the steering wheel, but apart from that no injuries were sustained by either driver.

Wheat Prices Fall As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices underwent a sharp early setback today. Besides better weather for the wheat crop in Canada and big receipts in Chicago, bearish estimates of the domestic wheat yield, both winter and spring, led to heavy selling pressure. Opening 1-4c to 2c lower, wheat soon showed decidedly an additional downturn. Corn, oats, and provisions were easier: corn starting 1-8c to 5-8c off, and then sagging a little more.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board o Commerce.

THAT "it can be done" is a good slogan.

THAT in some cities too many business men spend too much time on the mourners' bench.

THAT a lot of people should talk more business and less gossip, and not try to "high brow" their way.

THAT a little carelessness in talking sometimes does much harm.

THAT sometimes a convenient memory comes in handy: sometimes it gets you in wrong.

THAT it does not pay to hunt grief—it finds you quick enough.

THAT some people talk as though business men were only half human.

THAT'S all wrong—the majority of the business men are boosters and city builders.

THAT their thoughts are not all for cold efficiency in business and the making of dollars.

THAT business men are just plain living and thinking people like the rest of the folks. They are very much human and have an inborn love for their home city.

Modern business men give freely of their time and money towards the upbuilding of the community in which they live.

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, AUGUST 1, 1926.

Astrologers read this as rather an unfortunate day in which it is wel to maintain a cool head and busy hands.

There is a sign supposed to indicate strong influences toward speculation, which will not be lucky at this time.

Women are subject to unfavorable planetary influences today, making for restlessness and instability.

It is not an auspcious sway under which to carry on summer flirtations or really serious love affairs, since brief interest is probable on both sides.

Theaters and other places of amusement may have unprofitable times before the beginning of the autumn season which is to develop many new conditions for managers as well as players.

In certain cities there may be overbuilding of all sorts of places of entertainment, which will not be well patronized, the seers foretell, because of a national trend toward thrift and economy.

Churches are now subject to a direction of the stars making for great competition, pomp and circumstance and bitter dissensions.

Again the seers announce that secret intrigues and plots among persons of differing religious beliefs may be expected. Something like a mysterious holy war may be expected, astrologers predict.

Uranus today is in an aspect most inviting to serious thought and to spiritual insight. Sermons should be well received, even though the weather is likely to be warm.

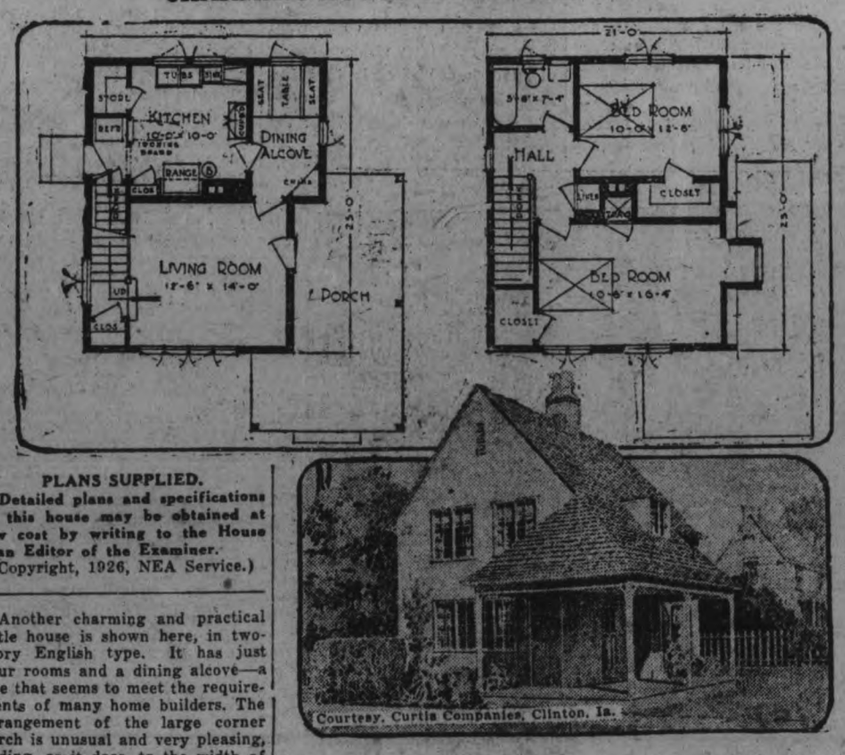
The lunation this month falls n an affliction of many of the major planets and is ominous for the whole wo ld.

Serious difficulties will afflict the ruling powers of Europe, it is foretold, but Jupiter gives promise of a happy issue.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of much activity coupled with more or less anxiety.

Children born on this day may be endowed with sincere, straightforward natures, which make them victims of double-dealing when they are grown. These subjects of Leo usually have active and constructive minds.

CHARMING HOUSE OF ENGLISH TYPE



PLANS SUPPLIED.

Detailed plans and specifications of this house may be obtained at low cost by writing to the House Plan Editor of the Examiner.

(Copyright, 1926, NEA Service.)

Courtesy, Curtis Companies, Clinton, Ia.

Another charming and practical little house is shown here, in two-story English type. It has just four rooms and a dining alcove—a size that seems to meet the requirements of many home builders. The arrangement of the large corner porch is unusual and very pleasing, adding, as it does, to the width of the house. The single chimney in the centre of the house is economical. It serves both kitchen range and furnace, and if a fireplace were wanted in this house, the same chimney could be made to serve.

There is no vestibule or entrance hall in this small home. That space is added to the living room instead.

The dining alcove opens from both kitchen and living room. It is large enough to have casements on two sides, and to include a corner china closet. The kitchen is supplemented by a store closet. Notice the handy location of the refrigerator, outside of the kitchen, and just inside the grade door.

Extra large closets feature the two bedrooms upstairs. The casement windows on two sides assure a good circulation of air in these sleeping rooms. The casements in pairs and groups add much to the exterior of this house, and are thoroughly in keeping with the English type of the house.

KING FORECASTS PROGRESS PEACE AND PROSPERITY

Addresses Large Audience at Beaverton on Saturday Night.

ONE GREAT PARTY.

Liberal Leader Urges Avoidance of Three Cornered Contest This Year.

BEAVERTON, Ont., August 2.—Canadian Press. — "Progress, prosperity, peace and plenty," were forecast by the Liberal leader or Saturday night, if the policies set in motion by the late government could be continued.

The Right Hon. Mackenzie King spoke in Muskoka-Ontario constituency to a crowd, many of whom were summer residents of the Lake Simcoe district.

At the outset Mr. King said he wished that the campaign had been of a type which would have permitted him to devote time to North York, one of the adjoining constituencies. If it was not for the demands of a cross-Canada tour "nothing could keep me from accepting the nomination of friends there," said Mr. King. Last year he had been able to devote only a few days to North York. The Liberals in Prince Albert, Sask. ,in offering the nomination there, pointed out that he would be freer to give time to the campaign in this country as a whole.

Mr. Meighen's tariff protection for every section of the country and for every industry was impractical. The Conservative leader had a genius for shaping matters so that when the time came for public action he could retreat behind a screen of his making.

Mr. King supported the Tariff Advisory Board as being "the best way to proceed at the present time." How could a generally higher tariff help this country? It would only serve to increase the cost of living to every one.

"People have heard the blue ruin talk but now they know that prosperity is here," he said Mr. Meighen has announced that the Liberal government was going to ruin the farming industry yet to-day the industry was never in better shape. In referring to the Liberal candidate, J. B. Johnston, who has been a Progressive-Labor Member of the Ontario Legislature, Mr. King emphasized the advantages of "one great strong party." The three-cornered contests of 1925 were foolish and should be avoided this year.

Mr. Johnston in accepting the Liberal nomination was "doing the right thing." Since when was co-operation wrong? asked Mr. King in defending the relations between the government and the Progressives.

"We worked along loyally and well thrqugh the session. Then towards the end of the session we found some Progressives who had previously been Tories, were breaking away, and giving their support to the Conservatives —"when this situation became apparent dissolution had been aske for.

A shout from the audience "What about the customs scandal?" brought an invitation from Mr. King to come to the platform, "to tell us what the customs scandal is." There are many in Canada to-day, he proceeded, who had not the courage to speak in public but only to whisper in the alleys and to shout "scandal" from a crowd.

"I do not propose to see men of highest aims slandered out of public life."

The persistent rattle of stones being thrown upon the tin roof of the skating rink, where the meeting was, caused Mr. King to pray for same Conservative to have the throwing stopped unless they wanted it to be believed that the Conservatives were responsible.

Some one in the audience came up and stood under the platform shouting that Conservatives were not responsible, but the crowd shouted him down, and Mr. King proceeded to quote Inspector Duncan's own statement regarding completeness of the report. Part of the evidence, the diary of Bisaillon's stenographer, relating to private life, was not published. Nothing to do with Inspector's Duncan's customs work was omitted.

"Well, I know that he was on the Toronto police force for a long time" returned Mr. King.

"A Liberal or a Conservative?"

"As to that, I really don't know—but I know he was a most efficient officer for whom I have the utmost respect," retorted the Liberal leader.

Mr. King left for Kenora where he will address a meeting on Monday night.

COUNCIL RESCINDS PERMISSION FOR RE-ERECTING WAREHOUSE NOT ACCORDING TO FIRE BY-LAW

J. H. Ferguson Will Be Required To Comply With By-laws.

AUGUST MEETING.

Routine Business Occupies Most of Time at Short Meeting.

The location and construction of the grain shed owned by J. H. Ferguson, and now located at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, brought a petition before the City Council, at the August meeting last night, protesting against the type of building to be erected, and as a result the council rescinded the motion passed at the June meeting giving permission for erection of the building if certain alterations were made.

At the June meeting of the council permission was given for the removal of the building to a site on the C.N.R. property south of King street and west of Aylmer street if the roof were made fireproof and the walls sheeted with asbestos and metal. Last night a motion was passed requiring the city clery to notify the petitioners against the building that it would be required to conform with the city by-laws. Some confusion existed for a few minutes as to what effects the two motions would have, but Alderman Ackerman moved that the first motion be rescinded, thereby clearing the muddle.

It was felt by the aldermen who spoke in favor of requiring compliance with the by-laws that a dangerous precedent would be established. Alderman Hancock asserted on the other hand that the opposition of the petitioners had really been to a warehouse of any description, but that land alongside railways tracks could be nothing else but a commercial area. He also feared that some steps might be taken against the city for damages for forcing a change in plans.

It would have seemed to any passerby during the council meeting that there was a fire somewhere in the city hall, as two fire vehicles were parked outside. One was a combination pumper, chemical, and hose wagon, Bickel equipment on Godfredson chassis, en route to the Midland Fire Department and brought this way for the inspection of the council. The other was a Godfredson chassis, 240-inch wheel base, with long steel channel frame, constructed to hold ladder equipment such as the city now has on a horse-drawn gear. At the last meeting of the Fire, Water, and Light committee tenders for such chassis both with and without equipment, were opened, and the chief's report on the various types was handed to the city clerk tonight with a request for copies for all the aldermen.

Routine business occupied most of the session, whih ended before ten o'clock. Important among the items was a resolution ordering the preparing of a by-law to provide for making through streets of certain streets in the city, and requiring all vehicles to stop before entering or crossing them.

A deputation was present from Walkerfield avenue, consisting of H. J. McCannan and J. B. Doran. They sought some attention to the roadway, asking particularly that a manhole on the street be lowered, and were promised consideration.

When a by-law authoriing the paving of Rubidge street was passed City Engineer Parsons asked concerning the division of the cost of the curbing. At a recent meeting the council decided that any ratepayers wanting curbing in front of their property should be granted it, and should pay the full cost. Where curbing has been done with paving

Most British Physicians Stick to the Mustache

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Aug. 3.—(AP).— Doctors stick to the mustache more than any other section of the community, according to observations here. At the British Medical Association meeting recently it was noted that only about twenty of the 250 delegates were shaven on the upper lip.

The question has often been asked, but never answered, as to why British doctors prefer a mustache to a shaved lip. One delegate humorously remarked that, judging from the great number of mustached doctors, the General Medical Council may be expected to decide in the near future that all doctors adopt the mustache.

FOREST FIRES ARE DYING OUT

Wind Falls as the Showers Dampen Blaze in Manitoba.

PEAT BURNING

THE PAS, Man., August 3. —(Canadian Press.— The dying down of the wind which spread the flames of forest fires was reported to-day and the showers which have been fairly general through out Northern Manitoba, also, improved the fire situation. Prospects are believed bright for bringing the blaes under control. The pall of smoke over hanging the country is said to be due to the burning of peat.

Rye Shop Overhauls Cruisers Which Pass Through City.

DAMAGED ON TRIP.

A number of cruisers belonging to local and out of town owners have undergone repairs at the Rye boathouse during the present season.

The Carpe Diem, a fine cruiser, the property of a New York man was recently repaired. A boat belonging to E. P. Clarkson of Toronto who is connected with the Dodge Brothers Motor company was recaulked and fitted with new engines and machinery. Another ship which struck a log in the Otonabee came in with a broken strut and was satisfactorily fixed up. Another job was the repairing of the propeller and stern post of a Detroit cruiser which also came in contact with a floating log.

A boat belonging to Judge Hudspeth of New Jersey is now being overhauled in readiness for the Judge's departure for Stoney Lake this week.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Two earthquakes, several thousand miles distant, were recorded at the Dominion meteorological Bureau here last night and to-day, but were not distinct enough for officials to ascertain their whereabouts. They continued for several hours.

Men Haunt Beauty Shops Cosmetic Makers Are Told

CHICAGO, August 3.—(Canadian Press.) — Proof that men haunted feminine beauty parlours was offered at the meeting of the American Casmetician's Society here to-day, when it was shown that men bought eight million dollars worth of hair dye last year with other items in proportion. Barber shops will soon be masculine beauty parlours, it was forecasted.

POISONING BRITISH.

Foreign Secretary Rebukes Speaker For Attitude To Friendly Nation.

LONDON, Aug. 3. —(AP). —T. A. MacQuisten was called to order in the House of Commons yesterday by Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, when he asked the Foreign Secretary to suggest to Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews chief of the United States prohibition enforcement service, that he return to his own country and "amend the disgraceful state of affairs as regards prohibition there." Mr Chamberlain was cheered when he said he deprecated the tone of the member's remark, as it was really not an attitude which should be adopted toward another great and friendly nation."

Mr. MacQuisten's reference to General Andrews was prefaced by a question whether the British government's recent arrangements with the Andrew's mission, relating to the smuggling of liquor into the United States were of a reciprocal character.

MacQuisten intimated that American citizens never had been poisoned by liquor smuggled into the United States, but that a score of British subjects had been poisoned by bootleg liquor sent out of the United States, presumably to Canada.

The incident ended with laughter after Mr. Chamberlain attempted to silence MacQuisten and the member retorted:

"Haven't I the right to be indignant at British citizens being poisoned by bootleg liquor from the United States."

Indian Colonial Divorce Bill.

W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore, under-Secretary to the Secretary of State for the Dominions replying to a suggestion made by H. G. Williams M.P., in the House of Commons, that the terms of the Indian Colonial Divorce Bill should be brought to the notice of the Imperial Conference with a view to arranging an extension of the Bill to the self-governing Dominions, and the passage of similar legislation by these Dominions, said His Majesty's Government had not contemplated extending the principles of the Bill to cover the cases of persons domiciled in Great Britain or resident in the Dominions, or having the matter discussed at the Imperial Conference. However, it would be open to any Dominion representative to raise the question at the Imperial Conference, the under-secretary said.

PROTECTION IN FILMS.

British Firms Unable To Come To Agreement in Curtailing Pictures.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)— The joint committee of various branches of the film trade of England which has been trying to evolve a scheme to increase production of British films with consequent curtailment of the United States' films shown here, to-day announced it had failed to find a solution of the problem. An attempt to bring about reciprocal arrangement for the exhibition of British films in the United States was also unsuccessful, it was announced.

MINISTER OF CUSTOMS GIVES PROOF OF ASSERTIONS MADE IN REPLY TO LIBERAL LEADER

Hon. H. H. Stevens Replies to the Challenge of the Prime Minister For Substantiation of His State ments.

MR. KING WAS ADEPT AT EQUIVOCATION.

Quotes From Hansard That Mackenzie King Had Defended Action of Mr. Boi vin, Former Minister of Customs an d Excise.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press).— Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs and Excise, in a statement issued yesterday, replies to the challenge of former Premier King, Liberal leader, for substantiation of the assertion which Mr. Stevens made in his open letter issued on Thursday last with respect to the customs probe.

The text of Mr. Stevens' statement is as follows:

"Mr. King says that in the committee's report to parliament there was no reflection either on his government or Mr. Boivin, yet Mr. Stevens' amendment in the House proceeded to censure the government."

"I have already declared that Mr. King was an adept at equivocation. The above quoted statement when compared with the facts will amply prove it. The facts are as follows:

"On page 3062 of the evidence of the special committee is set fotth a resolution moved by Mr. Bennett and seconded by myself, which resolution charges that, Ministerial action has been influenced by the improper charges of political associates * * * * * resulting in the suspension and in some instances loss of revenue to the country.

"The resolution concludes with the words:

The action of the Hon. George H. Boivin, the present Minister of Customs and Excise in these matters merits the censure of the House

"This resolution was defeated five to four, all of the four Conservative members voting for the resolution, the Liberals and the Independent voting against it.

"Later on when the report was tendered to the House for adoption I moved a resolution in almost the same terms, which resolution will be found on page 5018 of Hansard, and which was carried by a majorty of 12 in the House, and yet Mr. King has the audacity to assert that I made no effort to bring this vote of censure before the committee.

"Next Mr. King challenges me to produce from Hansard a single quotation which will show that he defended the action of Mr. Boivin. I will now show that he not only defended Mr. Boivin, but Mr. Bureau also. Pages 5147, 5148 and 5149 are largely devoted to a defense of Mr. Bureau and from which I quote:

Mr. Mackenzie King: All the time that Mr. Bureau was in the ministry I never knew of an act on his part with respect to the administration of the department of customs which was dishonorable or dishonest in any way.

"And again I am not prepared yet to believe the charges made against Mr. Bureau.

"I now quote from the unanimous report of the committee which report Mr. King accepted in full: the Hon. Jacques Bureau failed to appreciate and properly discharge the responsibilities of his office.

"Now as to Mr. King's defense of Mr. Boivin, on page No. 5151 of Hansard in the same speech Mr. King said::— Of all the men that I have had the privilege of being associated with in the administration of this country I cannot recall one who ever took up the work of his department with the same zeal, etc. * * * *

"Then he asks: Why was not censure of Mr. Boivin included in the report?

"I have already cited one reason, but there was another instance, viz. the notorious Aziz case. We moved in committee to report this to the House but the Liberal majority voted it down."

CLUES OF CRIME CONFUSE POLICE

Note Says Woman Killed Self and Child and Father Suicided.

NEIGHBORS DIFFER.

NASHFIELD, Mich., August 3. —(Canadian Press). — Confusing clues confronted officials attempting today to solve deaths of John Bogar, 50, his daughter Agnes, 25, and the latter's five year old daughter, whose bodies were found at their farm near here yesterday. The child had been poisoned and marks on the woman indicated that she had been beaten. Bogar was hanging by the neck.

A note in Bogar's handwriting declared the woman had poisoned the child, and then committed suicide and that he would commit suicide. Neighbours, however, declared Bogar and his daughter had quarrelled over the latter's fiance, whom the father had ejected the night previously.

Jail Governor Must Pay For Humiliating Prisoner

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—For forcing William McConnell, a Bedfordshire farmer, to wear prison clothes while he was a prisoner on remand in Bedford Jail last December Herbert Pickering, ex-governor of the prison was ordered to pay $25 at Bedford county court. The Judge said it was repulsive that a man decently brought up should be forced to wear clothes that a number of prisoners before had worn. A prisoner's clothing should be taken away for one evening only for search, he added.

PREACHER SHOT DURING SERMON

Bootleggers Believed To Blame For Murder of Evangelist.

MAN ARRESTED.

MORGANTOWN, Kentucky, Aug 3. — (Canadian Press). — Shots through an open window killed the Rev. Mr. Moss, an evangelist, when he was standing in the pulpit, and fatally wounded Mrs. Jerome Robinson, who was sitting in front row of the chair in a local church last night. Several persons narrowly escaped.

Clifford Wilson was arrested and held after a girl told the police she saw him fire the shots. It is believed the evangelist's stand against boot-legging was responsible for the shooting. Reports had been that he was really a federal liquor detective.

Childish Play Fatal Lad Is Burned At Stake

WHITING, Ind., Aug. 3.—(United Press). — George Cannac, R 9, is dead, the victim of his play fellows, who "burned him at the stake." He died before rescurer could reach him The group of playmates decided upon George as the captive to be burned in the "Indian Pageant." He was tied to a stake but the fire would not light so some one poured turpentine on the wood at his feet and on his clothing. He was in flames in a momenet later. Policement were unable to learn the names of his companions, who fled screaming when the fire started.

Paris Reports Say American Banks Will Participate in Loan 66.

IN WITH HOLLAND.

French Ministry Denies Such a Policy—Press Criticizes Premier's Policy.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Although two weeks ago the Chamber overthrew the Briand-Caillaux Government because of its opposition to M. Caillaux's proposal to employ a system of foreign credits for the salvation of the franc and although the popularity of Premier Poincare's proposals has been due to the fact that they represented an effort by France alone to redeem her position, it seems not unlikely that the present Government will also have to take the road to seeking foreign credits if it is to succeed in any real measure of stabilization.

These credits, it is stated, will be sought in England and Holland, though it is believed that American banks will participate with the Dutch banks, thus avoiding direct infringement of the Washington ban on further credits to countries which have not made a debt settlement.

This news that the Government might find itself obliged to seek foreign credits was published yesterday by the Radical newspaper Quotidien, which added that in order to obtain them the Government might ask ratification of the Churchill-Caillaux debt agreement, while holding the Washington agreement in reserve. The Belgian ministers, Franqui and Vandervelde, were stated to be responsible for the changed opinion of the French Premier, and the Minister of Commerce, M. Bokanowski, was quoted as having stated in the Chamber lobbies that Premier Poincare was now convinced that complete financial restoration could not be accomplished without foreign aid.

HEAT HAS TAKEN TOLL OF WHEAT

Saskatchewan Fields Are the Chief Sufferers From Lack of Moisture.

MANITOBA GOOD.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press Despatch).—The torrid heat which the West experienced during the past ten days has taken heavy toll, particularly in Saskatchwan, and Alberta, of Western Canada's grain fields, according to the fourth general crop report of The Manitoba Free Press.

In Manitoba the crop has come through in good shape and promises to equal that of last year, and may, even go better in some districts. All wheat is fully in head, and outside of a few districts, wheat-cutting will be general by the end of the first week in August. In some localities moisture is still required. At many points the crop is ripening too fast, but prospects generally are good, and there is little damage, although stem rust has been reported from several sections, but the weather has been unfavorable for its development.

Yield to Be Lower

The Saskatchewan crop is the chief sufferer from heat and drouth, and, the report declares, indications at this date point to a yield far below that of a year ago, with further deterioration feared, as practically every point stresses the immediate need of rain. Without rain and

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS COMMENCE TO LAY CHARGES AGAINST MEN NOW HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Others To Be Arrested For Part in Smuggling Liquor.

ARRESTS IN STATES.

Eight Held at Rochester and Seven at Niagara Falls.

TORONTO, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press)e.—Charges will probably be laid late today against those arrested and those about whom there is information in connection with the smuggling into Canada and the sale of poison liquor. C. B. Alexander, Dominion preventive officer, left Toronto today to lay charges in behalf of the Federal Government. Arrests are expected in several cities in the province.

Peter White, K.C., who has been retained by the Department of Customs at Ottawa, was in conference today with the Hon. W. H. Price, acting Attorney-General of Ontario. After the conference, the latter stated that Mr. White had been given all the information in the hands of the Provincial Government and that Mr. White would look after the smuggling end of the investigation for the Federal Government.

Hon. Mr. Price stated that the manslaughter charges laid against several persons would be prosecuted by the crown attorneys in the various places where the arrests had taken place.

Face New Charges

HAMILTON, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Three new charges were laid today against Rocco Perry and four others held on charges of manslaughter in connection with the alcoholic poisoning deaths. They now also face charges of selling alcohol, smuggling, and failing to pay duty.

At Rochester, N.Y., eight persons indicted by the Federal grand jury were arrested today. Four of them were employees of a varnish company. The others were accused of operating a still.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.— With the arrest yesterday in Niagara Falls, Ont., of Frank Boyd and John Tychynski on charges of manslaughter, the total number under arrest in the Province of Ontario in connection with alcoholic poisoning investigations now stands at sixteen. Three are from Toronto, seven from Niagara Falls, five from Hamilton, and one from Oakville.

Eighteen Ontario residents and more than a score Americans are dead from drinking the poison liquor.

Boyd was one of those named in the indictment of the United States Grand Jury, the only Canadian named who has not been arrested being Jacob Feinberg, whose address is unknown.

Seven Arrested at Falls.

Jerusalem Also Has Its Heavy Traffic Problems

JERUSALEM, Aug. 3.— Jerusalem is in for some town planning. One of the most ancient of known cities is thus endeavoring to reconcile its cramped streets, twisting passages and magnificent walls to the exigencies of modern civic life. The work is in charge of Sir Ronald Storrs, governor of Jerusalem, who has already assembled an exhaustive series of maps outlining the present situation and showing what work is to be done. Without in any way interfering with the historic fascination of Jerusalem, Gov. Storrs is determined to make it a real city, and he has prepared a series of beautiful maps, which show graphically the serious traffic, housing and road problems.

THE WEATHER.

The weather yesterday and to-day is a good example of the fact that oppressive and uncomfortable conditions do not depend altogether on the height of the thermometer, but rather to the amount of moisture (or humidity, as it is more properly called) in the air. Yesterday was a hot and oppressive day. Yet the highest the temperature reached was but 79 degrees, but the atmosphere was surcharged with moisture. It was what is commonly called "sticky." The lowest temperature last night was 65 degrees.—V. P.

MURDER EVIDENCE TAKEN FROM SAFE

Important Documents in Hall Mills Case Are Missing.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., August 3. (Canadian Press). — Important evidence in the sensational Hall-Mills murder case, including the statement of five persons under suspicion, was missing to-day from the official files. Transcripts of the statements made by witnesses in the initial inquiry four years ago have been remobed from the safe of the Warden of Somerset County Jail, according to State Secretary Simpson, the newly appointed prosecutor.

Nevertheless, Simpson expressed belief he had sufficient evidence at hand to indict the woman and at least two men for the murder of the Rev. Dr. Ed. Hall and Miss Eleanor R. Mills. He declined to say whether he believed the evidence was sufficient to warrant the arrest last week of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the slain rector, now free on $15,000 bail.

ARMY MUSICIANS PLAY AT CHEMONG

Musical Service Is Led By Former Officers of Local Crops.

On Sunday evening last, the Peterboro Citadel Band, under Bandmaster Frank W. Robinson, visited Chemong Park, where a much appreciated service was held attended by a large number of the cottagers, as well as visitors from the city. The service was held under the joint direction of Major J. A. McElhiney and Adjutant W. Bunton, both of Toronto, and former officers in charge of the Peterboro Temple. The stirring marches and soulful selections of the band were well chosen and admirably rendered and prolonged hand-clapping greeted each effort. An interesting item was a vocal solo given by Bro. Harry Edmonson, one of the oldest soldiers of the Peterboro corps, who accompanied himself on the concertina with excellent effect.

Adjutant Bunton gave a moving evangelical appeal that was accorded a rapt attention and becoming silence while Major McElhiney made touching reference to the unfortunate tragedy at Balsam Lake and petitioned Divine upholding for the bereaved ones in this partcularly distressing hour. The band played "Promoted to Glory," a funeral selection very effectively played while the entire congregation stood.

The old favorite hymns, led on by the stentorian voice of Major McElhiney, were taken up with gusto by the crowd, and the participation in these exercises made for rare enjoyment.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS

—(Special.)—Two more arrests in connection with the deaths from poison booze of three men at Allanburg were made early yesterday morning by the Provincial Police. Frank Boyd, mail collector, and John Tychynski were the latest to be be picked up, bringing the number of arrests here to seven. Both appeared yesterday, charged with manslaughter, and were remanded in custody until Aug. 8, when the others will be arraigned.

Victim of Poison Alcohol.

NIAGARA Falls, N.Y., Aug. 3. —Dr. Charles A. Benz, city pathologist of Buffalo, after an autopsy on the body of Alexander McDonald, Youngstown, N.Y., who died in St. Mary's Hospital on Sunday, reported to Coroner Harry R. Enes that the man was a victim of poison alcohol. It is the first poison-liquor death in this city. In an ante-mortem statement to the Coroner, McDonald told of several places where he had obtained drinks in this city.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 3.—An underworld report that Bathan Sapowich had been killed was being investigated by Buffalo and New York police yesterday. Sapowich was one of those wanted for questioning in connection with the distribution of poison liquor along the Niagara frontfer.

Some credence is given the report that Sapowich has been slain, the police said, because they know that James C. Voelker, alleged poisonous alcohol vendor, was threatened with death if he "squealed." According to the police, an attempt was made in New York to lure him into taking an automobile ride, from which they believe he never would have returned.

700 HAVE DIED FROM ALCOHOL

Poison Liquor Has Taken Big Toll in New York During Year.

WARNING ISSUED.

NEW YORK, August 3. — Declaring that 700 persons had died in New York City last year from poisoned alcohol, and that "slow deaths" from a similar cause are sure to increase soon, J. W. Quillin, Chief Chemist for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, issued a warning yesterday against all alcoholic beverages now being sold in "speak easies."

Referring to the recent poison-alcohol deaths in Buffalo, Mr. Quillin pointed out that the increasing use of "redistilled completely denatured alcohol' made necessary by the stoppage of many sources of alcohol supply, would soon show in increased deaths among drinkers.

"When I became chemist of the bureau in 1921," said Mr. Quillin, "75 per cent. of the samples of hard liquor received for analysis proved to be really 'straight whiskey.' In 1924, the pre-prohibition whiskey had been completely exhausted. As the samples which prove' to be real whiskey decreased there was almost a corresponding increase in samples of liquor containing specially denatured alcohol. Completely denatured alcohol (that which the government has attempted to poison so effectively that it could not be made 'renatured,' or made drinkable), made its appearance in beverages about March, 1925.

"This product is compounded with benzine, kerosene, brucine and various other chemical products, which make it a very deadly poison."

The government, according to the chemist, formerly used a formula known as No. 2 and believed to be deadly. Recently it came to his attention that the bootleggers had succeeded in overcoming a large part of the poison in that formula and Mr. Quillin caused it to be discarded by the government.

MAN IS KILLED ON RAILWAY

Avoiding Train on One Track, Steps in Front of Another.

INQUEST ORDERED.

DUMBARTON, Aug. 3.—Stepping off one track onto the other at Fairport, C.N.R. crossing, near here, to avoid the oncoming Ottawa-Toronto express, Henry King, ager 26, formerly of St. Thomas, was struck and instantly killed at 5.30 yesterday by an eastbound freight travelling on the other track.

King was taking a short cut along the tracks from his boarding-house in Dumbarton to the farm of Alex. Annan, where he was employed, and it is taken for granted that in watching the approach of the passenger train he had neither seen nor heard the freight.

The body was taken to Toronto, where Coroner Crawford, explaining that it was out of his jurisdiction, ordered it sent to Pickering. Coroner V. E. Cartwright of Pickering investigated the case, and has ordered an inquest to be held, the date to be determined later.

Very little is known of King here, as he had been employed at the Annan farm for only a short time, having come here from St. Thomas.

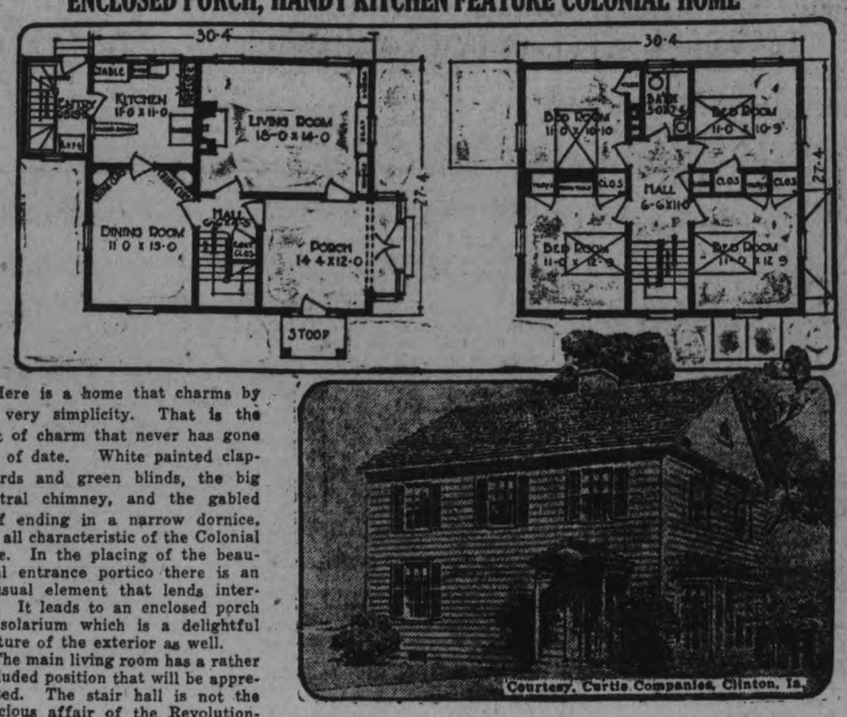
ENCLOSED PORCH, HANDY KITCHEN FEATURE COLONIAL HOME



Courtesy, Curtis Companies, Clinton, Ia.

Here is a home that charms by its very simplicity. That is the sort of charm that never has gone out of date. White painted clapboards and green blinds, the big central chimney, and the gabled roof ending in a narrow dornice, are all characteristic of the Colonial type. In the placing of the beautiful entrance portico there is an unusual element that lends interest. It leads to an enclosed porch or solarium which is a delightful feature of the exterior as well.

The main living room has a rather secluded position that will be appreciated. The stair hall is not the spacious affair of the Revolutionary house, but a mere vestibule that opens off both the living room and dining room. A pair of corner china closets add to the charm of the dining room. These are a modern standard design, reproducing the hand-made cabinets of the old craftsmen.

Most housewives will give their approval to the kitchen, which is fair sized and square, so that everything is in handy reaching distance. The housewife will O. K. the removal of the basement steps out of the kitchen, and the placing of the ice box where the iceman can fill it without coming into the kitchen at all. In fact, the entry may be left unlocked for this purpose, without leaving the rest of the house open.

PLANS SUPPLIED.

Detailed plans and specifications of this house may be obtained at low cost by writing to the House Plan Editor of the Examiner.

OUR LOUVAIN SAY NATIVES OF DAMASCUS

City Has Been Bombarded By French To Drive Out Rebels.

STATE OF SEIGE.

Business is at Standstill and Soldiers Are Everywhere.

DAMASCUS, Syria, Aug. 3.—The Arabs and the Syrians look at Damascus and say (to any foreigner within range), "This is our Louvain."

And indeed Damascus has something of the cruel atmosphere of 1914. Part of the city is levelled in white dust. The streets are closed after 9 p.m. Machine guns squat on miniarets The bulk of the city is surrounded by a fence of barbed wire. Soldiers are everywhere. Business is dead. And in the Merje, the great central square, strange sights are to be seen.

For instance, my first day in Damascus, as I crossed the Merje, I stopped short at a somewhat unusual spectacle. On some stone blocks near the central column was a group of bodies. The victims had been very recently shot. There was blood. Near the bodies a swarm of flies buzzed. Around the bodies was a cordon of French soldiers.

Gruesome Display.

I found later that the victims had been killed in battle near Kuneitra. The leader was a famous rebel, Ahmed Meyroud. Five years ago he had tried to shoot Gen. Gouraud. Now he himself was dead. I learned that the French authorities usually make such gruesome display after military action. It is said to intimidate the population.

It was such a display of course, under the auspices of Gen. Sarrail, which was the immediate cause of the October riots, which led in turn to the great bombardment.

In the old days a visitor to Damascus, oldest city in the world, visited the bazaars, led perhaps by some whiskered dragoman with a keen eye for fake bargains and baksheen. Now it is a different story. As a casual visitor, I didn't see any bazaars at all. Most of them, the most famous bazaars in the east, are closed. Instead, guided by a French intelligence officer, I visited the lines of trenches surrounding the city and defending it against the rebels in the Ghouta gardens.

They are very business-like, those trenches. They are advanced 1918 models— zigzagging through the sand, protected by barbed wire, and bags and piles of stones, leading into neat dugouts, crowded with machine guns. . . . There are lots of them. Every few hundred yards a nest of such defensive fortification punctuates the triple chain of barbed wire.

Guns Pointing Two Ways

Damascus is completely surrounded by this wire. In such circumstances, the venerable city is somewhat difficut of access. . . . The amazing thing is the guns. At each entrenchment half the machine guns point within the city, half to the gardens without. The rebels swarm outside the city. But they manage to swarm inside the city, too. And so the French, holding the thin line of wire, must point their guns in diametrically opposite directions, both ways. . . .

In fact, Damascus is practically in a state of siege, and until the French troops finish the war in the Djebel Druse it must remain besieged, for the simple reason that the French command has not enough soldiers to protect it adequately. Within the city, too, are smaller shining ovals of wire. One stumbles across tanks, armored cars, batteries of seventy-fives, and ferocious Circassian volunteers with careless hand-grenades jutting from their belts.

The situation is caused partly by the fact that Damascus is and always has been a sort of concentration for Arab and Syrian fanactics of every kind, a very hotbed of every sort of anti-French and anti-European propaganda, and partly because of the October bombardment.

The French were forced to open fire on the city in October because so many nationalists within the city had turned rebel and were shooting French soldiers and civilians at sight, rioting at night and preparing, so the French say, to massacre the Christian population. When the rebels attacked in force the French replied in force—with heavy guns.

One of the results is the historic Street Called Straight, now a desolate ruin. Since the bombardment the French have erected their pretty line of wire to preserve the peace and keep the rebels out. But just the same, wire or no wire, the rebels manage to get in.

French Bring More Guns

In fact, early in May, so many rebels were concentrated in the Meidan quarter that the French were forced to a general bombardment again. It did little good, aside from killing many women and children and destroying 1,200 houses. There are just as many rebels in the Meidan now as they were before. They get in somehow. No one knows quite how. The French wish they did.

As a result, small bombardments occur in Damascus almost nightly, while a pepper of rifle and machine-gun fire is going on twenty-four hours a day. Occasionally, away to the east, the rebels try to force the main gates of the city, in the Bab-touma or Babskarki districts. They are usually repulsed. The firing is heavy. Casualties occur: and the next day the Merje square has a panorama to display.

Meanwhile, more rebels are assembling in the Ghouta, the gardens surrounding three sides of the city—gardens which the rebels, strongly, if irregularly, fortified, hold and have held, without budging an inch since October.

The French answer to the appalling situation can be summarized in two words. More troops!

POWER GRADER FALLS IN DITCH

Course of Machine on Chemong Road Deflected By Stone.

HORSES DRAW OUT.

Last night around seven o'clock a slight mishap befell the power grader that has been working on Chemong Road for some time past. While travelling along the section of the road close to the city boundary, the machine came in contact with a stone and its course was deflected into the ditch. The heavy grader sank into the soft earth and the man in charge was unable to drive it out under its own power.

C. Millburn, who was working on the road with a team of horses, was called upon to assist and after several unsuccessful efforts the grader was pulled on to the road.

The work of the grader has resulted on a decided improvement in the condition of the road and has drawn many favorable comments from passing motorists.

Tea's The Tipple

BY MURIEL BREWSTER.

When Mr. Winglefoot, the tea taster of Mincing lane, went through New York the other day on his way to the Orient, he made some startling statements which should be a comfort to our friends the prohibitionists. Beer-drinking, he told a reporter, is going out of fashion, and tea-drinking is coming in. If Mr. Winglefoot is right, Fergy's Foam is merely a sort of back number anyway, and the complaints of the visiting Americans who crossed the line with the sole purpose of forgetting about their income taxes and other troubles for an hour, and were most annoyed because they found that they could not hold enough of the delectable liquid to achieve the desired effect, were quite justified. They would have done much better if they had stayed at home and brewed themselves a cup of good strong tea.

"ENGLISH TOMMIES DRANK TEA ALL DAY AND NIGHT IN THE TRENCHES."

"Drinking a good cup of tea," declares Mr. Winglefoot, "will cause a gentle glow that will soothe the most savage breast. If a man owes you money, ask him for it after he has partaken of his afternoon tea. He may not pay you, but he will at least give you a few kind words instead of having you thrown out on the sidewalk. In my opinion the war lasted so long because the English Tommies drank tea all day and night in the trenches. The officers became so addicted to the fragrant beverage that they would frequently risk their lives to get it.

"Afternoon tea drinking in London has become a mania and has spread to to all classes since the war. At four o'clock every day except Saturday all business is practically suspended for fifteen minutes. Judges, lawyers, bankers, merchants, chorus-girls, reporters, photographers, clerks, clergymen of all denominations, and even the burly Beefeaters at the Tower of London, all drink tea and forget their worries. Red noses are becoming extinct."

The Billingsgate porters are forgetting their choicest language under the soothing influence of tea, which, the early-opening saloon-keepers report, is taking the place of the morning glass of beer. "To-day," says Mr. Winglefoot, "if one porter bumps into another as they carry big boxes of fish off the steamboats, instead of roundly cursing each other, one will murmur gently, "Beg pardon, Mr. Wilks, my fault. I orter 'ave seen yer comin'—"

"Not arf, Mr. Winkles," replies the bumped one. "It were my fault. Come and 'ave a cup o' tea, mate, before we goes 'ome—" and so on. "It is a wonderful change," commented Mr. Winglefoot.

Tea came originally from China, where its use dates back, according to legend, more than four thousand years. The earliest mention of tea by an Englishman, according to one authority, appears in 1615. It seems to have been about the middle of the 17th century that the English began to drink tea to any extent, and it also appears that its introduction into England was not unattended by attacks of would-be prohibitionists. In 1678 we find a Mr. Henry Savile writing to a friend of the probable effects of the use of tea on the health and morals of the population.

"They call for tea," he complains, "instead of pies and bottles after dinner —a base and unworthy Indian practice which I must admire your Christian family for not admitting." And he adds, with a sigh, "the truth is, all nations are growing so wicked as to have some of these filthy customs!"

"NO THANKS! — A COUPLA POTS OF TEA PLEASE."

How Stimulating Is It?

Various medical men about the same time write gravely of the novelty, tea, as a most dangerous drug, which should be relegated to the medicine hest and handled as carefully as opium. But Mr. Winglefoot is borne out in his argumentsc by a Chinese gentleman named Lo Yu, who, many hundred years ago, pointed out in exquisitely painted characters that tea "tempers the spirits and harmonizes the mind, dispels lassitude and relieves fatigue, awakens thought and prevents drowsiness, lightens or refreshes the body, and clears the perceptive faculties."

Canadian tea importers agree that there has been of late an enormous increase in the use of tea in England, according to statistics. But they report a disappointing steadiness in the Canadian market—it would appear that the vendors of tea were hoping that as the prohibition officers grew more expert they—the tea merchants—would take over a little of the business that went to the bootleggers. But not so. Evidently Canadians have not awakened to the qualities of the cup that soothes, and does all the other things attributed to it by Mr. Winglefoot and Mr. Lo Yu. But the tea business in Toronto is evidently a flourishing one.

There are at least three legal firms in Toronto who make a habit of serving afternoon tea every afternoon. One scornful young lawyer tried to make out this was "only a bit of swank," but it was interesting to observe that in these offices the atmosphere was particularly pleasant, and the entire staff seemed happy and contented in each case. It may be swank, but one is inclined to suspect that it pays! Several other law-dispensers admitted they did love to sneak out at four o'clock and get a cup of tea. The habit however, has not reached the more commercial offices—the head of a bond house nearly bit my head off at the mention of "that sloppy habit" and an insurance salesman with one of those million dollar records threw up his hands in horror.

"Stop for tea!" he exclaimed. "Why I might lose a sale. No, ma'am!"

A New York paper reports that during the recent hot spell the popular drink was iced tea. "Bacchus and his followers," writes this columnist," continued to wear crepe and padlocks. So bitterly did they brood over their wrongs, they failed to see that the coolest and most refreshing of all drinks is with us once again. You can spot ice-tea tipplers all around, recognizing them by their eager tread as they go to lunch and thei steady, invigorated gait as they come back."

So New York, as usual, is only a step behind London, while Canada lags along in the rear, missing a great opportunity. O Canada!

Our tea-importers are a very discreet group. Not a single one of them would ommit himself on the subj ect of the intoxicating qualities of tea. "How much tea would it take?" I begged and begged to know. And one and all they began to make excuse. Not a single answer could I get! It looks suspicious.

So, the next time somebody calls you down for drinking Fergy's Foam, give him the laugh. And tell him about tea.

Only don't be too enthusiastic, or he may go across the street and start an S.P.T.D.—Society for the Prevention of Tea Drinking.

The ENTIRE STAFF SEEMED HAPPY AND CONTENTED.

LAVOIE'S COMPLETE CLEARANCE

still keeps the people talking about the almost unbelievable bargains being offered from day to day. Once again I ask you to remember that this is not a "Sale" in the strict sense of the word, but a "COMPLETE CLEARANCE." When I tell you that EVERYTHING must be disposed of—even at HALF ACTUAL COST—that's not mere "Sales Talk," but actual fact. Better drop in every day—buy not only for the present, but for future needs—for you'll NEVER get the chance at such savings again.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

. . . UPBUILDER OF THE HOME . . . NOURISHER OF THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT . . . ART LETTERS AND SCIENCE OF THE COMMON PEOPLE.

HAVE YOU EVER BORROWED?

Have you ever borrowed a cup of sugar? A little gas for the car? The use of the telephone?

Isn't it nice to have neighbors?

Of course, the grocer, the garage man and the telephone company would eventually supply your need, but when an immediate contingency is to be met you instinctively call across the back-yard fence to your neighbor. There is more in that little act than can be printed in an advertisement or written in a catalogue. It is a feeling of mutual understanding and reciprocity it is the spirit of neighborliness.

In Peterborough, with its beautiful homes and streets, and its splendid stores, neighborliness is more in evidence than in larger, smoke begrimed cities. Even in the stores here there is a feeling of friendliness that makes shopping different. We are more than merchants and patrons. We are neighbors. And if service, prompt, efficient, honest, is essential to true neighborliness—and we believe it is—that is the service that Peterborough merchants offer.

Neighborliness builds up community spirit. It is contagious. If you pass on something neighborly to the family next door, the deed will have its repercussion at the other end of the city. You are helping by neighborliness to weld the spirit which is the driving force in the community.

And if, up to now, you have not thought about the matter, how about passing on a little of the kindness that is shown you? No man expects continuously to accept the hospitality of a friend and never return it. No man would think of letting his neighbor mow his lawn and never go over with his mower to return the kindness.

Be neighborly.

NO NEED FOR ELECTION HEAT.

"Isn't it terrible," a reader remarks to The Examiner, "this election coming just in the hottest part of the year when we expect to have a holiday?"

But why make it terrible? It is not necessary to regard the general election as a battle to the death between enemies. And there is no reason why we should become heated about it, or ruin the vacation that is to apply balm to the sores that have accumulated in twelve months' strenuous work. The election of representatives to Parliament is a serious duty placed upon us through the efforts of men long dead; it can best be discharged in an atmosphere of cool reflection, and not of wild passion. As you sit on the verandah, or on the shore of the lake, look at the sky and trees and birds, and feel your worries drop away from you. Nature, even in its sternest and most stormy moods, has a majesty and serenity that rebukes fussiness and irritability.

We can be calm, if we will, even in the midst of the election campaign. As free citizens of a great Dominion we are bound to disagree in our opinion of how we shall be governed, and the party system is the best means yet found of expressing and settling the disagreement in a sane and constitutional way. Holding our own convictions strongly, we must respect those of our neighbors, giving them credit for the same honest motives as we claim for ourselves.

It is not a season to lose tempers in political argument. Few things are so injurious to the health and so hurtful to the nervous system as bad temper. The man who nourishes a grudge is hurting himself more than the man with whom he disagrees. We remarked yesterday that nature is a battle ground, and that man is the only creature that invents engines for his own destruction. And in all nature there is nothing corresponding to a "grouch."

Our interests are in Peterborough, and therefore in the welfare of Canada. Let us draw inspiration from the history of Canada; let us take confidence from its untold resources and let us look confidently to the glorious possibilities of the future. Then, with the strength and serenity drawn from this contemplation, we shall not fuss and worry and lose our tempers, but shall perform our duty soberly as our conscience and intelligence dictate. It is not a time for pettiness or bombasity; but discussion and campaign and the exercise of the franchise should be placed upon a new and elevated plan.

DISPLAY THE NUMBERS.

Most people will probably agree that it is incumbent on any city which, like Peterborough, expends annually a certain amount of time, money and effort with the object of attracting visitors, to eliminate all needless inconveniences and irritations that may tend to mar or lessen any good impressions that have been produced on them during their stay.

One respect in which Peterborough is not immune from criticism is that of the display of the numbering of the houses and stores in the streets. There are very few streets in the city in which all the buildings are visibly numbered. In many cases, one may walk a whole block without finding a number painted on a single house.

This adds greatly to the difficulties of anyone who seeks a particular house in a locality with which he is unfamiliar. A person may walk for a considerable distance before finding that he has gone past the place he seeks, or he may discover that he is travelling in the wrong direction or on the wrong side of the street.

The difficulties and annoyances are multiplied when one is driving a car. Steering an automobile is a full-time job, which cannot always safely be carried out in conjunction with that of seeking a house that may be among many others similar in design and without a single distinguishing mark.

It may be said that these objections are trifling in comparison with the amenities that the city and district have to offer to tourists. But it is well to remember that Henry Ford has built up the world's greatest private fortune by attention to trifling details and by removing petty draw-backs. It is the little things that count.

It is also perfectly true that Peterborough is no worse than its competitors in this regard. But if this city is to progress as it should, it must not be content with being merely as good as its neighbors. It must go one better.

Painting the number on every store and house in the city would be a sign of our desire to make pleasant the path of the stranger within our gates.

DANGEROUS DEBT TALK.

No good can come to bandying words between irresponsibles on both sides the Atlantic on the question of the British debt to United States. Sober discussion of the loan and its obligations and terms between Governments serves a good purpose. It indicates to the American people that the British attitude differs in essentials from that of the United States Government. But it is futile and dangerous to allow a serious discussion to degenerate in mere recrimination.

This warning is being given by some American papers, and The Examiner commends the following from The New York Times, to serious consideration: "The very beginnings of the plan of verbal bombardment and exchange of recriminations," says The Times, "are at once seen to be so insensate that no one but fools or madmen will keep them up much longer. They are too full of mischief, too dangerous for all concerned. The harm done is already great."

SIGNS OF EXPANSION.

News of industrial expansion in Peterborough has been frequently chronicled of late, so frequently that it appears the years of stagnation have at last been left behind.

The latest firm to record additions to factory and plant is the Brinton Carpet Company. Others have been the Canadian General Electric Company, the William Hamilton Company, Elliots', the Western Clock Company and the Canadian Nashua Paper Company. It is significant that the expansion is not all in one line of business, but indicates a general improvement.

Business men are finding new markets for their wares, and trade is increasing. Merchants are experiencing better conditions. People in general are working their grey matter overtime to keep up with the tide of opportunity. And from the farms of Ontario and the West come stories of great crops, away above the average.

Let's pull together with confidence in Peterborough. The knocker applies the brakes to progress. The booster adds pep to the driving force.

Boost Peterborough!

WE PLEAD GUILTY.

Yes, we write too much about safety needs. We use too much space in reciting the obvious. People wish to read something different than "Stop, look, listen!"

We grant all this, and yet there were three street accidents on Saturday, in one of which a horse was so badly injured it had to be shot. All of us know it is unsafe to cross a railway track without looking carefully right and left; but people are disobeying this safety fundamental every day. Everyone who drives a car knows the danger of turning out from the sidewalk without warning other motorists who may be approaching behind; yet the risk is taken nearly every hour.

These dangers are well known, but the only way to make them mean something to everybody is to pound them home week after week. By and by they will command attention and become part of the practice of every-day driving and walking.

The most we can do, and what The Examiner is endeavouring to do, is to labor unceasingly that accidents may be cut to a minimum through education.

MANANA! MANANA!

Lots of folk are going to make hay while the sun shines tomorrow.

Manana—tomorrow.

Hundreds of people, four months ago, were going to clean up their lawns and back gardens, tomorrow.

Scores of people planned six months ago to join the Peterborough Exhibition, tomorrow.

Committees are appointed in many organizations to perform certain tasks for the good of the community, but they have left their work, until tomorrow.

Our wife gave us a letter to mail last week. With the hope that it will not make any real difference we shall mail it tomorrow.

Manana—if we have not known the meaning of the Spanish word we have at least indulged the practice of the procrastination for which the word stands.

Let us do away with it, and substitute "today."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"Meet me under the harvest moon" is the message politicians are sending out this year.

A motor car used to indicate a certain social standing; nowadays it may just mean your credit is good.

Mr. Meighen and Mr. King have outlined the issues; now the smaller fry will add the finishing touches in wild bursts of oratory.

Why should women stay at home? There's nobody else there.

Are you going to let politics spoil your summer, or are you going to vote according to your conscience and let the other fellow do likewise, without fuss?

Chemong regatta on Thursday—the nearest to Peterborough, and on a city half-holiday, too. Somebody must have thought that out.

When a man asks for a quart in Florida they don't know whether he means hootch or real estate.

Peculiar people we have met: The man who makes the news and then gets mad with the newspaper for printing it.

How can a lazy man know when he is on vacation?

The man who calls you a traitor to the party when you suggest being reasonable will never do anything great for Canada.

A national crisis on a small scale: "Darn him, if he won't dim his lights, I won't dim mine."

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press) — The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was extremely dull. There was practically no demand from either local or foreign buyers. The cash grain market was also in active but prices were unchanged.

The spring and winter wheat flour markets were featureless, business being quiet but prices suffered a fractional decline. The receipts were 8,168 boxes.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a quiet enquiry. The receipts were 1,047 cases

The butter market was quiet but steady. The receipts, were 2,395 packages.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press) — Indications of 50,000,000 bushels more winter wheat being harvested in the United States than was looked for a month ago upset wheat values yesterday. Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 3 3-8 to 4 1-4 net lower, whereas corn showed 3-8 to 1 1-4 advance with oats varying from 1-2 decline to 1 3-4 gain and provisions 2 to 50 cents down. Unofficial domestic crop estimates issued here today by leading experts suggested winter wheat yields ranging from 596,000,000 bushels 643,000,000 bushels, with an average of 617,000,000 bushels. The market took a rapid donward plunge and at no time displayed much power to react. Better weather and crop news from Canada tended to promote selling pressure here and to accelerate down turns in price. Notice was likewise taken of a Canadian crop estimate of 365,000,000 bushels for the there prairie provinces as against recent other estimates of respectively 284,000,000 bushells and 279,000,000 blshels.

Strength in the corn market resulted from estimates that production of corn this session will be 56,000,000 bushels less than was expected a month ago. Oats were affected by wheat weakness. The average of private estimates of the oats harvest, however, was cut down to 44,000,000 bushels under last month's figures.

Provisions were weaker.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

LADY HONORED AT INDIAN RIVER

Mrs. P. Walker is Leaving Community To Live n Toronto.

GIVEN CLUB BAG.

INDIAN RIVER, Aug. 3 — On Friday evening of last week about fifty of the friends and neighbors of Mrs. P. Walker gathered at her home to bid her good-bye before she left the village to take up her residence with her son in Toronto. During the evening an address was read by Mrs. Borland and a club bag presented by Mrs. Whibbs. After the presentation at the request of Mrs. Walker her son, Mr. W. Walker of Toronto made a very suitable reply referring to the high respect and esteem his mother held for all her friends and neighbors of Indian River. He also referred in a jovial manner to his own boyhood associates and school boy days speaking of the pointers and straps used by the teachers on the scholars of those days; also of the many Indian River boys and girls who had gone to other parts and not one of them was ashamed to own that he came from Indian River. After Mr. Walkers reply the audience joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." Refreshments were then served by the ladies and a short time was spent in music and singing. Then came the finall farewells when the assembly left for home, sorry to part with one who had lived so long in their midst.

The address was signed on behalf of the community by the Rev. E. A. Pinkerton, pastor of the Baptist Church at Indian River and was as follows:

Dear Mrs. Walker,—As the time will soon come when we as a community will be no longer favoured by your presence we thought it fitting that our appreciation of your long quiet life of service should be expressed in some tangible way. Your life in our community has added much to its welfare. "Service" is the only word which adequately expresses your life as we have seen it lived. It can be truly said that your testimony has been written in deeds rather than words. We take great pleasure in presenting you with this club bag as a small token of our love. We hope that the bag will be useful, but we want you to think, not so much of the bag, but of the loved ones left behind who will always cherish the memory of your sweet life and who unite in their well wishes that goodness and mercy shall follow you all the days fo your life. May our Heavenly Father be pleased to fill the remaining years of your life with His blessed presence.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"CRIMES TO HIS CREDIT."

A newspaper article reported that Tomasso de Angelis, Italy's greatest criminal, had just died, and went on to say:

"De Angelis was a member of the old Camorra, and had more crimes to his credit than any other criminal in the country. He had been in prison many times."

It is incorrect to say that he had "crimes to his credit." The word "credit," as a noun, means, according to the Standard Dictionary:

"Reputation derived from the confidence of others; title to trust or belief; character; repute."

The sentence should have read, "De Angelis was charged with more crimes," or "was blamed for more crimes."

Ottawa Clothes Peddler Instantly Killed When Train Hits Car.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Julius Krantzberg, clothes peddler of Ottawa, was instantly killed when his light sedan was struck by a train on a level crossing near this city yesterday. Rain falling at the time is believed to have obscured the man's view of the onrushing train. He emigrated to the Dominion from Russia only three months' ago.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MA ON CATS AND DOGS.

If I'm like something, then a cat
Is what I'd like to be.
A man is like a dog—on that
We certainly agree.
Although to women men must hark,
When women talk or sing,
A man will either growl or bark
Or never say a thing.

A cat will catch a mouse or two
While dogs will lay and nap,
You cannot get a man to do
So much as set a trap.
A dog will lay around and sleep,
One eye upon his dish;
A cat at least will earn its keep,
And eat the things you wish.

And when a man in love is crossed,
Some woman starts a strike,
It's just some girl who won't be bossed
The way that men would like.
And, if a wife is like a cat,
It might be well if men
At times would just remember that
And pet her now and then.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Those who claim that all property should be conscripted in war as well as all men of proper age, ought to be pleased with the income and the inheritance taxes now in vogue in the United States.

There is no disposition to minimize the sacrifice made by the young men who went to the war and exposed themselves to death, but one may be pardoned for mentioning that while that was but for a few years, the income and inheritance taxes that paid the expenses of the war are still going on.

The people of Florida objected to the inheritance tax and declared that in that state no inheritance or income tax should be levied in the future. The Florida legislature adopted such a constitutional amendment by a vote of four to one.

The people of Florida held that the taxing of the dead, either by Federal or State legislation, is a capital levy and should not be resorted to except in time of war or other grave emergency. They further asserted that such a levy is the pr of the state and not of the nation.

When Florida passed a law exempting its citizens from these objectionable taxes, the United States countered by allowing the citizens of states which did levy an income or inheritance tax to deduct the amount therefore paid from the amount to be paid to the national government. This nullified the advantage to the citizens of Florida.

A number of Florida's leading business men have declared that the endeavor on the part of the national government to coerce the state in this respect is "unprecedented, arbitrary, despotic and indefensible." It declares that although Florida has no severance tax, no corporation tax, no corporation stock transfer tax, no franchise tax, no icnome or inheritance tax, still it has no bonded indebtedness, it does not owe a dollar, and it had in its treasury the first of last April in excess of eleven million dollars in cash.

It thus demonstrates beyond question that the levying of an inheritance or income tax is utterly unnecessary in Florida.

"WAR MEMORIAL."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: We are nearing the 12th anniversary of the commencement of the Great War, and up to the present our city is without a War Memorial. I have ascertained through several sources, before writing this letter, to try to find out if there really is going to be a War Memorial here, and I have been told that up to the present time, there has been nothing settled in that respect.

Now, surely our City Fathers are not going to let our city advance further in years and forgetfullness. Let us once more rememberour our Heroic Dead, who lay and suffered, gassed and wounded, on the Battlefields of France and Belgium, and gave their all for the freedom of our Empire.

In private minds, their memory ever stands, but the public mind has nothing to remind itself of why we enjoy our freedom to-day. Other cities and smaller towns of Ontario have not forgotten our boys who gave their lives for us. Why have we?

Yours respectfully,
PERCY T. KING.

UNEASINESS FELT IN MEXICO AFTER FLARE-UP DURING WEEK

Government Takes No Action So That Truce Can Be Arranged.

SHOWS RESENTMENT.

Capital Has Not Suffered, But Business Men Fear the Worst.

MEXICO CITY, August 3. Canadian Press. — Although an intense feeling of uneasiness is indicated in many sections of Mexico, the tranquility which has prevailed in Mexico City since the flare up on Saturday night which accompanied the suspension of services in Catholic churches, as a protest against the new religious regulations, continued yesterday. Reports from other parts of the nation showed a similar quietude.

Thus far the Mexican government has taken no action with reference to the suggestion made on Monday by the Episcopate that a truce be arranged. During this truce the Episcopate proposed that the new religious regulations be suspended for a reasonable length of time to give the Mexican people a chance to hold a plebiscite on the entire situation growing out of the religious controversy.

Police yesterday stated that the conspiracy to kill President Calles, which was reported on Saturday night, apparently had not gone beyond the stage of mere talk. However they detained six men and one woman in addition to the men and women arrested on Saturday night. The police who are becoming convinced that the affair never had the prospects of reaching a serious stage, say that there was considerable violent talk among a small group gathered in a private home discussing the religious situation.

According to the police Doreas Lemus, a young stenographer, was among the first arrested, led a conversation in which "grave threats were made against the president. The police said that apparently no actual steps were taken for fulfilment of the wild talk.

The economic boycott proposed by the League for the Defence of Religious Liberty in opposition to the government's religious policy so far, shows little if any effect in Mexico. Business circle here, however, have much apprehension over the cutting down of all business except in absolute necessities proposed by the league.

Capital has not suffered any noticeable effect of this campaign, but business men fear results will be noticeable soon.

Meanwhile reports indicate that distinct effects of the campaign are being felt in other parts of the country.

In many towns Catholics are wearing mourning, have draped their homes and business houses in black, are avoiding amusements and are purchasing only enough provisions to keep going.

In contrast to this attitude, the theatres, motion picture houses and Sunday's regular bull fight, drew the usual crowds in Mexico City. Business men, however, say that they are not heartened by this surface appearance in the capital and think that the worst is yet to come as far as the boycott is concerned.

ROADS CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN WEST

Edmonton Will Be Scene of Annual Meeting of Association.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Date of the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association to be held in Edmonton has been announced as Sept. 28, 29 and 30, by S. L. Squire, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Association.

Mr. Squire has recently returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast in company with William Findlay, also a member of the Executive Committee. During this trip every Prime Minister and Minister of Highways in the West was interviewed in the interest of the work of the Association and consultations were held with the Highways Department of the various provinces and officials of the cities and good roads and automobile associations.

The invitation, extended by the Government of the Province of Alberta, to hold the convention in that province, was unanimously supported by the City Council of Edmonton and by the Edmonton Board of Trade.

Enthusiasm for the convention and the work of the Canadian Good Roads Association was shown in every city visited. Each Provincial Government in the West will be represented at the convention by several Cabinet Ministers, as well as by its Highway Officials. There will be many delegates who are interested in the Automobile Clubs and Good Roads Associations, as well as a large number who see in the building of highways on the prairies and at the Coast, one of the most important economic steps in the development of that country.

Since the return of Messrs. Squire and Findlay to Toronto, assurance have been received of an important and numerous attendance from the East. Each Province will be represented officially in the same manner as the Western Provinces, it is expected.

This is the 13th annual convention of the Association. Its officers this year are:

Hon. Past-President—Hon. J. L. Perron, K.C., Minister of Roads, Province of Quebec.

Honorary President—Hon. P. J. Veniot, Ex. Premier, Province of NewBrunswick.

President—Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works, Manitoba.

2nd Vice-President—Hon. John Oliver, Premier, Province of British Columbia.

SecretaryTreasurer—Geo. A. McNamee, Montreal, Quebec.

Executive Committee — S. L. Squire, Chairman; Hon. J. L. Perron, K.C., J. A. Duchastel, Hon. P. J. eVniot, A. McGillivray, William Findlay, Geo. A. McNamee.

EXPECT CHANGES TO SAVE MONEY

Overhead Will Be Reduced When New Addition is Finished.

AT BRINTON PLANT.

Changes which it is hoped will have the effect of reducing overhead charges of the Brinton Carpet factory will be put into operation on the completion of the addition at present in course of erection.

The new building will house the finishing department containing all the carpet sewing and shearing machines and a new steamer machine.

At present all the material has to be carried down a five-foot flight of steps. A saving in carting and lifting expenses is expected to follow the placing of all the machines on a uniform level. Two new looms may be installed in the fall if business conditions warrant the step.

COUNSEL RECINDS

the cost has always been split 60-40, the same as the other parts of the cost. A by-law will be prepared to amend the curbing by-law, and the matter will be threshed out at the September meeting.

Alderman Hancock questioned the wisdom of buying a Sawyer-Massey road roller without obtaining competitive tenders He said he had agreed to it in committee because he thought a new roller would cut down the number of requests for paving, but had been told that other companies would demonstrate their rollers right in the city and sell them for a lower price. It was explained that the machine was needed right away and that calling for tenders would take time, while Alderman Turner recalled that last year it was decided that a machine of this make would be purchased when the need arose, and that there was little difference in price. The by-law was passed.

The men who went to Balsam Lake to assist in the search for the victims of the recent drowning accident will be paid on the certificate of Acting-Mayor Phelan. A check will be issued to License Inspector Joseph Stewart for a fine deposited to the City's credit by mistake. No action will be taken with regard to the signs on the Kingston highway east and west of Port Hope.

The question of taking part in a deputation asking for a concrete surface on the Peterborough-Port Hope provincial highway and the taking over of the Peterborough-Lindsay road was left to the acting Mayor. The matter of holding a dressed fowl fair in Peterborough will be taken up with the Chamber of Commerce and F. C. McRae, the agricultural representative.

Alderman Cotton asked for further information about a proposal to build an arch across the end of Charlotte street and the matter of securing a price and other data was left to him and Aldermen Phelan and Greene.

Steps will be taken to put tile in on the west side of the Monaghan road, between Charlotte street and Homewood avenue to prevent seepage under the road, which now makes frequent repairs necessary.

CAR OVERTURNS INJURING TWO

NEWMARKET, Aug. 3.—Mrs. R. J. Flynn, wife of an ex-Mayor of Weston, and Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Toronto, were seriously injured when a car driven by Mr. Flynn, in which they were passengers, overturned in a deep ditch about two and one-half miles north of Queensville yesterday. According to occupants of the car, they were driving south along the right side of the road, when another car driven by Mr. Ash of Wilcox Lake and with five or six occupants attempted to pass them. Mr. Ash's car, they say, struck the hub of Mr. Flynn's left front wheel, with the result that the latter lost control of the steering, and the car ran into the ditch, completely overturning, and pinning the occupants beneath.

PRINCE TO VISIT PARIS IN FALL

Will Open Canadian Hostel at City University of French Capital.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—A visit of the Prince of Wales to Paris in the autumn is now under consideration. It is understood he promised two years ago that if possible he would open the hostel which is now almost completed for accommodation of Canadian students in the Cite Universitaire in Paris. This has been designed to accommodate 50 Canadian students at a cost of approximately 2,000,000 francs, given for the purpose by Senator Joseph M. Wilson of Montreal. Hostels planned for French students, both men and women, and obviously inspired by Oxford colleges were opened last autumn. The Cite Universitaire when completed will be one of the most interesting groups of academic buildings in Europe. The buildings are being erected on the spot where the old fortifications of the city of Paris stood. Out of the 22,000 students now at the University 3,300 come from other countries.

LATE PARLIAMENT HAD SHORTEST LIFE

Actual Existence Was Only Five Months and 26 Days.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.— (Canadian Press).—The present General Election campaign throughout Canada follows the dissolution of the shortest parliament in the history of the Dominion. The actual life of Canada's Fifteenth Parliament, which was dissolved on July 2, 1926, was five months and 26 days. Although the last General Elections were on Oct. 29, 1925, the law officers of the House of Commons say that the actual existence of Parliament dates from the first day the Speaker takes the chair, which was on Jan. 7 of this year.

Previous to this the record for brevity in Canadian Parliaments was held by the second parliament after Confederation, which sat for one year and four months. The Twelfth Parliament, which was under the war-time government, established the record for longevity by carrying on for six years, holding seven sessions during this period.

The length of service of each parliament since Confederation follows:

1st Parliament—4 years, 9 months, 15 days.
2nd Parliament—1 year, 4 months.
3rd Parliament—4 years, 5 months, 25 days.
4th Parliament—3 years, 5 months, 28 days.
5th Parliament—4 years, 5 months, 10 days.
6th Parliament—3 years, 9 months, 27 days.
7th Parliament—5 years.
8th Parliament—4 years, 2 months, 26 days.
9th Parliament—3 years, 9 months, 26 days.
10th Parliament — 3 years, 9 months, 4 days.
11th Parliament — 2 years, 7 months, 28 days.
12th Parliament—6 years.
13th Parliament —3 years, 7 months, 7 days.
14th Parliament — 3 years, 8 months, 30 days.
15th Parliament — 5 months, 26 days.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT REJECTS PROPOSAL

Refuses To Amend Religious Laws Passed By Federal Government.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press).— President Calles has rejected the proposal for a truce in the religous controversy made by the Mexican Episcopate.

In a statement to the Associated Press, the President says:

"This executive has already made known its opinion regarding the religous situation. Replying to the Episcopate statement, I will say that the Federal Government will only limit itself to act with the required energy to enforce the laws of this country."

INSTITUTE HONORS 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Wooler and York Road Branch Holds Birthday Party.

WOOLER, Aug. 3—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the York Road and Wooler Women's Institute was celebrated by having a basket picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dempsey on the Wooler road, between Trenton and Wooler, especially known as the "Dempsey" fruit farm.

Through invitation, the other five Women's Institutes of the district were represented. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, Mr. Dempsey invited the party to have their lunch in his large fruit house, and later the programme was completed there as the showers came.

The music for the afternoon was furnished by Graydon's orchestra from Trenton. The east verandah of the house was beautifully decorated and furnished with ice cream, bananas, popcorn, peanuts and chocolate bars.

The programme was well carried out, as follows:

Mrs. Jane Farley, of Smithfield, the original officer of twenty-five years ago, acted as chairman. In her 81st year, she was not at all embarrassed, being a very active worker during these years of institute activities. Mrs. Mary Dempsey was the President when the institute was organized twenty-five years ago at her home and at the very same spot where the silver anniversary was celebrated, under the most gracious hospitality of Mrs. Dempsey and her son, Peter C. and his wife. Mrs. J. W. Crews and Mrs. Dan McColl were the other two officers, completing the executive, with fifteen members en rolled.

Linking the officers with those who are in charge today, Mrs. Wm. Ornis, Mrs. Hendricks, Mrs. J. J. Way and Mrs. F. Denyes presented Mrs. Dempsey, Mrs. Farley and Mrs. Crews with beautiful bouquets.

Then a roll call of officers from each institute during the past twenty-five years was read, it being very remarkable that every officer is living today.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. S. L. Terrill, of Wooler:

"We welcome you for three reasons: First, because all Canadian women worthy of the name have been brought together during the last twenty-five years in common cause. Secondly, because the aims, objects and purposes of your organizations are along similar lines to what all women throughout the country are endeavoring to do—home improvement and community betterment work along educational, social and moral lines. All these things tend, as you know, to the development of citizenship in the national life of the country. Canada is a land of opportunity, on the home-maker, the mother of the home, the teacher in the school, devolves a tremendous opportunity. I greet you, I am sure very heartily, and warmly welcome you here today. We appreciate Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey's hospitality in offering this beautiful home and spacious grounds. Again we welcome you to this occasion."

The reply to the address of welcome was given by Mrs. F. Clarke, of Brighton, District Secretary, endorsing the words of welcome and emphasing the work and the motto, "For Home and Country," which means so much in responsibility to our women. She gave a few outlines of the work which has been acomplished by the organization, and still there are so many opportunities awaiting the Women's Institutes.

George Putnam, Superintendent of Women's Institutes, of Toronto, gave a very inspiring address, touching on every item of importance of the work as it is today, and encouraging the women to carry on the work with more zeal than ever before.

At the close of this address a vote of thanks and appreciation was moved by Mrs. George Adams, of Wooler, and seconded by Mrs. E. Bedal, of Smithfield.

Mr. Smith, the District Representative, was called on, and at the close of his address the large birthday cake, with 25 candles lighted, was cut and served to every person present in honor of the occasion. A lunch was served to the speakers and guests, and then every one returned home, believing this twenty-fifth anniversary of the York Road and Wooler Women's Institutes would be long remembered.

If Teeth Lack Gleam Just Do This

Gives sparkling whiteness quickly

Please accept full 10-day tube free of this remarkable new method that leading dental authorities urge . . . note the difference in teeth and gums as dingy film coat goes.

* * *

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy.

It absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. 10-day test sent free.

BRITISH LEADERS IN SCIENCE MEETING IN OXFORD'S HALLS

Prince of Wales Will Preside Over Annual Gathering of Solons.

MANY TO ATTEND.

World Famous Scientist To Discuss Problems of Present Day.

LONDON, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—The British Association for the Advancement of Science will hold the annual meeting at Oxford from August 4 to 11. An unusual amount of interest is being taken in this year's gathering, which promises to be the most largely attended of recent years. On the evening of the opening day the Prince of Wales will deliver the presidential address in the Sheldonian Theatre. Already over 3,500 applications have been received for the 1,500 available places in the building.

Probably Lord Balfour, the senior ex-President of the Association, will propose the vote of thanks to the Prince of Wales. The address will probably refer to the relations between Science and the State and the Community in its various aspects, and deal with the manner in which scientific research has become more closely identified with various matters of the State and administration. The arrangements for the broadcasting will be carried out with the co-operation of the British Broadcasting Company.

Origin of the Species

One particularly interesting item in the programme is a paper of Prof. H. F. Osborn of Columbia University, U.S.A., on the problem of the origin of species as it appeared to Darwin in 1859 and as it appears today. Sir Josiah Stamp's presidential address to the Economics Section will be on "Inheritance as an Economic Factor," and in the same discussion on "Economic Aspects of the Labor Outlook." In the Engineering Section, Sir John Snell's presidential address will be on "Electricity Supply." The address of W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under-Secretary of State for the Dominions, will deal with "The Economic Development of Africa and its Effect on the Native Population." There have been recent developments of importance in research work in spectroscopy, and Professor A. Fowler, in his presidential address in the Physics Section, will speak on this subject.

A joint discussion by the Education and Agricultural Section will take place on the subject of educational training for overseas life. The debaters will probably include Sir T. Holland, W. Ormsby-Gore, Dame Muriel Talbot, Sir Alfred Yarrow, Sir John Russell and Sir Halford Mackinder.

It is not an uncommon practice to have many well-known preachers on the Sunday during the term of the meeting. On this occasion, however, the members will be able to hear among others the Bishop of Oxford, the Master of the Temple, the Bishop of Winchester, the Dean of St. Paul's, and the Archbishop of Armagh. Sir Oliver Lodge will speak in Cowley Road Congregational Church. The Royal Air Force will give a demonstration on Port Meadow, and arrangements are being made for excursions to places of scientific interest and to colleges, churches, the Bodleian Library, the Lewis Evans collection of scientific instruments and the University Press.

The last occasion upon which a member of the Royal Family was President of the Association was in 1859, when the Prince Consort occupied that position.

HIGH CONSTRUCTION VOLUME CONTINUES

Quebec Maintains Lead Over Divisions During July.

The contributing factors in connection with the construction total for July were largely of average size contracts. Except for a Cold Storage Warehouse in Montreal, P.Q., a Hotel at Regina, Sask. and a Wharf at Limoilou, P.Q., no individual contract exceeded $1,000,000. This is an exception from recent months when larger individual contracts were recorded. However, the July total of $33,864,700 is an increase over the same month of last year of 52%. The figure is the largest for any July since 1912.

During July, according to MacLean Buildings Reports, Limited, the Province of Quebec accounted for the bulk of the Dominion total. In that province 36.8% of all construction was undertaken, having a value of $12,470,300, which just topped Ontario with $12,158,600 or 35.9%. The Prairie Provinces, which showed a still further increase over June, totalled $6,447,000 or 19.1%, while British Columbia recorded a lesser total than the previous month of $1,729,100 or 5.1%. The Maritimes, assisted by a wharf contract, accounted to 3.12% or $1,059,700 of all construction.

For a change, projects in the Business Buildings classification lead the other classifications. 42.1% of all construction or $14,276,400 worth of new work was contracted for in that classification. Residential work kept up well, showing $10,574,700 or 30%. $7,203,000 or 21.3% was accounted for by construction in the Engineering classification and $2,230,600 or 6.6% for Industrial work. Judging from the past records, this total for Industrial is more normal than for months past as it includes no exceedingly large project.

For the seven months period from January 1st the construction of Business buildings rather than Residential, which has been the rule, now takes precedence. Contracts to the value of $68,036,900 or 29.8% of all construction are showin in this classification. Residential work accounts for the same proportion as for the six months period 29.1% and has a value of $66,570,000. Public Works and Utilities shows approximately the same proportion as Industrial work, the cumulative totals being $47,691,300, or 20.9% and $46,110,100, of 20.2% respectively.

By divisions Quebec leads Ontario by a wide margin, accounting for the year to date for 41.1% of all construction of $93,899,600. Ontario follows with a total of $80,932,700 or 35.4%. The exceptional construction activities in the Prairie Provinces enables that section of the country to record $32,749,100 worth of construction or 14.33%. In British Columbia, where building is more active also than during 1925, the accrued contracts now total $16,860,300 or 7.4%, while the Maritime Provinces take care of 1.8% or $3,966,600. As in previous months of the year, construction contracts in each Province are well ahead of those in recent years with the exception of the Maritimes.

Contemplated new construction for the month of July was reported to the value of $32,503,900, making the total for the year to date $337,102,400. This leaves the ratio between contemplated and contracts awarded much the same as was for the month of June, indicating that a similar proportion of the work, which is oming out, is being proceeded with. The present condition in the entire construction industry are conceded to be very healthy.

MISSIONARY GAVE ADDRESS AT CAVAN

Dr. Avison, From Korea, Spoke at United Church on Sunday.

CAVAN, Aug. 3.—Dr. Avison, returned medical missionary from Korea, delivered a very interesting and instructive address in Cavan United church on Sunday evening.

He told of the manners and customs of the Koreans, and of the great change in that country during the last twently-five years. Dr. Avison was born in Korea, his father being a medical missionary there. Thirty years ago everything there was in a very primitive state. The lights were tallow candles. Now there are electric lights and very many of the modern convenieces enjoyed by other countries.

He described the advances made in missionary and educational institutions and showed samples of the native dress.

In the morning Dr. Avison spoke in Mount Pleasant. The Rev. J. O. Totten took charge of both services.

Miss Olive Perrin, Toronto, is spending a two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perrin.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lock and two little sons are visiting his sisters, Mrs. J. W. Perrin and Mrs. H. Lang and other friends in Cavan and Millbrook.

Miss Elinor Sharpe, Ebenezer, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. S. Staples.

Harold Bell, Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. S. Staples.

Harold Bell, Toronto, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. David White.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Brantford, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Syer for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hunter, with Mr. and Miss Gray, Peterborough, motored to Barrie and Wasago Beach and visited friends.

Miss Margaret Smith, Barrie, is the guest of Miss Gwendolyn Hunter.

The August meeting of the Ladies' Aid has been withdrawn, on account of the cooking class which will be held in Cavan Community Hall, during the first two weeks of August.

Mrs. G. Cook, Beamsville, arrived in Cavan on Monday to conduct the Domestic Science class.

COMMUNION SERVICE HELD AT MARMORA

Canon G. E. Simmons, Principal of St. Andrew's College Officiated.

MARMORA, Aug. 3.—There was a good congregation at St. Paul's on Sunday morning for the service of Holy Communion at which Capt. (Rev.) T. H. H. Hall, Regimental Chaplain, was celebrant. The preacher was Canon G. E. Simmons, Principal of St. Andrew's College, Honan, China.

Canon Simmons was several years ago a Lay Reader in this Parish under the late Canon C. M. Harris and is warmly welcomed back on the occasion of his furloughs. His sermon was prefaced with choice comment upon his association with St. Paul's. He selected for his text the later hal fof Isaiah 49-6. He pointed out that whereas to numbers in our country there was a distinction made between home and foreign missions, there was in China no such division. Isaiah anticipated the time when Christ should be a light to the Gentiles. "It seems to us", said the preacher, "who are accredited as the church's agents in China and the various posts throughout the world as though this is the day of fulfilment. China," he continued, "was one of the last of the nations to open her doors to the gospel of Jesus. Barriers are also being broken down in Thibet where so strong a wall or partition existed all along. Sixteen years ago in Honan the Bishop had no converts. In Christmas 1910 the first, eight in number, were converted. Today there are 2000 on the church registers and another 2000 in the schools. Whereas sixteen years ago, Bishop White had no co-worker, today there are30 of which eight have been ordained to the ministry. Canon Simmons concluded with graphic descriptions of the conversion of two different individuals. Chinese and the wonderful after effects which their conversion brought to their respective villages. In the former case, the convert was instrumental in the Chinese temple being later used as a Christian place of worship. The students of China are in other words sying today: "Put into practice the principles the church is teaching in China."

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous waste matter is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

There is no guess work about Rheuma bringing you back to health. That's why McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick relief.

WEDDING BELLS.

ELLINGSON—GARDNER.

NORWOOD, Aug. 3.—A wedding of interest to Norwood friends took place in the First Baptist Church, Los Angeles, California, on Sunday, June 27th, at 8.30 o'clock p.m., when Nellie V., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner, of Norwood, became the bride of Mr. Clarence Ellingson, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Holver Ellingson, of Los Angeles, California. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Carl Antonson, pastor of the church.

The winsome bride, who was given away by her cousin, Mr. John H. McCulloch, of Long Beach, California, was attired in a beautiful gown of white taffeta with trimmings of Chantille lace, and wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lily-of-the-valley. Mrs. Edward Ellingson, dressed in orchid silk, was matron of honor and Miss Vera Gardner, in pale green taffeta with tulle trimmings, was her sister's bridesmaid. Both the matron of honor and the bridesmaid carried huge bouquets of sweet peas. Litle Miss Helen Ellingson, niece of the groom, in a dainty French frock of pink georgette, acted as flower girl. The ring, on a heart-shaped white satin cushion, was carried by Master Lester Erickson, who was dressed in white satin. Mrs. E. A. Erickson played the wedding march.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Edward Ellingson, and Mr. Lawrence Flodine. Mrs. H. Ellingson, mother of the groom, was dressed in a beautiful gown in orchid shade.

After the ceremony the young couple left for Hollywood where a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Holmquist, 3904 Cumberland avenue, where more than 150 guests were received by the bride, assisted by Mrs. (Dr.) R. C. Bertheran and Mrs. Harold Anderson. After congratulations a dainty luncheon was served on individual hand-made trays of white and gold, which harmonized with the house decorations.

During the evening musical numbers were rendered by Dr. R. C. Berthean and Mr. Gordon Holmquist, of the University of Southern California.

The numerous presents included a handsome cheque from the bride's father, a purse of gold from the father of the groom, a walnut clock from the Young Men's Class of the church, a walnut tea wagon from the Philathea Class and a Royal Rochester casserole from the Philia Class of the same church. The bride was the valued Secretary of the latter class.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellingson left later by motor for Yosemite, National Park, to spend a two weeks' honeymoon. On their return they will be at home to their many friends at 1546 Winfield street, Los Angeles.

HOWSE-RUTTAN.

TRENT RIVER, August 3. — At the United Church on Saturday morning, (July 31st), a pretty wedding was solemnized when Mr. Edward Henry Howse, of Toronto, and Miss Lyla Ruth Ruttan, eldest daughter of John A. Ruttan, of Trent River, were united is marriage. Rev. Forbes Stillman, of Norwood, officiated. Promptly at eleven thirty, to the strains of "Lohengrin's Bridal March," played by Miss Bessie G. French, of Trent River, the bride appeared on the arm of her father, gowned in white satin faced crepe and wearing a wedding veil and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and maiden hair fern. Her bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn McMullen, of Toronto, wore nile green georgette, black picture hat and carriew pink roses and maiden hair fern. The groom was supported by Mr. Francis Rutton (brother of the bride). The wedding party stood under an arch of evergreens, trimmed with white, surrounded with potted plants and cut flowers.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Douglas Pound of Chatham, sang very sweetly "At the End of the Sunset Trail, after which Mendelssohn's wedding march was played while the party left the church. Only immediate relatives were present at the house, where a dainty lunch was served.

The happy couple left for their honeymoon trip to Cobourg, taking a boat trip to Rochester. The bride's going away dress was of Powder blue georgette with a leghorn hat trimmed with georgette to match and a coat of French Ottaman sand cord. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Howse will reside in Toronto.

MRS. WILLIAM McELWAIN

PORT HOPE, Aug. 3.—After a short illness, Mrs. William McElwain passed away on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walker, Garden Hill, Ontario. Mrs. McElwain was born in Emily Township, near Omemee in 1835, and until the death of her husband resided at Gelert, Haliburton County. When Mrs. McElwain and her husband decided to make a home at Gelert, it was necessary for them to travel there by ox-team, and the farm, which is still owned by a member of the family, had to be claimed from the forest. She was a life-long Methodist. Surviving her are three sons, Thomas of Kinmount, and Robert S. and William S. of Gelert, and three daughters, Mrs. Harrison of Silver Lake, Mrs. Walker of Garden Hill, and Mrs. Empey of Tornoto.

nial. It was of a nature which does not, however, altogether contradict them.

"Certain newspapers," this denial read, "have published inexact and contradictory information on the intentions of the Government and on the financial and monetary projects which it contemplates. The Government will keep the Chambers regularly informed of its acts and intentions. It warns the public against conjectures which cannot have other than an injurious effect on exchange, and it does not doubt that the whole country will maintain in the present circumstances sangfroid, which is the first condition for the recovery of the franc."

Unofficially the statement is made that "for the moment there is no question of seeking ratification of the English debt settlement."

The official communique may be read as a simple announcement that no reports are to be considered accurate until they emanate directly from the Finance Ministry. In the Chamber, however, it was yesterday stated emphatically that as recently as Thursday last the Premier discussed with the Finance Commission the possibility of having ultimately recourse to English and Dutch credits, and it is generally accepted that he is aware of the impossibility of carrying through the work of reconstruction without outside aid.

His great difficulty lies in the impossibility, even if he personally wished it, of obtaining ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt settlement, and until there is a change in that situation all freedom of action, and even of statement of intention, must be strictly limited.

There is no doubt that the opposition in the Chamber to M. Caillaux's proposals was primarily opposition to the proposal to seek outside help and the Poincare Government must, for the present at least, proceed on the ground that its intentions are to work solely with internal resources, such as are provided by the new taxation measures passed by the Chamber and by the sinking fund scheme and the proposal for the conversion of Government obligations into negotiable bonds in the National Tobacco Company, on which the Premier was at work all day yesterday.

Press of Right is Criticized.

It is a matter of curious comment that criticism of the action of the Government in rushing through the measures passed Saturday and of its whole policy was stronger yesterday in the Right than in the Left newspapers. The extreme Right, especially, is open in its profession of little faith in the ability of the Premier to carry his whole scheme through to a successful conclusion.

The only new tax which is really popular is undoubtedly the new poll tax on foreigners. Of it the only critisicm is that it does not go far enough and is not likely to be fully collected in simple and effective fashion.

POWER BEHIND DICTATOR SEES NEW ERA DAWN

Prof. Askenaczy Lauds Pilsudski as Embodying Ideals of Poland.

EQUALITY FOR ALL.

Denies Being "Richelieu" of Country or Head of Freemasonry.

WARSAW, August 3. — Although denying that he is the "good, gray Eminence" of Poland, Professor Symon Askenaczy, reputed in recent cartoons and in anti-government circles as being the power behind the Pilsudski dictatorship, gave the clearest analysis of the republic's aims yet enunciated by any official.

The towering figure of the learned historian who for three years represented Poland in the League of Nations as the successor of Ignace Paderewski, resigning voluntarily when the Witos Government was formed, paced nervously to and fro across the admirable salon of his apartment as he discussed the Polish situation.

He admitted being a friend of Marshal Pilsudski and intimate with every phase of the government's policies but laughingly passed off suggestions that he is the Richelieu or Mazarin of the present government, as well as the publicly implied charge that he is the head of the Freemasonry of the country.

"Do not let the world forget," said this dark eyed, hawk-nosed, silvery-haired student of Poland's destinies "that Josef Pilsudski is the only man who ever saw the backs of the Bolsheviki when they were endeavoring to engulf Europe. He embodies all the ideals of Poland and the incidents on May 12 can only be said to have been of benefit to the country.

"For the first few years of our independence we were busy with wars while our neighbors were engaged in fostering animosities among the minorities. These minorities are not entirely of our making. They were decided by the Treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations.

Sees Equal Chances for All.

"Whatever has happened, we have them, and they constitute a third of Poland's 30,000,000 population. It is one of our greatest problems, but we mean peacefully to assimilate them, just as American did her many commonwealths after the Civil War. There will be equal chances for all."

"Nobody knows this better than Marshall Pilsudski," he continued. "He has the advantage of knowing all Poland better than any other Pole and he is exceptional. He released Europe from the menace of Bolshevism and he deserves gratitude rather than reproach for the events of May 12. The Japanese, Chinese French and English failed to stem the Red wave, whereupon Marshall Pilsudski met and checked it."

Professor Askenaszcy, continuing on the subject of revolution, declared that the result was excellent and that a start had been made by Cabinet members who unquestionably were honest and who were facing for the first time the real problems of reconstruction.

Poland, half the size it attained in its most glorious days, does not desire additional territory, he said.

"Nobody can reproach a young man for growing tall,' 'he smiled. "Because I am taller than Dr. Benes ofCzechoslovakia, should some one suggest cutting off my head or my feet to enable us to speak equally Then why should it be suggested that Poland's head (the Vilna region) be cut off to make us the same size as the other smaller countries created after the war? We are the largest, but the most modest country resulting from the struggle."

Concerning the minorities, the Professor defined them as: one, Slavonic Ukrainians of Volhynia; two, White Rusians of the Vilna district; three, Germans; four, Jews. The Slavs and Russians, he declared, exist because they are attached to the soil. The Jews are scattered, but tied to Poland because they existed for hundreds of years and always as an important factor in trade. The Germans also were scattered through ancient colonization methods.

Minorities Number Ten Millions

Numbering ten million in all, the minorities constitute a problem which was never touched before by the old partition authorities, Professor Askenaczy asserted, adding that they always have been used as pawns, the one being moved against the other for the purpose of cultivating hatred and that, despite the countrys brilliant history, real liberty for these factions only began with the end of the great war.

Robert Lloyd Howard of Harvard, he continued, was the first person to recognize the minority problem in Europe, his report to President Wilson being carefully considered in the present-day treatment of peoples.

The Professor praised the present Government highly as the real builders of the new nation and declared that with American and other foreign aid the future was exceedingly bright.

The man who yesterday was cartooned as the prompter on the stage on which Foreign Minister Zaleski was announcing his policy and repeatedly called Mazaria and Richelieu, concluded his interview with a nervous farewell and announced his retirement for a vacation until the last of September which coincides with the date when the big undertakings of the new republic will be resumed.

Says Jews Are Starved

The situation of the Jews in Poland was clearly defined as the worst since the beginning of the war by Captain Frank Connes of New York upon his completion of a survey of every industrial centre in Poland.

He declared suicide, usually unknown among the Jews was reaching an appalling record and that starvation was beyond belief.

The chief reason, said Captain Connes, the Jews of the industrial districts are the only classes which do not receive doles is because they are not members of labor unions. Citing Bialystock, where one out of twenty large factories are operating, he said Jewish tradesmen are in the worst possible condition because of the economic crisis which has thrown the factory workers into poverty.

Captain Connes is preparing a report for the benefit of the United Jewish Campaign in America.

PEOPLE MEXICAN.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3 (United Press).—The afternoon newspaper "El Emparcial has begun a scare-head campaign over the disputed border territory of St. Laurents, a 70-acre section of river land claimed by the city council of Juarez, but long under American control. "The U.S. has planted her flag on a plot of Mexican territory, the paper told its readers. The area in question is inhabited chiefly by Mexicans but, according to American lawyers, rightfully belongs to the United States.

DIVORCE SUIT SUICIDE CAUSE

Woman Takes Poison When Served With Notice of Action.

NO INQUEST.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Sadie Church, aged 32, died last night from poisoning. Mrs. Church, the police said, took a number of bichloride of mercury tablets last Friday night. She was rushed to the General Hospital and died last night.

The woman, the police learned, had been separated from her husband. On Friday night, they report, he served her with notice of application to Ottawa for a divorce. After being informed of this, Mrs. Church, the police say, went into another room and took the poison. Coroner G. W. Clendenan is investigating, but it is not likely an inquest will be held.

Teller Wanted For Robbery Returns Keys and Pays Bill

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—George W. Ford, former bank teller, who is accused of turning bandit and robbing his employers of $7,163.50 on July 17, and who disappeared from here, returned the keys of the Highland Avenue Branch of the Peninsular State Bank of Highland Park yesterday to Frank J. Felton, Manager, by a letter. Felton was the victim of the robberw.

Ford also sent $100 to Mrs. Jonas H. Gongaware, 90 East Grand Avenue, where he had roomed. Seventy dollars of the sum was for overdue room rent, and the remaining $30 was sent as a present.

MAY BE SON.

Boy Left Home When He Was Twelve Years of Age.

SALMON ARM, B. C., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—While not admitting that the man known as Thomas Johnson, who is held in Seattle, is his son, John Johnson, former Justice of the Peace, and resident of this district for nearly thirty years, said yesterday that about eight years ago he had been notified that his son, who left home when 12 years of age, had been placed in an asylum in Missouri. At that time he did not place any credence in the report.

Johnson said that a mark of identification on his son would be a scar below the knee, the result of a cut from a scythe received when the lad was 4 years old.

The family then resided at Blyth, Ont., and later moved to Gladstone, Man.

Straight Lines Assert Importance

The straight silhouette, which vies in importance with the flaring line, is charmingly portrayed in this model developed in one of the dainty new foulard dotted crêpes. The frock is straight in line from shoulder to hem, showing just a little fulness over the bust where the front is slashed in yoke effect. The turn down collar is fashioned of soft-tone material, as is the wide gipsy girdle which is crushed into a buckle at the front. The long simple sleeves are gathered into narrow bands at the wrists. The diagram shows how easy it is to put the dress together, and pattern No. 1098 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (or 34, 36 and 38 inches bust). Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3¾ yards 32-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch material. Price 20 cents.

HER OWN WAY by a Girl of Today

JUDY'S NEW FRIEND.

Although I had hung back, Jerry had almost pushed me toward his car.

"Judy," he said, "do you know you have made an enemy for some reason of that man at The Circle. You're altogether too independent. Don't you know, dear, that the worst place in the world for a girl like you who has no one to protect her, no one to stand back of her, is a big, cruel city like this one?"

"Where are you going, Jerry?" I interrupted.

"Wherever you want to go," he answered quickly.

"I'm so tired I could die," I found myself saying under my breath.

"Judy, let me take you out into the country. I don't know what trouble you have been in, but I have a shrewd notion that it concerns Miss Meredith. Whatever it is, your face is pale and drawn, and your eyes are set in great deep circles. Let me take you out somewhere where you can forget, Judy."

"But, Jerry, you have your work to do. You cannot be at my beck and call all the time. I know you have been tagging me around all day."

"You know very well, young lady," he said, "that I've been at your call ever since the first time I saw you. However, I can't say that you have done much beckoning. Surely you must know that there is no work in all the world that would keep me from you, if you really wanted me.

"I know a little farmhouse, my dear, that has a path up to it leading through a shady lane, lined on each side with syringa blossoms. There is a wide porch there and the comfortable woman will bring us a little table and set it out where we get a heady fragrance of the white blossoms from each side of the path.

"Over that table she will lay a cloth of cool white linen and therew pickles and jams and honey and other country goodies placed upon it. A great pitcher of cold buttermilk and fresh white homemade bread will follow, and last, but not leass, she will bring us a half broiled chicken in a bed of watercress."

I suddenly remembered that I hadn't eaten anything since the night before, almost 24 hours before, and impulsively said, "You draw a beautiful picture, Jerry. I'll go with you if you will take Joan Meredith with us."

Jerry's face clouded.

"I don't know her, Judy. I've seen her many times and always avoided her. You know I don't care for society girls."

"But you'll like Joan immediately," I answered. "I did. Jerry, I've only known her about 48 hours, and it seems to me that I have known and loved her better than anyone else in all my life."

"Better than Mamie?" he asked.

"Not better, but in a different way," I answered.

Tomorrow: Judy is still nervous.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

CONGREVE AND ARABELLA HUNT.

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Not altogether sincere, too polished, but charming and passionate enough to be treasured by a love-stricken woman among her most priceless possessions are the love letters of William Congreve. Congreve is known to history as the greatest master in English of literary comedy. His stage comedies are ranked almost the equal of the immortal comedies of Moliere. He lived in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries in London and produced five plays which were immensely successful: "The Old Bachelor," "Double Dealing," "Love for Love," "The Mourning Bride," and "The Way of the World." In connection with his first work, a youthful novel, there was coined that classic saying by the famous Dr. Johnson, "I would rather praise that book than read it," which can be made partner to Mark Twain's observation that "a classic is a book that is always praised and never read."

Congreve gave his heart to various ladies, and especially to one of his actresses, Mrs. Bracegirdle, who bestowed upon him her favors very generously. But the letter below was written to another mistress, a Mrs. Arabella Hunt.

"Dear Madam: Not believe that I love you? You cannot pretend to be so incredulous. If you do not believe my tongue, consult my eyes, consult your own. You will find by yours that they have charms; by mine that I have a heart which feels them. Recall to mind what happened last night. That, at least, was a lover's kiss. Its eagerness, its fierceness, its warmth, expressed the god—its parent. But oh! its sweetness and its melting softness expressed him more; with trembling in my limbs and fevers in my soul, I ravish'd it. Convulsions, pantings, murmurings show'd of the mighty disorder within me: the mighty disorder increased by it. For those dear lips shot my heart and through my bleeding vitals delicious poison and avoidless, but charming, ruin.

"What cannot a day produce! The night before I thought myself a happy man, in want of nothing, approved by men of wit and applauded by others. Pleased — nay, charmed — with my friends, my dearest friends, sensible of every delicate pleasure and in turn, possessing all.

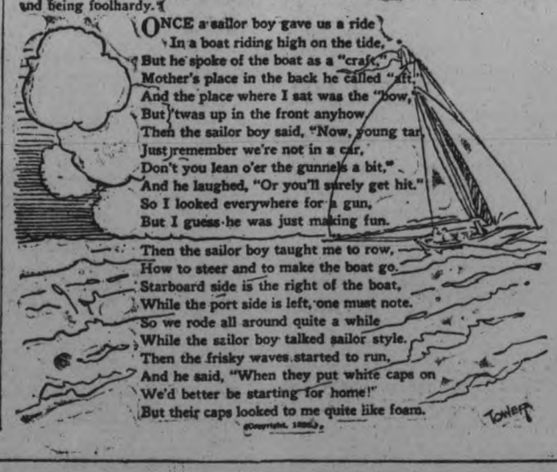
"But Love, almighty Love, seems in a moment to have removed me to a prodigious distance from every object but you alone. In the midst of crowds I remain in solitude. Nothing but you can lay hold of my mind, and that can lay hold of nothing but you. I appear to be transported to some foreign desert with you (oh! that I were really thus transported) where, abundantly supplied with everything, in thee, I might live out an age of uninterrupted ecstasy.

"The scene of the world's greatest stage seems suddenly and sadly changed. Unlovely objects are all around me, excepting thee; the charms of all the world seem to have been translated to thee. Thus in this sad, but oh! too pleasing state, my soul can fix upon nothing but thee; thee it contemplates, admires, adores—nay, depends upon, trusts you alone. If you and hope forsake it, despair and endless misery attend it."

About a Boat

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THE first thing a child should learn about a small boat is that he must sit still while out on the water. Most tip-overs occur when changing places in a boat or leaning over the sides. Most any boat, even a board, will ride quite large waves if properly balanced, so that the chief danger about boats lies in fooling or getting panicky when anything happens. In ignorance danger always lies, so take the children out on the water and teach them the proper handling of a boat. Teach them also the essential difference between being good sportsmen and being foolhardy.



ONCE a sailor boy gave us a ride
In a boat riding high on the tide,
But he spoke of the boat as a "craft,"
Mother's place in the back he called "aft,"
And the place where I sat was the "bow,"
But 'twas up in the front anyhow.
Then the sailor boy said, "Now, young tar,
Just remember we're not in a car,
Don't you lean o'er the gunnels a bit,"
And he laughed, "Or you'll surely get hit."
So I looked everywhere for a gun,
But I guess he was just making fun.
Then the sailor boy taught me to row,
How to steer and to make the boat go.
Starboard side is the right of the boat,
While the port side is left, one must note.
So we rode all around quite a while
While the sailor boy talked sailor style.
Then the frisky waves started to run,
And he said, "When they put white caps on We'd better be starting for home!"
But their caps looked to me quite like foam.

Today's Fashion By Vera Winston

These Summer Coiffures Are Cool and Smart.

The coiffure of Summer should be arranged with an eye to coolness, for to appear cool and trim is as important as to have the hair arranged becomingly.

Above are shown three smart Summer coiffures. At the top of the column, bobbed hair which has been allowed to grow to just below the shoulder is brushed smoothly about the head and tucked in at the left side. Below this the arrangement is much the same, except the hair is trimmed in sideburns which are most becoming to some types.

The sketch at the bottom shows hair which has been allowed to grow long at the sides. Any of these coiffures may be obtained in the natural hair wigs which are so smart at the moment, and worn over a close bob of one's own hair. Women of fashion wear them in varying colors, appearing as a blonde one day and a brunette the next.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The Carnelian is today's talismanic gem. The ancients believed that it brought good luck in love affairs—they claimed that at this time no lover would be successful unless he wore this stone.

The natal stone for today is the diamond, the symbol of betrothal, which was believed by the ancients to lose its brilliancy when the love of which it was the emblem grew cold.

Yellow, India's sacred color is the hue prescribed for wear today.

The pink carnation is today's flower, and brings peace and contentment to those who wear it.

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1926.

This is an auspicious day for many activities, according to astrology, but it will be wise to avoid speculation.

There is a promising sign for writings of any sort and authors should benefit.

Success and profit to writers will come through competitions or rivalries of various sorts, the seers prophesy, for they foresee the production of real literature.

Lovers should benefit today, which promotes harmony and understanding, as well as illusions.

It is an auspicious day for weddings and appears to promise long life with little danger of divorce.

Motion pictures come under a planetary government which promises many changes and improvements. Surprising events appear to be foreseen by those who read the stars.

This is a first-rate rule under which to seek employment. The early returning vacationists should benefit by being able to capture the city job.

Promoters and all who are concerned with large enterprises should be fortunate under this sway, which is supposed to make capitalists unusually helpful and easy to approach.

Again railroads should profit from heavy travel and from increased freight transportation.

Neptune is in a benefic aspect, making for optimism and foresight which should bring satisfactory returns.

The rising position of Saturn may bring new financial anxieties to the British government which will probably have difficulties regarding foreign loans.

Fires and explosions may be more frequent in the United States than formerly. Seismic shocks may be felt in widely separated areas.

Persons whose birthdate it is should use all their energies in the coming year which should be favorable to pushing all important interests. Many new friends are indicated.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with personal magnetism and with a happy nature. These subjects of Leo usually are successful all through life.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

CONSTANCE.

Constance, meaning firm, has an unmistakable origin; it is derived from the Latin word constans, signifying constant, firm, or steadfast. As a complimentary term, it formed the Roman proper name Constantius, and numerous other male names, especially among royalty. The Scottish king has many a derivative of Constantius among them, and its root has been employed with various terminations in the Russian imperial family since the days of Catherine II.

The daughters of the Russian family received the name about the time that Constantia sprang to popularity among Provencal ladies. It was brought to the throne of France by the tempestuous Constance of Provence, wife of the mild sovereign, Robert the Pious. Constance has been a royal name in France ever since. The Breton duchess, mother of Arthur, bore it, but, according to some etymologists, her name was merely a feminine interpretation of that of her father, Conan.

In Italy, the name sprang up as Gostanza and the Sicilian mother of Frederick IV, brought it to Germany, where it straightway became Constanz, or merely Stanz. Her great granddaughter took it to Spain as Constanza. Custance is another Spanish form, introduced in England by Chaucer as the name of the daughter of Pedro the cruel, wife of John of Gaunt. Constance de Beverly, of Sir Walter Scott's "Marmion" gave it vogue throughout England and Scotland. In the reign of Henry VIII, a real Constance de Beverly is recorded in disgrace for attending the Marchioness of Exeter in a stolen visit to the Nun of Kent.

After the Reformation, Constance vanished in England for a time and long after came to life as Constantia. It is now as favorite and as widely used as Alice and Elizabeth and Margaret.

The moonstone is the talismanic gem assigned to Constance. It promises her true and steadfast love and is said to give her the power to read future happiness in it s depths, which faithfully record the waxing and waning of the moon, so dear to lovers. Tuesday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

IN CANNING TIME.

Canning season often means fruit-stained fingers unless you prevent this by using a paste of cornmeal and vinegar. Incidentally this is very good for the hands and makes them soft and white.

CANNED HEAT LATEST DRINK

Hamilton Police Station Filled With Holiday Drinkers.

HAMILTON, August 3. — Although it is plainly labelled as poison, 'canned heat" appears to be receiving the preference over other poison brew since the bootleg tragedy of a week ago.

Fully a score of men were arrested yesterday on charges of being drunk and most of them, the police state, showed symptoms of "canned heat."

Every cell in the men's corridor at Central police station was occupied last night. The place for a time was a bedlam.

CANADIAN WOMEN ARE WELL TREATED

Nowhere Are Women So Highly Thought of, Says Official.

TORONTO, August 3. —(Canadian Press). — For the women of Great Britain, with whom the question of equal rights still remains one for final settlement, the declaration made at a conference in London by J. Bruce Walker, European Director of Canadian Immigration, regarding the consideration shown by husbands to wives in this overseas dominion must have a strong and direct appeal, says an editorial. In no place, Mr. Walker told his audience, was woman so highly thought of, so well treated and so adequately legislated for as in the Dominion of Canada. "I think," Mr. Walker, said, " the women of Canada have drilled and educated the men of Canada into the best husbands in the world."

This is a charming picture indeed, and one that might even influence Miss Agnes MacPhail to moderate somewhat her call for more women in the public life of the Dominion. Mr. Walker may have spoken with a view to encouraging desirable migration to the Dominion, but his statements are so fully borne out by the facts that he certainly cannot be accused of exaggeration.

Corns removed — root and all

No one need suffer from corns. They are perfectly easy to remove if you go about it in the right way. To get rid of corns bodily take a Radox foot bath. When you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in water like ordinary salt, and so loosens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily, root and all. Radox does not affect the living skin; it is only the dead skin of the actual corn which is dissolved. Your druggist can supply Radox. Half pound pink Package 60c.

Leafs Break Even With Stars In Double Header

LEAFS WON ONE AND LOST ONE TO SYRACUSE

Roettger Hit Two Homers With Men on in the First.

FOUR IN ELEVENTH.

Rally in Seventh Hands Victory to Toronto in Second.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).— The bats of Roettger and Frankhouse enabled Syracuse to secure an even break in the holiday games with Toronto here yesterday. Roettger hit two home runs in the morning contest, each one coming with a man on base. Then Frankhouse broke up the affair in the eleventh when he lofted a pitch by Doyle into the left field bleachers. The Stars scored four other runs before being retired and won out 12 to 7.

In the afternoon with the Leafs leading 3 to 2, the Twinks seored four runs in the sixth, errors by O'Neill and Miller paving the way for two of them. But the home team came back in the seventh and batting Boyd out of the box counted four times to win 7 to 6. Owen Carroll scored his fifteenth victory in the afternoon and but for misplays would have held the Stars to two runs.

BETHANY WINS PLAY-OFF GAME

Defeats Mt. Pleasant in First of Series for the Title.

SCORE WAS 10-3.

CAVAN CENTRE, Aug. 3.—On Friday Bethany baseball team won the first game of the play-offs, 10-3, from Mount Pleasant.

The game was called for 6 o'clock. A. Kay and L. Lebarr, of Peterboro, umpired, the latter being on the bases.

Bethany opened the game with 3 runs in the first inning. It was a good exhibition of baseball on both sides, with no disputes. Ray Staples pitched for Bethany and held Mt. Pleasant scoreless for 3 innings, striking out 6 men. Art Byrnes, doing slab duty for Mt. Pleasant, turned in a fair game. He fanned 5, but was hit hard at times.

The game was featured by classy fielding and few errors.

During the league games Bethany defeated Mt. Pleasant 5-3 and 5-4. A large crowd gathered when the leading teams met, expecting to see Mt. Pleasant win out. A larger crowd will probably gather at Bethany in the near future to see the second game.

The Line-up.

The winner of this section plays the winner of the west half, which is all in a knot. The four teams—Yelverton, Blackstock, Nestleton and Honeydale — were tied with three games each at the finish of their schedule, so they are going over the same number of games once more.

BAILIEBORO WINS OVER GARDEN HILL

Trims Opposing Teams in Games of Softball and Hard Ball.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 3.—On Friday evening the local girls soft ball team motored to Garden Hill and played the Garden Hill girls a game of soft ball.

The game was a snappy one throughout featured with splendid pitching by the Bailieboro pitcher, who pitched an errorless game, and kept the Garden Hill girls from making any hits.

The game ended with a victory for the Bailieboro girls over the opposition, 6 to 3.

Boys' Softball.

On Saturday evening the local ball team played a game of baseball against the Garden Hill boys, and beat the visitors 10 to 5. The line up for Bailieboro was as follows:

H. Dean, c; A. Deyell, p; F. Barnard, 1b; A. Dawson, 2b; C. Barnard, 3b; V. Jewison ss; K. Lang, lf; K. Barnard, cf; D. Lang, rf; sub, G. Harper.

SOXMEN BREAK WINNING STREAK OF THE YANKEES

New York Fills Bases in the Ninth But Could Not Score.

PITCHERS' DUEL.

Bluege's Homer With Two on Bases Gives Senators Victory.

NEW YORK, August 3. —(Canadian Press). — The winning streak of the New York Yankees which stretched to eleven games, was broken at Chicago yesterday when the Soxmen won a pitchers duel between Urban Faber and Urban Shocker, 2 to 1. Both spitballers gave extraordinary exhibitions. The Yankees filled the bases in the ninth but could not score.

At St. Louis, Bluege's homer with two men on in the ninth gave the Washington Senators the victory in a slugging match, 14-11. Washington used three pitchers and St. Louis four. The visitors went on a batting rampage in the 8th, driving Vangilder from the hill and bringing in six runs. Ken Williams hit his twelfth homer.

The Philadelphia Athletic administered two thorough beatings to Detroit yesterday, winning the first 6-0,and the second 10-1. Blake allowed only four hits in the primary and in the second the Athletics fell on four Detroit pitchers. Nanush's homer in the second was his eleventh this season.

JUNIOR REGATTA WELL CONTESTED

Many Entries For Long List of Aquatic Events on Saturday.

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 3.—The third annual children's regatta was held on Saturday afternoon with a large crowd present and with ideal weather conditions. While the adult regatta is really the crowning event of the summer season it lacks the family aspect of the children's event. Practically all on the entry list are cottager's children and friendly competition is keen. The entry list was large, the mixed tandem skiff (14 years and under) having to be run in heats. This event is very popular among the cottagers and the committee spared neither time nor effort to make it as much of a success as the bigger event on Monday next. The judges were: Major H. C. Wotherspoon and Messrs. Gordon K. Fraser and H. F. Foote. J. M. Gouinlock was the official announcer and Mr. Jones the starter.

The prizes were beautiful and chosen with a careful regard for the ages of the children and their requirements and tastes. Of course there were some drawbacks. One small lad wandered up to the judges stand and plaintively remarked that: "Girls are awful scarce, I can't get a partner." There were sixteen events on the programme and seventy entries. Only one event was uncontested and that the girls' single canoe for girls 12 years and under.

Boys single skiff, 14 years and under—1. Charlie MacLeod (silver cup), 2. James Simpson (purse).

Girls single skiff, 14 years and under—1. Gladys Howard (silver cup), 2. Genevieve Hamilton (chanticler brooch).

Boys' single canoe, 12 years and under—1. Dick Wotherspoon (silver cup), 2. Robert Darcy (purse).

Boys' single canoe, 14 years and under—1. James Simpson (silver cup), 2. Charlie MacLeod (cuff links).

Girls' single canoe, 14 years and under—1. Theo Elmsley (bracelet), 2. Gladys Heward (compact).

Mixed tandem skiff, 12 years and under — 1. Genevieve Hamilton and Bob Darcy (silver cup), 2. Ruth Gouinlock and Jack Elmsley (cameras, 2A Brownies).

Mixed tandem skiff, 14 years and under, run in 2 heats having nine entries—1. Charlie MacLeod and Rosalind Brevin (bar pin and mirror), 2. Tom Currier and Billy Mackenzie (box of note paper and flash light).

Mixed tandem canoe, 12 years and under—1. Joan Holloway and Dick Wotherspoon (silver cups), 2. Frances McCabe and Jack Elmsley (flash light and necklace).

Mixed tandem canoe, 14 years and under (6 entries)—1. Billy Mackenzie and Tom Currier (candlesticks and silver cup), 2. Rosalind Brevin and Charlie MacLeod (bracelet and tool chest.

Girls' swimming race, 10 years and under—1. Lulu Smith (silver comb), 2. Tootsie Owens (necklace).

Boys' swimming, 10 years and under—1. Nicholas Satterlie (sail boat), 2. Kim McIlroy (mouth organ).

Girls' swimming, 12 years and under—1. Ruth Gouinlock (ukelele), 2. Lulu Smith (ukelele).

Boys' swimming, 12 years and under—1. Jack Elmsley (table tennis game), 2. G. McKinnie (compass).

Girls' swimming, 14 years and under—1. Theo Elmsley (compact), 2. Gladys Heward (bar pin).

Boys' swimming, 14 years and under—1. Harry Dawson (flash light), 2. Paul Hedley (indoor baseball).

The championship cup, donated by Ryrie-Birks for the most points was won by Charlie MacLeod with twelve points, Gladys Howard was secondwith 11 points. Silver medals were presented to both. The cup is for one year only but if won two years in succession by any boy or girl it becomes his or her property.

J. M. Gouinlock, the energetic secretary of the Stoney Lake Cottagers Association, spoke a few words of appreciation of the work of Major H. C. Wotherspoon who had taken a leading part in the organization of the regatta and who had purchased the prizes.

Three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for the Major.

You don't hear a great deal about Heinie Manush, outfielder with the Detroit Tygers. But "Big Heinie," as his playmates call him, is one of the leading bat manipulators of the present American League season. Manush has been pounding out safe swats at a consistent slip and is right up with the circuit's leaders. Manush came to Detroit from Omaha of the Western League in 1923. Since then he has played the utility job mostly, but when Cobb decided he needed a rest a few weeks ago, Manush was inserted into the battlefront and has been on a veritable

SECRETS OF STARS IN INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to Billy Evans

BY TY COBB,
World's Greatest Ball Player.

A great base runner never goes a step farther than is necessary in making the circuit of the bases.

Losing ground in turning the bases is the margin of difference of a good and a great base runner. A majority of plays on the bases are out or safe by a matter of inches only.

Unless a runner learns to turn the bases properly, he makes the distance to be covered in legally scoring a run some 10 to 15 feet farther than it should be.

No player can consider himself even a good base runner unless he learns to turn the bases properly.

To do this the runner must perfect the art of hitting the bag with the left foot as he rounds it. It is the natural thing to hit each base with the right foot, but it increases the distance to be covered.

In hitting each base with the left foot, the runner so pivots on it that instead of turning wide he practically lines up with the next base.

When the player hits the base with the right foot it throws him out of a direct line with the next base and forces him to take several unnecessary steps to line up again.

Trying to hit each base with the left foot as the player is about to make the turn will at first seem very awkward. It may force the runner to slow down considerably to do so, but the moment the trick is mastered each base can be taken at full speed.

When a ball is hit to the outfield and a runner is trying to advance two bases, it is always wise for him to attempt to line up with the throw.

In other words, he should note the position of the infielder about to handle the throw and then so run that he will be on a perfect line with the throw should the outfielder make an accurate peg.

No exception can be taken to a runner who so times his direction and speed that he lines up with the throw and thereby increases his chances of reaching his objective in safety.

There is always a chance that the ball will strike the runner and be deflected a considerable distance. Incidentally, such running tends to obscure the vision of the player handling the ball and makes it more difficult for him to play it properly.

These are just a few of the legitimate tricks of the trade that are part of the repertoire of every great base runner.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Players Suffer.

Big league ball players, infielders and outfielders, have spent a busy spring cussing professional football.

Last fall the pro game, due to the great popularity of "Red" Grange, thrived throughout the country. Most of the big games were played in the major league ball parks.

In some cases the schedule extended well up into December, so that weather conditions and hard play, did much to destroy the billiard-ball surface of infields and outfields.

Despite every effort of the capable groundkeepers, many of the parks are still in bad shape as to soil surface and the players are paying the penalty of bad bounds and many errors.

Great Record.

"Let Alphonse do it."

That was a byword last year on the Baltimore club of the International League, champions of that organization, when some extraordinary bit of pitching was desired.

And, despite the handicap of a handle like Alphonse, Pitcher Thomas of the Baltimore Orioles won 32 games for Jack Dunn, three more than his closest rival, George Earnshow of the same club.

Here are some of the twirling feats Thomas put over for Baltimore.

Worked in more games than any other pitcher in the league—56. Worked 28 complete games. No one else had a better record for starting and finishing. Was the most-used relief pitcher, going to the aid of some faltering twirler in 18 contests. Led the league in strike-outs with 268.

Collins Talks.

I understand that because of some working agreement as to players, the Chicago Americans had the first choice of the Baltimore club. I am also told it was a question between Shortstop Boley and Pitcher Thomas.

At that time it seemed as if the Chicago club would have a hard time getting a capable performer at short. Boley, who for five or more years has been touted as a big leaguer, was, I am told, much considered, but the choice finally fell upon Thomas.

While Thomas hasn't started off sensationally in the early stages of the 1926 race, Manager Eddie Collins thinks highly of his chances to make the grade.

"Thomas has the stuff and knows how to pitch, but must first learn his batters and acquire control to win consistently," says Eddie.

A big husky fellow who thrives on work, Thomas should prove a most valuable addition to the White Sox, when he is more experienced.

Uses Mack's System.

In the handling of his ball club, one can see Connie Mack sticking out all over in the system used by Eddie Collins of the White Sox.

Collins was trained under Mack. He leaped into fame as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics. He once told me that after being appointed manager of the White Sox, the first person he went to see was Connie Mack, to talk over the situation.

In his selection of pitchers, Mack prefers to gamble with a second-stringer in an effort to save a game, rather than rush a couple of regulars to the mound and thereby upset his team's pitching routine.

Collins takes the same viewpoint. He prefers to take a chance with a so-so pitcher rather than disrupt the workings of the regular staff.

Mack has demonstrated by the success he has attained, that it is a pretty good system.

BELMONTS WIN FROM FIREMEN

Losers Play a Very Open Game of Softball in Central Park.

SCORE 20-3.

"Hap" Harrison, through his superior pitching, administered the first defeat the Firemen have suffered in the post-season series of the softball league at Central Park last night. The Firemen played a very open game and the Belmonts pounded the ball all over the lot. Crary for the Firement was the outstanding fielder of the game, making some fine catches and also having a wonderful assist to his credit when he threw a runner out who was trying to make home. The Firemen after the third innings seemed to lose all heart in the game, as they saw they were defeated. Only eight men reached first base and three of these were a result of errors. Westbrook knocked a home run in the eighth. The line-up:

Firemen. — McLaren, Westbrook, Weese, Lewis, Crary, Gimblett, Hall, Dobson, Delahaye.

MONTREAL, Aug. .— (Canadian Press). — James Johnston of the Rosedale Golf Club, Toronto, won the golf championship of the Canadian Professional Golfers Assn. here to-day. The new champion becomes the holder of the Ross Trophy, emblematic of the professional golf championship of Canada. He turned in cards of 70 and 69, for a total of 139.

Just Pity the Scorer Of This Baseball Game

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 3.—A baseball game that began at Eagle Pass, Texas, at 9 a.m. and was called in the sixth inning at 7 p.m., because of darkness was described in a dispatch to the San Antonio Express.

The San Luisto nine of Eagle Pass won the epochal contest from the Piedras Negras internationals from across the border, the score being 129 to 119.

"The two dozen errors of shortstop Moreles in the third inning provided one of the features, the dispatch said, adding that his fielding in the other innings was all but faultless as he had only "six or seven errors."

"Both pitchers were at the height of their careers," the dispatch stated. "Caliete 'Quicko' Valdez made a good standing, permitting only 72 hits and giving 51 bases on balls. Nato San Luzito, terror pitcher, threw a better game, permitting seven hits more than his rival, but he gave only 46 free passports to first. Cabaliete had 16 wild pitches and Nato 21."

AN INTERESTING VISITOR FROM SOUTH AFRICA

An Interesting Interview With H. F. King, of Johannesburg, Now Visiting Ontario.

FORD, Ont., Aug. 3.—"Cordial feeling exists today between the Boers and the British," said H. F. King, one of the largest automobile dealers in that country when interviewed here today. "Of course differences exist between the two political parties just as they do here; but they have no deep significance. South Africa today has freedom within the Empire, and I think that most South Africans are content with it; there would be nothing gained by complete autonomy. It was Chamberlain, I think, who said that the bonds of Empire were light as gossamer yet strong as steel. That phrase is particularly true of South Africa, for the bonds which bind us are the ties of friendship and sentiment. They will never be broken."

Mr. King has a large business in Johannesburg and he spoke optimistically of conditions in that section. "To a very large extent our prosperity depends upon the gold mining industry," he said. Sixty per cent of the world's gold supply is produced in the territory and although we have many mines producing at the present time there is still opportunity for development.

The Gold Reef

"The formation of the South African gold reef is very curious. Instead of stretching in an irregular line across the country as does yours, it is shaped like a huge bowl some sixty miles in diameter. Along the rim of the bowl the gold-bearing ore is near the surface, but working in towards the centre it gradually gets deeper and deeper. Only a comparatively small section of the rim has been developed.

Mr King asked a number of questions regarding the Canadian gold belt and he was surprised to learn that Canada is the second largest gold-producing country in the world. "Your resources haven't been advertised enough," he said. "We think of your golden harvest as coming from the Prairies and not from the mines."

Incidentally Mr. King threw a remarkable light on the value of Canada's natural resources. "In South Africa," he said, "we find it profitable to mine gold if it runs seven pennyweights to the ton. In Canada that would be approximately six dollar ore." He was incredulous when he learned that there are practically no mines operating in Canada on less than eight dollar ore.

More Cotton Grown

In addition to mining South Africa is increasing in importance as a cotton growing country. According to Mr. King cotton is rapidly becoming a staple crop. "In a way I think that crops are more valuable to us than gold," he declared. "The mining of gold employs comparatively few men, but agriculture distributes prosperity evenly through the country.

"But even so, mining is the big thing with us. Just before leaving home there a new diamond field was proclaimed some miles out on the veldt from Jo'burg. It attracted tremendous attention, for with the prospector the lure of diamonds is even greater than the lure of gold. Diamonds he finds in small pockets of gravel and they are marketable as they are found, but gold ore must be crushed and treated before it can be turned into ready money.

"The J'burg strike attracted prospectors from all over the country. They came pouring in by thousands and the trail across the scorching veldt was like a dark thread reaching out endlessly. There were men lumping their packs in the line who were old when the South African War was fought. But although they were old, they were held by the glamor of the unknown—held by the thought that some day they would strike it rich. As I watched them pass through the streets of the city and as I looked at their grizzled sunscorched faces I wondered how many disappointments they had borne and how few successes.

"The trek from Jo'burg was a trek for veterans, too; it has certainly not an adventure for the tenderfoot. There was no water available for miles and in the summer the tropic sun is merciless.

26 Ford Trucks

"Strange as it may seem the Border Cities played a great part in alleviating the hardships of the trail. Twenty-six Ford trucks were purchased in the city, and these, fitted with tanks, were sent out to carry water to the adventurers. This water was used, not only to quench the thirst of the men, but to wash the gravel for the diamond as well.

One of the reasons for Mr. King's visit to Canada was his desire to see the Ford car in the making. "I was taken through the plant this morning," he told The Star, "and I am more impressed than ever."

CRICKET GAME ENDS IN DRAW

Rosedale and Peterborough Clubs Play Good Exhibition Match.

ON LOCAL GROUNDS.

The teams of the Rosedale and Peterboro Cricket Clubs met yesterday afternoon at the Exhibition grounds and a good game ended in a draw, stumps being drawn at 5 p.m. to enable the Toronto players to catch their train. Rosedale batted first on what turned out to be a batsman's wicket although later in the afternoon when the hot sun came out and started drying the wicket it began to favor the bowlers more. The first two Rosedfale batsmen played the Peterboro bowling carefully for a few overs when Hammond started scoring quickly causing a change of bowling, Elliott coming on for Thorpe. In his first over he got Gibson caught in the outfield by Thorpe. This batsman had been in about half an hour for three runs. G. Percival was the next man in. Three runs later Hammond was caught and bowled by his namesake D. Hammond. Percival played a great innings although he was lucky three or four times almost being bowled however. When he had reached fifty he retired giving a chance for some team mates to get an innings. The score eventually rose to 133 for 6 wickets when the Rosedale captain decided to declare the innings. The Peterboro team opened with Thorpe and Dunkerley. These two batsmen played the Rosedale bowling very confidently. Thorpe scored more quickly than his partner but Dunkerley was very sound and played correct cricket. These two were still undefeated at the tea interval with the score at 42 for no wickets. After the resumption Dunkerley was very smartly taken in the slips by G. Percival for a well played 15, the first wicket putting on 56 runs. The next 3 wickets fell very cheaply, Coutts was bowled after making 2, and Dr. Hewitt was caught and bowled first ball. Thorpe was then caught in the outfield after batting confidently for about an hour for 42 runs. Monkman was the only other batsman to add materially to the score. When stumps were drawn Peterboro had lost 8 wickets for 84 runs and the game was left drawn.

In Rosedale's inning Hammond took 1 wicket for 26, Thorpe 3 for 38 and Elliott 1 for 24.

In Peterboro's innings G. Percival took 5 wickets for 24 runs and Ruthven 3 for 17.

Pitcher gets on rubber without having ball in his possession. Third baseman pulls hidden ball trick on runner. Was it legal?

It was not legal. When the pitcher got on the rubber without having the ball in his possession, he committed a balk.

Instead of runner on third being ou on hidden ball trick, the ball entitled him to score.

Pitcher has no right getting on rubber without having the ball.

Such an act is deception. since the runner takes it for granted pitcher has the ball and is ready to pitch when he steps on the rubber.

LADY BOWLERS HOLD TOURNEY

First Annual Open Event Promises To Be Great Success.

MANY ENTRIES.

The first annual open tournament of the Peterborough Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club will commence to-morrow morning with a formal opening by acting-Mayor Nagle Phelan. This tournament is a new departure for lady bowlers of Eastern Ontario, but promises to set a mark for success to be striven for in future events of the kind. The greens are in first class shape and promises of entries have been received from many clubs, including Toronto, Orillia, Warkworth, Tweed and Campbellford. The Tweed club is a new one, formed this year, but it has already gained a name for itself in the excellence of the lady bowlers and keen competition should be provided by it and the other clubs entered. The first draw will be made at 9.30 to-morrow morning.

BICKEL PUMPER D EMONSTRATED ON LOCAL WHARF

Machine Purchased By Town of Midland Shown in City.

SAVES MAINS.

Use of Pumper on Hydrant Makes Pressure Increase Unnecessary.

A demonstration was given at the George Street wharf, this morning, by the Gotfredson Motor Truck Company of Walkerville, showing a Bickle pumper set on a Gotfredson chassis. The large injector hose was put in to the water of Little Lake and the water was pumped by a 600 gallon pumper into three lines of hose. This pumper which was demonstrated has been purchased by the Town of Midland and is to be delivered this week.

The first test made by Fire Chief Gimblett was with three lines of hose, each 200 feet long, two having one and one-eight inch nozzles and the other an inch nozzle. The pressures obtained at the nozzles were 82 pounds, 56 pounds and 74 pounds respectively and the total amount of Imperial gallons of water being pumped was 733 per minute. The pressure at the pump was 125 pounds.

With two 150 foot lines siamesed together and an inch and a half nozzle, the pressure obtained at the nozzle was 60 pounds and the capacity 412 gallns a minute. The pressure at the pumper was 110 pounds. With one 250 foot line, the pressure at nozzle was 140 pounds, capacity 360 gallons and pressure at the pumper 240 pounds. With two lines siamesed and one single line ,the capacity obtained was 508 gallons a minute. Other ways of hooking the lines up were tried with similar results. A pumper of this kind can be attached to a hydrant and in this way the pressure, when a fire breaks out, does not have to be increased in the water mains and thus it is not as hard on the under ground lines.

LENGLEN STARTS TOUR IN CANADA

First Game of Professional Career To Be Played in Dominion.

WILLS "EXCITED."

FOURVILLE, France, August 3. — Canadian Press. — Susanne Lenglen, the tennis star, will begin her professional career in Eastern Canada, she told a correspondent for the Associated Press to-day, when confirming details of her plans to play professionally as given previously.

"For fourteen years I have played for others, now I am going to play for myself," Mlle. Lenglen explained —" have always wanted to travel and see the world, and now I have an oportunity to make money enough to do so. I do not regret giving up my amateur status.'

Wills says "Exciting!"

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 3. — "Exciting!" was the comment made by Helen Wills when informed that Suzanne Lenglen had turned professional and intended to make a four months tour of the United States. "I dont suppose we will be able to meet again now," Miss Wills added.

Mlle. Lenglens retirement to the ranks of the profesionals, hitherto without general recognition in tennis, leaves the field open to Helen Wills and Kitty McKane Geodfree of England for determination of the women's supremacy.

CHICAGO, August 3. Canadian Press. — Lower quotations at Liverpool, and continued notice of bearish estimates of domestic winter crop, did a good deal to bring about a fresh set back in wheat values today, during the early dealings. Wheat uying expanded on declines in price, however, and helped to rally the market. Opening ¼c to 1 1-8c lower wheat recovered in some cases to the same as yesterday's fiish. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to ⅜c off and later keeping within fractional limits.

PRIEST SUSPENDED FOR CAUSING SCHISM

Attempted To Conduct Services in Basilica of Guadalupe.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3—Maurice Jacobi Calvo, archpriest attached to the Basilica of Guadalupe, has been suspended from his position by Archbishop Moray Del Rio for an attempt to provoke a schism among the Catholics at Villa Guadalupe, and making an effort to renew religious services in disobedience to the collective pastoral letter calling for the abandonment of churches. Angel Vivanco, a prominent Catholic at Villa Guadalupe, began the attempt, it is understood influencing Calvo and three canons, who were also suspended, to join him.

The Catholic townspeople opposed the move. The suspension was urged by Soto Ruze, president of the court of Honor of the Knights of St. Mary of Guadalupe.

JURY CONTINUES INVESTIGATION

Inquiry Into McPherson Case In Spite of Attorney's Stand.

MUCH EVIDENCE.

LOS ANGELES, August 3. Canadian Press. — The Los Angeles grand jury re-opens its investigation of Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance case to-day in face of the declaration by District Attorney Asa Keyes that the case is closed as far as he is concerned.

Keyes, however, is expected to place all the evidence in his possession before the grand jury, and explain his attitude. He has announced that after placing the evidence before the jury he wil make a public statement which will "clear up the skies."

Included in the evidence which the jury may consider are sworn statements of 15 persons concerning the identity and actions of the man and woman seen at Carmel, an ocean resort north of here, during the time the evangelist was missing. The woman was identified by investigators as Mrs. McPherson, and the man as Kenneth G. Ormiston, a former radio operator at the evangelist's church.

Ormiston has admitted in affidavit forwarded from Chicago that he was the man seena at Carmel, but denies that Mrs. McPherson was there.

PEACE MOVES ARE CONTINUED

Open Covenant Between Church and State Not Expected.

PRIESTS REMAIN.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Although the proposal of the Roman Catholic Archbishopric for a truce in the religious situation has not been accepted by President Calles, peace manoeuvres continue behind the scenes. The manoeuvres may accomplish nothing but considerable hope exists that they will.

A statement by former President Obregon, is believed to give added strength to Calles in enforcing the new religious regulations. Obregon announced support of the Government in the controversy, declaring it evident that the dignitaries of the Catholic Church "Provoked this conflict when the first declarations were made with a rebellious spirit against the fundamental laws in force."

Close observers of the situation believe that if any agreement is ultimately arrived at, it will not be any such thing as an open covenant, both sides having been so firm that they cound not yield ground.

A number of priests remain in their parishes, prepared to administer privately to parishioners needing their services. Not many have left Mexico so far.

HEAT HAS TAKEN TOLL OF WHEAT

cooler temperature, fall and spring plowing will return miserably small yields. Summer-fallow and new lands have withstood the unfavorable weather much better, but all have suffered. The best crops in Saskatchewan appear to be in the southeastern and northern areas the largest deterioration having taken place in the big central districts. Wheat is all in head, and cutting, which has started in places, will be well under way about August 10, although several ploints will be a bit later than this. A crop 50 to 75 per cent. below that of last year is reported from some districts. However, some sections look for crops equal to or better than 1925.

Rain is Badly Needed

The situation in Alberta, states the report, appears mixed, and while several places report crops equal to or better than 1925, the majority of districts are calling for rains. In many localities crops are suffering greatly from excessive heat and lack of moisture.

All wheat is headed and cutting should be general about August 15. Moisture is required at 53 points, while 16 report sufficient in the meantime. In practically all districts throughout the Province immediate rain is needed.

Most of the damage in the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta is the result of extreme temperatures between July 15 and 21, when the mercury at many points ranged from 90 to 100 degrees daily. The coarse grains have not suffered to the same extent as wheat.

THEATRE

"THE BLIND GODDESS."

The feature picture, "The Blind Goddess," chosen for the re-opening of the Capitol Theatre after a month's time, is one of those powerful productions which hold the interest from start to finish. Reminiscent in atmosphere of "The Verdict," it also has for its big episode a trial scene.

In "The Blind Goddess" the woman whose part has risen up to smite her mercilessly holds the centre of the stage at most times rather than the conventional heroine whose romance is only a small element in the picture, and Jack Holt as Hugh Dillon, the young lawyer who defends the woman accused of murder, has a part which suits him much better than some of the spineless roles he has been in the habit of portraying. His firm chin has full play in this production and he even turns down his little sweetheart to act as a defender of the woman who is supposed to have killed that sweetheart's father, Big Bill Devens, a part taken in odd fashion by Ernest Torrence, who made such a hit in his stellar role in "The Covered Wagon."

One of the inventions of modern times turns the trick in the trial scene, when a dictaphone spills the truth of the murder.

Moira Devens, played by Esther Ralston, is the spoiled daughter of the millionaire boss, Big Bill, and Eileen Clayton, a role admirably enacted by Louise Dresser, is his former wife, who has been acclaimed as dead for years, aftr her elopement with a false lover. She comes back, weary and worn, to see her daughter, and in the scene with the father which ensues, promises to give up all thoughts of the girl, to keep her own memory fresh and pure in Moira's mind. Shortly after her departure, Devens is shot to death by his scapegrace partner and the crime is fastened on Eileen. She is defended by her daughter's fiance, Hugh Dillon.

The interest of the play centres about the weary woman, with haggard face, and the way in which she uses her eyes to convey emotion in the scene in the detective's office is a splendid example of the effects to be achieved by mere facial expression, rather than any violent physical display.

The comedy, "Sky Bound," shows Al St. John, to much advantage, and there is an interesting short reel in Lyman H. Howe's "Hodge Podge," a farcical affair of tall buildings and notables.

Anyone who enjoyed recent portions of "The Girl from Rector's" in the Saturday Evening Post, will recognize the origin of one of Big Bill Devens' remarks in the feature picture, "The Blind Goddess," with regard to his emerald shirt studs.

—Jeannette.

HOW TO SWIM

LILLIAN DEMONSTRATES THE OVERHAND STROKE

From the side overhand stroke it should be simple to develop the overhand stroke.

In this stroke the left hand goes thru the same movements as the right, with the body rolling a little farther to the right when the arm goes over and into the air.

A feature of this stroke is that the hand pushes the water back for the full extent of the stroke and there is a minimum of lost motion.

Care should be taken to avoid too vertical a movement while the arm is out of the water, the idea being merely to clear the arm up to the shoulder. The rolling motion makes this possible without bringing the arm too high up over the shoulder.

OBITUARY.

KATHLEEN HOPKINS

The many friends of Kathleen Hopkins of Brantford, formerly of Peterborough, will regret to learn of her untimely death at Toronto General Hospital on Wednesday, July 28th. The funeral took place on Saturday from the home of her sister, Mrs. William Klick, 26 Glenville Avenue, Brantford.

The deceased is survived by her father, her sister in Brantford, and one brother, Daniel, of Peterborough.

MISS JOHANNA TRENWITH.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, of Miss Johanna Trentwith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trenwith of Peterborough, both of whom predeceased her many years ago.

The only surviving relative is a sister, Miss Nell Trenwith of Rochester, N. Y. One sister and two brothers also died long ago.

The late Miss Trenwith was one of the quiet members of the community whose good works stretching over a long life time, constantly and silently performed, made her a wide circle of friends. To those who knew her best, she was a rare personality, always amiable, with a quick appreciation of the humorous side of life and an unfailing fund of sympathy and help for those in trouble. A lifelong resident of the city, she had many staunch friends and her untiring energy in helping along hidden good works was manifested in many ways as a member of the Altar Society of St. Peter's Cathedral, the League of the Sacred Heart and the Catholic Women's League with especial care for the work of St. Vincent's Orphanage, and also as a member of the West End Knitting Club, which was organized primarily for war service, but has continued to function during recent years for the poverty-stricken of the city.

The victim of a very painful disease, the late Miss Trenwith displayed during her long and racking illness the highest type of character. In the five long months which she spent in St. Joseph's Hospital, and the many months of severe pain which passed before that time, she showed all the evidences of a life of simple piety and goodness, in the fortitude with which she bore her suffering. Not a word of complaint passed her lips at any time, and during her stay in the Hospital, where her many visitors and numbers of floral tributes testified to her wide popularity with all classes, she was an edifying example of patient resignation to the will of God, under severe trials. Those who loved her in life for her cheerful ways and goodness of heart will not soon forget the sweetness and patience of her last days on earth.

The funeral will take place at half past eight o'clock on Wednesday morning, from the residence of Mrs. M. LaPlante, 230 Rubidge Street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

START INQUEST INTO TRAGEDY

Coroner's Jury is Hearing Evidence on Many Points.

AT LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press)—The inquest into the death of Arthur Burgess, Toronto, one of the eleven victims of the Balsam Lake war canoe tragedy a fortnight ago, opened here before Coroner Dr. F. A. Logan this afternoon. It is expected that the investigation will continue tomorrow. The decision of the coroner's jury in the Burgess case will apply to the other victims.

Matters to be taken up in detail at the inquest are the seaworthiness of the canoe which capsized, for which evidence several experts will be heard and the actual events which transpired on the fatal night of the tragedy. Among those here to testify are Leonard O'Hara, John Wigington, and George Waller, Toronto, three of the survivors; Edwin Lant, who piloted the canoe from Long Point to Coboconk and back on the day prior to the tragedy; Arthur Bacon and John Mardall, a brother of one of the victims.

THE STOCK MARKET

Mining Market Strong Many Stocks Are Dealt In

TORONTO, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Dome Mines was stronger on the Standard Mining Exchange today, with a gain of 45 cents to 11.70. Trading was conducted over a broad list with stocks fairly strong. Coniagas Silver, with an advance of 13 to 3.28, was another feature. Area gained 1 1-2 to 32 and Atlas 1-2 to 3 1-2. Vipond eased 2 to 1.75. Mining Corporation was off 5 cents to 4.10, while Noranda was up the same to 17.00.

Trade Over Broad List On Toronto Exchange To-day

TORONTO, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Trading was pread over a broad list and prices were inclined to be stronger on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Canada Bread Common on a five per cent dividend, gained 2 points to 80, while "B" Preferred was up 1-4 to 99. British Columbia Fishing showed some activity in the listed section but lost 1-2 to 77. Smelters was 1 point higher at 220. Abitibi advanced 1 3-4 to 82, International Nickel 7-8 to 39, Atlantic Sugar 1 to 25 1-4, and Brazilion 1-4 to 101 1-2. Burt Common eased 1 to 55. Dome was strong, 35 cents higher at 11.60.

Many Shares In New York Rise To New Record Highs

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Speculation for a rise ran riot in todays stock market, the most active since last March. More than a score of issues were lifted to new peak prices for a year or longer, while the average of the twenty leading railroad shares touched the highest level in over a decade.

General Motors was again a sensational feature, running up to a new high level at 211 1-4, breaking sharply to 203 1-2, and then rallying by early afternoon to within a few points of the record top. The cause was a statement credited to Thomas Cochran, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Co., that the stock would sell 100 points higher.

The drop of nearly 8 points in General Motors due to the touching off of "stop loss orders" brought about a sympathetic decline in other sections of the list. Hudson broke 5 to 70, and scores of other issues sagged 1 to 3 points from early highs.

The "bull" movement got under way again after mid-day when United States Steel Common crossed 150 to a new record high price. New York Central, Allied Chemical, Texas Gulf, Sulphur, and United States Cast Iron Pipe were among the other high prices issues to attain

Wedding Days In West Follow Wheat Harvest, "Poor Crop, No Wedding," Is Rule Of Western Farmer

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 3. —Canadian Press. — June may have a long lead over the other months as the choice of the eastern bride for her wedding, but in the west it is different. Economic reasons, mostly, enter into the question. A good crop of wheat means a good crop of marriages, and the cautious farmer waits till fall, and threshing is over, before launching out in double harness. A good crop means lots of wheat participation certificates in the fall—a "dream-come-true" wedding—honeymoon at the coast, and all the rest of it, and in this regard Alberta brides doubtless like just as much of a "splash" over their weddings as do those of the rest of the world.

Even the cities of Alber a prefer April, July, November or December marriages to June ones, and possibly the same economic reasons operate. The cities of the west are largely dependent on the west's wheatcrop, and so again, city marriages, like country ones, follow the crop.

BOYCOTT STARTS.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press). — Counselled by their leaders to keep to the paths of peace and moderation. Mexico's Roman Catholics continued praying for a solution of the problem resulting from the Governments religious regulations and the withdrawal of the priests from the churches. As a further protest, people in many parts of the country are ceasing to buy anything except essentials, although the effects of this economic boycott thus far have not been appreciably evident.

Intermediaries are quietly working in an effort for an understanding.

Attempt to Carry Off Children

Many Brock Street Residents Fight Buffalo Man And Woman Until Police Force Arrives

Mrs. Charles Henry and Allan Bryson Held By Police in Connection With Affair—Charges Are To Be Vagrancy and Wilful Damage, Police Chief Says.

CAME FROM BUFFALO IN TAXICAB BUT DRIVER DIDN'T KNOW MISSION

Men Interfere After One Child Is Already In the Car—Screams of Women and Boy Attract Attention of Neighbors—Battle on Lawn of Great-Grandfather's Home.

A bold attempt to take two children from the lawn of Charles Kelly's house at 204 Brock Street this forenoon was frustrated by neighbors and passers-by. Mrs. Charles Henry and Allan Bryson of 153 Commonwealth Avenue, Buffalo, are held by the police in connection with the affair, and Chief of Police Samuel Newhall told The Examiner that charges of vagrancy and wilful damage are to be laid. Robert Madden, driver of the taxi which brought the couple from Buffalo, was held this morning as a material witness, but there was no charge against him.

Attention was first drawn to the attempt to carry off the children by screams from the house, where Miss Madeline Henry was battling with Mrs. Henry, her sister-in-law, for possession of the four-year-old boy. At the same time Bryson was seen to run to the corner of Alymer and Brock Streets with a three-year-old girl in his arms, and throw her into a waiting car. He turned back to help Mrs. Henry with the second child, who was surrounded by several women neighbors.

The screams of the women and the terror-striken boy speedily brought help from the bowling green, where several men were watching the progress of the ladies tournament. As they ran up towards the scene of the disturbance there was a confused fight on the lawn, some pulling the boy toward the house while others attempted to drag him away. Bryson arrived just as some had succeeded in getting the boy into the house. With Mrs. Henry, he succeeded in forcing his way into the hall, where a stained glass window was broken and had again caught the child when he was thrust out and thrown down the steps of the verandah. He started on a run for the taxi, followed by Mrs. Henry, with the obvious intention of getting away with the little girl. Mrs. Henry was stopped by threatening gestures on the part of several men who had come up, and Herbert Martin tackled Bryson who showed no inclination to stop.

They rolled down the terraces of the lawn and on to the sidewalk, Bryson kicking Martin in the stomach. Martin held on to Bryson until there was no chance of his making a getaway.

Mrs. Henry ran to the car and leaped in, sitting back against little Muriel and defying anyone to enter. When Mr. Kelly attempted to get the girl, Mrs. Henry lay back on the seat and kicked him.

Constable Leonard Matthews arrived at this juncture, and sent in a call for help, when Sergeant John Deannard and acting Provincial Constable Frank Pratt arrived and took charge. The entire party was taken to the police station.

Taxi-Driver's Story.

Mrs. Madden, wife of Robert Madden, driver of the taxi, told the Examiner her husband was a driver for the Dollar Taxi Company, of Buffalo, N.Y. He was sent to 153 commonwealth Avenue, Buffalo, yesterday, where he was to pick up a woman and a young man for a trip to Canada. Her husband asked her to accompany him on the trip, and they left Buffalo at 5 o'clock, Arriving in Peterborough last night, the party put up at a hotel.

After breakfast this morning, Mrs. Madden said, her husband asked Mrs. Henry where they wanted to go, and she told him: "Drive on; I'll tell you when to stop." Eventually they stopped at the corner of Brock and Aylmer, facing north on Aylmer. "The boy and the woman went up to a house, and immediately there was a commotion," Mrs. Madden continued. "I said to my husband, 'For God's sake what's the matter?' and just at that moment the young man came running back with the child. He said to my husband, 'Hold this kid,' and then ran back. My husband said 'I'll do no such thing—and what's more I won't move the car." She and her husband knew nothing of the mission of the parties they carried, Mrs. Madden said.

Allan Bryson's Story.

To an Examiner reporter, Bryson said Mrs. Henry stayed with his peo-

Spaniard Sacrifices Baby Says God Required Offering

MADRID, Aug. 4.— (United Press.)— Religious ideas absorbed during several years spent in the United States were said to have caused a gruesome ritual just reported from Santander, in which a father sacrificed his two year old baby before the eyes of his wife and the baby's three brothers.

The father said God had ordered him to sacrifice the child after the manner of Abraham. He said many persons in North America were affiliated with the sect to which he belonged. The family constantly practised flagellation and other painful rites.

THUMB CRUSHED BY MACHINERY

Frank Burton Loses Use of Digit By An Accident.

IN LOCAL PLANT.

Frank Burton is in danger of losing his thumb as a result of an accident which happened to him on Saturday at his work as a wrapping machine operator in the Quaker Oats factory.

While tending the automatic wrapping machine Mr. Burton's hand was caught and the thumb was stripped to the bone, while the plunger of the machine, coming in contact with the knuckle, smashed it completely. Dr. Howson, who dressed the injury, states that the thumb will be useless to Mr. Burton for all time and has expressed the opinion that it may yet be advisable to remove it by an operation.

TWO PEOPLE HURT AS TRAIN DERAILED

Two Cars of Express Plunge Down Embankment at Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., August 4. — (Canadian Press). — One woman and a mail clerk were the only ones badly injured when the Bar Harbor express parted in the bridge in this city to-day and two cars plunged down a sixty foot embarkment. The road bed was torn for three hundred yards and six other cars were derailed.

Great Lack Of Judgement

The following was the verdict of the jury empaneled to enquire in the Balsam Lake tragedy:

"The said deceased came to his death through accidental drowning in Balsam Lake on the night of July 20, 1926, from the overturning of a war or racing canoe in which he and fourteen companions were paddling, having set out from their camp at Long Point at 7.30 on that night for the village of Coboconk.

"We further find that the canoe used on this occasion was a war or racing canoe built for the express purpose of racing and was absolutely unfit and unsafe for cruising. And while we recognize the herosim displayed in this tragedy, we cannot but feel that there was great lack of judgment shown in the use of this canoe as a utility boat.

"We are convinced that a war canoe should have no place in a boys' or girls' camp and would, therefore, recommend that war or racing canoes should be prohibited by law in such camps.

"We further recommend that no instructor be placed in charge of any boys' or girls' camp until after he has passed rigid tests as to proficiency in swimming and canoeing under various conditions.

"We further recommend that the Government issue safety first bulletins and placards and require these to be distributed and put up in conspicuous places in all boys' and girls' camps."

MARITIMES COMPLETING CASE BEFORE COMMISSION PROBING RIGHTS WITHIN CONFEDERATION

Representatives From Pulp and Paper Industry Have Next Hearing.

LUMBER TO-DAY.

Lower Freight Rates, One of the Representations Stressed.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Aug. . — (Canadian Press). — Apart from the representations yet to be made on behalf of the Pulp and Paper industry, New Brunswick yesterday completed her case before the Royal Commission investigating the disabilities of the Maritime Provinces within Confederation. To-day representatives of the lumbering interests will be heard and at the conclusion of their evidence the commission will proceed to Charlottetown, P. E. I. Twelve witnesses in all were heard yesterday and a mass of evidence advanced, largely in support of that previously presented. Increased federal aid for the Provincial department of Agriculture and Immigration, lower freight rates on the natural products of the Maritime Provinces and the further development of port facilities were among the representations stressed.

R. E. Armstrong, a former secretary if the Saint John Board of Trade, A. S. Corelli, Advertising counsel, and Thomas Carter, a former Dominion President of the Sons of England Society, complained that the advantages of other provinces. A. D. Taylor, of Minto, member of the Provincial Legislature, urged that the subvention of 50 cents per ton on coal destined for Ontario and Quebec be restored. W. S. Fisher, a former president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association stressed the importance of increased port facilitiees. Walter Leonard, of Leonard Bros., wholesale fish merchants, and Burton M. Hill, a former minister of public works in the Provincial Government, appearing in a private capacity, contended that the Dominion Government should do more than it was doing through the agency of trade commissioners to open up new markets for the exporters of fish. Dr. Murray MacLaren, a member for Saint John-Albert, in the late parliament furnished the commission with an analysis of statistics dealing with the import and export trade of the Dominion in its relations to Canadian ports and Richard O'Leary, General Merchant of Richibucto, urged the taking over of the Kent Northern Railway by the Canadian National System. The 20,000 people served by the Kent Northern would be well served said the witness, if they could do business on the same basis as others in the Province. As it was they were being penalized by greatly increased freight rates as a result of the exclusion of the Kent Northern from the National system.

Caterpillar Hordes Plague Londoners In Hyde Park

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(Associated Press.)—Hordes of caterpillars recently have taken possession of Hyde Park in what an official describes as "the worst plague of its kind for years."

Whenever a breeze blows, great showers of caterpillars drop on passers-by from the park trees. Men are forced to turn up their coat collars, while women find their sun shades the only effective way of keeping the pests off.

An army of caretakers, armed with pails of paraffin and brushes, have been battling with the swarms.

DRIVES ON TRACK STRUCK BY TRAIN

London Man Passes Another Vehicle Waiting For Train.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 4.—Slight improvement is reported at Victoria Hospital in the condition of Daniel McLaughlin, aged 43, who was badly injured yesterday when his motor car was struck by a London and Port Stanley train near Glanworth, in Westminster Township. McLaughlin, it is alleged, drove on to the crossing at 30 miles an hour, passing a horse-drawn outfit which was standing waiting for the passing of the train speeding southward at 40 miles an hour. There is a clear view at the crossing. McLaughlin was hurled 50 feet in the wreckage of his car. He is suffering from head and body injuries that were at first regarded as certain to prove fatal.

JURY WANTS MORE EVIDENCE

Orders District Attorney To Continue Probe of Kidnapping.

CASE AT STANDSTILL.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press). — Investigation of the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnapping case was at a standstill to-day as the result of the grand jury's refusal to take action. The jurors voted to do nothing more until more conclusive evidence is obtained. They instructed District Attorney Keyes, however, to continue "secret and efficient" investigation into all phases of the case.

Jury Adds Recommendation That Use Of War Canoes In Camps Be Prohibited

Considers Regulations Of Use Of War Canoes

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—When an official copy of the verdict of the coroner's jury at Lindsay in connection with the inquest into the deaths by drowning on Balsam Lake of eleven young men three weeks ago is received, immediate steps will be taken to see how far the use of war canoes can be regulated by the Ontario Government, according to Hon. W. H. Price, acting Attorney-General, today.

SCOTTISH HOUSE BILL BROUGHT IN Long Agitation For "Home Rule" Culminates in Proposal.

FOR SINGLE HOUSE.

LONDON, August 4. United Press —The long agitation for "Home Rule for Scotland," culminated to-day in the introduction of a bill which would provide Scotland with a single chamber Parliament empowered to levy levy and collect taxes and to make laws with respect to all Scottish affairs except relations with the foreign office and the fighting services.

The proposed chamber would have 148 members.

PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT FALLING OFF

Situation of Mexico Is Not Changing at Present.

ALDERMAN KILLED.

Slain By Mob When He Fires at Gathering of Catholics.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—The acute situation growing out of the putting into effect by the Government of the new religious regulations apporently has reached a stage of marking time. The prospects of any immediate settlement are apparently falling off.

The general conviction is that it is most improbable that there will be widespread violence or armed rebellion. Great uneasiness, however, exists over the outcome of the economic boycott called by the National League for the Defence of Religious liberty in protest against the regulations. The boycott may yet be a determining factor in the dispute. Though the extent of its effect on business is not yet known.

Alderman Deloyo was killed yesterday by a mob after he had fired a revolver into a crowd of Roman Catholics watching Government agents closing the annexes of Chilapa Church. The crowd was reported to be peaceful when without warning Deloyo began shooting. He killed no one, but the crowd was so infuriated that he was killed. Father Dimas Anguissana, Roman Catholic priest of Alvarado, wrote President Calles accepting the religious regulations, whereupon his church was returned to him by the government.

Inquest Into Death of Walter Burgess and Ten Others Is Held in Lindsay—Survivors and Canoe Experts Among Witnesses.

A CANOE IS AS SAFE AS THE OPERATOR CLAUDE H. ROGERS DECLARES ON STAND

Arthur Lambden Tells Story of Fatal Voyage — Former Users Differ as to Safety—Canoeists Discuss Method of Handling.

(By a Staff Reporter)

LINDSAY, August 4.—A verdict of accidental death, with a strong recommendation that the use of war canoes in camps be prohibited and that directors be examined, was brought in by the jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Walter Burgess, one of the victims of the Balsam Lake tragedy of July 20. The inquest was held on the victim whose body was the first to be found, but the same evidence and verdict will be sufficient to cover the circumstances of the deaths of the ten others.

Lindsay citizens did not show a very keen interest in the proceedings, only five or six spectators being present.

Coroner Dr. F. A. Logan presided at the hearing, and Crown Attorney A. E. Anderson conducted the case for the Crown. The members of the jury were as follows: James Boxall, foreman; F. E. Sutcliffe, W. W. Staples, R. T. Adams, C. E. Weeks, F. W. Moynes, W. D. Stevens, G. R. Allely.

The four survivors, Arthur H. Lambden, George Waller, William Wigington and Leonard O'Hara, gave important evidence, while members of the camp who did not venture on the fatal journey were also heard. Evidence of canoe experts was also heard, Claude H. Rogers, vice-president of the Peterborough Canoe, manufacturers of the ill-fated craft, Arthur Scott and Harry McKee, commodore and vice commodore respectively of the Parkdale Canoe Club, and Earl Chapman, who had directed boys' camps at Balsam Lake for seventeen years, giving valuable testimony about the use of war canoes. Fred Jopling and Clayton Telford, who had been members of a crew which manned the boat at the Chemong regatta some years ago told about its tipping at that time. Jack Patte, of Peterborough, who loaned the canoe to the boys, also testified, saying that only for an accident his own son would have accompanied the boys on the cruise.

Mr. Lambden's evidence was the most important and was confirmed by the other survivors. He was in the witness box for over an hour, reiterating in detail the events that led up to the tragedy. He described the scene from the commencement, where Shea-Butcher assured himself that the boat was balanced, until the boat, suddenly caught by a gust of wind, suddenly tipped. He himself had nothing to do with selecting the crew, coming from his tent at the last moment, and simply taking his place with the others. He fixed the time of the accident as being about a half hour after they left the dock at Long Point camp and told with considerable feeling the efforts of the boys to right the craft after it upset. Shortage of supplies that were necessary to feed the boys at the camp was the reason assigned by him for setting out when they did. If it had not been essential that the supplies be obtained they would not have started out that night.

The evidence of the experts was that this particular boat was not being used for the purpose for which it was built, it being built primarily as a racing craft and not as a club canoe. They all concurred in the statement that "a canoe is only as safe as the operator." They were emphatic in their declaration that the directors of such camps should be subject to a strict examination as to their ability and knowledge.

The jury deliberated for an hour and a half before bringing in its verdict.

ARTHUR H. LAMBDEN

Arthur H. Lambden, the steersman of the craft on the fateful voyage, was the first witness called. Examined by Mr. Anderson, he said that His home was in Galt. He knew the deceased, Walter Burgess, as a comrade in the Brotherhood of St. Andrews' Leadership camp. To the best of his knowledge, he said, there were twenty-seven boys in the camp.

Mr. Anderson: Who was in charge?

Witness: Mr. Robert Shea-Butcher.

What was your official capacity in the camp?

Witness: I was adjutant.

Who was in command?

Mr. Robert Shea-Butcher.

In connection with water activities who was in charge?

I don't know but I heard the name of Ed. Lant mentioned in connection with the swimming.

When did the canoe first come to the camp?

Only July 19.

Who brought it?

Shea-Butcher, accompanied by a party of five, I think.

Where did they bring it from?

Chemong Lake.

What time did they arrive?

About 2 p.m. on Monday.

What activities did the canoe figure in?

It was used for bringing a party numbering six as far as I can remember from Kirkfield to the camp and again on Monday evening when eight boys went to Coboconk for camp supplies.

Was that the night of the accident?

No, the night previous.

How many went to Kirkfield?

I can't recall more than four.

How many came back?

Five or six in addition to the camp cook and two children.

Were you in the party that started for Kirkfield?

No. I was waiting at Kirkfield.

How many boys were paddling?

Every man in the canoe was paddling.

Who had charge.

Mr. Shea-Butcher.

THE WEATHER

The highest point the temperature reached yesterday was 87 degrees, but owing to the humidity it appeared to perspiring humanity to be at least ten degrees higher. Last night's lowest was 60 degrees. The air is now much drier, and even if the thermometer should rise to a high point the heat will not be so oppressive. In the west rain has been fairly general and the temperature is quite moderate.—W. P.

Natives of Nassau Rushed To Churches, Say Eye-Witnesses.

SHIPS TOSSED.

Two Large Vessels Rode Through Storm With Minor Damage.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Stories of a 125-mile-an-hour hurricane that lashed the ocean into 50-foot waves, uprooted houses, tore up graves sending the bodies hurlting through the air, tossed ocean going steamers about unmercifully, and piled up lesser craft onto sea walls and rocks like so much matchwood, were told by officers and passengers who arrived yesterday on the Munson liner Munamar, and the Ward liner Orizaba.

They were eyewitnesses of the hurricane that hit the Bahama Islands last week, causing estimated damage of millions of dollars and loss of life to over 500 human beings.

Above the horrors of the storm itself, passengers related how terror to a point of apathy had gripped the native population. How the entire population of Grantstown, the Harlem of Nassau, fled into the heart of the town, singing primitive hymns as they went, and shouting the end of the world had come as they had seen graves uprooted and corpses flying through the air. How a rush was made for the shelter of the churches, until two of them collapsed, leaving them the streets to shelter in. Even two days after the storm the advent of a squall demoralized them afresh, convinced as they were another hurricane was on the way.

Chief Officer Andrew, of the Munamar, said the vessel was some 125 miles off Nassau, when the storm broke. The ship hove to for 14 hours. Three windows of the salon were stove in and a lady passenger received cuts from broken glass. Otherwise there were no casualties, but a great deal of sea sickness. When the ship reached Nassau ships' officers said the entire coast line was littered with wrecked fishing boats, the nose of one steamer being rammed through a five-foot sea wall.

The Orizaba, which answered distress signals of the Italian freighter Ansaldo Digirgio at the heighth of the storm, was between Florida and the island when the storm broke.

The captain described how his ship rolled 45 degrees, wallopped by both bow and beam seas. Because of rain and spray visibility was cut to 50 yards ahead. How 150 tanks of compressed ammonia stowed forward began to work loose, eight of them crashing the taff rail and going overboard. How an automobile moored after broke her moorings and charging 20 barrels of apples, spilled the lot into the well, which was full of water.

The passengers and crew were thrown around like loose sacks, bruises, lacerations and minor injuries being plentiful.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The Journal to-day says: "In a Dominion wide clean-up affecting nearly every port of entry and many of the principal cities from coast to coast, the government will carry out an extensive reorganization of the Department of Customs and Excise.

The full extent of re-organization and the names of those on whom the axe will fall, etc., will probably be announced late this afternoon by the Hon. J. D. Chaplin, Acting Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the absence of the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs.

"Class War" Victims Are To Receive Medals

LONDON, Aug. 4. — Men and women sent to prison for offenses committed in defiance of emergency regulations imposed during the British general strike in May will be presented with a "class war" medal, which has been struck for them by the International Class War Prisoners' Aid.

The medal is silver, and encircling the face appears the name of the organization conferring it. The centre represents a prison wall with a cell window through the bars of which a hand extends waving a red flag. Through other bars are shown a clenched hand held upright.

The inscription on the reverse side is: "Presented to —— for Services in the Class War, General Strike, 1926."

FIND SHELL FOSSILS IN WELL

In drilling an oil well recently near Medicine Hat, a stratum of fish and shell fossils was found. The fossils were struck at a depth of 3720 feet and it was apparent that they were being washed into the well. Other finds were reported. Iron pyrites and talcum were found at varying depths, the talcum rock being about 750 feet down.

PLEASANT OUTING AT CARMEL CHURCH

Unique Contests Provided for Members of Sunday School.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 4.—The annual garden party, usually given under the auspices of Carmel church, was dispensed with this year and a picnic for the Sunday school scholars held instead the change being deemed in the best interests of the school and the event proving a most successful and enjoyable occasion.

The gathering was held on the church lawn on Thursday afternoon, with an attendance of over sixty, including pupils with parents and friends. Through the kindness of two of the men connected with the church the grass was cut and raked in the morning, so the lawn was in good condition when the children arrived.

Races, contests, games and social intercourse provided agreeable entertainment for old and young throughout the afternoon and early evening. The baseball game between the girls and boys excited much interest, the former winning and receiving their prize from Rev. J. Wilks; in the second game the boys had the leading score, Miss Martha Lunn giving the prize.

The sports' programme included races for all ages, the tiny tots all receiving a prize, with special recognition for the winners, Dorothy Noble and Linton Bristow. Velma Gibson came in first in the race for girls of 6 to 9.

A number of contests interested the older folk, guessing what was in mysteriously wrapped parcels being one that was much enjoyed, the parcel itself being given as reward to the one coming nearest in suggestion as to what it actually contained. Mrs. John Lunn, Mrs. Robert Lunn, and Miss Mina Gibson were the winners.

Prizes for guessing the number of beans in a jar went to Mrs. Floyd McMahon who hazarded 378, and Lazelle Lunn, whose guess was 375; 377 was the correct number.

A contest in driving nails interested several contestants, and created plenty of merriment, those who succeeded in sending the nail clear into the plank in the shortest time being Mrs. Noble, Mrs. Wilbert Lunn, and Miss M. Gibson.

The tea was served, picnic style, on the lawn, and so generously had the ladies provided for the occasion that when all appetites had been fully satisfied, an abundance of good things was left over, and baskets, which came well laden, in very few cases went home empty, nearly every one having to carry something home again because the quantity considerably exceeded the demand.

A few of those who helped in making the occasion a success were: Mrs. Malcolm Ward, Mrs. Thomas Reid, Mrs. Robert Lunn, Miss Marjorie Bristow, Miss Martha Lunn, Messrs. J. Thorne, W. Lunn and George Martin.

Mr. Will Lunn is superintendent of Carmel Sunday school which is now held at 10.30 a.m., this arrangement to continue through the summer months. No regular church service is held at this appointment which is connected with the Millbrook United church, but on special occasions there is a worship service in addition to the Sunday school session.

The school now has an enrollment of over thirty-five scholars, and is up-to-date in its methods, and in the papers and helps provided.

Daily Short Story

IT HAPPENED

"And," said Ronald Decker in his most persuasive tones, "I will make you the happiest girl in the world, Beth. Besides, your mother has given her consent to our engagement."

Beth Courtier smiled, but it was not the sweet, glad smile that Ronald hoped for. He bent over the wheel of his motor boat and fussed with the engine. He wondered what he could do to make this lovely mutinous child see the error of her ways, and marry him, a most desirable husband for any girl, with all his money and good looks.

So thought Ronald and Beth's worldly mother, who was tired of pinching and saving to make both ends meet. She was exasperated with Beth, who still drooped over the desertion of a very good-for-nothing artist. Of course, Beth did not know that Mrs. Courtier had given Billy Harbison the merest hint that her daughter was engaged to Ronald.

Billy had made no further attempt to see Beth. He had a quick temper—he believed she should have told him about her engagement, but he had believed that Beth cared, too. He packed up his painting kit and went off, leaving a stiff little note of farewell.

So Beth sat among the cushions of Ronald's motor boat, looking dreamily at the river banks, where were the cool retreats that Billy loved to put on his canvas.

"A penny for your thoughts," said Ronald sharply.

Beth started violently. She did not answer, and he was mad with jealousy. He was sure she was thinking about Billy Harbison, who had proved himself a general favorite at the summer resort. He had rescued several swimmers, among them Ronald himself, when the latter had suffered a cramp when in the river.

There was Rock Island ahead, with its wicked rapids and uncertain inhabitants—uncertain because one never knew whether to look for gypsies there, river pirates of a kind, or queer vagrant characters who sought its solitudes for one reason or another. So it happened Decker suddenly decided to capsize his motor boat and save Beth's life! In his pockets, in waterproof cases, were matches, watch and revolver with cartridges. They would get along. They would be missed and somebody would find the boat. Meantime, Beth would change her mind.

"Are you heading for the rocks," asked Beth anxiously.

Decker swung around to look, and at the same moment there was a scraping sound and a rending, tearing sound, as a black jagged point of rock thrust up through the bottom—there was a sudden rush of water and the boat immediately began to settle. The man leaped into the water and held out his arms to Beth. "Jump, dearest!" he called excitedly.

"I can swim," she said cooly, and, slipping into the water, fought against the current to gain a point of land that ran out like a tiny cape. She reached it and looked around to find her companion swimming sullenly in the rear.

"Where is the boat?" asked Beth.

He muttered something unintelligible as he emptied the water from his shoes and wrung out his clothes as best he could.

"What shall we do now?" she asked. "Build a fire on the beach to attract the attention of some passing boatman?"

He laughed shortly. He felt cold and damp and was sure he would have an attack of influenza.

"We will remain right here. I have matches, but I will not light a fire, and I will not look for help on the island. There is an old hermit at the upper end, and a band of gypsies, and some squatters, and you can take your choice of going to one of them for help, or remaining here and giving me an answer to the question I have asked. Will you marry me?"

"Never!" she said, standing audaciously defiant. "You are a miserable coward! I believe that you wrecked the boat on purpose!"

He snarled and rose to his feet, stretching out his hand as if to grasp her, but she was too quick for him. With a little cry she turned and fled along the stretch of green turf under the willows. He followed, running like the wind. Her breath was leaving her when he caught her, and she uttered a faint scream. Then a mighty shadow came between them and Ronald fell heavily to the ground.

"Oh, Billy—Billy!" sobbed Beth, finding herself in the sheltering arms of the man she loved. "Save me from him."

"My little love," whispered Billy, after they had each told the story of their parting. Just then Ronald Decker opened his eyes and saw them.

"Hey," he said thickly, "what you doing around here?"

"Painting pictures—been here for weeks," said Billy gruffly. "Say, Decker, I saw how you deliberately wrecked your boat, and risked this young lady's life. I'll lend you a boat to get back to the mainland—unless you want to accompany us to the other side of the island where there is a Sunday school picnic going on. The minister will marry us on the spot, and we can get the license at the same time because all the town officials are there, too. How about it?"

Dentist Magic

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

I'VE heard grown-ups remark within a child's hearing, "I so dread to have my teeth fixed," or "How I hate going to the dentist," and then be impatient with the child when he doesn't want to have his teeth fixed! It seems to be natural to most folks to be somewhat cowardly about having dentistry done and it surely doesn't help the child any to have fears suggested to him. We are fast learning the physiological importance of caring even for the baby teeth, so when it is necessary for a child to have work done let us not suggest fear and dread to him, but treat the ordeal as a casual thing, suggesting pleasant things to interest him.

A PERSON grows two kinds of teeth,
The baby ones and grown-up ones,
So that a baby tooth falls out
Each time a tooth that's grown-up comes.

The Dentist Man explained all this
And yet I was a Scaredy Cat
For fear he'd hurt me when he pulled,
He laughed and said, "Imagine That!"

"I'll pull these out, then when you're home
Put them in water over night
And say 'Kume Mahney Gadda Sah,
Make magic 'are the morning light!"

I let him pull my old teeth out,
At night I did just as he said—
Then in the water where they'd been
Bright shiny pennies lay instead.

AVIATORS HAVE THRILLING TIME

Hydroplane in Ungava Expedition Crashes on Uncharted Stream.

FLYERS LOST.

QUEBEC, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—Thrilling hazards met by a party of aviators exploring the great Ungava territory for the Quebec government were learned from a meagre story which filtered into Quebec today.

Three hydro planes were engaged in the expedition. One of the planes crashed on an uncharted waterway but the crew luckily escaped. They had no provisions, however, and were lost. For six days they were in Hinterland practically without food when they were sighted by one of the planes that had accompanied them and rescued.

Though in a greatly weakened condition, the crew of the plane which crashed will all probably recover at the base where they were taken.

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged — are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets which any druggist will tell you all about are putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, gained 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

We all know that the livers of Cod Fish are full of vitalizing flesh producing vitamines and these same vitamines of the highest class are found in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—sugar coated and as easy to take as candy.

And this shows what faith the makers have in McCoy's for they say; if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back— and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask the McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, or any druggist anywhere in North or South America.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine.

BUSINESS FIRMS BOOTLEGGERS POLICE FINDING

Hamilton Companies Were Supposed To Be Legitimate Firms.

BOOKS ARE SEIZED.

Hamilton Alderman Will Seek Thorough Civic Probe of Situation.

HAMILTON, Aug. 4.—A development of the police investigation of the bootleg tragedy here was the raiding of "business premises" in the east end of the city and the seizing of books which may show, it is said, how raw alcohol was smuggled from the United States, colored, bottle and labelled, and then sold as well-known brands of Scotch and other liquors.

This phase of the inquiry is being pressed from headquarters of the Provincial Police at Toronto, it is stated, and may disclose amazing revelations of the extent of the smuggling of alcohol from the United States on a wholesale scale. Many persons are alleged to be involved, and official connivance at points along the border is hinted at. Provincial Police working on the case here are reticent regarding their progress, but report that further arrests of "higher ups" are likely. Two concerns, it is said, have masquaraded here as legitimate business undertakings, when in reality they have been the bottling works and warehouses of master bootleggers.

Books Taken to Headquarters.

The books of these companies, it is understood, have been taken to Provincial headquarters in an effort to verify the many entries and determine their legitimacy. Police intimate they are now entering upon what is the most vital and yet cunning phase of the bootleg traffic between New York State and Ontario.

This traffic, it is further intimated, extended throughout Ontario, with distributing depots at several points between Niagara Falls to Windsor.

Meanwhile, the five prisoners are living on plain fare at the city jail. They are not allowed to have their meals brought into them, nor are they permitted to smoke. Save for an hour's exercise each day in the jail yard each of the accused is kept in a cell by himself. Lights are turned out at 8 o'clock each night. These five alleged bootleggers are getting a taste of jail life, and no mistake about it.

Alderman Wants Probe.

Ald. Herbert Wilton of Ward 1 will press at the next meeting of the City Council that a thorough probe into the alleged bootleg traffic and vice conditions be launched by the civic authorities.

The Alderman feels, he said, that the recent strictures of Judge Gauld warrant such action. Judge Gauld, he said, had spoken from a knowledge of actual conditions, revealed to him in cases at his court. Citizens who have the welfare of the community at heart cannot afford to ignore what Judge Gauld said, Ald. Wilton declared.

Police have not succeeded, they said last night, in locating any local friends of Alexander McDonald, a painter, who died on Saturday from the effects of drinking poisonous bootleg liquor at Niagara Falls, N.Y. It is said that he formerly lived in Hamilton and played lacrosse here.

While Provincial Inspector Brien of the local O. T. A. enforcement squad guarded a quantity of liquor seized in a raid, he was stoned by persons from whom the liquor was seized. The officer escaped serious injury. He was left to gaurd the liquor while the other officers went away for a few minutes to get their automobile and remove the liquor to headquarters.

MEIGHEN MAKES THREE SPEECHES

Addresses Two Meetings at Orillia and One at Midland.

LEACOCK PRESIDES.

ORILIA, August 4. — Three meetings, comprising altogether nearly 3,500 people, heard addresses from Premier Meighen at Midland and Orillia yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon Mr. Meighen spoke at Midland; in the evening he addressed two meetings here, one of them being an overflow meeting. His speeches here were featured by an attack on the Robb budget. Mr. Meighen charged that though the government had reduced the salaried man's income tax it had made the greater reduction in the rich man's tax. As to the reduction in the price of automobiles, that, he asserted, was accomplished simply by changing the luxury tax into a protective tax.

Stephen Leacock Presides.

Stephen Leacock, noted Canadian author, who owns a summer residence near here, was the chairman at the main meeting in the opera house last night. Mr. Leacock spoke briefly, introducing the premier, to whom he referred in high terms of tribute.

WESTERN TOUR OPENED BY KING

Addresses Meeting in Winnipeg, Speaking on Constitutional Question.

"HANDS OFF C.N.R."

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—"I want to tell Mr. Meighen that the people of Canada want him and everyone about him to keep their hands off the National Railways," declared Right Hon. W. L. Mackenize King, leader of the Liberal party, in opening his [illegible] the western provinces here last night.

"Mr. Meighen had hardly been in office an hour before he was telling the people of the Maritimes how the National Railway should be adjusted," Mr. King said.

Mr. King dealt at great length with the constitutoinal question and particularly as to Premier Meighen's attitude, as made known in his Hamilton address, to participation in foreign wars. "I have taken the position that Parliament is supreme," he added. He wondered what would happen if Mr. Meighen, while war was on, was refused dissolution. He would not be able to hold an election on the war issue.

THREE ARE HELD IN MURDER CASE

Youths Alleged To Be Members of Bootlegging Gang.

EVANGELIST SLAIN.

MORGANTOWN, Ky., Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—Members of an alleged bootlegging gang are being rounded up in connection with the sensational double murder on Monday night of Rev. W. A. Moss, evangelist, and Mrs. Jerome Johnson, choir singer, during services, when shots were fired through a window.

Three youths in custody are alleged to be members of a group of moonshiners which feared and hated the revivalist because he denounced their activities. Rev. Moss had received several warnings. One of the three, Cliff Wilson, is declared by a witness to have fired the shots.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1926.

. . . REPORTER OF THE NEW . . . REMEMBRANCER OF THE OLD AND TRIED . . . HERALD OF WHAT IS TO COME.

TODAY—AN ANNIVERSARY.

Twelve years further from the beginning of war; twelve years richer in experience of men and nations; twelve years nearer—what?

It was on August 4, 1914, that Britain and the Empire plunged into the cataclysmic Great War. People cheered, here on George street, where the news was bulletined; cheered because they knew this federation of free nations should stand staunchly for the inviolability of treaties and the right of smaller nations to defend their homes against unwarranted trespass.

It is twelve years since that never-to-be-forgotten night that was but the first of many nights and days of anxious waiting and eager hoping. Twelve years in the sixth of a man's allotted span of life. Young men of 24 had already, in 1914, lived a third of their seventy years, and today those who came back have completed the half. What have they learned, at this, the half-way mark, to guide them through the latter part of life?

Surely, if any one lesson has been taught successfully by the hard and hardened schoolmaster, war, it is that of comradeship. The nations that held together were those that survived the holocast; the battalions of our own army that were welded into fighting units were the most effective; the companies and sections and platoons where the men were comrades got the most out of the oft-times drab, sometimes brilliant, life of war.

Conditions are much the same in peace time today as they were in the battle life of '14 to '18. Men must be comrades if they are to succeed in business, and nations are striving to be cordial to one another, to settle their differences amicably.

Canada is a huge country, with a wealth of opportunity and extended undeveloped territory. It needs just such young men as went out gallantly twelve years ago to write her name upon the honor roll of nations. Her heroic ambitions of 1914 were realized in battles won by the might of her soldiers' arms. Her young men were the spear-head troops in many an almost forlorn attack; the unbreakable barrier in the path of many a well-planned enemy thrust.

The young men of today have a glorious heritage, and they are worthy of their noble ancestry. Born with the blood of heroes and nurtured on the stories of comradeship that made the great adventure a beautiful episode in life, they cannot but advance in days of peace to illustrious achievement in developing the potentialities of the Dominion. They should never forget that this peaceful conquest calls for just the characteristics that marked those other young men of 1914, and that shoulder to shoulder, united but free, they can accomplish infinitely more than could ever be done by isolated endeavour. And at the end, when the most has been done and the last act has been performed, as they look back as we now look back on the Great War, it will be a pleasant thing to recall first of all the comrades they made and had.

WHAT IS YOUR BANK BALANCE?

There is not a business man in Peterborough who expects to continue to draw cheques on a bank in which he makes no deposits. Some men are naturally givers, while others are just as naturally takers, but both classes recognize that banks are not charitable institutions and only what they put in comes back to them.

But many men expect to keep drawing upon the bank of Peterborough without depositing anything in the coffers of civic good-will. They are unconscious of the debt they owe to this soul of the city, the city which has been home since their birth, the city that gave them their first job and the right to struggle upward to their present positions. They have pleasant homes, maybe radios and telephones and automobiles, all the conveniences and luxuries of a modern city. They take all of these things without remembering that the success which makes them possible is due to the favor of the people who live in Peterborough.

What does a man owe to his city? Is not his personal success the result of his individual effort? In Peterborough there is a soul. It is community spirit. Its vibrations may be weak, but it is there. It must be fed, if it is to exist, from every man and woman who makes a living or accepts a favor in the city. It is civic consciousness.

Community spirit will urge the cleaning up of the city's hovels, the eradication of its danger spots, whether they are disease breeding rubbish heaps or threatening railway crossings. It will demand the expansion of the city in all directions that will mean betterment of conditions of living, working and playing. It will weld the twenty thousand separate beings in Peterborough into one community entity.

If such a state existed in its full development, with men depositing regularly in the bank of community welfare, Peterborough would leap into the vanguard of progress; it would throb with a new vitality; it would have added to its natural endowments and its physical developments that most necessary of driving forces, a community soul.

THE ELECTORS ARE CHALLENGED.

The condition of affairs in the government of Canada is not a matter for recrimination between parties, but a challenge to the electors to give more attention to public affairs.

Peterborough has had some battles royal with two and three parties sounding their war-whoops throughout the riding, but what is needed today is an intelligent contribution by the electors to the governing thought of the Dominion.

The difficulties in the way of good government seem insurmountable, but our forefathers faced obstacles greater than these that confront us today, and were not overcome. Indeed, they turned them to advantage.

Have confidence in Canada. All the down-in-the-mouth stories ground out by the prolific millers of partizan political propaganda cannot alter the fact of Canada's glorious heritage and her more promising future. The wheat fields and the underground treasures of Canada remain untouched by the smoke of factional disturbances.

Industry and pride of race and glory of achievement are what count, and for the government of Canada the sane, well-considered, unheated choice of the people must be the deciding factor.

HAVE YOU THE ONLY TRUTH?

Walter Pater says, in his most oracular mood, in that fine manifesto of a lofty Epicureanism which is known as the Conclusion to the Renaissance essays, that to form habits is failure in life. The difficulty in uttering oracles is that one is obliged for the sake of being forcible to reduce a statement to the simplest terms; and when one does that there are usually a whole group of cases, which appear to be covered by the statement, which plainly contradict it. It is nearly impossible to make any general statement both simple enough and large enough.

In the case of Pater's pronouncement, he had fixed his mental gaze so firmly on a particular phenomenon that he forgot that his words might prove misleading when applied to the facts of life.

Most people, in matters of opinion, tend to get infected with a species of conservatism by the time they reach middle age, until they get into the frame of mind which Montaigne describes of thinking so highly of their own conjectures as to be prepared to burn other people for not regarding them as certainties. How often does one meet sensible, shrewd and intelligent men, who say frankly that they are not prepared to listen to any evidence which tells against their beliefs. How rare it is to meet a man who in the course of an argument will say, "Well, I had never thought of that before; it must be taken into account, and it modifies my view." Such an attitude is looked upon by active-minded and energetic men as having something weak and even sentimental about it. How common it is to hear people say a man ought to have the courage of his convictions; how rare it is to find a man who will say that one ought to have the courage to change one's opinions! In public life today it is generally considered a sort of treachery to change, because people value what they call loyalty before truth.

Pater, no doubt, is writing of a mental process; he condemns the dulling and encrusting of the mind with prejudices and habits. Charles Lamb wittily refers to it as the tendency, whenever a new book comes out, to read an old one. It is the fire-side-and-slippers frame of mind, the grumbling at novelty, the complaining that the young men are violating all the sacred canons of art and the young women breaking the traditions of faith.

Positiveness of opinion in politics is as soul confining as dogmatism in religion, and in making a plea for a broader tolerance in the realm of political thought. The Examiner is looking as much to the broadening influence upon the mind of the individual as to the inevitable improvement in government. Public bodies often find that projects debated carefully and decided months before are after all not the proper courses, and are compelled to revise their findings. An instance was reported in connection with the City Council yesterday. And individuals, if they are honest with themselves, must admit that their certainties of yesteryear are problems today.

There is nothing certain, and habit of mind should not be allowed to tighten its grip on a man's reasoning faculties to the extent where it squeezes out the tolerance of another's adverse opinion. You may not have the whole truth, or the only truth.

LAUGH!

"Laughter, while it lasts, slackens and unbraces the mind, weakens the faculties and causes a kind of remissness and dissolution in all the powers of the soul; and thus far it may be looked upon as a weakness in the composition of human nature. But when one considers the frequent reliefs the human body receives from it, and how often it breaks the gloom, which is apt to depress the mind and spirits, with transient, unexpected gleams of joy, one would take care not to grow too wise for so great a pleasure of life," is one of the rarest gems of wisdom that ever came from the pen of Joseph Addison, English man of letters.

These words from the seventeenth century are as true today as they were when Addison conceived them. Men and women in every walk of modern life recognize the value of laughter, how it smoothes life's pathway and lengthens it also.

Shakespeare said: "Smiles in men's faces, smooth, deceive and cog." But laughter exposes its own deception. The hearty laugh rings true. "Laugh and the world laughs with you," but seek to cover dark thoughts behind your laughter and the world knows it.

Among the illiterate and impoverished laughter is natural and unrestrained and even cultivated. It makes life endurable. But with those classes which aspire to culture and refinement as society defines them it is usual to bridle one's laughter. A boisterous laughter is considered crude and one who has given vent to such a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm and good merriment, upon recovering his or her composure, is apt to experience a feeling of depression and humiliation, not because laughter afforded no relief but because of what others will think. The fault, and it is a fault, is with society not with culture or the cultured individual.

For health's sake let us not "grow too wise for so great a pleasure" as at least one good laugh a day. —Montreal Herald.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—Corn was king yesterday on the board of trade. December delivery of corn commanded 90 1-4 a bushel, the highest price yet this season. Talk was current that owing to lack of adequate moisture the new corn crop as a whole has been adversely affected at the critical stage of development.

Closing quotations on corn were strong at the day's top figures 1 1-2, to 2 net higher. Wheat finished easy, unchanged to 1-4 lower; oats unchanged to 1-8 off, and provisions varying from 32 decline to 10 cents advance.

According to crop experts, the rain record throughout the corn belt has been unsatisfactory for a month past and rain fall in July is very largely the decisive factor in corn production, moisture and moderate temperature being essential at the time of tassel and silk. Stimulated further by possibility of another hot wave, active purchasing of future deliveries of corn took place, and there was also lively undoing of recent spread trades, between corn and wheat. The undoing of these spreads today added to the volume of demand for corn and meanwhile brought about selling of wheat. Subsequently, though, the pronounced strength of the corn market had considerable influence toward checking pressure to sell wheat and other grain.

Wheat values averaged lower, largely on account of a setback in Liverpool quotations and because of slowness of export call for North American wheat. Increasing supplies at the more northerly domestic winter wheat terminals tended to make buyers cautious, and so likewise did assertions that the peak of demand from domestic millers had been reached. Oats displayed no independence and kept within fractional limits. Provisions started lower but rallied with corn.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 4 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.85 1-4.

Sterling cables—$4.85 3-4.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press.) — A moderate amount of business was transacted in coarse grains for export account on the Montreal market yesterday, but the trade in wheat was at a standstill. The local trade in car lots of oats was quiet but steady.

The feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed for spring wheat grades of flour and prices were reduced twenty cents per barrel. The feeling in the winter wheat situation was steady with a small trade passing.

Extreme dullness again marked the millfeed market but prices were unchanged. Only a small business was transacted in standard grades of rolled oats, but prices ruled steady.

The domestic and export trade in butter continued inactive but the undertone to the market was firm. The receipts were 1,817 packages.

Prices for cheese were well maintained at the recent declines noted. The trade volume was small. The receipts were 12,782 boxes.

The egg trade continued quiet but firm. The receipts were 1,252 cases.

The volume of business transacted in beans was light with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $2.25 per bushel, and smaller at $2.35 to $2.45 per bushel.

NEWSPAPER RATE TO GREAT BRITAIN

Many Bundles Sent to Dead Letter Office as Underpaid.

During the past two months, June and July, 100 bundles containing newspapers addressed to Great Britain have been forwarded to the Branch Dead Letter Office from the local Post Office owing to having been insufficiently prepaid.

The newspaper rate for Canadian papers to Great Britain is 1c for each 4 ounces, and the rate on foreign papers (in which are included newspapers and periodicals published in the United States) addressed to Great Britain, is 2c for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof. Each bundle of newspapers must be fully prepaid before it can be forwarded, otherwise it is sent to the Dead Letter Office.

Parties who are in the habit of mailing newspapers to Great Britain are advised to have them weighed before posting.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"THEM" AND "IT" IN ONE SENTENCE.

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

If you use the pronoun "it" in a sentence, stick to it; if you use "them," stick to that.

This is what a leading editorial in one of the greatest newspapers of America said:

"Cheered, perhaps unduly, by that 7,000,000 majority which so dazzles them, the Republican National Committee addressed itself to the task of improving Republican political morality in the South."

Now, the pronouns "them" and "itself," in this sentence, both refer to the noun "committee." But "them" is plural and "itself" is singular, and the sentence is therefore ungrammatical. Since "committee" is a collective noun, with which either the singular or the plural pronoun may be used, the sentence should have taken either of these two forms:

"Cheered by that 7,000,000 majority, which so dazzles it, the committee addressed itself," or, "Cheered by that 7,000,000 majority which so dazzles them, the committee addressed themselves."

CLOSING OF ROAD MEETS OPPOSITION

Smith Council Says It Would Keep Some People From Lake.

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council Chamber, Peterboro, on Saturday, July 31st.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and confirmed.

By-law No. 836, to authorize the borrowing of certain moneys from the Royal Bank, Peterboro, to meet current expenses of the corporation of the Township of Smith for the year 1926 received its several readings and was passed.

Also by-law No. 837 to levy the amounts required by the trustees of the several school sections and by-law No. 838 to levy the rates of assessment for 1926 were dealt with and passed.

The council passed a resolution limiting its liability to the sum of $5.00 per day for the rental of any building in which an inquest is held and for which rental the Municipality of Smith is responsible.

A communication was received from Mr. H. Beal re roadway into Kawartha Park which was referred to the road superintendent.

The clerk was instructed to write the Department of Lands and Forests, stating that council is opposed to any licenses of occupation being issued to any one of a roadway known as East Esplanade in Chemong Park as it would prevent the use of the shore line by the cottagers who have no water front lots.

A rebate in taxes of $8.63 was allowed Mr. Fred L. Roy owing to the fact that a lot had been assessed twice in the same year.

On motion of Councillors Coons and Mann the following certified accounts were ordered to be paid:

Dr. J. A. Morgan, services as M.H.O., $99.70; Treasurer of Lakefield Village, rental of Memorial Hall, two inquests, $30; R. A. Charlton, rental of hall 1 day, $3; Examiner Co. Ltd., printing voters' lists and sundries, $160.07; Mr. F. L. Roy, rebate on taxes, $8.63.

Council adjourned to meet at the call of the reeve.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

HIDE ME

Love, I ask for only this:
When some grief has found me,
When some other joy I miss,
Put your arms around me.
Hide me from too-hot a sun
Till the torrid day is done,
If the task too greatly tried me,
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Hide me from the words unkind
That the others fling me,
From the troubled heart and mind
That the world may bring me.
Hide me from the dark of night
Till I see the dawning light;
With no shining star to guide me,
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Love need never give me gold:
Not for gold we hunger.
When the hours have made me old
You can make me younger.
Hide me from the night of years,
Hide me from the foolish fears,
What befall me, what betide me,
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

Hide me from the world's alarms,
From the clash and clatter;
In the shelter of your arms
Nothing else will matter.
Hide me from the weary strife,
Hide me from the hurt of life;
You can give the peace denied me—
Hide me, my beloved, hide me.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

"NO DOUGH FIGHTIN' IN CELLA'S"

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

A spinner of sporting yarns recently broadcast an anecdote about Jack Johnson, one-time world's champion pugilist.

According to the story, the champion met on a side street the man he had defeated for the crown, who invited him to come to a near-by cellar to fight it out and see who was really the best man.

Johnson firmly declined.

"No, suh," he said, "there ain't any 'dough' in fightin' in cella's."

This is excellent common sense.

Even for a pugilist the only place there is money in fighting is in the ring. For other folks there is little "dough" to be made fighting in cellars or anywhere else.

If you read over the headlines of long court litigations over property the fact that there is no "dough" in fighting is evident.

A couple of court fiascos of recent years demonstrate it.

The heirs of the Gould fortune wrangled for months in court. They squandered their substance in riotous lawsuits. They fought over everything in the expense book of the family's past, from jewels to dog meat. They enriched the lawyers, reduced the amount of "dough" coming to each other and every heir, and then—

They came to a settlement out of court which could have taken place in the first place.

In New York a chain store magnate and his wife fought in the courts over the settlement of a financial consideration, and after a big slice of it had been lost in legal bills they came to an understanding out of court.

Lincoln's advice is sound financially as well as otherwise:

"Discourage litigation. Persuade your neighbor to compromise whenever you can."

Keeping out of the courts, and all other fights, whenever possible, is wise.

In the end the rule holds almost without exceptions for ordinary people—"there's no dough in fighting."

CAMPBELLFORD MEN MENTIONED FOR THE LIBERAL NOMINATION

Don Douglas and A. J. Meyers Loom as Possibilities For Candidature.

MEETING THURSDAY.

Convention Called For Warkworth on Thursday—No Definite Fore...

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, August 4.—Speculation is general throughout the district as to the Liberal candidate in Northumberland. Along the front, that is in the lake shore towns, the name of Don Douglas, local Ford representative, has been frequently mentioned as the party's opponent to M. E. Maybee. This may be somewhat surprising news to Mr. Douglas, but the information has come from various reliable sources. The name of A. J. Meyers also crops up frequently in the political gossip, also Fred Slade, W. J. Maher, of Cobourg, and several others, but those who are among the most active Liberals in the county declare that the choice lies between Dr. Robertson of Colborne and Mayor Fraser of Trenton.

Dr. Robertson is a dentist, is president of the Liberal Association of Northumberland, has a strong following in the riding, and enjoys the confidence of the chieftains of Liberalism throughout Ontario and eastern Canada.

Mr. Fraser is the head of the Trenton Cooperage Company. He was elected to the Trenton Mayoralty by acclamation, and is reported to be one of the most aggressive "Grits" in the Ontario sector of the campaign. Liberals here believe that either Dr. Robertson or Mr. Fraser will make a foe worthy of contending with Mr Maybee for the Northumberland seat in the Commons, which the Conservative candidate has twice won.

New Merchant Busy.

Preparatory to taking possession of the furniture and undertaking business which he bought from A. G. Watson, three months ago, Dwight Bennett, of Brockville, has arrived in Campbellford, and is engaged in a preliminary inventory.

Sunday's crowd at Crowe River bridge, was the largest of the season at the Dalgleish resort. It is off the beaten track, but is gradually becoming known to people from far and near.

Mr. Dan L. Bailey, accompanied by his wife and their nephew, Clinton Crites, of Brockville, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Bailey.

Birth: To Mr. and Mrs. Claude Duncalfe, Campbellford, on Tuesday, August 3, 1926, a boy.

Council Meeting.

The council last night passed a bylaw imposing regulations on places of amusement and requiring a license to be bought from the town at a cost of $50 for a period of from six months to one year, and $30 for less ... applies to all places ... public dances are held, such as the new dance pavilion, and the theatre and high school where dances have been held in the past. Orderly conduct must be maintained at the expense of the owners, and dances must conclude at 11.30 p.m. Permission to exceed this hour may be obtained from the town treasurer.

New Plan of Town.

Deputy Reeve Palliser and Councillor Stone reported on the enquiry as to the need and cost of a new plan of the town, and Mr. Aylesworth of Madoc, will be commissioned under an agreement to prepare the plan at a cost not to exceed $2000. The agreement is to be drafted at once, and the plan is to fulfill the requirements of the Registry Act.

The council agreed to take half a page in the Trent Waterways Improvement Association at a cost of $60, Mayor Kingston and Town Clerk McGregor to prepare the advertisement.

The Charity Committee was recommended to assist a young married woman to return to England. She was recently deserted by her husband after they had been living here for some months, and had become destitute.

It was reported that A. L. Riendeau and Dr. Hay asked $10 a foot frontage for their property at the rear of Front street, which is desired to provide entrance to the back of the stores in that section. Mr. Riendeau owns two feet and Mr. Hay eight.

The council hesitated to spend the money but it was suggested the merchants interested in the scheme might be willing to meet the cost personally.

Militia Returns.

Major Bygott and his company of the 40th Regiment, returned from camp at Cobourg last evening.

CONVENTION TO-MORROW.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4. — The Liberals of Northumberland will hold a convention in the Town Hall, Warkworth, on Thursday, Aug. 5, at 1.30, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the forthcoming election.

The Hon. J. C. Elliott and others will address the gathering.

EX-PRESIDENT UPHOLDS CALLES RELIGIOUS LAWS

Receives Support From the Leaders in Political and Military World.

OUTWARDLY CALM.

Peace Pact Between Episcopate and Government Remains Without Result.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—Peace feelers by intermediaries seeking a solution of the apparent impasse between the government and Mexican Episcopate, arising out of the government's strict enforcement of the religious regulations continued to put forth yesterday, but so far as could be learned, without result.

Meanwhile, the government has received assurances of support for its religious policy from two of the most important figures in the Mexican political and military world—former President Obregon and General Arnulfo Gomez, military chief of the state of Vera Cruz. General Obregon is still looked upon as the idol of the army, while General Gomez is a possible Presidential candidate.

As on the preceding days, the Mexican Catholics, despite their feelings, went about their usual tasks yesterday, and on the surface, there was nothing to indicate the seriousness of the religious controversy. Newspaper specials and government reports describe disturbances in some sections but from this information it appears that nothing serious has developed anywhere.

Queretaro reports that seventeen persons—it is not specified whether they were priests—have been arrested, charged with moving treasures and valuable objects from Catholic churches. The Mexico City authorities are investigating reports of municipal committees appointed to take over the churches that valuables are missing from many of the edifices including the Cathedral.

While the Cathedral continues closed pending a further check of the inventory of its treasures, the other churches in Mexico City were open again yesterday, although only a moderate number of worshippers were seen in them.

Thus far, there is little or no evidence of the boycott under the auspieces of the League for the defence of religious freedom in Mexico City, although some commercial houses and retailers express apprehension that it may develop. In contrast, news from other sections of the republic shows that the boycott is in full swing in numerous towns, the people refraining from all indispensable expenditures in the hope of creating an economic crisis, sufficiently serious to influence the government to modify its attitude.

Propaganda campaigns are being waged vigorously everywhere. There have been numerous joint debates with speakers representing both sides of the controversy, but thus far all have been peaceful.

The first debate in Mexico City was between the Secretary of Education, Dr. Jose Puig Cassurane, and Rene Capistran Garza, one of the directors of the League for the Defence of Religious Liberty, who is under bail awaiting formal trial on the charge of inciting the people to disturbance by means of the boycott.

This debate was conducted in a Mexico City Theatre, and was largely attended by an orderly crowd. Each side cheered as points were scored. The broad general arguments put forward by the Secretary of Education were that the government was merely enforcing the constitution which it must do or cease to be a self-respecting government; that the regulations do not interfere with the dogma, doctrine and fundamental spiritual qualities of religion, but merely prevented political activities under the guise of religion.

On the other hand, the League speaker declared that the Catholic Church was singled out for persecution and that it was impossible to reconcile Catholic fundamentals with the government's requirements.

SENATE ADOPTS FINANCIAL BILL

Poincare's Measures To Rehabilitate French Finances Passed Into Law.

BY LARGE MAJORITY.

PARIS, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier Poincare's measures designed to rehabilitate French finances, were adopted by the Senate by a vote of 250 to 13. The same measures were adopted by the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday.

Yesterday's favorable action by the Senate thus means that Premier Poincare is swiftly and steadily converting his financial programme into acts of law. To-day the Finance committee of the Chamber will report on the sinking fud. On Saturday the transfer of the tobacco monopoly bill will be reported. The Chamber will vote on the bills on Saturday and the Senate on Tuesday the 10th.

The premier is also preparing a bill authorizing the Bank of France to purchase and sell foreign exchange and to hold the exclusive control of this activity.

In supporting his financial measures before the Senate yesterday Premier Poincare said:

"The franc has reached a point where it is much below its real value. The Bank of France bills are guaranteed in such a manner as to render unjustified even the absurd present rate of the franc in international exchange. Before stabilizing we must first bring the franc back somewhat nearer its real value.

"We can accept no amendment to these measures. We did not seek power through any personal ambition. There are many men around me who have political adversaries. None of them have abandoned their principles, but the country was in danger and we agreed to bury the political hatchet."

Bread Soothes Elephants Running Wild From Circus

EDMONTON, Alberta, Aug. 4.—(Associated Press.)—Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast, but bread is better.

Fourteen circus elephants went on a rampage here and began tearing up the town when a dog barked at them. Everybody ran. The elephant keeper, chased into a cemetery, saved his life by dodging behind tombstones.

A clown rider of the circus rode around and bought up all the bread in town. Then, stepping out boldly with the enticing loaves, he coaxed and hobbled every pachyderm and took them all back to the tent.

FARMER'S 'BLIND PIG' COST $375

Month in Jail Included in O. T.A. Penalty at Hastings.

SOLD TO CONSTABLE.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 4.—A young farmer of Percy township was fined $300 and $75 costs with a month in jail at Cobourg on a charge of selling liquor, which was heard by Magistrate Floyd on Saturday evening. In default of payment of the fine, an additional six months will be tacked on to the jail term.

Another charge against the prisoner of having liquor in a place other than his dwelling will be heard at Cobourg on Monday next.

Provincial Constable Fewtrell, of Cobourg testified that he had bought a bottle of liquor from the accused. Complaints had been received, he stated that the young farmer was not observing the O.T.A. The constable is understood to have posed as a camper up the river and called at the farm for a bottle of "hootch." Part of the supply is said to have been found in an apple tree. The case attracted general interest locally on Saturday evening

The funeral of Mrs. Bryan Lynch took place on Saturday morning to the church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and thence to the parish cemetery. Mrs. Lynch died in her 84th year on Thursday last after an illness of two weeks. She was predeceased by her husband 25 years ago. She is survived by her stepson, John Lynch, and her sister, Mrs. Thos. McGuire.

3 months' service ~no carbon trouble

NATIONAL TAXI, LIMITED
23 ADELAIDE ST. WEST

Toronto, Can., June 29th, 1926.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED,
Church Street,
Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:

For the past three months we have been using Marvelube Oil exclusively in our fleet of sixteen cars.

In justice to you we are only too pleased to inform you that, in the past we had trouble with oily spark plugs in several of our cars, but since using "Marvelube" this trouble has been eliminated entirely.

Every one of our cars average 1,000 miles per week, and to keep them free from carbon it used to be necessary to have them in the repair shop at least once a month.

It has not been necessary for us to send a car to the repair shop on account of carbon since we started to use this new oil.

We wish to offer you our congratulations.

Yours very truly,

NATIONAL TAXI, LIMITED,

S. T. Murray

SAM/GS. Vice-President and General Manager.

MOTOR OIL
Successfully combats Carbon

Marvelube Sets Remarkable Record

Fourteen weeks of hard service—with an average of 1,000 miles of driving each week—is enough to test the lubricating qualities of any motor oil.

If such a test were carried out in a single pleasure car with such a remarkable record of satisfaction, it would be convincing proof of the quality of the oil used.

In the case of the National Taxi, Limited, Marvelube Motor Oil produced the amazing lubricating results described—not in one car but in sixteen hard-driven taxi cabs!

In these sixteen cars—12 Overlands and 4 Nash models—the mechanical and operating conditions must necessarily have varied considerably, yet the results were the same in all cases.

Marvelube lived up to every claim made for it, eliminating carbon troubles and promoting the superior operating results which are possible only with this wonderful oil.

Always Use the Right Grade

Marvelube Motor Oil is made in six grades—Light Medium, Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy, Extra Heavy and "F" for Fords.

To secure maximum lubricating results from your car it is essential that you use the grade recommended for your make and model of car.

See the Marvelube Chart of Recommendations for the correct grade for your car and always insist upon that grade whenever and wherever you fill.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Miss Bessie Locke Receives Gifts From Many of Her Friends.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4.—Miss Verna Hay gave a shower for Miss Bessie Locke on Friday evening at her home on Rear street. The rooms were prettily decorated and a table was heaped with gifts for the bride, who has been a faithful member of St. Andrew's Mission Circle and a chum of all the guests present. The hostess served a dainty lunch, which was much appreciated.

Church Services.

Rev. G. A. Brown, of Kingston, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, had charge of both services in St. John's United Church on Sunday and delivered two wonderfully impressive sermons. Mr. Brown's many Campbellford friends were pleased to have him here again and enjoyed his sermons. Mr. Brown spoke at a meeting of the W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon. The music for the day was well rendered and Mrs. M. McCarty, of Toronto, sang. Mr. Brown paid a glowing tribute to the war memorial as a fitting record of sacrifice, and made the wish that all could say as a dying soldier, "Life is not to be measured by length of days; I have no fears, I have no regrets."

Rev. James Grier, B.A., returned from his holidays during the past week and preached two excellent sermons on Sunday in St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. G. C. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, preached at both services on Sunday. At the morning service a fitting memorial service was held in memory of the young lads who lost their lives in the Balsam Lake tragedy. Silence was observed and the "Dead March" was played by the organist.

Church Picnic.

The Christ Church congregational and Sunday School picnic was held at Crow River Bridge on Friday afternoon. There was a nice crowd present and the weather was ideal for picnic-goers. The usual races, games and ball games created a lot of fun for all, and supper time was one of the main attractions of the day.

L.T.B. Excursion.

The True Blue Lodge held its annual excursion to Frankford on Monday, the boat leaving at 8.30 a.m., and returning at 8 o'clock at night. The day was cloudy, but that did not prevent a large crowd enjoying the trip.

On Sunday afternoon, as is always their custom each year, the members of the lodge marched to the cemetery and decorated the graves of members of the lodge with sprays of flowers.

WEDDING BELLS.

MAITLAND—LOCKE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4.—A quiet wedding took place on Saturday morning, July 31st, at ten o'clock when Bessie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Locke, English line, became the wife of Mr. Hugh Maitland, of Smithfield. Rev. C. D. Daniel performed the ceremony at the parsonage on Rear street.

The bride was attired in a pretty dress of rose Canton crepe and her sister, Miss Ada Locke, of Toronto, was bridesmaid. Mr. Henry Locke supported the groom.

After a wedding dinner at the home of the bride, the young couple left by motor for Belleville where they will take a boat trip to Rochester and points East.

The bride travelled in a tweed costume and sports felt hat. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm at Smithfield.

The bride has many friends in Campbellford where she has always resided and was on the staff of the Public School.

GRANDY—CONNELL.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, July 28, at First United Church parsonage, Lindsay, when Marjorie Esther, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connell was united in marriage to Orril W. Grandy, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grandy, by the Rev. T. E. Holling.

The bride was prettily attired in an ensemble costume of navy crepe romaine, with hat to match and a cinnamon fox fur, the gift of the groom. She wore a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple left for Toronto, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Manvers.

Dwarfs are very numerous in certain parts of Hungary and are in great demand in mid-Europe for the stage.

JURY ADDS RECOMMENDATION

Where was he seated?

I don't remember but I think he was in the bow seat.

You are not sure?

No.

A near as you can remember how many paddled?

A minimum of nine.

What were their positions?

I have a mental picture of them kneeling but cannot say where each man was.

On your way across how much open water did you have to pass?

About one mile.

How many started out for Coboconk that evening.

I think it was a party of eight, eventually.

Who was in command?

Edward Lant.

When you say eventually do you mean there was a discussion?

I don't think there was a discussion but Ed. Lant returned and requested four or five to leave the canoe as their actions did not satisfy him.

How far did they get from shore before that happened?

About half a mile I think.

What do you know regarding the organization of the party that set out on the Tuesday night?

Trip Was Necessary.

The first definite news was before supper, about 6 o'clock I think. Mr. Butcher stated that the supplies had not arrived. The matter was discussed at some length as it interfered with the camp sports. It was necessary that the trio should be made. About 14 or 15 of the boys volunteerd to go. I was busy at the moment in the headquarters tent and proceeded down to the boat at the last moment and took my place.

What supplies were you going after?

I was not sure but Mr. Butcher showed me a list that afternoon pointing out that a local grocer had refused to fill it. Though the order amounted to $75 it was refused without reasons.

I have heard you were going after smaller canoes?

There's something in that but we should not have gone then but for the necessity of getting the foodstuffs.

What was the basis of selection of the crew?

Mr. Butcher gave some consideration to having capable canocists.

Of the 15 who did go how many had previous war canoe experience?

I can't say if any of those boys who went had previous war canoe experience.

Have you had any previous experience?

Yes. In a 20-foot canoe during the two previous years and also in ordinary canoes.

How many thwarts where there in the canoe?

Six, I think, with two or three single thwarts.

Had Mr. Butcher any previous experience?

I have seen him only in 20-foot canoes.

What was the average age of the boys?

From 14 to 21, myself 30, and Mr. Butcher perhaps 33.

Could all the boys swim?

They could all swim more or less.

Who took the bow seat?

Shea-Butcher.

How were they seated?

I think they were kneeling.

You had the rear seat?

Yes.

If there were six thwarts you could only account for 12.

I'm quite sure every man had a seat and a paddle.

Were all paddling?

I'm quite sure they were all paddling.

That would mean seven on one side and eight on the other?

That is right.

Did you experience any difficulty in the uneven number of paddlers?

No.

Would it affect the stability of the canoe?

Weight Was Checked.

I suppose it would but the question of weight was checked before leaving the wharf.

It would appear as if one man was paddling without a thwart.

If I knew definitely the number of thwarts I could say better.

Were you sitting on the rear thwart or on the rear deck of the canoe?

I was in front of the rear thwart.

Was there any pads in the canoe for your knees?

None.

From experience in canoeing isn't something needed for your knees.

A pad.

How long had you been out when the accident happened?

What distance?

About a mile.

Asked to tell the story of the trip Mr. Lambden continued his story: "We set out on the lee shore" he said, "Long Point, where the camp is, is a neck of land that protected our camp from the winds," he explained. There was no wind, the water was not placid but we would call it calm. "We went about a mile and in the narrows between Long Point and Grand Island. When we got into the channel which is about three quarters of a mile across, we passed from the lee shore. The canoe was struck by a sudden squall, which brought waves on the right side of the canoe. It came from Rosedale way.

Mr. Anderson: You said a squall hit your boat.

Witness: Yes sir.

Did the wind give you no warning?

No. It gave no warning. The boat tipped to the left, took water and went over.

As you journeyed out was there any increase in the wind?

The first time I was aware of the wave was when the boat upset.

Would it be fair to say you were concerned about your course?

Yes.

Did any of the boys miss a stroke?

There was no definite mention but probably some boy missed a stroke but nothing happened. I'm quite convinced that the direct cause of the accident was the squall.

When the canoe tipped what happened?

The boys who could grabbed the boat—it was bottom up.

It had seven boys on the one side and eight on the other.

Having upset were there any commands given?

Consulted With Butcher.

Mr. Butcher's first directions were to grasp the boat with one hand—keep the other hand free and to keep the boat pointing in the direction of Long Point. I went down to where Butcher was to consult with him. We then continued with one hand on the gunwale and one hand swimming for 15 or 20 minutes.

Was there any command to shake off clothing?

Yes. Mr. Butcher said: "All boys must remove their clothing at once In compliance with that request you did?

Yes.

You attempted to force the canoe towards Long Point?

Yes.

At what angle?

About 75 degrees into the wind.

Did you realize the gravity of the situation?

I did. Mr. Butcher did but some of the boys may have not have realized it.

To what extent did you yell and call for help?

Under Mr. Butcher's orders we got together with considerable volume resulting. Were any of the boys suffering from a disability that kept them from swimming?

Shea-Butcher was quite incapacitated as he had a bad knee.

You changed your tactics after a while?

Yes. The boys became aware that the situation was more critical than they thought at first. I saw we could not make the shore against the wind.

What made you change your tactics?

Mardall Went First.

The water was sapping our strength and also the tragedy had begun. The first boy, Oliver Mardall, was getting into difficulties and about 15 or 20 minutes later he dropped off. He dropped off a second time and I pushed him up. A few minutes after I was talking to Butcher and Mardall went the third time.

He went quickly and the effect was depressing. The next one to go, he continued, was Shea-Butcher. I had considerable conversation with Mr. Butcher. He was distressed and told me that he himself was quite useless. He did not fall off—he did not skin—he just left the canoe to give a place to the others.

You then assumed command?

Yes. Up to that time the boys did not need much help. I kept going around the boat. Commands were very necessary as the boys were anxious to experiment with the canoe. They tried it with the gunwale up but it floated 12 or 13 inches under the water. They then tried it bottom up. I was anxious to see them try but they got to turning one time and it kept turning over and over and until they could not stop it.

The wind was driving you from Grand Island?

Yes.

When did it change?

I can't say. It was during the night.

George Waller and I linked arms and within a very short time we struck the shore.

Was there anything like life preservers in the boat?

None whatever.

Was there ample space for them?

Yes.

Life Preservers of Value.

Would they have been of vital service?

Absolutely.

Have you been schooled how to conduct yourself in water?

I have had no training whatever on group action. I have been three years at small camps, and three years in large camps.

Out of the 15 who started, 11 dropped off?

Yes sir.

You found one paddle which enabled you to strike the island?

Yes sir.

Having been through that experience and having in mind that other camps will be held have you any suggestions to offer on the subject?

Boys should first be tested in ordinary canoes. A good provision would be to practice the best methods of holding on to canoes. He had since come to the conclusion that grasping elbows was a good way.

Is there any reason why, when undertaking a cruise, life preservers should not be considered?

It would be of great assistance.

Do you know any camps who use them?

I do not.

Fred Jopling.

Fred Jopling of Peterboroug said that he first knew the canoe about ten years ago. At that time he was captain of the war canoe team at Chemong Park and had participated in a regatta with the boat.

"Give us the benefit of your experience," said Mr. Anderson.

"The canoe was not a safe boat for a cruise like that" said Mr. Jopling.

"My crew upset at Chemong and they were all experienced paddlers. The canoe was deep, the seats one inch from the gunwale, the floor was raised about six inches, making it top heavy. In order to accommodate fifteen men one had to sit on the stern.

C. H. Rogers.

C. H. Rogers, vice president of the Peterborough Canoe Company, stated that his company had manufactured the boat in July, 1914.

For what purpose?

For racing. There were several war canoes racing at regattas then.

It was not exactly a racing canoe, continued Mr. Rogers, it was between the racing model and the club canoe—it was a little faster boat than the club model. It was built to order.

What have you to say regarding an inexperienced crew using that boat?

I don't think that canoe was being used for the purpose for which it was intended. The proper way to handle the boat was to kneel on the bottom with the body braced against the gunwale. The number of thwarts had nothing to do with the number of the crew.

Having in mind the accident at Balsam Lake what suggestions would you make?

I don't think keeping boys out of the water will do any good. He would not recommend the canoe for cruising purposes. The word canoe was a broad term, he said. The Hudson Bay Company use canoes that will carry five tons of freight and will stand rougher water than a launch of the same size. In conclusion Mr. Rogers said that a canoe was just as safe as the operator.

J. E. Patte.

Mr. Patte stated that the boys came on Friday, the 16th, to paint the boat. There were five of them and two more joined them on the Saturday. The canoe was kept at his summer residence at Chemong. How long was it since it had been used, asked Mr. Anderson.

It had not been used for eigth years. The canoe was used considerable when it was down at the yachtclub. I removed it to my garage as I thought it was being destroyed.

Did you ever paddle it?

One or twice but I'm no expert. I was convinced that the canoe was absolutely safe or those boys would not have had it.

When they felt my place the boat was properly balanced—they left in perfect shape.

What would you say about its use for cruising purposes?

I thought it safe.

Was it in first class condition?

Only for an accident my own boy would have been on that cruise.

Arthur Scott

Mr. Scott, Commodore of the Parkdale Canoe Club, stated that he had had several years' knowledge of war canoes. The boys should be taught to swim and to respect water and how to handle thmselves in cases of emergency, he said. The boat should be quite safe, providing it was not overloaded, and that there were a few experienced men in it. The club canoe, apart from racing, would answer all the purposes at a camp. Any vehicle, he said, was just as safe as the man who operated it and he was of the opinion that a cruising canoe would stand almost any kind of weather.

Regarding life-saving devices, Mr. Scott said that there should be compudsory training of the men in charge—they should be water men as well as leaders. If a crew while in a war canoe keep their hips against the side of the boat it is practically safe, he declared. As far as life preservers went, he did not think them essential. No objection could be taken to life preservers in the form of a cushion as they could also be used for a pad for the knee to lean on. Before a boy would be let in the canoe, he continued, the instructors should assure themselves that he could swim.

In view of the age of the boys, do you think it was advisable to go out on Balsam Lake at that time of the night? asked Mr. Anderson.

In think it was inadvisable at that time of the day.

Do you think it was fair to let them out on water of this kind?

I don't think so.

Harry McKee

Mr. McKee, Vice Commodore of the Parkdale Canoe Club, stated that he had heard the evidence of Commodore Scott. He had coached crews, he said. It was his duty to see that the men were properly trained. He examined the crews for flaws and explained their errors to them. "After several weeks of training, if they are fit for a racing boat we insist that they swim," he declared.

With regard to summer camps, what have you to say regarding war canoes? asked Mr. Anderson.

It depends upon two or three things; the first of which was as to whether the canoe was suitable—a racing canoe has no place at any camp, he said. The club cruiser was the ideal boat in his opinion. He would strongly urge that the boys be taught to swim and that the men in charge get in touch with the canoe clubs and get the benefit of their experience on how to weight craft and to place men.

In conclusion, Mr. McKee stated that he would like it to be understood that he was in no way criticizing the event that had happened.

Clayton Telford

Mr. Telford said that he had paddled in the boat when Mr. Jopling was captain of the crew. At Chemong a launch crossed in front of the canoe and she took in water, he said. After the race the boat tipped as they neared the shore. In his opinion the boat was not as good as the Y.M.C.A. boat or St. Paul's, as it did not seem as steady. What was your opinion of the boat? asked Mr. Anderson.

I vowed I would never paddle in it again, replied the witness.

James Grant

Mr. Grant said that he was at the regatta the year the boat swamped, but he had never been in it. In his opinion it was a ticklish craft and the sort he would want to keep out of, he said. On Saturday morning the boys passed his launch and he spoke to them, warning them, although they seemed to be alright.

Earl Chapman

Mr. Chapman, physical director of the Kagawong Camp, stated that he had been at Balsam Lake for 17 years.

What do you know about the waters of Balsam Lake as being a safe place for a boys' camp?

I first came to Balsam Lake on the recomemndation as being a lake adequately suitable for boys' camps, he said. It was well broken up by Grand Island. Nine or ten of the boys passed his camp on the Monday.

What was your opinion of the boat?

A racing boat should never have been used for that purpose. You must have a canoe that is capable of standing up to the worst that can happen.

Did you speak to the boys as they passed?

We hailed them in friendly terms and invited them in, but not to warn them.

"Had I seen that boat before the accident I would have, in the strongest possible terms, condemned its use for that purpose," declared Mr. Chapman. The boat was not suitable for the purpose as it was a cardinal principal of the water that a boat should be able to support its load though upset. He had refused donations of war canoes on various occasions, as in his opinion they had no place in the training of young boys. He would make it a criminal offence to take out or sell a boat not built for the purpose for which it was used.

Edward Lant

Mr. Lant said that he was one of the crew that brought the canoe from Chemong. Shea-Butcher was in charge—he was in the bow while he (Lant) was in the stern. They were experienced paddlers. He was with the crew that went to Kirkfield and Coboconk on Monday, but he was not in the crew that started out Tuesday night. He was asked to go but said he was too tired. All except two of the crew who brought the boat from Chemong stayed ashore, he said.

Some of them had never been in the canoe before? asked Mr. Anderson.

No.

What was the basis of selection?

I heard Mr. Butcher call out: "Any volunteers for Coboconk."

They put the experts at the back.

Did you turn some of the crew out the night before?

I did, and two of them did not offer to go out on Tuesday night, because I had spoken to them the night before. They were all fairly good swimmers.

Was there any feeling that the journey was unsafe?

No, sir. Later they saw that the boat was not hitting for the right place.

George Waller

Mr. Waller, one of the survivors, said that he asked if he could go on the trip and that he was told "to come along." Nine out of the fifteen, he said, were inexperienced paddlers, himself included. His position in the boat was in front of the third thwart on the left side.

What position were you in?

We were all kneeling.

Had you any trouble?

None. The position gradually began to tell on them.

Had you a pad?

Yes. I used my sweater.

There was a tendency not to keep stroke, continued Mr. Waller, but Shea-Butcher cautioned them and from that time everything was o.k. At the time the canoe tipped he had his paddle still in the water taking a stroke when the canoe came over and the fellow on the other side came on top of him. A big wave hit the boat. They had been about 10 minutes in fairly rough water.

Did anyone suggest turning back?

No.

William Wiginton

Mr. Wigington, another survivor, who lost a brother in the disaster, said that he had had experience in an ordinary canoe but not in a war canoe. He had heard Waller's evidence and agreed with it.

L. O'Hara

Mr. O'Hara, the fourth survivor, stated that in his opinion the wind and waves caused the accident. He had heard the evidence of the previous witnesses and agreed with what they said.

S. J. Manley

Mr. Manley, secretary treasurer of the camp, stated that he was one of the crew that brought the boat from Chemong.

How was the crew selected?

It was a volunteer crew with no consideration as to qualifications. The general feeling toward the craft was that it was safe.

Arthur Bacon

Mr. Bacon of Peterborough said that he was one of the campers. He had been one of the crew that brought the boat from Chemong but had stayed on shore the night they left for Coboconk.

He volunteerd the statement that Shea-Butcher arrived in the camp from Kirkfield, he said, "How did you like the way those boys paddled?" "I had been watching them through field glasses," continued Mr. Bacon, "and I told Mr. Butcher they looked like professionals. In conclusion, Mr. Bacon declared, "If Shea Butcher had had any apprehensions of danger he would not have started out."

This concluded the evidence.

Blue-jay will enable you to wear the loveliest, most extreme shoe styles without fear of corns

"A dangerous practice—home corn-paring," warns the chiropodist

"Lots of men think because they can use a razor on their face, they are qualified to pare their own corns," is the observation of Dr. Philip G. Ziegler, a well-known chiropodist of New York City.

"Did they realize how dangerous a practice corn-paring at home really is, they would never attempt it, but instead go to the chiropodist for treatment."

Should you want to end a corn safely at home — just apply a Blue-jay corn plaster. For 26 years, Blue-jay has been recognized as the safe and scientific way of removing corns at home.

A soft, cool pad fits over the corn, relieving the pressure and pain at once. In 48 hours, the corn vanishes—unless unusually stubborn. Then another Blue-jay plaster is all that's required to rout the old offender. At all drug stores.

POLICY ON DEBT IS DEFENDED BY CHAMBERLAIN

Britain Prepared To Wipe Slate Clean Among Allied Powers.

WON'T ASK LENIENCY.

Will Try To Collect Sums Equal To Those Being Paid.

LONDON, August 4.—(Canadian Press).— Parliament adjourned today, until November 9, unless continuation of the coal strike compels an earlier meeting

An effort by Laborites to have the House re-assembled on August 17, because of the coal strike convoted down. Sir Austin Chamberlain said "coal industry must settle the dispute itself.

"You must not ask us to say and other people must not ask us to say, that we believed this was the best solution that might be arrived at in interests of the world at large. We on our part were not only debtors to the United States but large creditors of other large powers." Sir Austen said. "Sums owing to us far exceeded the sums due from us and we would have been prepared to wipe the slate clean of all these obligations among the Allied and Associated powers.

"That solution did not commend itself. We have since then adopted as our policy that from our debtors we will ask only so much as will meet the payments which we have to meet ourselves. Actually the sums we are receiving, or we may be likely to receive, will not amount to sums we have to pay.

"Be that as it may, No British Government would think it becoming the dignity of this country or compatible with our honor to go in hands whining to those to whom we have undertaken obligations, to be excused."

LADY BOWLERS HOLD TOURNEY

First Annual Open Event of Kind in Eastern Ontario.

SOME CLOSE GAMES.

Under ideal weather conditions the first ladies bowling tournament in Eastern Ontario commenced in the grounds of the Peterborough Bowling Club at the corner of Aylmer and Brock Streets, this morning. Acting Mayor Nagle E. Phelan extended an official welcome from the city to the visitors and Alderman Roland Denne, chairman of the Reception Committee, offered a challenge cup for annual competition among the various ladies clubs.

Mrs. J. N. Bacon, president of the Peterborough Ladies Bowling Club, also extended the greeting of the members to the visitors.

The games already played at the time of going to press were of a high class variety, some splendid shots being witnessed. Perhaps, the feature shot of the day occurred in the Campbellford-Peterboro game when playing an extra end to decide the winner. Mrs. Charles Perry made a phenomenal shot which earned a victory for the Peterboro team.

The game are decided on the plus system which has the advantage of making each team play every other team. Consequently the winners are not decided until the last game is played to-night, the rink then having the greatest number of points being declared winners.

The first draw resulted as follows::

Mrs. Allan, Peterborough 12 vs. Mrs. Hindle, Tweed 14.

Mrs. Thompson, Warkworth 7 vs. Mrs. Seymour, Peterborough 13.

Mrs. Fox, Peterobrough 2 vs. Mrs French, Peterborough 19.

Mrs. Bacon, Peterbrough 12 vs. Mrs. Glover, Campbellford 11.

The personnel of the various rinks is as follows: :

Tweed—Mrs. Hindle, Mrs. Donnelly, Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Morrison.

Warkworth—Mrs. Thompson, Mrs Smale, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Twiddy.

Campbellford—Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Wiggins, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Sinclair.

Peterborough —Mrs. Bacon, Mrs Perry, Mrs. Curvin and Mrs. Lambden.

Peterborough—Mrs. French, Mrs. Chenhall, Mrs. Greenslade and Mrs Yeates.

Peterbrough— Mrs. Allan, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Miller.

Peterborough— Mrs Fox, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Tillcock and Mrs. DeLong.

Peterborough — Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Bredin and Miss Sedgewick

INFAMOUS FOR STATES TO ASK EUROPE TO PAY

F. W. Peabody Says They Are Paying For American Security.

ANSWERS MELLON.

Says Letter From Treasury Was Published Before He Got It.

ASHBURNHAM, Mass., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press). — Frederick W. Peabody of this town to-day, declared that the text of a letter written to him by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon was made public by the treasury department before it reached him. The letter contained remarks of Mellon on Britain's borrowing in the United States which had brought caustic retorts from Winston Churchill, the British Chancellor.

Mellon at Rome, today, said that the letter had been published by Peabody.

Concerning Mellon's statement to day, that the matter was closed, Peabody declares the debt question on the contrary is just openirg and that he is assisting in the formation of a national organization to carry the facts to the public.

"I regard it as almost infamous for us to require the European nations, after the sacrifice they have undergone, to pay for the security of the United States," Peabody stated.

ple in Buffalo, and that about three weeks ago Charles Henry, her husband, "grabbed" another of the family, a little girl about a year old. He took the child from a baby carriage, Bryson said, while Bryson's sister was wheeling it.

Mrs. Henry was formerly Miss May Newman of Peterborough, an adopted daughter of Mr. Weir, a coal merchant, who died some years ago. A court action for custody of the youngest child is now proceeding in Buffalo, having been adjourned from Monday last for a week.

During the proceedings at the police station the little girl, Muriel, was playing around in a gleeful manner, apparently unconscious of the drama of which she is the centre.

It is believed Charles Henry has been sent for ,and police proceedings will awati his arrival. The stained window broken in the fracas this morning is valued at $17, Mr. Kelly said.

RELIGIOUS LAWS MARK LIBERTY

People Freed From Those Who Transgress Law Says Government.

NO NEGOTIATIONS.

MEXICO CITY, August 4. — (Canadian Press). — The Department of Interior to-day denied that Secretary Tojeda and Bishop Diaz, Secretaary of the Roman Catholic Episcopate, conferred for a settlement of the religious question. The Government was forced to issue the religious regulations, the department continues, because the Roman Catholic clergy refused to obey the constitution. The day when the regulations were effective marked the people's liberty from those who in the name of divinity conspire and transgress the law constantly in order to reach more power and richness.

The Department's statement goes on: "The rebellious clergy has received a hard lesson. The Mexican people have given an imposing denial of a desire to destroy the laws and overthrow the constitution. The clergy is making use of the weapons it has always employed to seek support it will not obtain."

LUMBER INDUSTRY ASKS ASSISTANCE

Spokesman Tells Royal Commission What Business Requires.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press). — Lower freight rates and reciprocity with the United States in wood products were two remedies advanced today by Angus McLean, general manager of the Bathurst Lumber Co., before the Royal Commission investigating the ills of the Maritime Provinces, in solution of the problems facing the lumbering industry of New Brunswick. He submitted figures to show that lumbering was New Brunswick's industry and that it was responsible for the origin of more railway traffic than any single business in the Maritmes.

When a Canoe is Swamped.

The following letter, written by an expert in the handling of canoes is sent to the Examiner by E. F. Lawrence, of Peterborough:

Sir.— I feel I can safely say that every parent who has either a boy or a girl at a summer camp would like to know what steps the Provincial Governments, and if necessary, the Federal Government, propose taking in connection with not only investigating the terrible Balsam Lake tragedy, but also toward inaugurating a very severe course of training and licensing of the physical or sport directors of the many boys' and girls' camps in this country. These camps are a god-send to Canada's young boys and girls and have become a regular institution. The parents, I think, would like to know how this increasing institution is going to be controlled. There should not be a boy or girl in Canada who is not absolutely at home in a canoe and thoroughly familiar with its operation, knowing what can and what cannot be expected of it.

When we think that the canoe was the principal instrument in the exploring, civilizing and developing of this country, and that almost impassable waterways have been navigated by these frail craft aren't we impressed with the fact that if well trained, licensed supervisors were in these camps, that it would not only protect the lives of the children placed in their care, but it would also give to these children the necessary education. I, of course, do not know what examination these camp sport directors are subjected to, but, from the reports in the press as to exacty how this Balsam Lake tragedy happened, one is impressed with the fact that a thorough knowledge of the handling of a canoe was lacking. I assume that when the expedition started out, the lake must have been comparatively smooth, otherwise the trip would not have been undertaken particularly as late as 7 or 7.30 p.m.

Assuming that this be the case, the question arises as to what orders were issued to the crew when the squall was seen coming across the water. Any canoe expert knows that if the crew sit on the seats, it does not take much to upset the craft, for the reason that the centre of gravity is exceeding high. The obvious instruction, therefore, if a squall was coming across the water, was to instruct the crew to sit on the floor thereby lowering centre of gravity, and completely changing the seaworthiness of the craft. The next thing to do is to turn the canoe in sluch a way as to take the blast of storm either on the bow or the stern, which ever seems to be most desirable. This decision is arrived at after taking into consideration all matters such as distance from shore, the probable velocity of the squall, the size of the waves, etc. In a sitting position on the floor sufficient paddling power can be exercised to more than give the craft steerage way.

If these instructions had not been issued and the canoe was upset, the question is what should be done and what instructions to the crew would then be issued. From the reports. one gathers that all but one of the paddles were lost and that seven boys were ordered to hold on to each side and try while in the water to paddle toward shore with their free hand. This is an impossible accomplishment, for the reason that a slight current or breeze would frustrate or overcome any such effort.

The first thing to do after the canoe is swamped would be to instruct the occupants to wedge in their paddles under the floor boards so that they would be available when necessary. The next thing to be done, as any canoe man knows, instead of lining up on each side and waiting until physical exhaustion sets in is to first turn the canoe head on into the wind and waves, all congregate toward the stern, depress it probably a foot or more below the surface of the water, thereby raising the bow, propelling it forward by quick outward action of the arms, and then letting it rise up to the surface. In this way, the water rushes toward the stern, and if this is done three or four times, the canoe will be relieved of probably thirty per cent of its water contents. The gunwale then is some several inches above the lake level.

The next thing to do is to turn the canoe at right angles to the wind and waves, having all the crew on lee side. At a given signal the lee side of the canoe is depressed sharply and the same action is now used on the sides and the canoe is still further relieved of its water contents. This done two or three times will remove another 20 per cent of the water. The canoe should then be turned head into the waves and one or two or the members of the crew crawl in over the gunwale toward the stern and start to bail water out with their hands hats, paddles, or any other available instrument. Then, as the water is removed, additional members of the crew can crawl on board, those who are in it can at least use their paddles to advantage and the rest of the members hold on to the side, their position being changed periodically by the ones in the water taking the place of the ones on board But, unless a very heavy sea is running, it is obviously possible for the whole crew to be gradually taken on board, and have them continue their trip.

I have given above an illustration of a general procedure that should take place under conditions of this kind. There may be other ideas and systems equally as good, but I cannot see from any reports where the directors were thoroughly trained in the art of canoe navigation. No fault is attributed to any of the brave lads who were lost, every one of them sinking below the surface as heroes; but, the fault lies at the door of the institutions—governmental or otherwise—who are supposed to be responsible and control the organization of these establishments. Steps, therefore, should be taken at once, principally, in my opinion to the extent of forcing proper regulations, instructions and licensing in the operating of these camps.

"The Country Is Going to the Dogs," Says Laborite In Opposing Motion By Government to Adjourn

LONDON, Aug. 4 (United Press).—A Laborite effort to prevent adjournment of Parliament until November 9th failed by a vote of 173 to 49, after Joseph Batey, a Labor member, had moved to amend the adjournment motion, saying that "The country was going to the dogs."

"The country to-day is in worse shape than it was last year, and is far worse than when the present government took office two years ago," Batey said. "This government has smashed the industrial machine and plunged the working classes into the deepest poverty."

Batey proposed that in view of the coal crisis the Parliament should adjourn only until August 17th.

ELEVATOR PRICE SET.

Saskatchewan Pool To Pay Over Eleven Millions For Co-operative Properties.

REGINA, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press). — The total amount to be paid for the elevator system of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, Limited, by the Saskatchewan Pool Elevators Limited is $11,059,310, by a decision of a board of arbitration. The acquisition of this system effected yesterday makes the Saskatchewan wheat pool the largest organization of its kind in the world.

Chic Simplicity Achieved in Taffeta

The supremacy of taffeta is again acknowledged in this quaint and feminine little frock, which uses a demure collar of eyelet embroidery to lend a softening touch. The accepted silhouette for the taffeta dress is here seen in the tight bodice fastening in the centre front, and the full, bouffant skirt, shirred several times before being joined to the bodice. The shoulders are of the kimono type and lend themselves admirably to the new vogue for sleeveless frocks. The pattern provides long sleeves if desired, as pictured in the small back view, and they are gathered into narrow wrist-bands. NO. 1361 is for the miss and little woman and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3 yards 36-inch taffeta; long sleeves ⅛ yard additional; collar ⅛ yard contrasting; ribbon for belt 2½ yards one inch wide. Price 20 cents

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HER OWN WAY by a Girl of Today

JUDY IS STILL NERVOUS

"Where is this paragon?" asked Jerry impatiently as we stood beside the little chummy roadster that he had driven up to the curb.

"Don't be nasty, Jerry. Joan isn't a paragon, whatever that means. She is just a girl like myself, and I'm not sure that I'm not doing the wrong thing by introducing her to you. I've a hunch you are going to fall in love with her."

"Don't be silly," said Jerry in a hurt voice. "Where will we pick up Miss Meredith?"

"At the Good Samaritan Hospital. She went out there with the wife of Barry Cornwall, who was found dead in that gambling place this morning."

"So that is the reason you two girls went over to The Circle, is it? Jem Smith intimated that you had been coming there for weeks. Did he speak the truth?"

"I've never been there before in my life, Jerry." While I, of course, resented his question, I told him that Smith had lied and I had never been to the dance house before this morning. I didn't think it was necessary to tell him that Joan had been going there for some months.

"We went to find out where Lela Cornwall lived. Joan wanted to help her if she could," I explained.

"That was very kind of Miss Meredith. Probably the poor girl has not a friend on earth. But, Judy, you should have insisted that I or some man friend of Miss Meredith should have gone with you. We would have probably busted Smith's head for him."

"And got us into mess, Jerry? It was best that we went alone."

"For some reason, Judy, both you girls have made an enemy of Smith. I'll advise you to keep out of his reach for a while."

On the way to the hospital I told Jerry a little about the trouble that Joan had more or less innocently gotten herself into. He looked much concerned and said:

"That's the reason why Jem Smith looked so surly when I asked him about you. You seem to get into more trouble, Judy, than anyone I have ever known. Adventure has just marked you for its prey. What is your next move, my dear? What are you going to do now?"

"I don't know, Jerry. You see, I haven't yet gotten used to the feeling that I am not to be executed within an hour after all."

"Surely, Judy, you weren't concerned in that mess, were you? You never knew Barry Cornwall?"

"I never knew Barry Cornwall, but I guess I am in the mess anyway. I was going to help Joan out in some way before he died, and I am going to desert her now."

"Well, she is out of it, isn't she? It is a good thing for everyone that the young man is dead," remarked Jerry

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

LOUISE LA VALLIERE AND LOUIS QUATORZE.

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

"Bid me die or love me! I cannot hide my misery, and the curiosity of my friends drives me mad. I implore you in the name of God to relent or dismiss me forever."

Thus did the powerful King Louis of France address a maid-in-waiting to a court lady. A maid, not beautiful—she was of rather plain features and lame in one foot—yet so charming and clever as to draw to her the love of a king in competition with the fairest and most unscrupulous women of was courted by celebrated beauties who literally threw themselves in his way but it was Louise de La Valiere, the little unknown waiting maid, whom he loved and for whom he scorned the most influential noblewomen of his court.

Louis' love for La Valliere was most intense. She was his mistress and favorite for many years and bore him three children. So deeply did he love her that when on one occasion they quarrelled, he became seriously ill and did not recover until Louise came to his bedside.

These two letters were written when Louis had to make a trip to Fontainbleau and Louise could not accompany him because of an injury she had sustained in an accident.

From Louise:

"Mon dieu! How inconvenient I find it to love so charming a Prince. I have not a moment's rest from the thousand things that overflow my heart. In truth, I often wish you ill for being so amiable. Pity then thr heart which you have made miserable. Excuse me for all the trouble I give you in eturn for your love. I am absent sad, importunate and, I may add, jealous." Louis' reply:

"My heart has reduced me, my child, to a sad and pitiable state of mind; I ask you to share my chagrin and to grant me your pity for the ills which your absence inflicts upon me—evils which all the pleasure promised by my Court cannot soften, and which persuade me that you suffer all that which a person who loves can suffer."

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 4 1926

(Copyright, 1926, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is a day of seesaw luck, according to astrology, which finds both benefic and adverse aspects strong.

It is a fortunate rule for women which should make their plans with exact care while this rule prevails.

New leaders among women are to conduct national campaigns of far-reaching importance, it is foretold.

While feminine sway will be definite in politics as well as in philanthropic movements, there is to be stubborn resistance to reform campaigns, the seers prophesy.

This is read as a happy wedding day in which there is augury of few quarrels and general prosperity.

Theaters and places of amusement again are well-directed by the stars. Important new plays will be produced and the trend will be toward the classic.

Engineers and all who have charge of important constructive contracts should push work, while this planetary government continues.

Saturn and Uranus both frown today, which may be unfavorable to labor and may encourage new industrial problems.

Wrong slants on private as well as public problems may distort the judgment while this configuration prevails.

Increase in the number of surgical operations may be noted at this period, owing to the aspect of Jupiter afflicted by Saturn and Neptune.

Again warning is given that there may be numerous fevers and contagious diseases prevalent in the early autumn.

India, Argentine and Japan now come under a planetary government, which should be favorable.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have a year fortunate for speculation, journeys and risks of various sorts.

Children born on this day have the augury of much happiness in life. These subjects of Leo often have a tendency to trust to luck and their faith is seldom betrayed.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The carnelian is the atlismanic gem for today. Especially recommended is it to those who are timorous of speech It is believed to benefit singers and public speakers by giving them perfec control of their voices.

Today's natal stone, the carneliar, is also a health stone, since its reddish hue suggests bodily vigor. It also promises a domestic felicity, and worn by a woman will bring her love and a home that is a paradise.

Green is today's color. It signifies the emerging of its wearer from despair to joyousness.

The yellow elyssium is today's flower. It brings happiness and freedom from useless worries.

ANKLE COMPETITION PASSES

At the annual Hounslow Hospital fete in London a feature for years has been the dainty ankle competition, but it was eliminated this year. A. J. Luto, chairman of the demonstration committee, has announced that due to the vigorous outdoor sports indulged in by women and the new era wherein women work and walk in competition with men, the dainty ankle is passing. In fact, he said it already had passed, generally speaking.

BARBARA.

Barbara, meaning stranger, has a strongly Roman Catholic significance and, in that church, is representative of artistic devotion. The original Barbara was said to be a maiden of Heliopolis, who became a Christian, and insisted upon having three windows in her chamber instead of one in honor of the creed. Her Grecian father beheaded her with his own hands and was straight-way destroyed with thunder and lightning. St. Barbara became the patroness of sacred architecture and a protectress from thunder and its imitation—artillery. For this latter reason her name was very frequent among daughters of soldiers.

Indeed Barbara is regarded by some countires as a protectress of soldiers, and while her name is all-gentle and filled with piety, it ranks with the good old warrior names that stir the blood of men of many races to battle. England named a village St. Barbe and it seemed that nearly every family in that quaintly pretty community had a Barbara at some time or other in honor of the home town. In this way, use of the name spread throughout England.

The Greeks passed it on by a different route. The legend of the maiden turned Christian was naturally not specially popular. But the name of Barbara was the feminine for the Greek word for stranger, a term applied to all who did not speak their language. Curiously enough, their combination of syllables, indicative of complete and impatient non-understanding, closely resembled our own careless slang expression "blah-blah," which we employ today to express our opinion of what we consider complete twaddle. It is an interesting fact that the adjective "barbarous" thus meant ignorant, at first, and only assumed its significance of wild cruelty, as a later and corrupted translation.

Barbara's jewel is the pearl, so indicative of maidenhood. It promises her purity, popularity, and gentle charm. To dream of it means faithful friends. Monday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

ONCE UPON A TIME THE GIANTS AND THE HERD-BOY—IX

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

SIX RUNS IN SIXTH GIVES STARS THE LEAD

GIANTS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH THE CUBS

Catcher For New York Overcome By Heat in First.

PHILLIES LOST.

Cooney For Chicago Crashes Homer With Two on in Second.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh's Corsairs massacred the Phillies at Philadelphia yesterday, 14 to 2. The champions included eight two-baggers and three home runs in their total of 22 hits, one of the homers being Wright's eighth this season. Bush was touched for only five hits. Both the locals' runs were homers.

At New York, the Giants split a double bill with the Chicago Cubs, winning 5 to 4 and losing 5 to 3. Catcher Paul Florence of the Giants was overcome by heat in the first game. Cooney won the second for Chicago by crashing a homer with two on the bags. Snyder caught his first game for the Giants since he broke a wrist in a fight with Coach Onslow of Pittsburgh early in June.

Cincinnati combatting the jinx which lost the Reds six straight games to the Braves this season, retrieved Cincinnati's fortune in the bean town yesterday by capturing a double header, 1 to 0, and 3 to 2. Mays held the Braves throughout the first session.

Moore, Braves' catcher, injured a leg muscle in the second game and was replaced by Gautreau.

These were all the games scheduled for the National League yesterday.

TORONTO LEAFS FALL VICTIMS TO SYRACUSE

Miller Pitching For Syracuse Holds Tight Rein on Leafs.

CAPTURE LAURELS.

Skeeters Take Nine Runs Off Reading at Jersey City.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).— Scoring six runs in the sixth inning, Syracuse defeated the Maple Leafs at Toronto yesterday, 6-4. Miller was effective for Syracuse while Hubbell pitched good ball save for the one bad inning.

The Baltimore Orioles were at Newark yesterday and brought away the laurels, 6-3. The Bears made eleven hits off Ogden whereas the Orioles could do no better than five against Chesterfield and Twombley.

The Bisons defeated Rochester in a hurling duel between Proffitt and Bagby, 4-3.

Jersey City, playing in the Skeeter park, overwhelmed Reading 9-1. The first four innings were good for the game, the Skeeters scoring their nine runs therein.

CARRIED FROM FIELD

Clayton Sheedy, hard hitting right fielder of the Baltimore club, ducked into a high inside pitch and was knocked out during the recent "croocial" series with Toronto. Above unusual picture shows Sheedy being carried off the field by his team-mates. Despite the manner of the accident, similar to the one in which Ray Chapman was killed some years ago. Sheedy recovered.

5-A-SIDE SOCCER ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

Gordon Semi-Final, Thistle vs. Omemee, Next Saturday.

The entries for the five-a-side competition in connection with the G.W.V.A. Civic Holiday next Monday, August 7th, includes three DeLaval teams one from Young Vets., two from Quakers, two from Masseys. The committee wish it to be known that any five in the city can enter in this competition. The draw will take place before the first game and no player can jump from one team to another, after participating in a game played.

The local secretary, Frank Burton, junior, of the P. and D.F.A. met with a very painful accident in his employment during the last few days and does not know whether he will lose his thumb or not. Fans wish him a quick recovery.

The Gordon semi-final between the Omemee and Thistle takes place on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval. Kick off at three o'clock. Referee J. C. Russell. Linesmen, Alex McKinley and William Rickard.

Jimmy Buchan, the versatile player of the Thistle, who left the field of play in a recent game did not appear before the Board last evening. His action automatically suspend him from participating in soccer until he makes his appearance before the Executive. The "Jags" will be without his services next Saturday.

D. Grant, Masseys, and A. Bishop, De Laval were released from their teams, and H. Fowler of the DeLaval, according to rule.

A special meeting of the Massey team will be held on Thursday evening after the practice game to select five-a-side teams.

Disguised As Berry Picker, Provincial Police Officer Uncovers Large Still in Wilds Of Haliburton

LINDSAY, Aug. 4 (Special)—Posing as a berry picker, Provincial Officer William Warren, penetrated the wilds of Haliburton county on Friday in search of a still, and came across a large plant, completely equipped for making moonshine on a large scale, hidden in the depths of the woods. He also found the proprietor, an Italian named Ricci, on the job, and the officer, after discharging his gun, ordered Ricci to hold up his hands. The latter, notwithstanding the fact that he had a loaded rifle in his possession, submitted to arrest. Inside the still was a quantity of manufactured liquor and mash.

Ricci, it is claimed, was associated with the Biagie's who were heavily fined and also imprisoned a few days ago for operating a still and selling liquor. He was a star witness for Ned Biagie in the attempt of his counsel to establish an alibi

The prisoner came before Police Magistrate Gordon at Minden on Saturday and was fined $500 and costs and three months in jail, and in default of payment an additional six months. Provincial Constable Harry Story also laid a charge against Ricci of having a gun in his possession for unlawful purposes. He was sentenced to a term of seven months.

SOFTBALL GAME ON THE HOLIDAY

Dunlop Ladies of Toronto Will Play C.G.E. Team Here.

G.W.V.A. AUSPICES.

Starting off the Veteran's Big Field Day on Monday, is the Girls' Softball game at 10.30. The Dunlop Ladies visit the C. G. E., Ladies at Riverside Park. Mr. Whatley, Secretary of the Great War Veterans has been very lucky in securing the Dunlop Ladies. They are winners of their own league and are waiting for the play offs. This is the first visit of Dunlop's to Peterboro and the G. W. V. A. have gone to a big expense to get them here. They have played five exhibition games in the western part of Ontario and won them all. The C. G. E. team has won its last two games and there is no doubt that this will be one of the greatest games that has been played in Peterborough this year.

SELWYN RETAINS PLACE AT HEAD

GEHRIG'S TRIPLE GIVES YANKEES WINNING TALLY

Lazzeri's Homer in Fourth Overcomes Chicago's Early Lead.

SENATORS DEFEATED.

Six Home Runs Knocked in Game With St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees narrowly beat out the Chicago White Sox at Chicago yesterday when Gehrig tripled in the ninth, scoring Combs for a 7 to 6 verdict. Lazzeri's home run in the fourth inning, his fourteenth for the season, with two men on base, overcame the locals' early lead. Combs led the attack for the visitors with five hits including two doubles, while Kamm collected four singles for Chicago. It was Johnny Mostil Day, and a delegation of home town fans from Whiting, Ind., presented gifts and cheered the Sox outfielder.

After pitching shut-out ball for eight innings, Hummel wilted before a ninth inning Tiger attack and Detroit defeated Philadelphia, 4 to 3, in the last game of their series at Detroit. Entering the ninth inning three runs behind, the Tigers tied the score on singles by Heilmann and Wingo, Cobb's two bagger, a sacrifice fly by Burke and a single by Bassler. The game was won in the tenth when, with the bases filled, Heilmann rolled a slow grounder to Galloway, and Bibe, on third, reached home ahead of the throw. Simmons hit his fifteenth home run of the season in the sixth inning.

The St. Louis Browns won from the Washington Senators, 7 to 6, in a game featured by six home runs. "Goose" Goslin, Washington centre fielder, recently taken out of the game for alleged indifferent playing, got two of the homers, the second coming in the eighth with two on. Four of the eight Brown hits were circuit clouts, Ken Williams hit his thirteenth homer of the season. The other Browns who hit for the circuit were H. Rice, Schang and Miller.

Boston broke Cleveland's winning streak of seven straight when at Cleveland it won both games, 6 to 7 in ten innings, and 2 to 0. The first game, unique in that Boston scored six in the fourth inning and Cleveland seven in the same round, went to Boston as a result of Wingfield's effective relief pitching and the timely hitting of Tobin.

The second game was a pitchers' battle between Zahniser and Shaute, but the latter did not settle down until after the first inning in which he allowed three hits and passed a batter.

PETHERICK'S LOSES IN SOFTBALL GAME

Strong English Line Outfit Wins at Social by One Run.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 4.—Petherick's district was well represented at the English line lawn social on Thursday evening last, when the local softball team met defeat at the hands of the line squad by a score of 12 to 11. The local boys put up a strong fight against more experienced players, but errors behind the bat and in the outfield cost them the game. Petherick's at first played errorless ball and batted well, while Roy Barnum and Grant Kerr at second and short worked the force play to perfection and almost completed a double killing in spite of a very rough field. The line team had on its roster four experienced men from the Campbellford league —Cowell, Hydro; Blakely, Mill; A. Little, St. Andrew's, and Maybee, Outlaws—and with O. Rannie, Hoard's, at short-stop, they presented a strong line-up.

The Petherick's boys got a measure of revenge when they beat the line team in a tug-of-war after the ball game. After losing the first pull, they came back to win two in succession.

The line will play the return ball game at Zion social at Simpson's Grove on Aug. 12.

CHURCH PARADE HELD AT CAMP

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Also Decorates Soldiers' Graves.

MARMORA, August 4.— A large gathering was seen on the Fair Grounds on Sunday afternoon for the Regimental Church Parade held at 2.30. Owing to the humidity of the day, the service which was taken by the Chaplain, Capt (Rev). T. H. H. Hall, was of shortened form. Printed forms were distributed among the soldiers and civilians, so that the hymns, "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Rock of Ages," and "O God Our Help in Ages Past' were very heartily sung and the responsive reading of Psalm 91, was more effective than ordinary. The Band of the Hasting and Prince Edward Regiment played the accompaniments.

Capt. Hall's brief address was based on the words "In Christ," found in Philippians 3-9. He declared that the word "Christ," was growing quite unfamiliar. It was hardly used except when taken light ly on human lips. Capt. Hall then drew attention to the book "The Man Nobody Knows."

"The Man who we know as Christ has been pictured as meek and lowly and as though He was effeminate. His, however, was a strong virile character and He was the greatest leader the world ever knew," said the speaker.

Capt. Hall said he liked the title "Captain" as applying to Christ. He called twelve men from the lowliest walks of life, and in His name they conquered, showing the strength of their leader. "Enter into His life; become a Christ enclosed man were the Chaplain's final words of counsel to his comrades. Headed by the band the soldiers then paraded to the Cemetery where the graves of denarted soldiers were decorated with flags, and the Last Post sounded. Thence the march was continued to the R. C. Cemetery where as the regiment came to order, the Parish Priest, Rev. Father J. J. O'Reilly delivered a very telling discourse appropriate to the occasion. Father O'Reilly served as a chaplain overseas. It was the first time, he said, for him to address them on an occasion like that. Yet, he said, the feelings were the same on matter where such an event should take place. The one thing we should remember as we visited the graves of those buried here is that there are those left in foreign lands whose lives were offered so whole-heartedly." He was not convinced that we were coming to that period when there is no war, desirable though that would be. He congratulated Marmora on the answer she gave to the call. "Remember those lives" he continued. He did not know the Canadian as he thought he did, till he got in the Expeditionary Forces for there he met the choicest men of Canada. He was meeting the pick of men when he went to France. Remember the lesson of their glorious lives, he repeated. They showed the spirit of brotherhood and tolerance. They were asked as they enlisted to wear the Maple Leaf and to have a stout heart beneath their tunics. He would ask those present to remember those men who had fallen and to join with him in their own particular way as he would say "May their souls rest in peace." A number of wreaths and flags wer placed on the graves of soldiers in this cemetery and the Last Post again sounded with three volleys fired by the firing party under C. A. M. S. Laird, ended the day's ceremonies.

PLAY-OFF TO-NIGHT.

Keene and Cogs Meet at Lakefield at 5.15 This Evening.

The Cogs and Keene will play off the tie existing in the first half of the East Peterborough Baseball League in a sudden death game at Lakefield to-night. The game will start at 5.15 sharp and will be in charge of Bob Ross and Jack McCarney, which insures efficient umpiring.

FRENCH TENNIS STAR WILL START PROFESSIONAL CAREER.

Will Make Four Months Tour of America Next Winter.

PLANS WORLD TOUR.

Expects To Appear in New York City About Oct. 10.

POURVILLE, France, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press) Suzanne Lenglen, who has stepped down from her throne as Queen of the World's Amateur tennis players, now intends to make money by exhibitions of her supreme skill as a professional.

"Why not?" she asked a correspondent for the Associated Press, who called to see her in the little cottage where she is staying with her mother on a hill overlooking the English Channel." Tennis has already become an all time job and a real business for stars. If one wants to stay in the top ranks, one has little time for anything else.

"Now I am going to make some money, to have some fun and to see the world. I have been working for others for fourteen years and now I am going to work for myself. When I finish my four months tour of America next winter. I hope to make plans for a world tour. I think that you will find a good many other well known players in America and Europe will follow my example."

"Who do I think will succeed me? Well, I think it is a pretty even bet between Helen Wills and Kitty McKane Godfree."

Suzanne said she had no regrets over deciding to take the money offered by Mr. Pyle and letting her amateur-standing go.

"I will have time now," she asserted, "to do what I want to do, go where I want to go, and money to pay for it. Besides, I hope to be a good propagandist for France. I don't know just where I am going to play in the United States; I am leaving that all to Mr. Pyle. But he told me I would first appear in New York, about October 10, then go to Canada and afterwards across the country to California and Florida for the winter season. I am also going to Mexico City. I look forward to that as I will get to see some more bull fights. I am sorry I did not get to the Biarritz tourament this summer so I could see the bull fights there. They are immensely exciting don't you think?

Suzanne declared that she had not touched a racquet since Wimbledon but that she was going into training at St. Moritz, Switzerland, Saturday, for a fortnight. Then she would return to Paris.

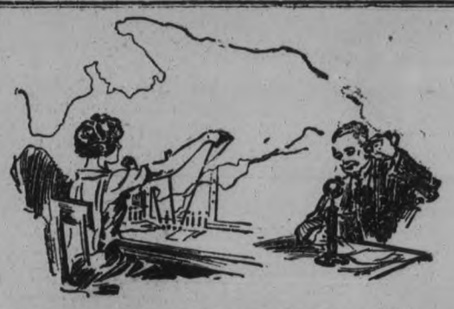
"You see," she added, "I must buy a whole lot of new clothes before I go to America.

"It is too bad papa cannot go along; he is too ill. But I am taking mamma along and my maid and my ukulele. I just started practicing on the ukulele the other day and I'm fascinated by it. Do you suppose I could find people in America to show me more about playing it?"

She seemed quite pleased when the correspondent assured her that many in the United States played the ukulele and she would have no difficulty in having some one to teach her.

Madamoiselle Lenglen's enthusiasm over the course she has decided to take is not shared by other French tennis players, who rather generally criticise her decision. Sports writers of the Paris newspapers, however, thus far have expressed no regret that the greatest star and drawing card their country has produced in amateur sport in recent years has decided to capitalize her tennis playing ability. As a matter of fact, some of the writers support her action.

The Regent diamond, which was discovered in India in 1701 and weighed 136 karats when cut, was for years the world's finest large diamond.



While you hold the line

A NEW and faster long distance service to many cities and towns, both near and far, is now ready for your use.

To take advantage of this new service, you should know the number of the telephone you wish to call in the distant city. Ask for "Long Distance" in the usual way and when she answers, give her the number of the distant telephone, as well as your own number and name. In the majority of cases, while you hold the line the operator will ring the telephone in the distant town and complete the connection then and there, or give you a definite report as to when it can be completed.

If you don't know the number of the telephone you wish to call, it may be necessary for you to hang up and wait for the operator to call you, as formerly.

This new and faster service is a distinct advance in long distance operation. It will prove an invaluable time-saver for all who use it.

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL

By Billy Evans

(By Tris Speaker, World's Greatest Outfielder.)

It is as necessary for an outfielder to be a sure catch as a first baseman. Nothing is more demoralizing to a ball club than to have fly balls drop safe in the outfield.

A player who desires to make a success of the outfield must first strive for perfection in catching fly balls. It should be the unusual for an outfielder to muff a ball.

Getting a quick start on the ball is a great advantage. In a way this might be traced to baseball intuition, sensing the direction of the ball with the crack of the bat.

A player must also perfect himself in the art of taking a ball to either side while going at full speed.

Most players have certain limitations. Some can go out after a ball better than they can come in. This, however, is an exception, for most outfielders are more proficient on coming in on fly balls.

Fielders proficient in going out after a ball have a decided advantage for it enable them to play a much shorter field, thereby cutting off many hits that ordinarily would go safe.

It is my experience that in the course of a season three times as many balls fall safe in front of a fielder than are driven over his head. This is usually caused by playing too deep.

In playing "position" it is well to make a careful study of your batters and get a working knowledge of where they are most liable to hit, then adjust yourself to conditions by shifting accordingly.

It is also well to know whether they have a reputation as sluggers or short-field hitters, in order to determine where it is best to play them.

It is these things that enable an outfielder to catch many a fly ball that would otherwise drop just out of his reach. It i the real test of a good outfielder.

Diamond Disputes Decided by Billy Evans

What is the ruling when batsman hits the ball while trying to dodge a wild pitch?

Whatever happens on such a play is legal.

Back in 1920, the rule governing this play was changed, making the ball dead and anything that happened a pure accident.

However, such an interpretation was short-lived, the rulemakers going back to the original thought, that whatever happened as a result was legal.

If the ball goes fair it is a fair ball, if it goes foul, it is a strike unless two strikes are already on the batsman.

STEVENS GOES TO VANCOUVER

Has Recovered From Illness and Spent Week in His Office.

FOLLOWS UP PROBE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, left for is home in Vancouver today. He had sufficiently recovered from his illness to spend a week in his department. The prosecution of the firms named by the Customs committee as having defrauded the government by nonpayment of duties on liquor was one of the chief matters taken up by him.

Moviegraphs

HOLLYWOOD,—Bill Hart. Cantering slowly on a swivel chair in his plain little office here. The greatest screen exponent of the romantic old west, whose son he is, now unhorsed from the films. Frustrated. Corralled. Doing, as he says, what he is forced to do—nothing.

So one finds him these days. A lonely and truly tragic figure, trying with gallant gesture to mask domestic and professional tribulations which have beset him the last few yeasr.

Doing nothing the man whose error mous pictorial energies still surge restlessly for outlet: the man who galloped almost without rest through innumerable pictures, and who was once among the greatest of the stars.

Stakes Fortune.

Bill has been close tethered since his split with Famous Players, a dispension based on supervision of his pictures, which decided Hart to become an independent actor-producer. Since then the problem of getting lucrative release for his output has been a poser.

He put virtually his whole fortune, $312,000, into his current "Tumbleweeds," and he says he will be fortunate if he breaks even with that picture. At best, he feels, the money will come back slowly. The experience has disheartened him for another venture.

"There is not place on the screen, as it is now controlled, for the independent actor-producer," says Bill. "I am deprived of showing in first-run houses where I might get adequate returns on any investment I consider necessary to make a first-class western.

"And cheap, run-of-the-mine pictures I will not make. So, unwilling to compromise the standard of product I built up through years, and not having the fortune necessary to operate on slow returns, I cannot compete."

Hitching a knee over the pommel of his swivel chair, Bill earnestly disclaims concern for mere money, beyond the modest needs of his very simple life, which gravitates between the office and his ranch.

But Bill's whole life has been attuned to the old west. He has vast pride in that, and it governs his every move and mood. He will not violate his feelings in this respect for the expediences of business. He knows "westerns," he emphasizes, and he will not subordinate himself in production contracts to anyone who might know less.

Hard to Take.

"This isn't mere pride or stubbornness or know-it-all," he affirms. "It's a judgment based on long experience on stage and screen. And then, after I'd made 27 pictures for Famous, which grossed about $12,000,000, they told me I didn't know how to make this type of film."

On week-ends Bill leaps from the swivel chair to the saddle of his famous Pinto, and, with his other horses trailing beside him, takes long solitary rides into the hills of his ranch.

Seeing him thus, one gets in Bill Hart's real life of today a melancholy reflection of the fadeout scene in many of his pictures—a lone figure silhouetted against the sky, of a man baffled and of a job halted but unfinished. "Doing what I am forced to do—nothing."

WOMAN KILLS CHILD AND SELF TO FOIL HUSBAND

'Phones Him First So Boy Can Say Good-bye To Father.

FATHER FRANTIC.

Had Tried Several Months Ago To Obtain Divorce.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 4. —(United News.)— With her three-year-old son pressed against her breast, Mrs. Belle Millman, 25, delivered a final rebuke to her estranged husband by killing the baby and herself. A few hours before, her husband, Joseph A. Millman, lifted his telephone receiver to hear the lisping voice of his son.

"Hello daddy," said the child. "Say 'good-bye, daddy'," the mother's voice sounded. Then the woman added, according to Millman, "That's the only way to fight you —kill our child." The receiver clasped up.

Frantic, Millman rattled the hook. He heard the drone of the wires serving a million busy telephone subscribers and nothing more. A few hours later a group of children playing in a vacant lot found the dead mother with the dead child held tight in arms stiffened by death. Mrs. Millman had bought her little one a sand pail and a spade a few minutes before. Police believed she shot him while he played with his new toys and then held his boy in her arms while she sent a bullet into her own temple.

Millman sued his wife for divorce several months ago. He cannot obtain his decree, although his charges were sensational. At the time Mrs. Millman threatened suicide if her husband's divorce action was successful.

KNOX W.M.S. VISITS LAKEFIELD BRANCH

Informal Gathering Held on Manse Grounds—Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 4—The ladies of Knox Church, Peterboro, Woman's Missionary Society were entertained by the W.M.S. of the United (Presbyterian) Church on Friday afternoon last on the Manse grounds and a delightful time was spent. The weather was ideal and the visitors enjoyed very much the which an informal gathering of that outing and the social intercourse sort made possible. Tea was served by the Lakefield ladies under the direction of Mesdames F. J. Burgess and James Walton. Afterwards the visitors spent a social hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yale on Chippewa Avenue leaving about eight o'clock to motor to Peterboro.

Motor Camp Is Attractive

The village motor camp in the Park has been used practically all summer one party following another and although not extensively advertised it is rapidly growing in popularity. Motor campers are birds of passage and do not usually remain long in one place but one party goes and another comes and so the summer goes. Each year will and does bring back many who recall with peasure the pleasant surroundings and beautiful scenery at village park.

It has been the fashion among some people to regard the park as Lakefield's white elephant but each year sees more and more converted to the belief that it is one of the best village assets.

There is a small drive of logs in the river at Lakefield which reminds one a litlte of the old days when numerous drives came down and when lumbering was second only to agriculture in this locality. Some of the older men who ran the river in the old days tell interesting stories of those days which were filled with adventure. Hearing them tell of their adventures makes one understand the lure which held them to that life fraught with peril and often rough and hard in the esteem but alluring just the same.

The hay crop this season was excellent and is now all cut. Fall wheat is ripening fast and other field crops are looking well, giving a bright prospect for a good harvest. Crop, field and garden promise well, a fact for general satisfaction in rural and urban localities.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Todd, Misses Mary and Florence Mackenzie and Mr. Kennie Hamilton made the trip from Lakefield to McCracken's Landing regatta on the "Gay Gelpie," Mr. Mackenzie's yawl.

The following were the players in the ball game played between Lakefield and Centre Douro at St. Paul's social on Thursday last:

Lakefield—G. Porter, H. Stabler, B. Wannamaker, A. B. Burrows, R. Payne, R. Bickell, F. Madill, S. Spencer, I. Crowe.

Centre Douro—J. Garvey, H. Allen, C. Towns, F. Kennedy, L. Moher, J. Moher, R. Whibbs, W. Towns, M. Coughlin.

The score by innings was:

Douro . . . . . .000200000—2
Lakefield . . . . . .17000103x—12

WHERE FLYER CRASHED

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Competitive Spirit.

A competitive spirit is a great thing in sport, golf in particular.

The winning of the British amateur by Jess Sweetser is the best proof that could be offered of the high value of a competitive spirit.

Recently, in discussing Sweetser's feat with one of the game's greatest professionals, who prefers that I do not mention his name, I was told:

"Sweetser won because he is a fighter. I rate four other American amateurs who invaded Great Britain as better players than Sweetser but none of them has his fighting spirit.

"Sweetser came from behind in most of his matches to win. At the finish of the first nine holes in three of his clashes he was down to his opponent. That means considerable when only 18 holes are played.

"He is a great golfer but his competitive spirit is even greater. It was his best asset in winning the British title."

• • •

Second Waddell.

"Lefty" Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics is the greatest southpaw since the days of "Rube" Waddell.

I desire to qualify that statement a trifle by saying I have in mind physical greatness in making such a comparison.

Since the days of Waddell there have been a number of famous southpaws, some of them just as consistent winners as the original George Edward.

There have been smarter southpaws than Waddell. There have been left handers with more competitive spirit. But none has approached Rube in physical greatness like Grove. Vean Gregg, when in his prime, was the closest.

• • •

Striking Similarity.

Grove has the speed of Waddell. Probably as much but certainly no more. His curve is just about as sharp breaking.

In one respect the two differ quite widely. Waddell kept his fast ball letter high and pitched to the handles of the bats. Grove, on the other hand, keeps his fast ball much lower.

When Grove acquires the ability to buzz the fast one over letter high and on the inside corner his effectiveness will be considerably increased.

• • •

Rookie Infield.

In major league baseball no club lacking a seasoned infield of veterans is given much consideration as a pennant contender.

Despite this belife, the New York Yankees are going along winning a lot more ball games than they are losing.

The Yankee infield has two youngsters at short and second, Koenig and Lazzeri. This would ordinarily be considered fatal to pennant chances, yet the Yanks keep on winning.

• • •

Upsetting Precedent.

As a matter of fact, when the Yankees won 16 straight ball games, the infield was made up almost entirely of recruits.

Gehrig in his second year as a regular held down first, Lazzeri was at second, Koenig at short and Mike Gazella at third. Gazella was subbing for Joe Dugan, out with an injured finger.

Not one member of the infield, with the exception of Gehrig, boasted more than a brief experience as a big leaguer.

Perhaps the Yankees intend to upset precedent by going the route at their sensational spring gait.

In two Irish counties, Fermanagh and Tyrone, the men outnumber the women by 6,000.

BODY OF CHILD IS IDENTIFIED

Little One Found in Port Hope Pond Is Donald Jackson.

MOTHER IS HELD.

PORT HOPE, Aug. 4.— Definite identification of the body of a boy, aged about two and one-half years, was established here last night at the preliminary inquest held following the finding of the body at Corbett's Pond on the outskirts of Port Hope on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. E. M. Page and Mrs. Ruby Edwards swore the boy was Donald Jackson. They based their claims on the fact that they both had acted as guardians of the dead infant, the former taking care of him for three weeks prior to the child's death, and the latter for a period extending from July, 1925, until May 29 of this year.

The preliminary inquest held last night was merely for the purpose of establishing the definite identification of the child, and the hearing was held before Coroner E. G. Aldrich of Port Hope. Assistant Crown Attorney Cochrane of Cobourg, acting for the Crown, asked for an adjournment until Tuesday of next week. Meanwhile, Mrs. Charles Jackson, alleged mother of the dead infant, is being held in custody in Cobourg.

Alfred Jingle would have said ~

"Capital, sir—excellent victuals—pleasant surroundings—quiet—restful—homey—oh, very!"

The voluble Alfred would have had no difficulty in persuading Mr. Pickwick to put up at such an ideal hostelry.

The snug, homey comfort of the old-time inn, with all the conveniences of a modern fire-proof hotel added, makes the Westminster unique.

Perfect equipment and cuisine; courteous service. On a beautiful residential street, yet close to the city's centre. Single room with bath, $2.50.

HOW TO SWIM

by William Cannon

THE TRUDGEON STROKE

The trudgeon stroke, named after the English swimmer who first used it to advantage, is different from the double overarm stroke in that it is for short sprints only, and is too tiring to maintain for any distance.

In the trudgeon stroke, the head and shoulders are kept high out of the water and the rolling motion which characterizes the overhand is entirely absent.

The effort used in keeping the head ands houlders out of water is such as to prevent its use for long swims, although high speed can be made for short distances.

It is, however, more or less a freak stroke and is not intended for a series of this sort.

CHICAGO STEAL WILL END SOON

Completion of Sewage Disposal System Expected To Cut Diversion.

PROGRESS MADE.

WASHINGTON, August 4. — (Canadian Press). — The controversy over the diversion of water from Lake Michigan seems reasonably certain to be settled on due time in a way that will satisfy Canada as well as most of the United States interests involved.

The important fact about the situation tending to bring about an adjustment is that Chicago is now engaged in building a great system of sewage disposal plants. For years Chicago has dumped the sewage into a canal from the Lake. The fact that much progress has already been made in building some of the most remarkable sewage disposal plants in the world is often overlooked.

With these plants in operation, a large part of the reason why Chicago diverts the water will have been removed. Considerable flow, however, will still be wanted for the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway, but will be much less than the present diversion.

NEW BRUNSWICK CONCLUDES CASE

Maritimes Want Full Share of Partnership, Says McKenna.

DEFINITE POLICY.

ST. JOHN, Aug. 2 (Canadian Press).—The case of New Brunswick was concluded today before the Royal Commission investigating the ills of the Maritime Provinces under Confederation. J. D. McKenna, summing up, pointed out that since 1886 there had been a definite policy of development of the West by the Federal Government and as definite a lack of policy of development of the Maritimes. The Maritimes were "fed up" with political promises and wanted a full share of the partnership entered into at Confederation.

ASK GOVERNMENT TO AID IMMIGRANTS

And Take Some Responsibility When They Leave Their Farms.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Resolutions asking the Federal government to consider the necessity for assisting in caring for immigrants during the first five years in Canada, and calling the attention of the Federal government to the necessity for taking some steps to assume some responsibility where settlers on government land and out-of-the-way places leave their farms, were among those passed at to-day's session of the convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities in the Masonic Temple.

Canadian Crops Forecast Cause Of Drop In Wheat

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—Bearish aspects of the Canadian government crop report led to a material estback in wheat values today after an upturn at the start. The forecast of showers in Canada tended also to weaken the wheat market. Opening unchanged to 5-8 cents higher, wheat underwent an all-round decline. Corn, oats and provisions were easier, corh starting 1-8 cents to 5-8 cents lower and subsequently receding still more.

Francs Are Climbing Nearer Three Cent Mark

NEW YORK, August 4. — United Press. — French francs resumed their climb bac kto the three cent level at the opening of the foreign exchange trading here to-day. The first quotation on the franc was $.0284, a gain of $.0013 over the previous close.

Strength in French currency imparted a better tone to the Belgian franc, the latter showing an overnight gain of $.0008 at $1.0281.

Morgan Partner Denies Statement About G.M. Co.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.— (Canadian Press.) — Thomas Cochran, partner of J. P. Morgan and Co., bound for Europe on the Olympic, to-day radioed to the Morgan firm a repudiation of an alleged interview in which he was quoted as predicting an advance of 100 points in General Motors stocks, which caused a sensational advance in the stock. "I authorized no statement of any kind as to the future price of the stock, which obviously no one can foretell," he stated.

Mining Shares Drop In Featureless Session

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—Trading was dull and featureless on the Standard Mining Exchange today with prices tending lower. Area declined 1 3-4 to 32 and Argonaut 1-2 to 19 1-2. Dome lost 10 cents to 11.50. Hollinger declined 20 cents to 19.45, but McIntyre advanced 15 to 25.40. Lake Shore was off 2 cents to 12.05. Amulet and Noranda of the unlisted dropped 7 cents to 1.30 and 24 cents to 16.75 respectively.

Smelters Leads Trading But Closes Unchanged

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press)—Consolidated Smelters continued the active leader on the Toronto Stock Exchange today after its 6 1-2 point gain of yesterday. The stock touched high of 227 1-4, up 1 3-4, but closed at 225 1-2, unchanged.

Brazilian Traction gained five eighths to 101 3-8. Canners was also prominent, the preferred being a quarter higher at 65 1-4 and the common one half up at 131 1-2. Canada Bread common sold one half up at 80 1-2 while Davis "A" lost one quarter to 31 3-4. Gilman Fan softened 3 1-2 points to 124 1-2. Dome Mines was up five cents to 11.60.

IRISH DELEGATES FOR CONFERENCE

LONDON, Aug. 4. —(Canadian Press). — British delegates to the meeting of the Empire Parliamentary Association in Australia will sail on the Empress of Scotland on Aug. 7, according to present arrangements and will, therefore, pass through Canada.

For the first time since the gatherings have been instituted four delegates of the Irish Free State are included, namely: Major Bryan R. Cooper, a member of the Dail; Osborne Grattan Esmonde, member of the Dail; Senator Sir Edward Coey-Bigger, and Senator M. F. O'Hanlon.

Senator Sir Edward Coey-Bigger, and Senator M. F. O'Hanlon.

Major Cooper served with distinction in the war, was a Unionist member of the House of Commons in 1910, and is now an independent deputy in the Dail.

O. G. Esmonde is described as an Independent Nationalist but he was once a fiery Republican. He is the son of Senator Sir Thomas Esmonde. He has been a Free State delegate at the League of Nations and at the Imperial conference.

Sir Edward Coey-Bigger is a medical man and an eminent authority on public health. He has held the highest positions in connection with public health in Ireland.

Senator O'Hanlon is the general secretary of the Irish Farmers Union. He has been closely allied with the Gaelic athletic movement and holds several Irish athletic champion ships. He was intimately associated with the Australian Olympic team during the team's visit to Ireland in 1924.

WEDDING BELLS.

COMBE—RIDYARD.

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Wm. McDonald, B.D., pastor of Knox Church, on Saturday, July 31st, at Trinity United Church, of Elizabeth S., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ridyard, 463 Albert street, and Lorne E. Combe, also of Peterboro.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Mabel Clarry, wore a lovely gown of white brocaded silk crepe de chine, with embroidered veil caught by orange blossoms, and carried a sheaf of roses and sweet peas.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel Brown, a cousin of the bride, was in yellow crepe de chine with hat to match, and bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Miles Rundle.

During the signing of the Register, the bride's brother, Mr. J. W. Ridyard, sang "Until," with accompaniment by Miss Clarry.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Combe leaving on the afternoon train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. The bride travelled in a suit of oakwood brown, with hat, shoes and stockings to match. On their return they will reside at 103 Gladstone avenue.

BURNHAM—ERSKINE.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's church at noon to-day, when Mary Frances Erskine, elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Erskine, was united in marriage to Mr. Mark Stanley Burnham, eldest son of Mrs. Burnham, and the late Zaccheus Burnham, of Peterborough.

The bride, who was unattended was given away by her brother, Mr. Robert Erskine, of Marcellus, N.Y.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, in the presence of the immediate relatives.

After an informal reception at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Burnham left for a motor trip to Montreal and Quebec.

OBITUARY.

JOHN GOOLEY.

The death occurred in this city yesterday of John Gooley, a resident of Concession 3, Ashphodel. Mr. Gooley was born in Asphodel 66 years ago, and has spent most of his life in the Township of Chandos, but moved to his home township seven years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, five sons, Edward, Joseph and William at home, and Daniel and Leo of this city; three daughters, Irene and Matilda at home, and Mrs. Patrick Hobbin of this city, and one brother, Patrick of Young's Point.

The funeral will take place on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Paul's church and cemetery, Norwood

ALEX LEITCH

Mr. Jack Smith of 144 Simcoe Street, has received word of the death, by accident, of his uncle, Mr. Alex. Leitch, at Annan, Scotland. Mrs. Harry Peattie of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough and who is at present visiting her home in Scotland, was a daughter of the deceased.

MISS JOHANNA TRENWITH

There was a large and representative gathering of citizens and out-of-town attendants at the funeral of the late Miss Johanna Trenwith, which took place at nine o'clock this morning from St. Peter's Cathedral, where services were conducted by Rev. V. McFadden of Trout Creek, assisted by Rev. J. Finn and Rev. P. Butler. Rev. P. Costello officiated at St. Peter's cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. F. J. McFadden F. Fairen, G. White, W. S. Merrill, E. Conroy and C. J. Rutherford.

The following were present from out of town:

Mr. and Mrs. Clare O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Colhane and son, Mrs. Baker and Mr. Frank LaPlante, all of Rochester, N.Y.; Sister M. Prudentia and Sister Emareta, also of Rochester, Mrs. Hodson and Mrs. J. Curtin, of Lindsay and Miss Alice Derocher of Toronto. The latter is a niece of the late Miss Trenwith.

GOLD IS SHIPPED.

Two Million Dollars Sent From New York To Montreal.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (Canadian Press).—The shipment of two millions in gold to Canada by the Bank of Montreal is announced. The gold is consigned to the bank's head office in Montreal, and the shipment is a result of the advance in Canadian exchange to the gold shipping point which is calculated at a premium of eleven sixty-fourths of one per cent. The gold movement started last week and shipments so far have reached four and a half millions.

EYELASHES NOW CURVED

By the use of a tiny metal device which when heated and clamped over them and left for a few moments, eyelashes now may be "curled" and the vogue is being used by women of the stage and screen to get a "turned up" effect on them. The lashes are not in reality curled but are made to turn up noticeably.

Dr. Embury Receives Unanimous Conservative Nomination

Candidate Makes Prediction Of Meighen's Return To Power With Majority of 35 Members

Marmora Convention Occupies Only One Minute and a Half in Deciding to Call on Former Member to Carry Party Standard.

SPEAKERS RIDICULE KING'S CONTENTION THAT CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE IS INVOLVED

Optimistic Speeches Delivered By Hon. J. R. Cooke, J. A. Sexsmith and W. E. Tummon—Unity of Empire Is Stressed.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

MARMORA, Aug. 5.—It took the Conservative Association of Peterborough-Hastings, meeting in the Town Hall, Marmora, yesterday afternoon, exactly one minute and a half to decide upon the candidate who will fight the party battle in the forthcoming Federal election.

The secretary, R. A. Elliott, announced that names for nomination had to be submitted to him in writing. He then stated he had received one name—Dr. A. T. Embury of Bancroft, late member in the House, who was proposed by C. W. Thompson and seconded by E. C. Squire. No other names being forthcoming, Dr. Embury was declared unanimously elected as the Conservative nominee for the contesting of the largest riding in Old Ontario.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one. A great ovation was tendered the candidate when he was called to the platform. Bursts of rapturous applause punctuated the addresses of the speakers. Confidence in the issue of the fight was radiated from every speech. The candidate declared he expected a majority of 35 in the House of Commons as a result of the election. Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., predicted that the Anglo-Saxon stock that comprised such a large proportion of the population of the Dominion would register emphatic disapproval of what the speaker described as the appeals of Mr. King to the disloyal elements of the country; W. E. Tummon, ex-member for South Hastings, who declared that Government in the last Parliament was carried on by bargain and barter, from the reading of the King's Speech down to the time of the resignation of the King Government, declared that South Hastings and Peterborough-Hastings would again line up together in the return of Conservative members to Ottawa; John Sexsmith, who agreed with other speakers in the assertion that there was no constitutional issue, expressed belief that the results of the election would return the Government to office; E. C. Squire, retiring president of the association, who occupied the chair in the earlier part of the proceedings and installed his successor, G. West of Madoc, into office, said he believed the people had become wise to Mr. Meckenzie King; Mr. West expressed doubts as to the likelihood of a Liberal candidate appearing at all in the constituency, and Warden G. B. Airhart, who welcomed the delegates to Marmora, declared there need be no fear of the issue of the struggle in Peterborough-Hastings.

A Misunderstanding

It was intimated from the chair, that the calling of the meeting at Marmora was the result of a misunderstanding, to which the fact of the recent marriage of the returning officer had contributed. The original intention of the executive was to call the meeting at Madoc.

E. C. Squire

After the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever," E. C. Squire, upon whom the honor had been conferred of being the first president of the Conservative Association of the new riding of Peterborough-Hastings, opened the meeting. He said that soon after the last election, it became evident that another appeal would be necessary. He asked the audience to remember that Mr. King's reason for seeking a dissolution last year was that he might secure sufficient seats to enable him to govern independently of the Conservatives and of the Progressives. It was evident, however, that the people had become wise to Mackenzie King. Eight of his Cabinet ministers went down to defeat, and Mr. King himself lost his seat in North York. On the other hand, the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, the worthy leader of the Canservative party, fighting on the tariff issue, increased his popularity both as a man and as an advocate of a policy. Last fall, he had the number of his followers in the House increased from 51 to 116, the largest group in the Commons. In view of these results, it was not expected that Mackenzie King would have formed a Government. But this was just what he did. He approached the Governor-General, declaring he was still Prime Minister and that, being assured of Progressive support, he could still carry on. He did not carry on; he merely held on, and no one knew how long he would have held on, had not Mr. Stevens, the member from British Columbia brought his charges against the administration of the Customs Department.

Customs Administration

It was shown that, with the full knowledge of the Government, crookedness and corruption prevailed in the Customs Department. This happened, chiefly in the customs district of Montreal, but was not confined to any one district.

Trucks were passing openly across the border; smuggling goods and liquor, the goods being made largely in United States prisons, and sold in Canada. The result was that the exchequer was robbed of millions of dollars. Investigations were made, but nothing was done until the Government was goaded into taking action.

It was on this question, that the electors would have to decide on September 14.

Reasons for Dissolution

Declaring that Mr. King seemed to favor the United States more than Canada, the speaker said that after having asked for a dissolution last year on the ground that he required a majority over all, Mr. King trotted this year to the Governor-General with another story in seeking another dissolution. When the Governor-General did not see things that way, Mr. King made a great clamor. He was going to abolish the office of Governor-General; he was going to see that the office would be filled by a Canadian, and a Liberal! They all knew that the Governor-General, as the representative of King George V., belonged to no party, and the men whom he selected for the duties of administration were those who enjoyed the confidence of the country.

Need for Stable Government

What the country needed most was stable government, and that could be given only by Arthur Meighen, a man who stood four-square with a policy that would bring to the country a prosperity beyond their greatest expectations.

Dr. A. T. Embury

Dr. Embury, in thanking the convention for the unanimous re-nomination, drew a contrast between present conditions in the riding and in the national field, and those of a year ago. Then, at the nomination meeting he was confronted with friendly competition. The situation was uncertain. The constituency was new, and the opponent of the Conservatives was the sitting member representing the old East Peterborough riding. They were all nervous as to the result. But, said Dr. Embury, it had to be said, to the everlasting credit of the Conservative Association and especially of the gentlemen who contested the nomination with him, the whole support of the party was placed behind the candidate, until today the party was solid and united, and there was no need to have any fear of the result on September 14. They had to be thankful for the changed situation locally. When they considered how things stood at Ottawa, they also had to be thankful for the national situation. Five years ago, Mr. Meighen was head of a small despised minority numbering 50. Today, they were the largest party, in the seat of power, and with the prospect of being returned with a majority around 35.

Returning Prosperity

Dr. Embury also thought that as a people they should be grateful to Providence for the bountiful harvest of 1925, and the prospect of a good crop in the coming weeks.

The increased production had made it possible for the King Government to bring in a budget that seemed at first, to be satisfactory to all classes.

If Mr. King had decided to make his appeal then, he would probably have done much better at the polls than he was likely to do now. By reason of the increased crops, by improvements in transportation, by permitting the selling of pulpwood and other natural resources, they had been able to show a decrease of 40 millions in the annual deficit of the Canadian National Railway, that great system that seemed at one time likely to be a burden for all time, but which might yet prove to be of immense benefit to Canada.

Fall of Liberal Cabinet

The immediate cause of the fall of the King Government was the revelations contained in the charges brought by Hon. H. H. Stevens against the Department of Customs and Excise. The complete falling to pieces of the Customs Department was, declared Dr. Embury, the most shameful episode in the history of Canada. In 1873, Sir John A. MacDonald resigned through a scandal which involved less than one hundred thousand dollars. Hundreds of millions of dollars were involved in the maladministration of the Customs Department.

He believed they all felt that the return of the King government would be the return of the same gang who had played with great questions for five years. He thanked the association very sincerely for their co-operation in the past and concluded by expressing his determination to represent the entire constituency without fear or favor or creed, and stated that his endeavor at all times would be to act in such a way as would be a credit to them as far as was possible.

W. E. Tummon.

Mr. Tummon brought the greeting of the constituency of South Hastings and announced that the riding which he represented in the last Parliament was determined to keep in step with Peterboro-Hastings in the coming contest. He did not care which candidate was selected by the opposing party. If they cared to send along the Hon. Vincent Massey, they were welcome to do so, as he knew the Conservatives could beat any candidate whom the Liberals might select.

He referred to his friendship of many years standing with Dr. Embury. The friendship began, he said, when they were both members of the County Council. Since then they had been desk-mates in the House at Ottawa. They had roomed together and lived together, and all the time he had felt that his respect for Dr. Embury had increased. He sincerely congratulated the electors of Peterboro-Hastings on their choice of Dr. Embury, and at the same time he felt that he wanted to congratulate Dr. Embury on receiving the nomination from the Association.

Use His $250,000 Bequest Making Goat's Milk Powder

NEW YORK, August 5. — George J. Harding, who was born in Brooklyn, and who for 17 years has been in charge of "The Kiddie Goat Ride" at Palisade Amusement Park, announced yesterday that he had fallen heir to $250,000 by bequest of his uncle, Stephen Harding of England, whom he had never seen. Mr. Harding, who was brought up in the show business and has remained in it for 37 years, says he will now retire. He intends to go into business making an extract from goats milk in powdered form, which he says has always been his hope ever since he became acquainted with goats, through his present business.

He said he knew his family originally came from England, but that he had lost all trace of relatives with the recent death of his father. He is 48 years old, is married, but has no children. At the end of the open air amusement season he retires to his far near Providence, R. I., where he raises goats.

CABINET PARTY OF VICTORIA WILL NOT RESIGN

Seemed Probable as Consequence of Vote in the House Yesterday.

ROADS PROPOSITION.

Bill Placing Extra Duty on Patrol Was Also Rejected.

MELBOURNE Australia, Aug. 5 —(Canadian Press). — The Allan Government of Victoria will not resign and there will be no election in the State of Victoria in the immediate future, it was officially announced yesterday.

The resignation of Premier John Allan and his colleagues was regarded as probable in consequence of the vote in the House of Assembly Tuesday when the assembly rejected the federal roads scheme involving an expenditure of £40,000,000 in the next 10 years, and also rejected the proposed extra duty on petrol The vote on the roads scheme was on an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, and was a tie, 31 to 31. the tie being broken by the speaker giving the casting vote for the amendment.

The fact that the Government is not going to resign was announced officially after a meeting of the Liberals had considered the position of the government as a result of yesterday's adverse vote.

Premier Bruce of the Australian Commonwealth stated yesterday in the House of Representatives that five states were now inclined not to accept the federal roads scheme Two of the states, Western Australia and Tasmania, have already accepted the scheme but probably will not go on with it. South Australia and New South Wales have rejected it, and now Victoria, as a result of yesterday's vote, is also opposed to it.

In connection with the proposed petrol duty increase Premier Bruce said yesterday that oil importing interests had agitated against it, but they would not be allowed to "run Australia."

TOURISTS MAKE COMMENTS ON VACATIONS HERE

Americans Asked To Write Impressions of District in Register.

ALL SATISFIED.

Scenery, Service and Courtesy Are Appreciated By Visitors.

The reactions of the American tourist to the vacation facilities and amenities of the Kawartha Lakes district are well illustrated by the comments in the record book which is kept in the office of the Chamber of Commerce. Since May 21st, all the visitors who registered here have been asked to write remarks indicative of their impressions of the district. Here are some of them:

"Fine," "Excellent," "Courtesy wonderful," "Grand and Glorious." A Cleveland man writes: "Beautiful country, surpasses anything ever seen."

Another says "We enjoy maps." Quite a number say simply but expressively "Thanks." Many others say "Service good" and the comments on the scenery are very flattering.

The tourist season in the province gives ample indication of being a record one and the local traffic reflects the increase. Inquiries are still being received from States as far apart as New York and California.

PROGRESS MADE ON NEW ADDITION

Contractor at Court House Has Work Well Under Way.

TO BE FIREPROOF.

J. Finnie, the local contractor and builder who is erecting the new addition to the County Buildings, has now got operations well under way. Part of the old wall has been torn down and the forms for the concrete are in course of construction. The building when completed will be entirely fireproof.

It is doubtful whether the work will be finished this year. Experience has shown that frost is often a serious obstacle to concrete work. While it is always possible by using warm water, to run concrete in cold weather in cases where a large bed is being laid down, it is practically impossible to continue the work when it is a question of making light flooring such as is being done on the County buildings, and it is probable that the severe weather will delay the work.

Germans Build Hydroplane Carry 240 On African Line

BERLIN, August 5. — A hydroplane capable of carrying twenty passengers is nearing completion at the Dornier works in Friedrichshafen. It is specially designed for service on the Mediterranean, connecting European ports on the body of water with Egypt and other North African countries.

The cabin is fitted with berths similar to those in a Pullman car, and no luxury is spared to make the passengers comfortable. The machine will be operated by a crew of four, consisting of two pilots, a mechanic and a wireless operator.

The two motors generate 1300 horse power and there is sufficient fuel capacity to make a 2000-mile flight. Test flights will be made within the next month.

WOMAN TO GIVE TESTIMONY AT LIQUOR INQUEST

Expected To Tell of D'Angdo's Bootlegging Operations.

BOOKS CHECKED UP.

Great Quantities of "Macaroni" and "Manilla Rope" Sold.

HAMILTON, Aug. 5.—A woman of this city, whose identity the police did not wish to reveal, will be an important witness at the continued session of the inquest into the death of the Oakville victims. This woman, it is believed, will give testimony dealing with the bootleg operations of Bert D'Angelo, local Italian, now being held in Milton Jail on a charge of manslaughter.

Detective Joseph Crocker, who arrested D'Angelo at the latter's home on the morning of Saturday, July 24, following the deaths of three men at Oakville, also will be a witness. D'Angelo is believed to have made a statement to the officer after having been arrested and given the customary warning.

Detectives in Niagara Peninsula

Detective Crocker, in company with Provincial Inspectors Ward and Boyd, spent today at points in the Niagara Peninsula, where they probed deeper into the operations of alleged bootlegger now under arrest. Much investigating yet remains to be done, and it may be two weeks before the Crown's case is completed.

A checking up of books seized on Tuesday has already revealed bootlegging operations on a tremendous scale, it is said. The illicit traffic, especially in Canadian whiskey to "Cuba" and "Mexco," and the smuggling of raw alcohol back into Ontario, shows a volume running into thousands of dollars, and concerns only two or three bootleggers.

Manila Rope and Macaroni

Bank books and other journals are telling an interesting story of their own, and give the answer to these purring automobiles; rug - brick square-plan Colonials; inlaid mahogany radio sets; rugs which a Sultan might sleep upon; custom-made French calf boots at $19 a pair, and so on. The police have these books. They are busy verifying the entries. The amount of "manila rope," of "macaroni" and other things, bought and sold in these parts is amazing—almost enough "macaroni," in fact, to double track the National from Halifax to Vancouver.

When the Hattie C. case, in which two men were shot, was prosecuted at Toronto, Rocco Perry was asked his occupation by the late Hartley Dewart, acting for the crown. Perry replied that he went about the country selling "macaroni."

"Carry it in your car?" pressed Mr. Dewart.

"Yes."

'Yes."

"Sure you never carried a little whiskey in your car?"

"No; just macaroni."

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press) — Frank Brennan, assistant solicitor, Attorney-General's department, is rapidly building up the government's case against the distributors of poison alcohol. Bringing from Buffalo valuable information, Brennan is preparing a brief of a general nature which will form the basis of Government's action against those now under arrest. It is understood further arrests are tao be made shortly.

ALLEGATIONS OF JOY CRUISE MADE BY STEAMER MARGARET BRANDED UNTRUE AT HEARING

Government Counsel Says He Is Convinced Everything Was Regular.

INSPECTION TRIPS.

Bureau Made Three Official Journeys on Vessel—Lapointe Visited It Once.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Allegations of wild orgies and ministerial joy rides on the customs cruiser Margaret were branded as baseless in sworn testimony to-day which re-opened before Sir F. A. Lemieux, the customs probe started by the Stevens committee.

R. Calder, K.C., of Montreal, announced as government counsel that the official documents relevant to cutter and examination of the vessel's crew satisfied him that the statements attributed to A. J. Doucet, former Conservative M.P. for Kent, N.B., and others, were not based on fact.

But to meet the orders of the government and to satisfy public opinion, he called Hon. Ernest Lapoint, former Minister of Justice, Senator Jacques Bureau, former Minister of Customs, and Captain Alfred Lacouvee, master of the Margaret. All ridiculed the joy ride allegations; Hon. Mr. Lapointe had once visited the boat, Senator Bureau had made three inspection trips. Nothing irregular occurred.

"After having examined all documents and after Inspector Duncan, Mr. O'Connor and myself had taken note of all the relevant evidence and the crew of the 'Margaret' having been examined, I wish to declare publicly and categorically, that no incident occurred aboard the "Margaret" which could be reproached against persons named whether Mr. Lapointe, Mr. Bureau or any of their companions," said Mr. Calder.

The inquiry was instituted at the request of Premier Meighen, following statements on the public platform by A. J. Doucet, ex-member for Kent, N.B., who charged that Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice and Senator Jacques Bureau, former Minister of Customs, had engaged in a joy sail on the government boat. These statements were subsequently denied by the ex-Ministers.

Hon. Mr. Lapointe declared the only time he had ever been on the Margaret was in July three years ago at Prince Edward Island. He denied that he had ever taken a trip of the nature suggested by critics.

Senator Jacques Bureau, next call-

LOSS HALF MILLION.

Over 80 Buildings Burned in Wind-Swept Village After Drought.

ST. COMTE DE KENNEBEC, BEAUCE, Que. — Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press). — This little village, which yesterday had a hundred homes, is practically blotted out today.

Hundreds of people to-day walk sadly among the smouldering ruins which are all that was left to them by a fire which swept the place yesterday afternoon and evening. Eighty buildings were destroyed, leaving scarcely a dozen intact in the extreme end of the town. Fortunately no lives wer lost. The loss is estimated at half a million.

Wind was the chief agent of the destroyer yesterday. Flames broke out in the engine room of the Creamery in the centre of the village. Everything was dry after the long hot spell and the blaze soon covered an area of a half mile. There was no regular fire fighting force. The villagers, however, were successful in saving the church, presbytery and convent.

Constant watchfulnes was necessary throughout the night.

WEBB CHOSEN HEAD OF UNION

Winnipeg Mayor President of Canadian Municipal Association.

MANY RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, Ont., Auk. 5— Lieut-Col. Ralph Webb D.S.O., Mayor of Winnipeg, was yesterday elected President of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, succeeding ex-Mayor Frank Plant of Ottawa, a former Londoner.

Other officers elected were: J. P. Dupuis, Mayor of Verdun, Que., First Vice-President; John M. Moore, Mayor of London, second Vice-President; M. Taylor, Mayor of Vancouver, Third Vice-President and Sam Baker, Secretary-Treasurer Mr Baker the City Clerk of London who has been the keyman of the London Centennial and Old Boys' celebration, was largely responsible for bringing the municipal convention to London.

The union adopted a number of resolutions. One urges the Federal Government to give closer scrutiny to groups applying for company charters in order to safeguard the investing public from the fleecing operations of irresponsible stock and bond peddlers. The Federal Government was urged in the matter of immigration policy to have regard for the fact that the responsibility of caring for newcomers rests in the first five years more upon the municipalites than upon the Government.

More Appeals are Made.

Another resolution draws to attention the claim that naturalization appeals should be dealt with ony on regular prescribed days and that the process should be made more impressive and educational.

The Federal Government is appealed to for early action to make possible the utilization of Alberta and Nova Scotia coal in Ontario. In another resolution the convention appealed for early action to make possible the utilization of Alberta and Nova Scotia coal in Ontario. In another resolution the convention approved model traffic regulations for the Dominion; the development of arteria highways in the cities and the uniform use of "Stop" street and traffic signals and the compelling of vehicles to some to a stop before crossing any railway track. Ald. Rondeau of Westmount queried from the floor of the convention yesterday afternoon to ask if the union intended to deny the Bell Telephone Company any increase in rates. Mayor J. Balharrie of Ottawa, replied that it was the union's duty, compased as the organization was of elected members, to represent the public's interests. put up a rigid defense and see that the public pays not a cent more than it has to.

New Government Advocated.

Major Hugh Bell of the Lincoln Regiment of St. Catharines, in addressing the Canadian Club at noon proposed that nation! Government should be placed in the hands of an executive of twelve men appointed for five years, to entirely displace Parliament. He admitted it would be an autocracy, but thought it it would be an improvement on what democracy has produced. "Instead of patriotism and Christianity," he said, "we have an ever growing tendency toward the formation of mutual detestation societites and secret organizations of petty hate in which the spirit of Canada is entirely submerged in the upholding of an extraneous ideal. If we would pay more attention to our national policies and traditions and less to those of some hooded organization, the country would be much the better."

WOMAN ACCUSED OF KILLING MAN

Jury Finds That Miss Hardman Fired Shot at McCoy.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., August 5— "We, the jurors empanelled to inquire into the death of Edward McCoy in the Township of Albemarle on July 27, 1926, find from the evidence that the said Edward McCoy came to his death by a gunshot wound and from circumstantial evidence believe the gun at the time the shot was fired was in the hands of Miss Kate Hardman of the Township of Albemarle."

The above verdict was rendered by the coroner's jury empanelled by Dr. R. M. Fisher of Wiarton to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death of Edward B. McCoy of Smithport who was shot down on Tuesday afternoon of last week while he was about to engage in fishing in Sky Lake, some ten miles north of Wiarton, midway between the villages of Mar and Red Bay.

Following the announcement of the verdict the date for the preliminary hearing was fixed for Thursday, Aug 12th at Wiarton.

At the inquest the Crown was represented by County Crown Attorney Freeborn of Walkerton, while Campbell Grant, of the same place, was present on behalf of the accused.

The chief witnesses were Edward Ketteringham, and his son-in-law, Norman Munro, both of Toronto, who were the first to discover that a murder had been committeed, when they saw the victim dying at the side of the road, and who a few moments later apprehended Miss Hardman as she walked along the road with the rifle with which she did the shooting still in her hands. Both swore that the girl admitted to them that she had been out shooting, that there had been no accident, but that she had shot McCoy on purpose, as he had been following her around for the past three years.

Another important witness was the little son of George Hardman, a brother of the girl, who told of her coming over into the field where he and his father were haying, and of her asking the boy to tell his father to go and get his car and take Mr. McCoy to the hospital, as she had shot him. After she told the boy this she went back to the road, and was apprehended by the Ketteringham party and taken to Wiarton, where she was placed under arrest.

Seen Walking Together.

Evidence was given to show that McCoy and Miss Hardman had been seen together on the road, and Geo. Hardman, with whom McCoy boarded for two weeks prior to the shooting, stated that he frequently mentioned the girl's name, and intimated that they expected to open a store either in Toronto or Detroit during the coming winter McCoy left Hardman's house at one o'clock in the afternoon of the shooting and was not seen again there.

There is much sympathy for the Hardman family as they have always borne a good reputation. Very little is known, however, regarding the life of the accused during the last three years.

MANY TELEPHONES IN USE IN CANADA

Dominion Leads in Miles of Line Per Hundred People.

Of all the countries of the world for which statistics are available Canada stands first in the number of miles of telephone and telegraph wire per one-hundred of population. The figure, as of January 1st, 1925, is 3.4 miles per one-hundred population.

This is one of the interesting items in the latest bulletin of telephone and telegraph statistics compiled by the Bell system.

Next to United States Canada also leads all other countries in the number of telephones per 100 of population. The order in which the leading countries ranks is: United States, Canada, Denmark, New Zealand, Sweden, Norway, Australia, Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain, Netherlands and Finland.

Figures as to the telephone development in the largest cities of the world are of especial interest. Apparently San Francisco with 29.9 telephones per 100 population has a slight margin on its nearest competitor Omaha, Neb. with 28.5.

Amongst cities of over 200,000 population Toronto stands 9th and New York 10th. The ten leaders in order of precedence are: San Francisco, Omaha, Washington, Chicago, Minneapolis, Stockholm, Portland, Ore., Los Angeles, Toronto, New York.

Next to Stockholm, with 24.8 telephones per 100 inhabitants, amongst foreign cities, is Copenhagen with 15.9. Apparently Switzerland and Germany are the only countries in which cities come within reasonable distance of the leaders mentioned above. Zurich stands at 12.1 telephones per 100 people, Geneva 11.4, Frankfort-on-Main (Germany) 10.7 and Hamburg 10.3.

Although London is making substantial progress in the development of telephones under the administration of the British Post Office, it had reached only 5.9 telephones per 100 inhabitants on January 1st of last year. At the British metropolis is far in advance of other British cities, Edinburgh with 4.5 comes nearest to London, then follow Bradford with 4.1, Hull 4.3, Liverpool 3.8 and Glasgow 3.7, Manchester 3.6.

These figures are all in rather striking contrast with such Canadian cities as Toronto with 23.2 telephones per hundred inhabitants and Ottawa with 18.2 on the same date.

THAMES HAS DOUBLE EBB.

The runaway race of the Richmond Colts in the Virginia League has led to a demand for a split season in some quarters of the Old Dominion circuit.

Vagaries of the Thames river in London arouses more than ordinary interest recently when there was a double ebb and flow of the tide. The manifestation was not only rare but at times it is difficult to explain. Before the Thames was embanked however, its vagaries were more frequent than now. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries it was reported to have had double tides and in 1658 it ebbed and flowed twice in three hours. In 1662 three tides in four hours were recorded.

PEACE ATTEMPTS PROVE FUTILE WHILE BOYCOTT BY CATHOLICS CAUSES BUSINESS DEPRESSION

Little Hope of Settlement Even Among Active Negotiators.

CALLES IS FIRM.

Says Government Will Not Be Alarmed By Interdicts.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Pessimism was more pronounced today regarding the religious conflict between the Roman Catholics and the Government.

The business depression caused by the economic boycott declared by the Catholics in protest, is gripping portions of the Republic and causing apprehension in other parts, including the capital.

Peace feelers have proved futile and there is lessening of hope even among those who have been making efforts to pave the way for an understanding.

Disturbances greater than any so far are reported during the last day or so.

Government Firm

President Calles again has reiterated the intention of his Government to "Enforce without fearing interdicts or supernatural punishments" the Mexican constitutional provisions regarding religion. He made this reply to President Leguia of Peru, who requested the re-establishmen of harmony between the Mexican Government and the Catholic Church. President Calles said he considered the Peruvian telegram as personal and not implying foreign interventiton.

"Such scant information as is available," President Calles reply to Leguia says, "indicates that the Roman Catholic boycott is having much more effect in some places than in Mexico City. In some sections business is decreasing alarmingly."

"Evidently your Excellency has not received truthful reports," the Peruvian president was informed, "or your opinions would be unhesitatingly favorable to the Mexican Government's viewpoint. The clergy opposes the evolution which in recent times has developed and rebels against constitutional laws. There are no indications that a peaceful solution of the situation is near."

Six People Killed

Reports from Guadal raja are that six persons were killed and fourteen wounded on Tuesday night in a fight between soldiers and supposed Roman Catholics. An army officer and two privates are among the dead. It is asserted that the battle followed shots fired at General Aguirre, as he was passing a church, by persons inside the church. The crowd, after being ejected from the church, failed to recapture the edifice.

Another report is that an unnamed Mexican woman was murdered at Irapuate by a crowd incensed over the cessation of Catholic services and who attacked Protestants.

Throughout the country there is intense interest in a series of debates between Government supporters and Roman Catholic leaders, but there have been no disturbance during the debates so far.

Priest Excommunicated

Father Dimas Anguiana, Roman Catholic priest of Alvarado, who accepted the Government's religious regulations, has been excommunicated. He is seventy years old.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5. —(Canadian Press). — Newspapers in Mexico City declare that sneak thieves, representing themselves to be Government agents are scouring the city and taking from Catholic women gold medallions, rosaries and crucifixes.

These thieves are declaring that the women are wearing such ornaments in defiance of the law, which is untrue as the people are permitted to wear any emblem they desire.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

All letters must be signed by the writer, and must bear his address. A pen-name may be used for publication except in letters on political subjects, which must bear the writer's name for publication.

SHE LOVES US NOT AT ALL.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: Never lose your country correspondents. They alone save your paper from the damage of your editorials. I always imagined you fat, uncouth, with feet on table, smoking like mad. Why? Because of your editorials. Your liquor editorials made me think you were brought up in a low beer-drinking hamlet of non-Canadian origin, but your jazzy political viewpoint changes it to a central African non-civilized environment. Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast" — which comes in concentrated tablet form was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada.

HORSES RUN AWAY KILLING BABY BOY

Animals Frightened By Passing Car Kill Owner's Son.

FOREST, Aug. 5. —A fatal accident occurred about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening when Francis, the 19-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tayor, Sixth Line, of Warwick, was instantly killed. The father having finished work in the fields, unhooked the horese and gave the reins to another son, 5 years of age, to drive them to the barn. The horses became frightened at a passing auto and ran away They turned into the lane to the barn where an elder sister and the unfortunate child were playing, and while the sister was able to get out of the way of the horses, the child was struck on the head with one of the horses' hoofs and instantly killed.

A homing pigeon lost in Maronnes, France, July 10, 1922, recently returned to the loft of its owner in England.

IMPORTANT ORE BODY DISCOVERED ON AREA

Development of Another Noranda Not Beyond Possibility.

FROM J. A. McRAE

Special to The Examiner.

ROUYN, Aug. 5.—Advice this week that diamond drilling on the property of Area Mines had indicated the presence of an important body of ore, together with a rumor that on one of the Alderson-McKay groups, north of the Towagmac, another interesting discovery had been made, has been received with a gooo measure of satisfaction here.

It has been expected that the great wave of activity now in progress in various parts of the Rouyn district would bring to light additional important discoveries. The indications are that the hopes are to be realized.

May Be on Eve of Boom

The discovery of another Noranda (which is within the bounds of possibility in this extensive territory would quckly hurl the Rouyn mining dstrict into a frenzied boom, in the opinion of mining men of long experience. The magnitude of Noranda, and more particularly the high-grade nature of the ore, has not yet been fully realized by the public at large. Huge ore bodies carrying values of $30, $50 and even $70 per ton are now a matter of record at Noranda. This enables the management to include a large amount of lower grade ore in a grand total which will carry an average of $20 to $30 per ton.

A very important feature of the Noranda situation is that not only are the ore reserves growing at a rate which may ultimately reach the estimated reserve on Hollinger Consolidated, but that the grade of the ore is so high that nearly 75 per cent. of the gross yield will be shown as net profit. This remarkable situation is expected to reflect itself unusually early in the rate of profit distribution from the enterprise at such time as production gets under way.

The Area property is situated between Noranda and Amulet, and lies adjacent to Grover-Daly. Other neighboring properties are Duprat Mines, as well as part of the holdings of Stadacona.

THE STOCK MARKET

Mine Shares Gain Slightly Most Stocks Show Advance

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Slight advances were general in the Standard Mining Exchange list today with only a few declines registered. The price changes included gains by Argo of 1 1-2 to 20, Lake Shore 5 cents to 12.10, and Tetk Hughes 2 cents to 3.88. Wright Hargraves lost 10 to 8.20. Silver stocks were stronger, with Castle Trethewey up 1 to 1.52, ...nts to 4.10, and Can... Amulet advanced 4 ...and Noranda 15 to

Wheat Prices Decline On Good Crop Reports

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Favorable weather in Canada and lower quotations at Liverpool led to early lower prices today in the wheat market here. Reports of wheat yields better than expected in parts of the domestic Spring crop belt tended also to weaken values. Opening 5-8 cents to 1 5-8 cents down, wheat showed but little power to rally. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier. Corn started 1-8 cent to 1 cent decline, later holding near to initial range.

Reduction In Volume In Wall Street To-day

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Alternate periods of heaviness and strength characterized today's stock market as opposing speculative forces battle for supremacy. While new leaders were brought forward by those working for higher prices and good buying support was extended to recent favorites, a sharp reduction in the volume of business indicated that the market was seeking a breathing spell.

The renewal rate on call money was lowered to four per cent.

High priced industrials with large current earnings were in brisk demand. Case Threshing Machine crossed 160 for a gain of more than 13 points. Remington Typewriter was quickly run up six points and more than a dozen others two points or more.

The buying of oils was of a selective character; with copper metal selling around 14 1-2 cents a pound, non ferrous metal stocks began to attract increasing speculative interest.

G. and W. Stock Jumps 15 Points—Day's Feature

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—A sensational advance of 15 points in Gooderham and Worts' stock, and the activity demonstrated by Brazilian featured strong and active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. G. and W. opened four higher at 264, and then jumped to a high of 275 at noon. Brazilian's turnover was large and the net gain for the session was 3-4 to 104 3-8, after touching a record high of 104 3-4.

Consolidated Smelters was strong with a gain of 1 1-2 to 227, while Brompton advanced 3 to 33 3-4. Barcelona 1 3-4 to 33 1-2, and British American Oil 1-2 to 53. Hollinger was off 10 cents to 19.50.

Rolling Stockings On New York Street In Public Brings Young Woman Three Months In Reformatory

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 5 (United News)—Girls may roll their stockings, yes, but not in public.

Stopping to roll hers where passers-by could watch caused Frances Rabowitz, a plump blonde of 28, to be sentenced to three months in the house of Good Sheppards.

"She made a habit of stopping on the sidewalk when it was hot and rolling her stockings where men could see," reported Patrolman Harry Lavin, who made the arrest.

"He's a nasty old cop," retorted Miss Rabowitz, wrathfully. "A girl should have a right to fix her stockings without getting thrown into jail."

Magistrate Oberwager looked Miss Rabowitz over and decided the house of correction might do her good.

ALLEGATIONS OF JOY CRUISERS

ed, said he had taken three trips on the Margaret. The ordinary route was followed and customs ports inspected. He had always made his trips fit in with the vessel's routine There never was anything aboard that might savor of "orgy cruise." Medicine was there but nothing like twenty cases of whiskey.

Captain Lecouve, master of Margaret, corroborated the evidence of Mr. Lapointe and Senator Bureau. He identified the photographs shown by former witnesses as those of the passengers during the trips in question.

Never did any incident occur with the Ministers aboard which might turn it into a "joy ride."

Inspector Duncan, who investigated the reports, declared there was nothing to justify the allegations.

On the first occasion, the Hon. Mr. Lapointe was one of the party returning from a celebration at Pictou ,N. S., which they had attended as Goverment representatives.

Senator Bureau under cross examination said on his first trip, 1922 he was accompanied by Chief Wilson of the Preventive Service, Norman Labelle, a relative and Philip Dugual, a law associate. On the second trip, 1923, present were his wife and children, his daughter and son-in-law; two cousins and two little grand-sons.

On 1925 trip he was accompanied by his wife and cousin, two grandsons, Dr. Angers and his daughter, and Dr. Laliberte. This trip, besides being in business of the ship was also connected with Bureau's ill health.

Captain Lecouvee, after confirming the previous evidence, said apart from the visit of Mr. Lapointe and three trips of Senator Bureau, he had taken neither aboard except in June last year when Senator Bureau and his preventive chief came to Quebec to inspect the new oil fuel installation on boat.

RUSSELL T. SCOTT HAS LITTLE MONEY

Report of Financial Agents Shows Debts Greater Than Assets.

TORONTO, August 5. — Canadian Press. — Reports that Russell T. Scott, now under sentence of death for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a Chicago drug clerk, had amassed considerable wealth by his financial operations are not borne out as far as his Canadian interests were concerned. The statement of the Russell T. Scott Company, financial agents of his Toronto organization, which went into liquidation in 1923, was issued to-day. It shows that the liabilities amounted to nineteen thousand dollars, three times the assets.

URGES BIRTH CONTROL.

TOKYO (United Press).— Birth control for Japan, without calling it such, has now a powerful advocate in the Osaka Mainichi, the most widely circulated daily in the Empire.

The Mainichi is a very recent convert, as a short time ago it was among the papers denouncing Mrs. Margaret Sanger, the American birth control aspostle, for coming to Japan to preach her gospel.

The result of the recent census, showing that the population has increased during the last five years by an average of 700,000 a year, despite a great earthquake death list, stirred the Mainichi to its new stand.

One of the plant pests which have caused great concern to Australian agriculturists, the ragwort, has now been discovered to be an excellent feed for sheep.

PREPARE TO CHECK CANOES AT CAMPS

Provincial Authorities Making Ready To Conduct Inspection.

TORONTO, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press). — Preparations are under way for checking up all Boys' and Girls' Camps in Ontario with a view to ascertaining the precautions being taken with war canoes, acording to the Hon. TOURISTS ABUSED.

Parisians Throw Water On English and American Visitors.

PARIS, Aug. 5. — (United Press.)—Police action was necessary to-day to protect six auto bus loads of American and English tourists from the insults and jeers of Frenchmen and women. As the tourists came out of their headquarters the citizens, especially the women, were abusive of the tourists, upon whose heads water was heaved from upper stories of adjacent houses.

An exciting incident whic... thought at one time likely to en... in tragedy was not without i... lighter features, was enacted las... night at the Lake Street bathing beach when an unnkown man was nearly drowned, being saved by the combined efforts of the bathing beach attendent and two young men, W. Frank Laronde, who himself narrowly escaped drowning in his attempt at rescue was submerged no less than five times as a result of the frantic struggles of the man in peril whom he sought to rescue, retained his wooden pipe in his mouth throughout his entire ordeal and still had it between his lips when both men were helped from the water.

The weight of the drowning ma... pulled Heffernan into the depth... and he was seized in a vice lik... grip by the other, who had completely lost his head. With great difficulty Heffernan wrenched himself free.

Laronde, who was working in the interior ofthe hut, was attracted by the screams of the children who were horrified witnesses of the struggle.

He rushed to the spot and descended into the water at a place where he could retain a footing, but near enough to reach the man in danger. He grasped the man and endeavored to pull him toward the raft when the sandy bottom yielded under the weight and precipitated him into the deep water alongside the sinking man. At that part the water is thirty-five feet deep. Laronde went to the bottom and, pushing himself and his burden to the top, found himself under the other man in such a drawn into the water from which he ing him on to the raft. Murphy came forward and extending his hand caught hold of Laronde and tried to pull him toward the raft.

The result of this effort was, however, that Murphy was himself drawn into thewater from which he emerged with great difficulty. He renewed his attempt and assistsed by Heffernan succeeded in pulling both men to the raft and safety. Laronde, who had five times touched the bottom of the lake, was exhausted but soon recovered.

The rescued man, whose name is not known, although it is believed that he is employed in the Canadian General Electric works, sat on the ground until he had regained his strength, and went quietly away without disclosing his identity.

Laronde, who is inclined to minimize his share in the rescue, declares that there has been no case of drowning at the Lake Street Beach,

It may be that the educational system of this continent is the best possible, but there are those who admire more the plan followed in the National Schools of the Old Country, where the three "r's" are the backbone of the curriculum, and at the same time the child is given an insight into business training, science and mechanics that stands him in good stead when the time comes to definitely decide what vocational line he shall follow.

Whatever a boy decides to attempt as his life work or whatever a parent may plan for his boy, the cost must be taken into account. Many are eager for achievement, but not willing to pay the price. The boy must not be deceived; he must be told the cost of success in a given vocation, the cost in years, in study, perhaps in low wages at first.

And above all things, the boy must be taught the ideal of service to society as being paramount to the idea of mere money-making.

KEEPING OPEN HOUSE.

Peterborough is keeping open house, and more people are accepting the city's hospitality this year than ever before. It is not any one thing that attracts them, but a combination of advantages that is surely and steadily drawing the cream of the travelling public of United States and Canada to this district.

Those who come for the promotion of commercial interests in Peterborough find the atmosphere charged with commercial and industrial magnetism. Here are factories and plants that are the biggest of their kind in the British Empire, if not in the world, and here are organizations which afford the most stimulating object lessons for those who would perfect themselves in the creative arts.

But many visitors are seeking rest, recreation and amusement. To gratify these desires, also, Peterborough offers unexcelled opportunities. Tourists return to their homes in every part of the continent praising Peterborough county's majestic lakes and beautiful streams.

It is a fine service for a city thus to share its advantages. It is good advertising for a city to be visited by so many hundreds of people interested in the promotion of many and varied interests. Peterborough does well to bestir itself to insure the comfort and satisfaction of those who attend.

It is a duty of every citizen to help make the way pleasant for these visitors.

"OM, ZETA"—ROSICRUCIAN.

By some persons who might have been better employed the ancient cult of Rosicrucianism has been revived. Probably nobody living knows much about Rosicrucianism. Very likely nobody ever did. It was mixed up with alchemy and with magic. It used the symbol of the cross, but as a mere talisman, and it was banned by the church. In short, it seems to be a cult particularly adapted to the silly season.

One way to reach perfection, by the technic set forth in Rosicrucian teachings, is to sit for days with the mind as nearly empty as possible and the stomach likewise, repeating constantly the sacred word "Om". Say it over and over, painfully counting the number of times, all the while remaining breakfastless, dinnerless, supperless, bedless, and by and by you arrive at one form of perfection, perfect inanity, physical and mental.

To attain a mental state quite different from the great calm inducible by saying "Om", the Rosicrucians commended the seeker to sit writing the dashing lines of the Greek letter Zeta. As that is the capital Z, it is easy. The rapid stroke across, down, and across was supposed to have an effect upon the mind which in this scientific age we should describe as dynamic. Zeta was the initial letter of Zeus, and he was not only king of the gods but also the god of thunder and lightning. Zeta was jagged, like the lighting flash, and if saying "Om" conduced to a profound calm, writing Zeta had quite the opposite effect. The Rosicrucian adept who desired to rouse himself for a great effort wrote "Zeta" thousands of times.

Now that the rugby season is approaching, the coach of the Peterborough team might make history by adapting the Rosicrucian teaching. A man could make an end run after writing "Zeta" for an hour or so, if he did not get so nervously frazzled that he would be useless. Try it. Say it when running to catch a train.

And what a wonderful weapon it is for the already sales-wise insurance man. If he can by any hocus-pocus get his prospect to say "Om" a few hundred times while he is surreptitiously slashing the thunderbolt letter on a page before him, the prospect cannot escape. And if he is afraid of frightening off the victim, the salesman may adopt the old reporting scheme of carrying paper and pencil stub in the right hand coat pocket, and scribbling without removing his hand from his pocket.

Rosicrucianism is not likely to prove a popular religious cult in Peterborough, but in case you are tempted to go in for it see to it that it is the other fellow who says "Om" while you write "Zeta."

WASTE OF LIFE ON WATER.

Despite repeated warnings by safety leagues and newspapers of the dangers to the inexperienced swimmer, canoeist or sailor and their repetition of safety rules worthy of observance, the toll of life by drowning in our lakes and rivers continues every summer at an appalling rate. A few days ago the drowning of eleven boys and young men, when their war canoe upset in a storm on the waters of Balsam Lake, near Fenelon Falls, shocked the public with its wanton waste of young life to a depth which the splendid heroism displayed by two of the victims could not mitigate.

While this event is outstanding in the public mind, there have been many others of lesser mortality which go to make up a pathetic total. In the last ten years drownings in Ontario have attained an average of slightly more than three hundred per annum. It cannot be doubted that a large part of these were avoidable and were due to ignorance in the handling of some water-craft, inability to swim, the taking of foolish risks and ignorance as to simple methods of resuscitation of the apparently drowned.

About one-third of the area of Ontario, excepting the district of Patricia, is water. Few persons think of spending a summer vacation elsewhere than on or near water. Intimately associated as our summer pleasures are with water, it does not seem unreasonable to expect that in the future some determined effort should be made to ensure that boys and girls be taught to swim and to swim well, for on ability to do so hinges very frequently the safety of life in a water accident. And that there will be some restriction of the use of water craft by inexperienced persons seems not unlikely. Already, as a sequel to the Balsam Lake tragedy, Provincial legislation to prohibit the use of canoes in deep water is being mooted. This is an indication of the trend of public feeling.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 5—(Canadian Press) — The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday continued dull owing to the fact that foreign bids were still below local exporters' views. The market for Canadian western oats was also inactive but prices were unchanged.

Only a small trade was transacted in spring and winter wheat grades of flour but prices ruled steady.

Owing to the absence of any demand from any source, the millfeed trade was quiet but prices were firm. The market for rolled oats was dull but values were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained in spite of a small demand. The receipts were 1,333 cases.

Some business was transacted in western grades of cheese at 16 3-8c per pound; the receipts were 5,672 boxes.

The butter market was without any new feature of note. No. 1 pasteurized was offered at 32 3-4c per pound with few takers. The receipts were 37 packages.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—With domestic receipts of wheat surpassing all expectation and with the Canadian government crop report construed as bearish, wheat values yesterday averaged lower. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled at 1-4 to 5-8 net decline, corn 1 1-4 to 2 down, oats varying from 3-4 off to 3-8 advance and provisions showing 7 and 10 to 52 cents drop.

Arrivals of wheat in the United States yesterday totalled 3,842,000 bushels against 1,546,000 bushels a year ago. In view of such an exhibit and notwithstanding that the market at times showed a good recovery, all upturns in price ran into free selling. Under such circumstances, gains failed to hold. Meanwhile, the official Canadian crop summary exerted a depressing influence throughout the day, especially announcement that Alberta province will probably harvest as much as last year. This would mean 66,000,000 bushels more than a recent unofficial estimate.

Export business in North American wheat yesterday was a little better but the volume was not large, being estimated at 400,000 bushels. It was pointed out, though, in this connection, that Chicago September delivery is about 20 cents a bushel below Liverpool October, nearly a full shipping difference, and that European crop prospects are less favorable. Current advices yesterday said the wheat crop in France is turning out much worse than expected and that threshing returns there are a severe disappointment.

General selling to realize profits weakened the corn market. Fresh buying support was limited. Oats were affected by the increasing movement of new oats.

Slowness of cash inquiry pulled down the provision market.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 5 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.85.
Sterling cables—$4.85 1-2.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"WHOM MAY BE."

"Southpaws," writes an authority on sports, referring to left-handed boxers, "are far below par. They seem to lack boxing skill and general smartness. They have one set style and never vary from it, no matter whom their opponent may be."

In the concluding sentence of the foregoing quotation, the word "whom" should be "who," the nominative case form of the pronoun, and no "whom," which is the objective case form. It should agree in case with the subject of the sentence, which is "opponent."

Writers on sports have a special license in the matter of language, as have poets, since it is their duty to be interesting to the readers, and they are permitted and expected to employ racy terms and odd, striking phrases. But they should not consider themselves exempt from the obligation of observing the ordinary rules of grammar, when there is nothing to be gained by the violation of such rules

Streetsville Friends Honor Ralph McGregor on Departure For Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 5.—The following extract was taken from Streetsville Review and will be of interest to many Campbellford friends:

About sixty members of the Merry Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fullerton on Thursday evening, July 15th, to bid farewell to Mr. Ralph McGregor, who is leaving for Campbellford to stay with his mother.

A pleasant social evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served.

Ralph, who was quite taken by surprise, replied very feelingly and appropriately, thanking the host and hostess and the members for their kindness.

Addresses were made by Mr. Dugald McGregor and others and a very pleasant evening was then brought to a close.

The Address.

Tralfalgar, July 15, 1926.

Dear Ralph:

We, your friends of the Merry Club, have gathered here tonight to spend one more evening with you before you leave our neighborhood. It was with deepest regret that we heard you were leaving us as we have had so many pleasant evenings together. You have always been willing to do your share with every undertaking.

Oh! how we shall miss your smiling face and cheerful words. But we realize that duty calls you and so we wish you God speed and good luck. We hope you will come back to visit us as often as possible.

We ask you to accept this kodak as a slight token oif our regard for you. We hope it will remind you of your friends in Tralfalgar and you may be sure we will always be thinking of you.

Signed on behalf of the Merry Club—William McCarron, Elmer Fullerton, Lillie D. Leslie.

Mr. Emer Fullerton made the presentation while Miss Lillie Leslie read the address.

MILLBROOK NEWS

Misses Jean Smith and Maud Benson, of Peterboro, are guests of ex-Warden A. J. and Mrs. Henderson.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE SHINING TOOL.

The shining tool, the willing hand—
Of all the wealth in all the land,
I know of nothing better.
Whatever greatness you have known,
Whatever gold you claim to own,
To these you are a debtor.

The soldier's sword, the sailor's gun,
In war a louder task have done,
Yet won no greater glory
Than worker's chisel, farmer's plow,
That served us then, that serve us now,
Unfamed in song or story.

And yet remember, for we must,
The tool without the hand will rust,
For toil must give it beauty;
The hand without the tool is naught,
For nothing ever has been wrought
By hands without a duty.

Thank heaven for a task to do,
Thank heaven heaven gave to you
A part in some endeavor,
For, though the hand shall lay it down,
The shining tool for shining crown,
Your work shall live forever.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE PRACTICAL ELEMENT IN RELIGION.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

There are people who are fanatic in religion and there are those who despise all religion and claim that it is a useless vagary of the mind to be ranked among other superstitious fears and with obedience to totems and taboos.

The modern, clear-eyed business man, however, is perceiving that in the center of all the cloud and smoke, of all the talk about faith, enthusiasm and feeling connected with religion, is a core of eminent practicality.

It pays better to be moral than immoral. It is healthier for the mind to keep the laws of religion. A man with faith in God gets along better with his neighbors and achieves better success in this world.

The youth who cultivates his spiritual nature gets more of a kick out of life than if he neglects his spiritual capacities.

Kathleen Norris calls attention to the very remarkable thing that was done in Kansas City. A number of hard-headed business men ran a full-page advertisement in the Kansas City Star, reminding young men and women that they should go to church and that they would get a better kick out of it than out of the usual nonsense of youthful antics.

After experimenting with religions and infidelities for a good many thousand years, the common sense of the race realizes that there is a central core of faiths which, regardless of one's individual opinions, is helpful and valuable to the ordinary man.

How to isolate this core and to insist upon it without troubling ourselves about its surrounding nebula is a problem yet before us.

POINCARE'S FISCAL BILL HAS LARGE MAJORITY IN THE SENATE

As First Step in the Financial Reform of France, It Increases the Revenue 2,500,000,000 Francs For the First Year.

FRANC TAKES JUMP FROM 36.60 TO $1.

PARIS, Aug. 5. —By 260 votes to 13, the French Senate yesterday passed in a single sitting the new taxation measures which Premier Poincare on Saturday rushed through the lower house. Thus as a first step in financial reform the revenue of the country for this year will be increased 2,500,000 000 francs and 9,600,000,000 next year.

Simultaneously with this success the franc has improved with spectacular rapidity, and last night stood at 178 to the pound and 36.6 to the dollar

These two events of the day in this hurried campaign for the salvation of the franc are however only incidental in this curious lightning campaign, where in already we have seen the Government shift its viewpoint and adapt its policy at least twice to the pressure of economic and financial necessity Though he came into office on a program of salvation by internal effort alone, tonight it seems definitely confirmed that Premier Poincare will, contrary to all he has said and intended during the last two months, seek ratification of the Washington and London debt agreeefents before the end of the parliamentary session and that he will thereafter seek foreign credits.

Policy Once Rejected by Chambers.

M. Caillaux was defeated because he adopted this policy, but somehow the whole atmosphere has changed since then and what the Chambers refused to Mr. Briand and Caillaux they may be perfectly willing in this whirlwind of excitement to accord to M. Poincare.

There is another matter in yesterday's news which two weeks ago would have excited the greatest interest and opposition. Side by side with his publication of the text of his proposed bill for the creation of a sinking fund with all its spectacular guaranteeing by its incorporation in the Constitution at Versailles by the two houses of Parliament M. Poincare yesterday from the Ministry of Finante issued a little note that he intends to seek from Parliament authorization of a new convention with the Bank of France permitting the bank to purchase for eign currencies for future defense of the franc, and for the "fortification of the metal reserve of the Bank of France as was recommended by the Commission of Experts."

To this announcement a line is added that "as a counterpart to the purchase of gold currencies the bank will be authorized to issue notes to a total which will not be included in the maximum limit of circulation."

This stretching of the faculty of the bank to increase its circulation on the basis of its newly acquired gold reserve is certain to rouse more opposition in Parliament than the other measures the Premier has so far announced, but it is an opposition which undeniably is failing daily in force, and there is little doubt that in the present frenzied campaign for national defense this camouflaged form of inflation will be adopted like everything else.

Criticism in the Senate.

There was not wanting in Senate criticism of new taxation measures passed yesterday nor warning that these heavy increases may prove greater than the country can easily bear and that they will be precursors of an economic crisis as the natural sucessor of the present financial crisis. Henry Cheron reporter of the Senate Finance Commission stated frankly that the commission felt there were serious objections to some of the Premier's proposals, but it bowed to his argument that every minute's delay was costing 11,000 francs and recommended the Senate to pass the bill as it had been adopted by the Chamber.

Francois Marsal, former Minister of Finance, who adopted the same attitude, did not hesitate, however, to warn the Government and country that these new taxes and the system which the Government was adopting must inevitably lead to an enormous increase in the cost of living and to the necessity for intensification of production. What he asked, was the Government going to do to compensate the country for the burden it was placing on taxpayers and on consumers

From his place on the front bench the Premier made the popular reply: "We will lower the pound."

That is the common French fashion of saying an effort will be made to raise the value of the franc, for no Frenchman from the Premier downward will ever admit that the franc is low. The contention is always that the pound and dollar are too high.

Premiers Appeal To Speed.

The Premiers' appeal to the Senate was all based on the necessity of quick action, just as M. Loucheur's was when last December he increased circulation and obtained a vote for 4,000,000,000 of taxation Neither he nor his colleagues in the Ministry were seeking from the present undertaking either glory or reward.

They were conscious that they risked the reverse judgment if the cost of living increased and when the time for paying the proposed new taxes came due. But they were conscious also that they were defending not only the franc and independence country, but the parliamenary institutions and the republic.

In one passage he admitted that the hurried bill of which he was asking passage was not perfect and that even mistakes had crept in. These mistakes could be rectified when Parliament examined next year's budget provisions. All that he stipulated was that the amount of new revenue should not be lowered.

With a celerity which did greater credit to its reputation for patriotism than to its financial judgment the Senate then galloped through the voting of the various articles of the bill, which next year will burden the country with an additional vote in opposition.

CROPS ARE GOOD ON DOURO FARMS

Heavy Rain at Beginning of Week Great Aid to Growth.

PASTURES BURNT.

DOURO, Aug. 5.—The heavy rain of Sunday night and Monday came just in time to prevent serious damage to crops. Spring crops look fine. Wheat is ripe and some is cut, also fall rye. Both are fair and in some cases good. Haying is about completed and contrary to early expectation there was a splendid crop. Several farmers say they never had a better hay crop. Corn is making wonderful growth and promises a good yield. Potatoes have not been very good yet on account of lack of rain. Root [illegible] look well. Apples, in the few orchards there are, will not yield anything like last year. Strawberries, wild and cultivated, were a heavy crop. Raspberies are now ripe and are a splendid crop. Gardens look fine now but suffered severely earlier in the season from cut worms and grubs, especially cabbage and cauliflower. Permanent pastures were getting pretty well burnt up but clover pastures held up well. The milk flour has decreased appreciably on most farms. The rain commencing at midnight fell heavily till nearly 8 o'clock a.m.

Injunction In Favor Of Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Co.

Action Taken By Company On Alleged Infringement of Patented Process.

Recently M. Justice Duclos granted an interlocutory injunction in favor of Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Co., Ltd., against Theodore Provost, ordering him to cease from selling, advertising, offering, delivering or trafficking in, under the name Kraft cheese or as the product of the Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Co., Ltd., cheese not made by that company; and further ordering him not to sell cheese packed and made up so as to resemble Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Co., Ltd., cheese, or packed or made up in any manner so as to create confusion, in the mind of a customer, with the petitioner's product. The whole with costs against the respondent.

The Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Company, Ltd., petition set up that Kraft cheese was their trade mark, the cheese having been first put out in this form by the company's president, Mr. J. L. Kraft.

The petition further recited that Kraft cheese was cheese got out by the petitioner's company in special loaf form, protected by pasteurizing and tinfoil, without rind or skin, thereby making it possible to keep the cheese in a uniformly moist condition without deterioration from mould or otherwise.

The petition further recited that persons have asked for Kraft cheese at the respondent's and were given cheese of another make, and it appears that this form of substitution was happening with frequency. The petition was accompanied by a number of affidavits and resulted in judgment referred to.

Many fancy buttons are made from milk. The liquid is separated from the cream and soured and then converted into crinold or galalith.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievabe record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of piles sufferers, and save the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.

DUTCH FARMERS ARE PROGRESSIVE

Because Holland is an agricultural nation the exceptional progress made there is agriculture since the war has attracted wide notice. The farmers buy the bulk of their materials including seed, fertilizer and equipment on a co-operative basis and two-thirds of their crops and dairy products are handled through co-operative agencies. Milk is sold on the percentage of butterfat it contains and this is having an effect on the productivity of the herds.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the head office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General.—In the Prairie Provinces, extreme heat has prevailed for several days, with very little rain, and crops, particularly on light land, have suffered. All crops are maturing rapidly. Cutting of winter wheat and rye has commenced in some localities. There has been practically no further damage from hail. In Quebec, there is plenty of moisture and continued favorable weather has been helpful to all crops. In Ontario, warm weather has prevailed during the past week, with occasional showers, and all growing crops have improved except in the south-western section of the province, where rain is badly needed. In the Maritime Provinces, excellent growing conditions continue, and all crops are doing well. In British Columbia, all crops are in need of rain. Details follow:—

Prairie Provinces

Alberta Western Area—Conditions continue to be satisfactory, with the exception that a small area southeast of Edmonton requires moisture, and scattered areas report that crops on light lands, and spring ploughing are in need of rain. Alberta Northeastern Area—Crops in summer fallows and new breaking area are generally reported to be progressing favorably, but crops on light lands and spring ploughing require moisture. Conditions continue unsatisfactory from Chipman to Vegreville. Alberta Southeastern Area—Unfavorable weather conditions continue, and there can be but a light yield in the most favored areas. The general outlook is mostly poor to bad. Prospects for winter grazing lands are unfavorable. Saskatchewan Northern Area—Crops are suffering severely from hot, dry weather, and yields generally, except summer fallow, will be light. Saskatchewan Southern Area—Grain is filling well in some districts, but in many areas is suffering from drought. Damage from hail is not extensive. Conditions throughout the province are less favorable than at the date of the last report. Manitoba Area — All grains are coming along quickly. Conditions generally are satisfactory, but rains would help filling. There are isolated reports of rust but so far these are not important.

Province of Quebec

Cutting of hay is general in the southern portions of the province, and is beginning in the north, an average crop is expected. Grain is doing well, and prospects are for an average yield. Corn has improved but will be only poor to fair. Roots and potatoes are in good condition, and promise a good yield. Tobacco is now making headway. Pastures are in good condition.

Province of Ontario

Fall wheat cutting is general. The crop is about thirty per cent. below average. Spring wheat, barley, and oats will be good average crops. Corn has improved with warm weather and will be a fair crop. Haying is about over except in backward sections. The crop has been well saved, but is slightly below the average. Roots are making good progress, and are a good average crop. All small fruits are plentiful, but peaches whil egood in sections, are on the whole below the average. Pastures are in fair condition, but would be benefited by a good rain.

Maritime Provinces

In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia haying is now general, and an average crop is expected. Potatoes show strong growth, and prospects are now for a good crop. Apples will be about sixty per cent. of average, with quality fair to good. Pastures are excellent. In Prince Edward Island crops generally are doing well. Hay is improving, but the yield will be affected by early heading.

Province of British Columbia

Grain harvesting is general, with an average yield indicated. Roots and potatoes are suffering from lack of moisture, and pasturage is drying up. Plums, peaches and Duchess apples are being shipped. The quality is excellent. The yield of apples will be above average. Apricots are practically over. Small fruits are nearly finished, the yield has been below average. Hops promise a

The sensible drink for summer meals is a glass of "Canada Dry"

AFTER all, why not serve "Canada Dry" for luncheon and dinner these hot summer days!

It is cooling and refreshing and ever so much better for you than most of the hot drinks you usually order.

—and it is one of the few warm weather beverages that you can drink liberally without regret. "Canada Dry" is so good and pure that it is a safe drink even for children.

Try a sparkling, bubbling bottle today and note how much cooler, keener and fresher it makes you feel. Here are two good recipes that we believe you will want to cut out and try:

"Canada Dry" Tea

To 1 cup of boiling water add a small teaspoon of tea. Steep until tea is dark amber in color. Strain and chill. Sweeten slightly —1 teaspoon of sugar is ample for the ordinary taste. Pour tea in tall ice tea glass to half the capacity and then fill with "Canada Dry." Serve immediately with cracked ice.

"Canada Dry" Sunshine Punch

Boil 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of water to a syrup and cool. Add the juice of 6 oranges and 6 lemons. Pour in punch bowl over cake of ice and add 4 bottles of "Canada Dry" and 1 quart of charged water. Serve at once. This makes 12 sherbet glasses.

Special Hostess Package

A new way of packing "Canada Dry." Ideal for home use. Twelve bottles in a substantial carton. You will be especially glad to have it handy for your dinners at home or when friends drop in unexpectedly. This Hostess Package is sold by all "Canada Dry" dealers.

CANDIDATE MAKES PREDICTION OF

Mr. Tummon said he was glad to be there, because he felt that he was coming home. He had been separated from the political connections of a lifetime by a gerrymander of a redistribution of the riding. His appearance at the meeting had brought him back to these old associations.

King's Procedure.

According to the Canadian constitution Parliament was elected for five years. Three and a half years after Mr. King was first returned to power, he went to the Governor-General and asked for a dissolution on the ground that he had not a sufficient majority to carry on the work of the government. As a matter of fact he had a majority of one or two over the combined strength of all the other parties in the House. In his Richmond Hill speech, he had said that all they had done was to mark time and draw their salaries. The result of the election was that the Conservatives jumped from 51 to 116 seats in the House. The Progressives dropped from 65 to 24 and the Liberals from 117 to 101. Eight Cabinet Ministers lost their seats, and the Premier made a ninth.

During their school days they had been taught the famous poem of Southey on the Battle of Blenheim. The lines tell of old Kasper sitting at the close of the working day watching his little grandson playing with an object that proved to be a human skull. Then the old man tells of the battle and says that in ploughing the fields he finds many such objects. "Such things must be," he adds, "after a famous victory.'

Mr. King walking down the field of battle, made many such finds. First, he picked up something large and round from West Peterboro. He picked up one from Durham,one from East Essex, another from South Renfrew, and so on. He rolled them all over, until he came to the ninth, and he handled that skull more tenderly than the others, for this one came from North York. He looked at them and said "Oh! Gordon, Oh! Graham, things like these must be after a famous victory."

Then Mr. King went to the Governor-General and asked that Parliament be called together in order to settle who was to carry on the work of government. On January 7th the members went to the Senate to hear the reading of the Kings speech, placed in the hands of the Governor-General by Mr. Mackenzie King. This speech contained promises of Rural Credits, dealt with the Hudson Bay Railway, Maritime Rights, the restoration of natural resources to the Province of Alberta, but not a word on the subject concerning which Parliament had been brought together.

From that time until the night of June 25, when with the government beaten three times in succession, Mr. King rushed out of the Chamber, accompanied by all his Ministers except Mr. Motherwell, who was left to talk in order to kill time, and went to the Governor-General, asking once more for a dissolution, the government was carried on by barter and bargain.

Quotes E. J. Garland.

"I want to prove the statement I have just made," E. J. Garland, said Mr. Tummon, the member for Bow River, speaking on behalf of the Progressive party after Mr. Forke had resigned, spoke of the full and open co-operation that had existed between the Liberal party and the Progressives. And it was just Mr. Meighens refusal to barter away the principles of Conservatism in return for Progressive support that brought his government down to defeat. As proof, Mr. Tummon again quoted Mr. Garland as saying that there had been no co-operation between Progressives and the gentlemen who sat on the government benches under the Meighen administration.

Reviews Current History.

Mr. Tummon asked his hearers to trace with him the steps that preceded the fall of the King administration. In February of the present year, Mr. Stevens made charges of mal-administration in the Department of Customs and Excise and had said that not only mal-administration, but corruption, inefficiency and dishonesty had existed for several months to the knowledge of the government. A committee consisting of 4 Liberals, 4 Conservatives and 1 Progressivea was appointed. Kennedy, the Progressive, had supported King in every vote in the House until the Customs debate came up. So nobody could say that the jury was not favorable to the accused. The committee was directed to extend its inquiries as far back to such period as its members should decide.

Mr. Tummon said he drew attention to this fact because it had often been said that conditions had been just as bad under previous onservative administrations. Well this committee had power to go back. The Liberal government knew this. The government had all the papers. Did anyone in that hall not believe that all these papers had been dug out in search for evidence that would offset the charges brought against the Liberal government? But nothing discreditable to any Conservative government was disclosed.

For four months the Customs Committee had pursued its investigations. It had held 415 sessions and examined 224 witnesses. Anyone who had followed the press reports of the investigations would agree that Stevens' charges were fully substantiated. Never before had such a record of corruption and inefficiency been laid at the door of any government in the Dominion of Canada.

They had to remember that all this evidence was given under oath. Goods made in the prisons of the United States and not allowed to be sold there were smuggled into Canada, to drive Canadian goods made by Canadian workers, off the counters of Canadian merchants. He urged the audience to pick up a copy of the report and see what it said in connection with the investigations and report, not merely by 4 Conservatives, but of 9 men, 5 of whom were the friends of the government.

They would find that the report stated that for four years the Department had steadily deteriorated under the former Minister Jacques Bureau. Let them get the report and see how employees of the Department, men who until two years ago, were tried and trusted, had becomes debauched by Jacques Bureau, their minister and boss, who debased them. They were disgraced now. But Bureau was permitted to escape and was elevated among the Senators of the Dominion of Canada by Mackenzie King. King was the man who now raised the constitutional issue, who declared that Canada was in danger of being relegated to the status of a Crown colony and who professed to see a rebellion ahead of the country. Mr. King did not base these statements upon the fact that dissolution was granted to the Conservatives, for Mr. Meighen had neither asked nor received dissolution at the time Mackenzie King made his veiled attack on the Governor-General. No, this was after he had rushed out of the House, leaving Mr. Motherwell to delay a vote by talk, while he made his request to the Governor-General, in the hope that he would be able to announce that there could be no censure by Parliament, because the Government had been dissolved. But the Governor-General said in effect, "No, another man controls a larger group than you. I cannot dissolve the House until he has been given a chance to govern."

The new Government proceeded with the Order papers as they had been left the night before and completed the investigation. On three votes in the House they got a majority and carried motions of censure on King and Boivin.

No Constitutional Issue.

There was no constitutional issue, declared Mr. Tummon emphatically. The real issues were whether fraud, inefficiency and maladministration were to be condemned or condoned in the Dominion of Canada, whether they were to have the sane legislation of a government under Mr. Meighen or the legislation of Mr. King, which benefitted another country, whether they were going to return to power, the man who laughed at his promises and regarded them as a chart to aid him into office, who laughed at unemployment, who enthusiastic applause.

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Tummon took his seat amid laughed at a policy designed to provide work for Canadian workers, who laughed at the people's verdict on October 29 last year, and who, when he could laugh no longer, talked of rebellion and of the days of 1837. In Mr. Meighen they had a man whose ability, honesty and integrity had never been questioned, a man who stood at all times by a policy of Canada for Canadians.

Hon. J. R. Cooke.

"In olden times," declared Mr. Cooke, who spoke before Dr. Embury, "before an important announcement was made, some one was sent ahead to ring a bell. I might consider that the reason for my speaking first is to announce that Dr. Embury and Mr. Tummon are to speak to you on Federal affairs. You have to-day selected Dr. Embury unanimously. It must be pleasant for him to realize that whereas almost a year ago, two other contestants ran for this position. This year you have declared he should be the sole choice of this convention.

Reasons For Resignation.

"The events of the past few months in Federal affairs have passed with such rapidity that this gathering to-day is anxious to hear the conditions which forced Mackenzie King to resign. The reasons which called for this election were not only unique but without precedent since the days of Confederation. There is already every indication that it will be one of the bitterest campaigns ever brought on. It has brought about, through charges made with regard to the corrupt methods by which Mackenzie King has tried to carry on. Sworn evidence has uncovered vicious corruption. The Hon. Mackenzie King has the brazen audacity to endorse and approve what even his own followers had opposed on the floor of the House. Even in the case of the Progressives, the startling revelations forced them in all decency to withdraw their support of the King Government. These facts are sworn records of Parliament itself. It was upon the ground of the Governor-General's refusal to dissolve Parliament that Mackenzie King based his charge of violation of the constitution. He hopes to be carried to victory on the slogan, "Down with the Governor-General."

Bonds With Old Country

Wherever the Anglo-Saxon race is supreme in Canada, the ties binding us to the Motherland are still strong enough to stand all efforts like those of Mr. King for the past five years to weaken the British Empire. In building up Canada, Ireland, England and Scotland gave of their best. Men and women smarting from the sting of poverty turned with longing eyes to the new world. The spirit with which they took up their new duties in this land, should animate those controlling the destinies of our country today."

Warden G. B. Airhart

Warden G. B. Airhart, in an extempore speech, expressed the pleasure it gave him to be associated on the platform with men who had one purpose in mind—the interest of Canada and Empire. He welcomed all to the convention. He was glad that Hastings-Peterborough was not divided but united behind the man who could carry the banner of Conservatism to success. Dr. Embury would try his uttermost but would do better with people assisting rather than with their criticizing. Dr. Embury needed all assistance, and given this, there was no fear of the result of the election.

John A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P., said: "They had in this great country of Canada, a heritage they were all proud of. They had one of the greatest countries under the sun. There was no other country with equal possibilities. There were no more stalwart people than ours. How must it grieve the true citizens to see their stalwart sons going by thousands and tens of thousands into the States."

He believed the heart of the Canadian people was honest and that they had been following the scandals for the last six months with feelings of disgust. Referring to the Hon. Mackenzie King, Mr. Sexsmith said: "What he says yesterday, he denies tomorrow, and what he denies tomorrow, he recalls the next day." He agreed with Mr. Tummon that there is no constitutional issue at the present time. What Hon. Mackenzie King first declared was the Governor-General's fault, he now tried to show was that of the Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Mr. Sexsmith stated "I would like to know that the people would on September 14th cast an intelligent vote, and if so they will cast it in the interests of Hon. Arthur Meighen and his party. If the people vote for Mackenzie King, then I will not have the love of my citizenship as in the past. Criticising Mr. King's conduct regarding the Governor-General's attitude, Mr. Sexsmith declared the Liberal leader said in effect: "I am asking for a dissolution, but I don't really want one." Mr. Sexsmith expressed himself as confident of the result in Hastings-Peterborough of the general election.

Business Meeting

At the annual business meeting which preceded the convention, the question of raising the money to defray the expenses of organizing the convention was debated. Hon. J. R. Cooke volunteered to assume the entire obligation but, on the motion of R. A. Elliot who declared the members representing the electors in the house had sufficient criticism to withstand without being called upon to finance the organization, the meting, while appreciating the ofefr of Mr. Cook, decided to defray expenses by the method of taking up a collection.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Officers Elected

Hon. Presidents: Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Howard Ferguson, Hon. J. R. Cooke, and E. C. Squire, retiring president of the Association.

President—George West, Madoc.
1st Vice President — George Bailey, Harold, Reeve of Rawdon.
2nd Vice President — John A. Sexsmith, Havelock.
3rd Vice President — Mrs. E. J. Mathieson, Havelock.
Secretary—R. A. Elliott, Deloro.
Treasurer — C. W. Thompson, Madoc, Reeve of Madoc township.

Reports Adopted

R. A. Elliott, the secretary, read the minutes which were adopted on the motion of W. J. Hill, Madoc, seconded by C. H. Barlow, Havelock.

The secretary also read the treasurer's report which showed a balance on hand of $31.70. On the motion of W. J. Hill, seconded by G. West, the treasurer's report was adopted.

The passing of a resolution moved by G. West, expressing confidence in the party leaders and the singing of the National Anthem closed the day's proceedings.

WEDDING BELLS.

ANDERSON—McCAMMON.

KINGSTON, Aug. 5.—On Friday afternoon at St. Luke's church, the marriage was solemnized by the rector, Rev. J. De Pencier Wright, B.A., of Lyla, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. McCammon, Nelson street, and William A. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson, Peterboro. The bride was becomingly frocked in blue georgette and satin with hat, gloves and stockings of silver grey. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley. The bridal party was met at the door by the surpliced choir who preceded the bride up the aisle singing the wedding hymn. Mr. Bert Couper presided at organ and during the signing of the register Mrs. W. H. Axford sang, "O Perfect Love." Buffet refreshments were served at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left by motor for Ottawa the bride wearing navy and rose georgette and the gift of the groom, a Marten fur. The young couple will live in Toronto where Mr. Anderson is attached to the Department of Public Highways. Many handsome gifts were received by the bride and groom including two cheques from their parents. Among the out-of- town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson and Mr. James Anderson, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. D. Elliott, Belleville, and Mrs. P. Jakins, Lindsay.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GEORGE REYNOLDS.

NOHHAM, Aug. 5.—The funeral services of the late Mrs. George Reynolds, who passed away on Saturday afternoon, were held at the home of her son, Herman, in Cramahe Township, on Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. James E. Beckel, of Castleton, assisted by Rev. J. F. Everson, of Norham.

The deceased was in her 84th year and was born in Percy Township, where she spent her younger days. She spent all her married life on the farm where she passed away. She was in failing health for several months, but was confined to her bed for only a few weeks. For many years Mrs. Reynolds was a regular attendant and faithful member of the Norham Methodist Church. She was particularly fond of her home and family and excelled as a mother and friend to her childdren. Her husband predeceased her twenty years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and one son, Mrs. George McAllister and Mrs. David Cryderman, of Norham; Mrs. Thos. Wilson, of Campbellford, and Herman, with whom she made her home.

The pallbearers were George and Gerald McAllister, Regnold Reynolds, Ernest Wilson (Campbellford), Thomas Wilson, Jr., (Oshawa) and William Abernethy (Campbellford). Interment took place in Stone's Cemetery.

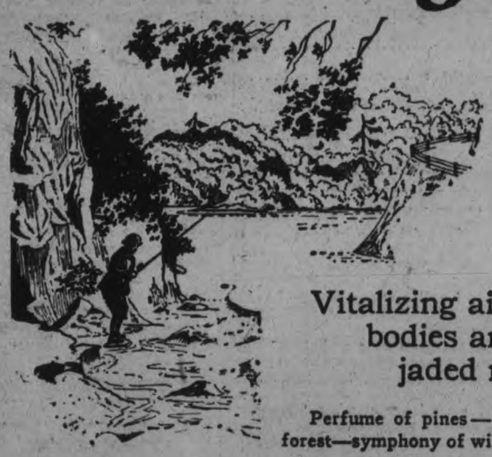
There's Health on the Highways



Vitalizing air revives tired bodies and relieves jaded nerves

Perfume of pines—earthy odour of virgin forest—symphony of wind and waterfall.

When you're drowsy with business—when you need a few days off—try a motor trip on Ontario's highways.

These magic trails lure people of town and city to lake, stream and woodland. They lead to enjoyment, hospitality and health.

Know the highways, for they are yours. You will learn of their usefulness and extent. You will understand the intricacy and costliness of highway construction and repair.

These good roads belong to you and other motorists; it is you who will bear the cost of their maintenance. Use them sanely. Drive moderately for safety's sake and to avoid unnecessary destruction of road surfaces.

Reasonable speed limits are provided by law. You are urged to observe these limits. Fines are in store by law for those who do not.

THE HON. GEO. S. HENRY, Minister of Highways
S. L. SQUIRE, Deputy Minister

Issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

Evening Examiner "Ideal Fashions" by Jean Belle Hamilton

A Decidedly New Frock

New York and Palm Beach agree on the chic of this decidedly new long-sleeved frock. The material, a flat crêpe in printed design, forecasts a mode which women will be quick to adopt for smart afternoon wear. New details include yoke front and back with kimono shoulders, versatile tie collar, inverted plait at side seams, and narrow belt passing through bound buttonholes front and back. Long full sleeves are joined to the yoke and gathered into narrow bands at the wrists. No. 1220 is in sizes 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¾ yards 36-inch, or 3⅛ yards 40-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch bordered material, as pictured. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

(Copyright, McClure Syndicat.e)

One of the most potent of gems is the jacinth assigned as today's talismanic gem. The wearer of this stone may look for a pleasant and safe journey if he travels today. Disease will not touch him even though he pass through the midst of an epidemic. However, to be effective, this stone must be worn around the neck.

This quality is further abetted by the emerald, today's nata gem. To fluency of speech this jewel adds the power to read the future accurately and speak confidently of future events.

Yellow is the color advocated for wear today. Those wearing it are believed to be the recipient of some unexpected generosity.

The scarlet geranium brings with it high hope and a healthy body for those who wear it.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1926

This should be one of the lucky days, according to astrology, which finds various strongly benefic aspect active.

Mercury gives promise of fair fortune for writers of every sort and for publishers as well as editors.

It is an especially auspicious time for settling financial affairs which relate to future business plans.

Again Venus appears to smile on the world and all the finer things that belong to life should benefit.

Art and music will have a great impulse all through the winter, when remarkable collections of pictures and productions of opera will nterest all the people.

This should be a lucky wedding day, making for industry on the part of both bride and bridegroom.

Farmers should benefit at this time in some manner not counted on, for after many disappointments they are to gain unexpected profits.

Floods and heavy rains, severe electrical storms as well as seismic disturbances may be expected in the early autumn.

One of the signs of the times will be a tenacity for fame indicated by men and women prominent in the past, the seers foretell, and it is wise for the middle-aged to be philosophical in the era dominated by the young.

Visits of rulers or important men in public affairs will be numerous before the end of the year. They will study the nations foreign to them and will seek wisdom, the seers declare.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be cautious in all their affairs, domestic as well as financial. The year may bring many uncertainties.

Children born on this day may be exceedingly nervous and high-strung. These subjects of Leo will need careful guidance.

PEACE OF MND.

When I pass on, and say goodby—in plainer language, when I die—I wonder what the folk will say—that is, the folk I know today.

We all, no doubt, have had that, thought and, in the spirit of it caught have pondered o'er our honest worth to self and others, on this earth.

It's nice to think—and then not mind, whatever fault you think they'll find. For if you've played the life game fair, you know, at least, you've done your share.

And yet there is a peace of mind, in knowing thoughts of you are kind. The man who lives and spreads the smile, makes friends who make it all worth while.

WOMAN LIQUOR SELLER

A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE

I hadn't told Jerry all of Joan's story, and when he remarked that it was a good thing that Barry Cornwall was dead he couldn't realize what a good thing for all of us it was. He was ignorant of the fact of the fifty thousand dollars and that I had been concerned in the clearing up of the Miss Cleaver suicide.

He said something, however, about all of the Robinson people being a bad lot and that he was glad I was out of t.

He was looking straight at me as he spoke, and for the first time the fact that I was not in the Morton Department Store, but here with him on the street corner in working hours, entered his brain and he asked:

"Why are you not working today? Did Miss Meredith get you off with her father?"

"Miss Meredith had nothing to do with it. Mr. Robinson does not know that I am acquainted with his stepdaughter. I discharged myself.

"This morning when I left you so abruptly I saw Mr. Robinson coming down the street and I wanted to evade a scene, and so I ran away."

"Now you are sensible, Judy. Now you will come and marry me. Would you mind after we have eaten that little dinner I have described to you if I drove along a little further to a tiny white house next to a little white steepled church and we were married?"

"Why, of course, I would mind, Jerry."

"You don't mean that, do you, Judy?"

"Mean what? A person can mind something without being 'agin' it, you know."

I thought Jerry was going to hug me right on the street, and I stepped up onto the running board of the car so that his arms about me would look as though he were helping me in.

"Aren't you going to marry me?" he asked. "It is a cunning little church."

"We'll eat the chicken first, my dear," I said a bit mischievously. "Sufficient unto the hour is the evil thereof."

"'Jerry, I am sorry,' I added hastily as I glimpsed h s greatly troubled face.

He didn't say a word, however, until he drew up to the hospital steps, where he helped me out with great formality. I knew he was still hurt.

Joan came down into the hallway very tired. She told me that Lela was resting quite comfortably.

"Let's go and have something to eat," she said. "I have just remembered that I haven't had anything to eat today."

I told her of the little farm house among the syringa bushes where we had been invited to dine.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

DANIEL O'CONNELL AND MARY O'CONNELL.

The following beautiful expression of love was written by the great Irish patriot, crator and lawyer, Daniel O'Connell. To his sweetheart? No: to his wife, after twenty-three years of married life. And it is but one of many such epistles, written up to the end of the O'Connell's thirty-three years of happiness together.

"My own and only love, it was Kate (his daughter) that wrote the letter I got this morning, and I do most tenderly, tenderly love Kate. Yet, sweetest Mary I could have wished to see one line also in the handwriting which gives me recollections of the happiest hours of my life and still blesses one with inexpressible sweetness and comfort when we sweetheart darling are separate. All the romance of my life envelopes you and I am as romantic in my love this day as I was twenty-three years ago when you dropped your not unwilling hand into mine.

"Darling will you smile at the love-letters of your old husband? Oh no my Mary my own Mary will remember that she has had the fond and faithful affections of my youth and that if years have rolled over they have given us no cause to respect or love each other less than we did in early life."

O'Connell's "own Mary" was his cousin Mary O'Connell whom he married when he was twenty-seven.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

BLANCHE.

There is a large class of feminine names which originated from the complexion. Of these, one of the most popular is Blanche, meaning fair, or white. Its origin, in turn, is from blec, the term by which absence of color is denoted by all tongues in Western Europe. The French word for white is blanche, but the term was not employed as a feminine name in early times except in poetry.

Blach, Blancus and Blanchard appear in Domesday and indicate the successive steps toward the acceptance of Blanche as a feminine name, but there is no record of her use as such in that worthy historica record. Blanchefleur (white flower) was the name of the mother of Sir Tristam. The first historical Blanche was Blanca of Navarre, the queen of Sancho IV., of Castille. Her granddaughter, the child of Eleanor Plantaganet, whom King John used as a lure by which to detach Phillippe Auguste from the support of Arthur of Brittany, was Blanche of Castille and her popularity passed the name on through the royal family for generations.

It also formed the origin for the term La Reina Blanche for the dowager queen of France, a term also associated with the custom of wearing a wreath of white flowers, inaugurated by Blanche of Castille. The daughter of Edward I. was called Blanche in honor of his friendship with her son. Thus the name was firmly established among French and British nobility, as well as in Italy and Spain. France had only the one form, Blanche. England preferred the name without the final 'e.' Italy derived the musical Bianca, but Spain preserved the original Blanca, borne by Blanca of Navarre. Portugal slipped an 'r' in place of the 'l' and spells it Branca.

Blanche's talismanic stone is the emerald, which insures her protection from evil and promises her great success. If this gem is also her birthstone, she has the augury of a happy marriage. The hawthorne, signifying hope is her flower. Wednesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

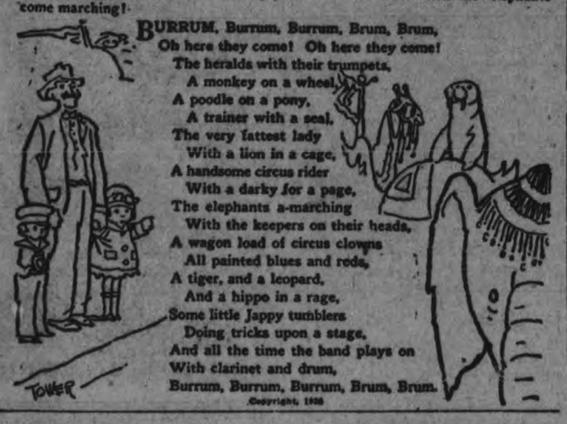
The Circus Parade

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

A GOOD circus can be the vehicle for much first hand educational material as well as one of the greatest of all thrills in childhood. The little child will recognize the friends of his A B C book and learn new names; he will appreciate the clowns and come away half dazed, but seeped in happiness. The older children can be told of the training it takes for feats of skill; of the art in clowning; of the training of the animals and the patience and kindness it requires, for wild animals will not tolerate cruelty; and of the life and habits of the animals. Many of the side shows are not constructive and may be definitely harmful in suggestiveness and nervous stimulus to children. If the children cannot attend the circus proper, there is always the parade. If I were blind I think I should still go to the parade if only to hear that scream of joy from the children when the elephants come marching!



BURRUM, Burrum, Burrum, Brum, Brum,
Oh here they come! Oh here they come!
The heralds with their trumpets,
A monkey on a wheel,
A poodle on a pony,
A trainer with a seal,
The very fattest lady
With a lion in a cage,
A handsome circus rider
With a darky for a page,
The elephants a-marching
With the keepers on their heads,
A wagon load of circus clowns
All painted blues and reds,
A tiger, and a leopard,
And a hippo in a rage,
Some little Jappy tumblers
Doing tricks upon a stage,
And all the time the band plays on
With clarinet and drum,
Burrum, Burrum, Burrum, Brum, Brum.

RED RASH ON FACE AND NECK

Formed Eruptions. Suffered Much at Night. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with a rash that broke out on my face and neck. It was very red, and the irritation caused me to scratch it in my sleep. After scratching, little, sore eruptions formed. I suffered much at night, and my sleep was broken.

"It looked hopeless until I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After a few days the eruptions started to heal, and after using five cakes of Soap and five or six boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) G. Harding, 2233 Florian St., Montreal, Que.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment now and then, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum also is ideal for the skin.

Daily Short Story

A SILVER HEART

Miss Araminta Dodge was fitting Emily's new dress—it was a dainty thing, all frills and cunning rosettes—a rosy cloud of a party dress to wear to the Alisons' birthday party.

The dressmaker was silent as she took some quick jerky stitches, and finally folded the dress in white tissue paper and packed it in a box. "Wait a minute, Emily," she said, and hurried out of the room. Emily could hear the little woman moving about the upstairs rooms. Then down she came, holding something clenched in her hand. "Emily," began the dressmaker, "years ago when I was young and gay like you, Emily, I was considered the best dancer anywhere around," Araminta's black eyes snapped with growing excitement. "Nowadays, folks say I'm an old maid because I was disappointed in love, but mark my words, Em'ly, there's more married women disappointed in love than there are old maids. Sounds cattish, but it's true. a wasn't really disappointed in love but the only man I would marry had I nasty temper just like mine, and we quarreled over the silliest thing—this!" She opened her hand and displayed a small heart-shaped trinket of tarnished silver.

"How pretty!" exclaimed Emily.

"It came from Persia or some such outlandish place," answered Araminta. "My cousin, Alexander Douglas, was a sea captain and he brought it home from this Persia place, and he told me it was a love charm—he told me if I'd write the name of the man I loved on a bit of paper and put it in there, I'd certainly be married within a year to the right man. Well, I did that, and wore it to a party under a dress that was about like yours here, allowing for changes in style, and when I was dancing with the right one, the charm tumbled out and he picked it up. Of course I couldn't explain it, and he was jealous when I said my cousin had brought it—and so we quarreled—and he married another girl, and here I am, happy as a clam at high tide!" Araminta laughed cheerily over the last words, but her eyes were misty.

"I want you should wear it tonight, Emily," she said as the girl left. "You tell me afterwards—if you meet Mister Right!"

After she was all dressed for the party, Emily thought of the love charm and tucked it inside of her dress. "It will please the dear old thing," she thought sympathetically. Her own feelings were rather ruffled about the neglect of Stanley Case since he had returned from New York—why did Stanley avoid her? She admitted to herself that Stanley was her "Mister Right," but resolved to forget him as soon as possible.

The Alisons' birthday party for Bertha Alison, who was seventeen, was a country-wide affair. Emily Rice saw old friends whom she had not met for ages, and among them was Captain Case, Stanley's father, a handsome, gray-haired man of sixty, now a widower. Stanley was there, too, and he came straight to the dark-haired girl in the rosy frock.

"The sweetest rose of all," whispered Stanley boldly.

Emily's laugh tinkled, but she was happy. As they passed Captain Case, Emily noticed that he was staring at her rose-colored frock, and it happened that she pulled out her handkerchief just then, and something silver and rose flew out with it and rolled across the floor. Emily had an impression that Captain Case picked it up. When they came around the second time, he stopped them and drew them aside. Stanley looked puzzled.

"You lost this, didn't you, Emily?" asked the captain, giving her the love charm.

Emily blushed. "Yes, thank you, Captain Case. Someone lent it to me to wear this evening. It came from Persia," she added, beginning to feel embarrassed at the handsome captain's silence.

"I know—I've seen it before—thirty years ago," he said. "It busted off my engagement with my first little sweetheart—a mighty nice little woman, Emily, but of course nothing so handsome as Stanley's mother. She was a woman to be proud of."

Emily was suddenly speechless with embarrassment, but the old captain was garrulous. "It's a love charm, Stan," he said teasingly. "Now, Emily, I'm surprised that a pretty girl like you needs that!"

"She doesn't," said Stanley, so promptly, that the old man laughed. "I haven't had time to tell her yet about my new job—and everything!"

"Don't delay, lad," said his father seriously. "And don't make a fool of yourself by being jealous. Emily, my dear, maybe you'd let me have the charm, seeing as you don't need it."

"It really isn't mine, Captain Case. Perhaps you can guess——" she stopped suddenly. The charm was Araminta's secret!

The captain was fumbling with the charm and suddenly it opened on a tiny invisible hinge. Within was a tiny bit of white paper with some writing in faded violet ink. The captain showed it to them. "Stanley Case" was the name that Araminta had traced so many years ago.

"Stanley Case—present!" laughed young Stan, holding Emily's hand tightly, and Captain Stanley Case put the love charm in his pocket and turned away with a twinkle in his eye. "I'll go and find Araminta," he said. "Maybe it'll be a double wedding children."

KAWARTHA PARK NEWS

KAWARTHA PARK, Aug. 4.—Services in Kawartha Park Chapel are at 3 o'clock every Sunday afternoon. The chapel was erected last September and replaces the tent used for the past five or six years. The heavy snow of last winter caused considerable damage to the roof but this has been repaired. Rev. C. G. Williams of Toronto was the preacher on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Geale and Miss Helen Geale of Whitby are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers at "Uncle Dick's Cabin."

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Glover and sons of Peterboro are at their cottage at the Park.

Mrs. J. W. McKinney of Newcastle, Pa., is building a new cottage at the Park between "Shingle Shanty" and "Uncle Dick's Cabin."

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Perry of Peterboro are at their home at the Park.

New Locks.

The improvement made by the new locks at Young's Point is remarked as each boat locks through. The locks are enlarged and there are many improvements and conveniences which are of great benefit and are an aid to navigation. The work now being done is the building of a pier at the north end of the canal and the levelling and sodding of the grounds. The village will be more attractive in appearance than ever when the work is completed and it is being accomplished with great despatch. Tourists are kind in their praises of the new lock and its surrounding.

Among those registered at the "Lakeview House", Young's Point, are:

Mr. H. Mackay of Rochester; Mr. William Patterson, Rochester; Mackay Patterson, Miss Ellis, Dr. and Mrs. Phillips, Rochester; Mr. Bert Give, Chicago; Mrs. McAdams and children, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Bundy, Miss Brown, Mr. Butler, Buffalo.

Mrs. Bundy of Buffalo caught a four-pound bass last week fishing in Lake Katchewanooka with her guide Jack McIlmoyl. Mrs. Bundy is a guest at the Lakeview House, Young's Point.

"Proper Food and Exercise," by ARTHUR A. McGOVERN Former physical director, Cornell Medical College.

Too much direct sun endangers health

DON'T LIE AROUND IN A WET BATHING SUIT

SUMMER heat seriously affects people whose organs are not functioning properly. You cannot afford to take chances by being in poor physical condition during the terrific heat of the summer months.

Summer weather calls for much lighter food than the substantial fare that the body needs in the winter. Precaution should be taken that we do not partake too heavily of fuel foods, such as sugar, starch and fats.

Sunstroke and heat prostrations generally affect a person whose sweat glands do not function, as this is one of nature's ways of eliminating heat and acids from the body. For those people who never perspire every care must be taken to avoid the hot sun. While on this point I strongly urge those who cannot sweat to immediately consult a physician or a reputable physical instructor as to the proper procedure to take to bring these eliminating organs back to life. This can be done by ray baths, hot tub baths, exercising in woolen underwear, rubbing the body with olive oil. Perspiration means elimination. Those who cannot enjoy a good sweat cannot know complete good health.

WITNESSES FEAR SWIFT REPRISAL OF MURDER RING

Investigation Into Osage Killings Halted by Paucity Of Evidence.

THERE ARE REASONS

Death Struck Speedily Any Who Knew Too Much About Sombre Deeds.

BY BRUCE CATTON.
NEA Service Writer.

PAWHUSKA, Okla.—Why was the investigation into the Osage murders halted so abruptly?

It got under way with a great fanfare of trumpets. Federal officials promised there would be numerous indictments, many murders would be cleared up and every member of the so-called "murder ring" would be brought to book.

But after a session of little more than a week the federal grand jury most unexpectedly recessed. It had indicted two men and cleared up—if the indictments stand—one of the seventeen murders. The man who is openly referred to here as the real power in the group of slayers is not under charges. Neither is the man who, everyone in Pawhuska says, paid out a large sum of money a couple of years ago to head off a former investigation.

And most of Oklahoma is asking Why?

Doubts Are Needless.

Here in Pawhuska almost no one thinks that William K. Hale, picturesque cattleman who is under indictment for engineering the murders, will ever be punished. The government's case will fade away, they say, until at last either the indictment will be dismissed or Hale will be acquitted after a short trial.

There are rumors of "influence"—mysterious rumors that few will discuss openly.

Others have it that the power of Hale's organization kept witnesses from talking. Pressure, political and otherwise, prevented needed evidence from being brought to light, they say.

Apparently, however, there is no need to fear that the murderers will be allowed to go unmolested.

On the day that the grand jury recessed a prominent man, a former partner of Hale, who had been called as a witness, was arrested and held in $10,000 bail on a charge of perjury. Now it is reported that the recess was called so that he could be tried and sent to prison before any more witnesses are heard.

This, it is said, is because so many witnesses were afraid to talk. The government, accordingly, decided to oppose to their fear a fear of imprisonment. The grand jury will reconvene in the middle of February. Then, it is predicted, with the man now under arrest beginning a stiff sentence, the timorous witnesses will be less reluctant to give their testimony, and more indictments can be had.

Here in Pawhuska you can understand why witnesses are afraid.

Why They're Afraid.

They tell you how, a couple of years ago, a secret service man was killed as he started back to Washington after investigating the murders. They tell how an Indian who had gone to the authorities to tell what he knew was poisoned. They tell how the white doctor who attended him, and knew who poisoned him, was called to his door one evening and shot to death. They tell how a lawyer who was fighting to protect an Indian client from the murder ring's designs was pushed down an elevator shaft to his death in an Oklahoma City hotel.

That is the sort of thing that has these prospective witness wondering if it is wise to tell what one knows or not.

And that, apparently, is why the federal investigation was halted so suddenly.

But the federal investigation will be resumed. And it looks as though the members of the Osage murder ring, in spite of their gunmen and "blood and iron" policies, will eventually be punished.

CHURCH SOCIAL WELL ATTENDED

Immaculate Conception Parish Effort is Great Success.

CALF AS PRIZE.

The social held last evening on the grounds of St. Joseph's Hospital, under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception parish, was very successful and well attended. A large number of people were present for the occasion, and appeared to enjoy a thoroughly good time. The booths did a rushing business all evening, and the country store had its quota of buyers for a varied range of pretty and useful articles of all types, while the Woodbine Orchestra provided excellent music from an elevated stand. An object of interest to the patrons was the thoroughbred Holstein calf which was offered in connection with a guessing contest of the number of grains of wheat contained in a glass jar. The guesses ranged all the way from three thousand to one million, and the lucky winner of the amiable little black and white calf will be determined next Tuesday evening, when the count takes place.

The young ladies of the church had charge of the booths which dispensed ice cream, soft drinks, candy and home-made cooking and coffee. Miss Stella Brady, president of the Sodality of the Immaculate Conception parish, was in charge of the main booth, while Miss L. Murdock had the second booth. Miss Louise Flynn superintended the fish pond and the country store was supervised by Miss Sadie Flynn and the Misses Murphy, with Messrs. Jack Primeau and Dan Leonard in charge of the evening sale of articles. Mr. J. Morency looked after the popular game of "Kill the Cat," and a number of gentlemen sold tickets on the calf, including P. J. Devlin, E. Stewart, Wm. Crough, P. O'Toole and Messrs. O'Brien.

The Woodbine Orchestra, whose music was much enjoyed, was composed of the following players: Frank Kearney, piano, D. Morrison, violin, Joseph Cairns, saxaphone, and Lex McCormick, traps.

SPEAKS ON TARIFF.

Reductions of Automobiles Sham and Hoax, He Says.

NORTH BAY, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Standing at the "Portal of the great North," as he himself put it, Premier Meighen last night declared his readiness to co-operate with the Ontario Government in a practical plan to "get something done" in the development of Northern Ontario water pawer. "I want to give assurance here that upon the expiry of any grants or rights made by statute, when those do expire, it will be the policy of any government of which I am the head to meet at once the government of this province and co-operate with them in a political plan to get something done to meet the aspirations of people of this district."

Mr. Meighen had trenchant phrases for the accomplishments of the King administration.

The tariff reductions on automobiles in the Robb Budget were "the most malodrous sham and hoax that any government ever perpetuated on an unsuspecting people," the Premier said.

He described Mackenzie King as struggling desperately for some issue other than the customs report.

PETES, MINUS MANY REGULARS BEAT PONIES 5-2 IN KINGSTON

Jeff Hardill Holds the Home Team To Five Hits.

GOOD SUPPORT.

Halbert and Britton Make Seven Errors at Crucial Moments.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—With a much patched up team, a pitcher playing in the outfield, Shiner Johnston at short, and an outfielder at first, to say nothing of a second string catcher, Peterborough defeated Kingston at the Fair Grounds last night by the score of 5 to 2. Jeff Hardill turning in a fine brand of ball, and being given fine support throughout to win. The Petes jumped on Cairns right off the reel, and really won the game in the first inning, on solid hitting, and after that they held Kingston off for the balance of the game.

Hardill let the Kingston sluggers down with five singles, and only a couple of times was in real danger of losing. His support, however, held up well at the crucial stages, whereas Kingston's keystone combination of Britton and Halbert never was worse, making seven errors and generally being much below form. Cairns was bumped pretty hard all through the game and was lucky to get out from under the five runs scored against him. Hardill was wild at times, but tightened up with men on the sacks.

The Petes went after Cairns with a vengeance in the first inning. With one out Rose cracked out a double, and Ash and Helson singled, Rose counting. Halbert then bobbled Jack Hall's hit and the runner was safe. The Kingston second baseman then threw wild to third, and two more runs counted.

Kingston got one back in the second on Johnston's error and Arniell's double, but the Petes came right back to retrieve the run in the third on singles by Ash and Helson and two errors by Britton.

In the fourth the Petes landed their final counter on singles by Hardill and Ash and an error by Halbert. Kingston got their final run in the fifth on a single, a stolen base, a passed ball, and an error by Helson.

After that, the Petes were invincible, and once Hardill fanned Cairns for the third out, with Purvis on third. In the ninth Kingston tried to stage a rally and got a man as far as second, but Batstone ended the game with a puny roller to Rose. The Petes played together better than they have here this season. Minus Wolfe, Harrison, Holyman, Heckman and Swanston, the visitors were but a shadow of their former greatness, but they were good enough to serve up the best brand of ball displayed by a visiting team here this year.

COGS WIN AND STAY IN RACE

Get Into Play-off For Wright Trophy By Defeating Keene.

SCORE 5 TO 3.

Cognawaga's hitting and Keene's dizzy work on the bases gave Cogs a 5 to 3 victory at Lakefield, last evening, when the two teams battled to decide the first half of the East Peterbrough Baseball League. They will next play a series for the Wright Trophy, the winner to meet Crescents, who won the city series, for a place in the O. B. A. A. semi-final.

Good pitching by Billingsley and Robertson and some snappy infielding from both teams, with a couple of fine catches by Cripps made the game interesting throughout. Keene slapped a fast double play on the Cogs and the club-men kicked back by stopping several rallies when Keene had bright chances to score. Jim McCarthy after getting away to a bad start did some fine work at short and Crary worked well with McGee in stopping Keene runners at second.

Jim McCarthy's fumble an interference play on Smith with a passed ball. A wild pitch and Rookes single through short gave Cogs two runs in the first.

Keene got one back in the second when M. McCarthy walked, made second and third and scored on I. Fletcher's infield out. A wild pitch as E. McCarthy fanned, followed by another to Hall and McCarthy's jaunt to third developed another run in the third when McCarthy went home on Hall's out at first.

Cogs came back with two more in their third after two were gone. Billingsley hit and scored on Rookes three-bagger to deep centre. Graham's single into right scored Rooke. Cripps also hit but Crary fanned to retire the side.

Keene tallied again in the fifth. The third strike on I. Fletcher went through McGee and the runner worked his way to third to score on J. McCarthy's single.

The sixth saw Billingsley's slow work on grounders put C. Robertson and Whelan on the runways. A. Fletcher hit to right, and Graham's return peg to the plate got Robetson for an easy out. M. McCarthy popped to the pitcher. M. Robertson singled and the return peg, from Cripps got Whelan at third. It was dumb work by Keene and the opportunity to get some runs did not come again. In their half of the frame, after Crary and McGee had fanned, Weese hit and made second on the catcher's wide throw to get him off first and was hit home by Wilson for the last run of the game.

TORONTO WINS DOUBLE HEADER FROM SYRACUSE

Leafs Jump Back Into Second Place in League Standing.

BALTIMORE LOST.

Orioles Obtain Three Runs Off Mamaux in Ninth.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.— (Canadian Press). — Toronto jumped back into second place in the International League standing by taking a double bill from Syracuse at the Queen City yesterday 5-3 and 7-2. Two runs in the eighth gave the Leafs the verdict in the first, after the Stars had tied it up in their half. One big inning was enough to give the Canucks the second fixture, seven men crossing the plate in the fourth.

Newark, who held second place previous to yesterday's games, also won, but they were only scheduled for one game, beating the League-leading Baltimore Orioles, 8 to 3, at Newark. Mamaux was in fine form and held the Birds to a lone bingle, wildness on his part causing the three runs obtained by Baltimore in the last inning.

The Rochester Colts were the ideal hosts yesterday and dropped a double bill to Buffalo, 5-1, 4-1.

Reading continued its regular form and lost two games to Jersey City 11-1, and 4-3. The second game was a pitcher's battle between Slappey and Reddy with the latter getting the verdict when his mates pushed across in the eighth.

RAIN PREVENTS BIG FIELD DAY

Celebration Arranged in Marmora Has To Be Postponed.

SPECIAL PICTURE.

MARMORA, Aug. 5.—The incessant downpour of rain on Sunday night and the following morning occasioned the postponement of the Field Day ararnged by the Marmora Booster Club in connection with the the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. LARGE ATTENDANCE HAVELOCK'S CIVIC HOLIDAY CELEBRATION

Peterboro Boys Form Battery For Belmont in Softball Tournament.

VARIED PROGRAMME.

Summer Cottagers From the Lakes Parade in Decorated Automobiles To Town.

(Examiner Correpondence)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 5. — Frank Barrie and Louie Le Clair of Peterboro were the battery for the Belmont Lake team in the soft ball tournament which was one of the major attractions yesterday at Havelock's Civic holiday celebration which was planned and carried out as Tourists' Day.

And the summer colonies at Belmont and Round Lakes responded with a parade of decorated automobiles over the township roads from the lake country through the town to the local Driving Park. From shortly after dinner until twilight was closing in big crowd was provided with a veritable feast of baseball, soft and hard.

In the men's soft ball tournament Trent River squeezed out a 4-3 victory from Havelock and Belmont Lake, with its Peterboro battery, defeated the Toronto crowd from Round Lake by 17 to 3, but in the final game Trent River handed the Belmont Lake cottagers heavy dose of their own medicine by laying on a 17-4 score after most of the large attendance of the afternoon had departed.

In the girls' softball Havelock avenged the defeat of their men by shutting out Trent River maidens by 15-0, but they succumbed to Norwood by 14-9 in the final game of this series which was a rival attraction during the men's contest and drew an equal share of the crowd's interest.

Then came the main attraction in the clash of Smith Falls and Havelock hard ball teams, the Peterboro county railway men winning handily by 14-6 in nine innings. The visitor from the east opened strong pushing one run over in the first inning, but Havelock countered with three, added one in the second, four in the third, and then buried Smith Falls' hopes with a big innings of six runs. Havelock drove Campbell from the mound with a fusilade of hard drives for six runs in the fourth but failed to do anything with Kilfoyle's offerings. At that Havelock had an extended lead and finished under wraps. Barney Quinn retired in the eighth with a smashed finger.

Smith Falls stepped out with most of the marks of a smart team, but they complained that the grass was too long in spots and the infield loaded with bunkers and traps, to use golf terms. Some of their boots, however, were inexcusable, and at bat only Elliott with two triples could break through Hooper's steadiness.

This victory was the tidbit of the day, and apart from the fine work of Hooper and Barney Quinn, features of the game were Ab Armstrong's good performance at first, Caesar's smart play at third and the fielding of Becky Jack. The summary follows:

Two base hits—Haley, McCrum; Three base hits—Elliott (2). Stolen bases—C. Christie, G. Wright. Left on bases—Smith Falls 6, Havelock 5. Bases on balls—off Campbell 2. Struck out—by Kilfolyle 2, by Hooper 2. Umpires—H. O'Brien, Smith Falls and W. C. Inkster, Trent River.

Havelock's Runs.

In the first, Armstrong beat out a hit to second, but was thrown out there on C. Christie's grounder to short. Cop hit to right, the ball bouncing over Mitchell's head and Christie scored. Caesar lifted to centre. Glen Wright was safe on Elliott's fumble. J. Christie's drive was too hot for G. Scott and Copp scored. Quinn drove one to left but J. Christie was thrown out at the plate.

In the second Jack scored on a hit, pased ball and high peg home by Elliott.

Caesar opened the third with a clean single to left but was forced at second on G. Wright's grounder to short. J. Christie drew a pass and Barney Quinn started the big parade with a long hit to left, and later scored on a passed ball. Jack was out at first but Hooper was passed and scored a few minutes later before Armstrong was thrown out at second.

C. Christie fanned in the fourth. Copp was safe on an error at first. Caesar bunted perfectly. G. Wright and J. Christie both singled. Quinn was safe on a grounder through short and Jack's hit to right maintained the procession over the plate. Quinn went home on a fumble at second and Jack scored on Armstrong's clout to left.

Softball Games.

The teams in the men's softball tourney were:

Havelock—Quinn, 1b; Caesar, 3b; Jack, ss; Hooper, p; Wright, 2b; Plunkett, cf; Bailey, rf; Lang, lf; Armstrong, c.

Barrie's fielding was the snappy features of the battles between the rival lakes.

The Peterboro batting was a big factor in spite of their lack of practice.

Norwood's Pride.

The most delighted aggregation on the grounds was the Norwood girls' team after cleaning up the girls' competition. They had their pictures taken with the prize of a complete soft ball equipment.

The Norwood and Havelock girl's teams were:

Nowood—A. Beckett, p; D. Rogers, c; M. Montgomery, 1b; I. Bell, 2b; R. Bedore, 3b; W. McGee, ss; D. Shortbridge, lf; R. Patterson, rf; N. McLeen, cf.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL OPENS CANADIAN AGENCY

Offices Located at King and Yonge Streets, Toronto.

The opening, August 3, of the Illinois Central Railroad Canadian Agency in the Dominion Bank Building, King and Yonge Streets, Toronto, is an event of considerable importance to the shipping and travelling public.

In these conveniently located offices a complete service for shippers wil be maintained, including freight rate quotations, tracing and expediting, reconsignments, passing reports, etc. For passengers, reservations will be made, fares quoted, itineraries planned, resort literature furnished; in short, every facility of an efficient travel bureau will be at their service.

H. H. Hays, Canadian agent of the Illinois Central System, will be in charge and the public will find the Company's slogan "Courtesy and Efficient Service Always" exemplified to the letter in the operation of the new office.

INDIANS CUT YANKEES LEAD TO NINE GAMES

Loose Ball Gives Cleveland Early Lead Over New York.

BOSTON DEFEATED.

Barrett's Homer With Bases Full Hands White Sox Victory.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Cleveland opened its home series with the Yankees yesterday by winning 4-2. Twenty thousand fans saw the Indians cut the New Yorkers' lead to 9 games. The visitors played loose ball, committing four errors behind Hoyt. Uhle twirled good ball for the Indians, his victory marking his fourth conquest of the Yanks in as many starts. Babe Ruth made two singles in four times at bat, fanning the other trips. When he struck out in the second the bases were loaded.

Barrett's home run with the bases occupied gave the White Sox a victory over Boston at Chicago yesterday. Barrett's drive came in the eighth with the score standing three-all. The final score was 7 to 3.

The Athletics continued to become less of a factor in the American pennant race when they lost to the Browns, at St. Louis yesterday, 3-1.

Detroit and Washington divided a double header yesterday both games going into extra innings. The Tigers took the first in ten innings, 5 to 4, and dropped the second, 11 to 7, when the Senators fell hard on Holloway in the eleventh. Joe Harris hit a home run in each contest, the one in the second coming in the 11th, innin as part of the Washington bombardment and accounted for three runs. Detroit leaped into a five run lead in the second game but Murray tightened and held them scoreless until the eighth while Wells got worse and finally had to be relieved. The Tigers filled the bases in the eleventh of the second game with two out but Marberry came to Crowders relief and retired the side without being scored on.

EXAMINER DEFEATS CANADIAN WOOLENS

Fast Game Won By Newspaper Boys — Johnson Fielding Star For Winners.

Manager Alf. Phillips Examiner team stepped into the Canadian Woollens aggregation last night at Nicholls Oval and administered a 12-4 defeat on them. The game was a humdinger and was run in the record time of 35 minutes.

Both teams fielded well, although the newspaper boys had a slight edge on the Woollens. Eight of the Examiner's runs were scored in the sixth while the Woollens got all their counters in the last two innings, chalking up four in the ninth.

Scates did the heaving for the Examiner and, backed by sensational support, turned in a good game. Montgomery twirled them in for the Woollens and worked nice. He was not accorded as good support as the winning heaver.

George Johnson was the shining light of the winners. His work in left field was sensational. His uncanny judgement on fly balls was marvellous, and his catches time and again averted a Woollens' score. He also had a couple of nice hits. Dunkley at third, McCauley at second and Taylor at first also turned in nice games, while Marvin Baker's catching was a feature.

Dorrington, at second, was the loser's best. He turned in a wonderful performance, and his shoestring catch of Dunkley's pop fly was a feature. He also tore back of second to make another beautiful catch of a fly ball. Montgomery fielded his position well and had a good number of assists besides four flys.

Dorrington did the heavy hitting for the winner, getting three nice hits, one a triple.

The teams:

BEWDLEY REGATTA DRAWS BIG CROWD

All Events Are Keenly Contested With Large Entries.

Bewdley was all decorated yesterday for the annual regatta, the lake was dotted with canoes, skiffs and motor boats and the shore was lined with an enthusiastic crowd which watched the boat races. There was very keen competition in the classes and each event had a large number of entries. The motor boat race proved to be the best race of the day, two large motor boats entered the race and for the first five miles they raced together each taking their turn at leading, but on the last lap the large boat of Dr. Glonna of Toronto pulled away from the other boat after it had developed some little engine trouble.

The Rice Lake Indians were there in force and they added a touch to the regatta that is hard to find in boat races where they are not present. They took a keen interest in the races and more than won their share of the prizes. Five Indians entered in the crab race, but the usual happened and before they went far one was sent flying into the water, but he was very plucky and soon had his canoe righted and was towing it to shore.

The tandem and canoe races were very closely contested, and it was just by a few feet in each case that the first boat won the race. Two bands were present, the Citizens' Band from Port Hope and the Alderville Indian band, so between the two of them the crowd always had music. The numer entering in the swimming races was not as large as expected, but the road races more than made up for the deficiency. At night a band concert was staged and also a programme of solos and other musical numbers. The prize winners were:

Sailing dinghy—A. Smith.

Single canoe (men) — Norris Smoke (an oar) and Bruce Harvey, second.

Outboard motor — A. Rockwell, first; J. Leeworthy, second.

Tandem canoe (mixed) — Mrs. Gross and Heck Smith.

Single gunwale race — Noah Smoke.

Tub race—Bruce Harvey.

Tandem canoe (men)—Hilton and Vernon Harris.

Crab race—John Simpson, first; Noah Smoke, second, and Hilton Harris, third.

Inboard motor (single cylinder)—W. Purdy.

Inboard motor (multiple)—Donald Siden.

Speed motor boat—Dr. Glonna.

Swimming, boys 14 and under—Jack Austen, first; Claire Morton, second.

Swimming, 50 yards, ladies—Janet Tippet, first; Margaret Folkler, second.

Swimming, men—John Deer, first; Herbert Cardwell, second.

Running Races

Fat Men—William Purdy, first; M. E. Henderson, second.

100 yards, ladies—Helen Fisher, first; Mildred Maloney, second.

100 yards, boys under 12—Bruce Harvey first; Robert Hilliard, second.

50 yards, girls 12 and under—Verna McClung, first; Louise Thompson, second.

250 yards, boys 16 and under—Jack Austin, first; Mervine Benson, second.

PIRATES SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH BOSTON

Braves' Sluggers Connect With Nineteen Hits in First Game.

LOOSE FIELDING.

Three Errors in Second Pave Way For Pittsburgh Victory.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. —(Canadian Press). — The Pirates, National League Leaders split a double bill with the Braves at Boston yesterday, the home team taking first 14 to 0, and the world's champions, the second, 5 to 2. Boston sluggers ran wild in the first game and connected for nine teen hits off the offerings of four opposing twirlers They were aided in their cause by loose fielding displayed by the Pirates, who made five errors. The Braves continued their heavy hitting in the second game and outhit the Pirates, 12 to 9, but three errors paved the way for the 5 to 2 Pittsburgh win.

The Cardinals were at Brooklyn and defeated the Robins, 8 to 4. Bill Sherdel chalking up his fourth straight victory besides hitting a home run, a triple and a double.

The Phillies were at home to the Chicago Cubs and went twelve innings before bowing to a 7 to 5 defeat. Three runs in the twelfth settled the issue, a Philly rally in the last half being stopped with one run.

The Giants and Reds idled.

TWO CANADIANS QUALIFY FOR ENTRY INTO CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

Nicol Thompson Leads the Canucks By Shooting Fine Rounds.

NATIONAL LINKS.

Toronto Entries Little Off Color in Qualifying Matches.

BUFFALO, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press)—Two Canadian entries in a National Public Links Championship being held here, qualified for match play in the championship fight on the thirty-sixth hole qualifying rounds concluded yesterday.

Nicol Thompson, son of the professional at the Hamilton Country Club and a member of that famous golfing family of Thompsons, who have captured many amateur and professional championships in the Dominion, leads the invaders from across the Niagara by shooting the fine rounds of 74 and 73 for the low total of 149. William McCrone, of Hamilton was the other Canadian to figure in the championship fight; qualifying with a round of 79 on Tuesday and 74 on Wednesday for a 153 total. The other two members of the Hamilton team came through with scores good enough to bring that team to fourth position in the team play for the Warren G. Harding trophy event with a total of 624. Jack Fullerton shooting 83 and 79 for a 162 total, and H. Somerville, putting together a 78 and 82 for a 160 total.

The Toronto entries were a little off color in the qualifying rounds, not one of them getting into the select thirty-two although Ray Brown was just out of the running with a score of 157, good enough in years past to reach the championship flight. William Inglis, Toronto, had rounds of 81 and 82 for a total of 163, while W. F. Cuming scored 162 and George Rabad 174.

Board Walsh, of New York, carried away the medalist honors after a spirited battle with Bill Mann, of Buffalo. Walsh had 146.

The quartette of golfers composing the team from Chicago captured the Warern G. Harding trophy with a total team score of 608. It was the lowest score ever made in the winning of this event and was just good enough to nose out the New York city aggregation in second place with 611.

The first round pairings in the championship flight bring together William McCrone and Stanley Ford of Detroit in the upper half of the draw, while Nicol Thompson is listed to play Charles Albertus of Philadelphia in the lower half.

Regatta Notes.

In former Regattas, races have been held up to satisfy the wishes of one or two contestants who entered every race. This year the events will be run off in order set forth, and those wishing to enter every race must be ready to compete without delay.

In the Men's Fours and Ladies' Fours each boat must contain a crew representative of a certain part of the lake or other district.

As in 1925, the net proceeds of the sale of these programs and badges wil be forwarded to that excellent charity—The Toronto Star Fresh Air Fund.

The succes of the Regatta depends upon keeping the course free from motor boats, skiffs and canoes.

Motor boat owners should remember that it is the swells from their boats that spoil a race, therefore if you must cross the course please do so directly after a race is completed.

All canoes and skiffs must be the regular 16-foot standard as approved by the judges—no semi-racers will be permitted.

The ruling of the judges will be final in all cases and they have the right to refuse any canoe or boat that does not agree with conditions required.

There must be thee or more entries for each event, otherwise second prize will not be awarded.

Presentation of prizes at 8 o'clock, in the evening.

Regatta dance in the evening.

GOLF MEET OPENS.

Canadian Open Championship Starts To-day on Montreal Course.

MONTREAL, August 5. Canadian Press. — The Canadian open golf championship commenced at the Royal Montreal Club to-day, in hot weather, with 150 entrants, including stars from the United States, as well as Canadian leaders of the game. The tournament, which is medal play, concludes on Saturday.

SUZANNE TO HAVE GOOD OPPONENTS

Pyle Won't Disclose Names at Present—Not Europeans.

PARIS, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press) Charles Pyle, who induced Suzanne Lenglen to turn professional, will not say who her opponents in America will be, except that they will be renowned players, though not Europeans. He says plans will be worked out for a professional lawn tennis association. Before a year he hopes to be able to stage open meets between professionals and amateurs.

CANADIAN GIRL ATHLETES

Canadian girl athletes won nek honors at the United States national women's championships staged at the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium, Philadelphia. Jean Godson, versatile Toronto athlete, is seen in action, heaving the baseball. She was fourth in the event. The girls wearing the Maple Leaf equalled the world record in the realy, and Rosa M. Grosse, "fastest girl in the world", won the 100-yard dash in 11 8-10 seconds.

VISITING CHILDREN SAYS BUFFALO LADY

Mrs. Bryson Says That Was Purpose of Trip To Peterborough.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 5. — Canadian Press — Mrs. C. H. Bryson of this city, said to-day when informed of the arrest at Peterboro, boro, Ont., of her son, Allan Bryson, 15, and Mrs. Charles Henry, a former neighbor, that the two had gone to the Canadian city to visit Mrs. Henry's children. She said Mrs. Henry had permission to visit the children but failed to take along documentary proof of this fact.

The Henry family was broken up some months ago, Mrs. Bryson said, and Mr. Henry took the children to Peterboro.

FORTY CHINESE WERE ARRESTED

Members of Society Which Enjoys Slaying of Missionaries.

SLEW MRS. SIBLEY.

SEATTLE, Aug. 5—Forty members of the "Red Lantern Society," belief that the killer of a religious intruder gains ten thousand years of happiness, were arrested in connection with the slaying of Mrs. W. E. Sibley, a Canadian Methodist missionary, June 8, on a street in Yuang Shien, Chung Province, China.

This sidelight on the tragedy was related here yesterday by passengers on the steamer President Grant from the Far East.

The slayer declared his belief in future happiness before being executed.

KING ATTACKS C.N.R. POLICY OF THE PREMIER

Says Meighen Intends To Use Line as Pawn For Support.

ON CONSTITUTION.

Defends His Advice of Dissolution in Speed at Regina.

REGINA, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press). —The Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, flanked by his Saskatchewan lieutenants and members of the Provincial Cabinet, made a sharp attack on Mr. Meighen's attitude toward the National Railways last night.

It had been said, declared Mr. King, that Mr. Black of Halifax had only been a temporary appointment to the portfolio of Railways. "Mr. Meighen has already begun to use the National Railways as a pawn to secure political support from one section of the country. He is already making it wholly apparent that he intends to dictate part of the policy of the railway," Mr. King said.

"Already it is clear," said Mr. King, "that the policy which the Liberal party laid down—of no interference with the president and board of directors of the railway—is one that he does not intend to carry out."

Under the Liberal administration the National Railway was becoming "one of the greatest national assets."

The former Prime Minister returned at length to the constitutional question, again defending his advice of dissolution to His Excellency and appealing for the preservation of the British Constitution.

FIRES IN FOREST BECOME WORSE

Burning Now From California To British Columbia.

SPREADING DAILY.

MISSOULA, Mont., August 5. — Canadian Press. — Reports are that the majority of the forest fires in western Montana and northern Idaho are gaining headway, and new fires are starting. Conditions continue to grow more serious.

Fires continue to burn from northern California to British Columbia. Some new blazes are reported. A train arrived at Salmon, B.C., yesterday so hot it had to stop to [illegible].

SECRETS OF STARS INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to Billy Evans

BY TRIS SPEAKER.

World's Greatest Outfielder.

In sizing up an outfielder, the first thought is his ability to cover ground and the sureness of his catch.

These two things are very essential. An outfielder cannot achieve greatness unless he is a sure catch. However, there are other assets equally important that are often overlooked.

Handling of ground balls is a feature of play on which most outfielders are weak, yet it is impossible to stress its importance too much.

When you see an outfielder take fielding practice, 99 times out of 100 it is devoted to the catching of fly balls. You seldom see a batter hitting ground balls to an outfielder. It should be done.

The methods to be pursued in handling ground balls must be governed by the existing situations.

If there is no possible play, the outfielder should make the handling of the ball sure. A great many fielders have the habit of blocking the ball, to make certain it will not avoid them in case it should bound badly.

With runners on and a possible play at the plate, or any of the other bases, the outfielder must take a chance, gamble with the fates.

At such times he should come in fast, handle the ball like an infielder and cut it loose with the same motion. The slightest loss of time is usually fatal to the best results.

Learning to handle ground balls is far more difficult than the mere catching of a fly but fails to get the consideration it should in the play of every outfielder. Fielding ground balls should be a part of the daily routine.

Diamond Disputes Decided

by BILLY EVANS

With two balls and two strikes on batter, team at bat realizes he is not the proper batsman. What is correct procedure in such a case?

It is always possible to substitute the proper batsman, if error is discovered before improper batsman has been retired or reaches first.

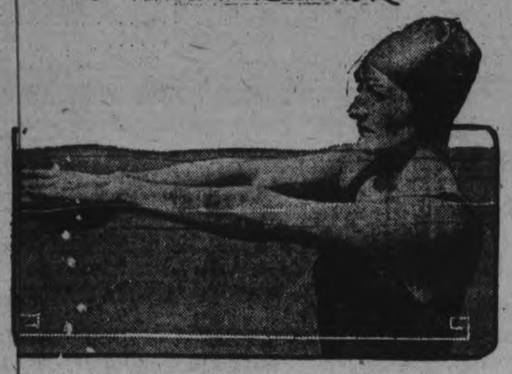
In case cited above, improper batsman is removed and proper batsman takes his place.

The proper batsman, in turn takes the count of balls and strikes that was on improper batter when mistake in batting was discovered.

In this case it was two balls and two strikes. He then completes his turn at bat as though nothing had happened.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lilian Cannon



HOW HANDS ARE HELD IN BREAST STROKE.

The breast stroke is what one uses while in the water or "just swimming."

It is not a good stroke for speed, but for long distances it is excellent.

Tests one to change his stroke when a long swim and to change from another stroke to the breast stroke gives relief from the monotony of a series of movements over a long period.

The nose is kept well out of the water at all times during the breast stroke, and that too is a relief from swimming-breathing, although one should have the habit of correct breathing while swimming.

However, it is a relief for those who have not perfected breathing.

NEW YORK.—Reginald Denny, back on Broadway for the first time in five years!

Seven years ago he looked at Broadway with desperate, hungry eyes. He was hunting for work, almost begging.

There was Joseph Shenck. He had studied Denny's face and shaken his head.

"No," the film man had said, "You will never make the screen. You have a crooked mouth and your whole personality is wrong for the films. No!"

And Denny had turned away, discouraged. . . Those were desperate days!

And there was a producer who, before Denny had gone "across" to the war, had promised him "everything." But when Denny got back there was no job, and his 17-year-old wife had been taken ill on the eve of a stage appearance.

He finally landed a part. The company stranded in Boston . . . He had to borrow money to get back.

Hospital bills piled up. Mrs. Denny's condition was critical. A baby came. Somebody told him to go to Morris Gest.

As he started into the office the door was closed in his face. But Gest's secretary came running after him and handed him an envelope. It contained a substantial check.

Gest had not wanted to embarrass him. Then Lee Shubert gave him a two-year contract. The actors' strike thrust him upon the screen.

"Two pictures with me and the company went broke," Denny recalls. After that to Universal.

Yes, Reginald Denny came back to Broadway after five years and things had changed. A few blocks down, the lights flickered Denny's name in "Rolling Home."

The skyline had changed. And the "old friends" had changed, and Denny's state of mind was considerably different. First of all he called on Morris Gest and Lee Shubert!

More than 60 per cent. of the passengers by airplane across the English Channel have been women.

BURIED ALIVE, HE LIVES.

The well known Fakir Tabra Bey recently gave a demonstration in London, witnessed by many doctors and well known men, in which he permitted himself to be buried alive. He placed himself in a state of catalepsy. His nostrils were plugged with cotton and he was placed in a coffin. The coffin then was covered with sand. At the end of ten minues the coffin was dug up and when the lid was removed the fakir was found insensible. In a few minutes, however, he recovered consciousness.

C.G.E. TEAM WINS IN CLOSE GAME

Defeats Triple Link 15-9 in Post Season Softball Series.

Staving off a rally by the Triple Link team in the eighth, the C. G. E. scored five runs in the ninth, and beat the Oddfellows 15-9. The game was always in doubt but errors at critical moments proved expensive.

The winners scored their runs in bunches, hitting Carruthers hard while the losers kept their scores scattered over more innings.

Munro, J. Jones and McDonough were the batting stars of the game, McDonough had a triple, two singles, and two walks in five trips to the plate. Munro had a triple, and Carruthers a double for the losers.

Munro was the fielding star for his team, contributing an unassisted double play besides performing well at first. Grant also did good work while the efforts of the entire C.G.E. outfield bordered on the spectacular.

The teams: Triple Link: Miller c; Munro 1b; Ward 3b; Grant 2b; McIntyre ss; Crowe cf; Caruthers p; Fair lf; Constable rf.

C.G.E.: J. Jones cf; Corbett lf; Caladine ss, McDonough 2b; Williams 3b; Dyer c; F. Jones rf; Griffin 1b; Powell p.

STINSON TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Victoria and Haliburton Conservatives Hold Nomination Convention.

GUTHRIE SPEAKS.

LINDSAY, Aug. 5.—At a largely attended meeting of the Liberal-Conservatives of Victoria and Haliburton, held in the Academy Theatre yesterday afternoon, T. H. Stinson, K.C., was tendered and accepted the unanimous nomination as standard bearer of the party in the forthcoming Federal election. His name was the only one placed before the convention.

The speaker of the day was Hon. Hugh Guthrie of Guelph, who dealt with the constitutional issue, as well as the customs scandal. He scathingly denounced the Liberal party for its indifference and apathy in connection with the irregularities in the customs department, through which, he declared, the country had lost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The Progressives of Victoria and Haliburton hold a convention in Lindsay on Thursday.

LIBERALS OF NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY EXTEND NOMINATION TO MAYOR W. A. FRASER AT THE CONVENTION HELD IN WARKWORTH

Declines to Make Known a Immediate Decision of Acceptance and Asks for a Week's Time to Consider His Action.

C.N.R. ONE OF CANADA'S GREATEST ASSETS.

Canadian People Should Look Forward to Who Should Control the Financing of Their Country During Next Four Years.

(Staff Correspondence)

WARKWORTH, Aug. 5 — Mayor William A. Fraser of Trenton was tendered the unanimous nomination of the Liberals of Northumberland County at their convention here yesterday. He declined to make an immediate decision of acceptance, but requested, and was granted, a week to consider his action, which he will report to the Liberal executive by next Thursday.

Mr. Fraser was proposed by Fred Slade of Fenella, former Liberal candidate, and seconded by Donald Douglas of Campbellford.

Others proposed were Mrs. Donald Macdonald of Cobourg, by Mrs. Mark Fisher, seconded by J. N. Stone of Campbellford; Fred Slade, proposed by C. H. Curtis and Harry Field;

Dr. W. Robertson, proposed by F. M. Brintnell and J.F. Wilson of Colborne.

Every available seat in the Town Hall was occupied when Dr. Robertson, president of the Northumberland Liberal Association called the convention to order. With him on the platform were A. J. Meyers of Campbellford, secretary; Mrs. Macdonald, Mayor Fraser, Mr. Slade, Hon. Nelson Parliament and Mr. A. R. Clute of Toronto, son of Mr. Justice Clute. The meeting opened with the singing of "God Save the King," and nominations were immediately invited. By that time the clouds that had drizzled rain after dinner were breaking up, and the sun shone through. The hall was cool, and the delegates from all parts of the county were palpably keyed up with an expectancy that burst forth upon the first mentioning of Mayor Fraser's name.

Obviously it was a Fraser meeting, and the prospective candidate responded with a stirring speech, frequently interrupted by applause and laughter, that suggested a formidable opponent for the Conservative's standard-bearer, Milton E. Maybee.

Mr. Fraser pleaded that he was so overborne by the seasonal rush of his business of late that he was not in a position to give a definite answer yesterday to his party. He needed at least a week to try to place his business in a condition that would enable him to undertake the Federal campaign, and to sound out the party lieutenants and rank and file for assurance of their active support down to the last minute for polling the votes.

"In a week I hope I will have placed myself in a position to tell you I'm ready," said Mr. Fraser. "If I step into the Northumberland arena I think you'll see a Tory barrage that would break the Hindenburg line. That's what I expect and I feel almost sure of it. If I go in I want all the help I can get from the men and women, so my friend, Milton Maybee, will know he's not at a Sunday School picnic."

Delos Batten of Cobourg asked Mr. Fraser what was his view of the constitutional question raised by Hon. Mr. King.

"I think Lord Byng, acting as Governor-General, should have granted Mr. King dissolution when he requested it. (Cheers). And I'll go farther, and say that subsequent events confirmed the correctness of the advice given His Excellency by Mr. King. The Liberal party, individually and collectively, is just as loyal as the Conservative party and when I look outside Northumberland and see some of the tin-horn Tories who wore uniforms as officers, I'll be hanged if I don't think we're a whole lot more loyal. The Liberals gave the preferential tariff to Great Britain: the Tories would change all that. Then look at Patenaude and his little gang of Nationalists lined up with Arthur Meighen. Anything for power. That's their only object."

A Cheering Reception.

The prolonged applause and cheering that greeted Mr. Fraser reflected all the warmth and spontaneity of an ovation.

"The only attitude for me to take after this demonstration of assurance and confidence is one of perfect frankness. From the bottom of my heart I appreciate your sympathy and enthusiasm, but I may say that in one sense it is unwarranted. For, while I have been approached by many of the electors, both men and women, I have refrained from making any promise whatsoever that I would accept this honor you offer me. However, I have permitted my name to come before this convention for different reasons. One of those reasons is that I have at heart the interests of Northumberland county. I believe I have ten dollars invested in this country to every one dollar invested here by the Conservative nominee in this riding. I also have the interest of Canada as a whole at heart and I feel that it is the duty of every man and woman to accept the obligations of citizenship. I think that is something people treat too lightly. I have tried to assume that duty in my own town, and I'd like to have the opportunity of assuming that duty for all the people of Northumberland.

Proclaims Liberalism.

I am a Liberal and the Tories know it. I stand for the principles of the grand old Liberal party as laid down and carried out for the benefit of the ordinary citizens of this Canada. It would simply be impossible for one to affiliate with that party with the corrupt name of Liberal-Conservative which stands for the few as against the interests of many.

C.N.R. A Real Issue.

At this time I believe we all realize the nation is at a crisis. I tell you it is the conscientious duty of every man and woman to try to see through the camouflage of such shadow issues as the customs probe and to understand the questions that seriously affect us. We are to consider who will be in power to control the assets of our country for the next four years. And one of our greatest assets in the Canadian National Railways. The success of this asset is diametrically opposed to the desires of the St. James street group in Montreal who are behind the Conservative party. That group of financiers are trying to absorb the resources of this country, minerals, pulpwood and so on, and they would put the C.N.R. in a position that it would be unable to compete on a profitable basis with the C.P.R.

When you consider that the C.N.R. can haul a train of 50 cars out of Vancouver over its low grades to Montreal or New York 26 hours ahead of the C.P.R. schedule you understand that it is essential for the C.P.R. to enjoy the Crows Nest pass rates. The operating costs of the C.N.R. in this mountain sections is 300 per cent less than the C.P.R. The national lines should be kept under their present management and allowed to develop as much as possible. Let us remember that we gave or paid the C.P.R. far more in actual wealth than we as taxpayers have provided for the C.N.R. We gave the C.P.R. every second mile of land on both sides of the track between Manitoba and the Rocky Mountain. If I had a voice in the Government at Ottawa I'd say there should be a readjustment of the capitol stock of the C.N.R. I would write it down and absorb the amount into the national debt so that the railway could be put on a proper business basis. Then we would have an asset that would outstride the C.P.R.. It is ours. It belongs to you and to me to protect and build up."

Mr. Graham said that last year the St. James street financial interests in Montreal had tried to get their hands on the C.N.R. through the Patenaude boom. That manoeuvre had fallen flat, and "Patenaude and his gang of spoilers" would fail again in 1926 as they had failed in 1925.

Fraser a Protectionist.

"I said the Conservative party stands for the classes. Just a word as to that", Mayor Fraser continued. "I am a protectionist as far as protection is required for the development of our resources and the general advancement of Canada, but not one inch farther. I believe the tariff should be scientifically analyzed and figured out by a Tariff Board which would determine the protection a certain industry might need. While the Tories talk of protection and tariffs they haven't raised the tariff in Canada in 20 years. They were afraid to, for political reasons.

Tory Toronto would like to pyramid its profits with higher protection so they could buy more limousines and play more golf. We don't want any more parasites in this country. Around Toronto there are 28 golf clubs and the entry fee is from $150 to $1000 just to belong apart from the expense of afternoon teas. You and I who follow a team, not ten hours a day but as long as there is daylight for fear it might rain, if we go into a Toronto office of mahogany and Persian rugs around 2 or 2.30 in the afternoon we're told to make our talk short, if we get a hearing, as the gentleman we call on has a foursome of golf at 3.30.

Must Obey Orders.

You have farmers in the Conservative party, honest fellows, but they do what they are told in Ottawa. They couldn't get there any other way but by the financial organization of the Tory party. I question whether brains put some of them across the gap from a seat behind a team to a back bench in the Tory ranks at Ottawa.

From my observations there is one fundamental object behind a Tory administration. They cannot be happy unless they are taxing the people. Just last week a Tory politician referring to the reduction in the automobile tariff, the cut in income tax and the inauguration of Penny Postage for the second time in Liberal history, this Tory said these reductions were a bad move because the Government wouldn't get the revenue. If that attitude is going to appeal to the people of Northumberland I miss my guess.

Praises "Robb" Budget.

We've got to admit that the Robb budget provides the greatest boom to men, women and children of this country since Sir Wilfrid Lauriet's time. (Applause). The terms of that budget were carefully thought out before they were embodied. In several places people became panicky. The Mayor of a young city not so far away wired me to go to Ottawa. You know the story. As far as the automobile business is concerned what are the results? The motor industry is more prosperous, it is employing more men and turning out more cars than before the Robb budget. (Long applause). You know, too, how the income tax has been reduced as far as ordinary citizens are concerned."

Many Interests in County.

I live 100 yards from the boundary of Northumberland. I'm a farmer. I've got a 215 acre farm in Northumberland and can make it pay. I grew $13,000 worth of apples on it last year, and when I bought it friends told me I'd go broke. I'm interested in the canning industry in Northumberland and I have warehouses and cooper shops throughout the country. I'm trying to impress on you that I am not anxious to get into politics. I can make a living without going to Ottawa. I question whether some people can. (Laughter). However I believe if I do get into politics the people of Northumberland will start me under proper auspices. At that I've been in politics before. I was instrumental in licking one of the most notorious politicians the Tory party ever produced, I mean E. Gus Porter.

If I go in I must be given some hope that Northumberland can be carried on the Liberal ticket. The county will have to be organized and I'm convinced the nucleus is here already.

Mr. Fraser declared that if he entered the contest it would be on the understanding that if elected, he would retain his independence as a member to vote in the interests of Northumberland people as a whole. My forefathers were born north of the Tweed in Scotland. I'd want that independence that does not exist under the thumb of the St. James street group in Montreal. It is impossible for the back bencher in the Tory party to do but what he is told. If he doesn't obey orders they won't finance his next election.

Mr. Fraser stated that owing to the short time he had had and the

Auto Crashes Into Launch After Leaping Into River

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—Like two Roman gladiators providing sport in the arena, an automobile and a gasoline launch, rushed at each in the Ohio river here yesterday. Each delivering a death blow.

The automobile belonged to Albert Gleason, Court Place, Newport, Ky., and the launch was the property of Thomas Hoskings, caretaker of the Newport Boat Club. Gleason had parked his car on a hill leading to the water, the brakes gave way and the car sped down the hill.

The launch was moving into its mooring when the automobile leaped toward it. The land lubber struck the prow of the sea dog and it went down, with a hole torn in the prow. Hoskings was hurled into the river but was unhurt.

The automobile got the worst of it. The motor was broken and the front axle bent almost double. Honors went to the launch, whose owner announced he would repair it. Hundreds of persons on the river bank applauded the spectacle.

Three candidates have been named in six constituencies but it is likely that the three-cornered fights in two of these will have been eliminated by the official nomination day, one month from to-morrow.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT VICTORIA ROAD

Victims of the Balsam Lake Tragedy Will Be Remembered on Sunday.

A memorial service to the memory of the eleven boys drowned in Balsam Lake will be held on Sunday, August 8th, at 3 p.m. in the church yard of the Anglican Church at Victoria Road on the shores of the Lake. The service will be in charge of Rev. W. F. Wrixon, rector of the church and addresses will be delivered by Rev. Rural Dean Kidd of Cannington and Rev. W. H. Swan of Toronto. The members of the choir from St. Paul's Church, Lindsay, will assist in the music and representative clergy of other denominations have signified their intention of being present. Arrangements have been made to take care of the very large crowd which is expected from all over the district including Galt, Toronto, Peterborough and Lindsay.

Motorists who propose going should allow 2½ hours for the trip. The roads are good all the way. The easiest route is via Lindsay, Grass Hill, Kirkfield, thence out along the Victoria Road route where special signs and markers have been erected to direct visitors to the church.

LOG OF CRUISER IS FORWARDED FOR PROBE USE

Found in Special Vault at Ottawa With Other Customs Evidence.

SENT TO CALDER.

Sir Henry Drayton Says He Has Not Examined the Book.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6. Canadian Press —The log of the Customs Preventive Cruiser Margaret for the year 1923, has been forwarded to R. L. Calder, K.C., government counsel in the customs probe, for submission at the resumed hearing of the Margaret incident before Sir Francois Lemieux in Quebec City to-morrow.

Sir Henry Drayton, the acting premier, stated to-day that he would send the log book by special messenger to Montreal, to be delivered to Mr. Calder, who is in that city to-day. There had been some misunderstanding as to its whereabouts, he said, but it had been found in a special vault in the Customs department, assigned to Mr. Calder for the safekeeping of documents concerned in the Customs probe. Sir Henry had not examined the log and had no comment to make regarding its contents.

C.N.R. WORKERS ASK INCREASE

Lower Paid Employees of System Want More Money.

WANT HOLIDAYS.

OTTAWA, August 6. — Canadian Press. — A general wage increase averaging about 18 per cent., is being sought by the lower paid workers of the Canadian National Railways. Notification to this effect was sent to Sir Henry Thornton and the general managers. Several amendments to the present working rules are also proposed, principal among which is a provision that all employees should be given annual holidays, including the hourly rated workers, who, it is suggested, should be given a week with pay after five years service.

Particulars of the wage proposals were made public to-day by A. R. Mosher, the president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

THE WEATHER.

The highest point reached yesterday by the thermometer was 69 degrees; last night the temperature got down to 53. Not too warm, not too chilly—just right. I hear optimistic reports regarding crop conditions. One gentleman in a particularly good position to know, as his duties take him over a wide extent of territory, says the prospects are "wonderful," and particularly so when we remember the backward spring. If nothing untoward should occur the returns to the agriculturist should be abundant.—W. P.

British Labor Party Draws Up Disarmament Programme For Adoption By Mutual Agreement —Five Clauses

LONDON, Aug. 5 (United Press).—Immediate and universal disarmament by mutual agreement was advocated today by the Independent Labor Party which submitted the plan to the Labor Socialist International with the suggestion that England initiate the proposals.

The programme is divided into four units as follows:

Fifty per cent further reduction of tonnage by the Great Naval Powers along the lines of the Washington Treaty, abolition of destroyers, submarines and great battleships. Reduction of the number and size of cruisers. Limitation of naval budgets.

Abolition of conscription or limitation of compulsory military service to one semester. Limitation of army budgets, or artillery, of the size of tanks, and of all aerial personnel.

Prohibition of national expenditure on chemical research for war purposes.

Abolition of private manufacture of armaments, and stringent reduction in arms traffic.

HAMILTON BOY SLAIN WITH OAR WHEN SWIMMING

Fourteen Year Old Lad in Rowboat Held by Police.

NO CHARGE LAID.

Companions Say He Hit Smaller Boy on Head, Stunning Him.

HAMILTON, Aug. 6.— Juvenile murder, it is alleged, was committed on the bay, off Lansdowne Park, yesterday afternoon, when Edward Fonger, 18 years old, 397 Sherman Avenue North, sank to his death after being clubbed over the head with an oar by William Urkowitch, 14 years old, 414 Sherman Avenue North.

The Fonger boy drowned in deep water, it is feared. His body was not recovered when the police ceased dragging at dusk. Urkowitch, a sullen boy, and son of Russian Poles, was placed under arrest, and later taken to the Children's Shelter. No charge was laid last night.

Caught Hold of Boat.

From what could be learned of the case, young Fonger was swimming with other boys in the bay off Lansdowne Park at end of Wentworth street, and another boy, named Joe Wilcovesky, 9 years old, 5 Gerard street, came along. Urkowitch was rowing. Young Fonger swam toward the boat and caught hold of one side with his hands.

Whether the little boy was very tired or swam to the boat in a boyish prank is not known. At any rate it is alleged Urkowitch lifted one oar from its socket and struck young Fonger over the head with its blade. With no outcry, it is said, the little fellow released his grasp on the side of the boat and sank to his death.

Urkowitch, it is alleged, told no one of his act nor did he make any attempt to rescue the Fonger boy. Others however are said to have seen the boy sink beneath the surface.

When Detective Chamberlain and Buckett subsequently questioned Urkowitch, the latter denied that he struck young Fonger over the head with the oar, but finally admitted, police state, that he shoved the boy away from the boat with his hand.

Joe Wilcovesky, his companion in the boat, however, is said to have

OMEMEE YOUTH NEAR DROWNING SAVING FRIEND

Bill Earle, 9, Goes Into the Water After John Irwin, 7.

BOTH IN TROUBLE.

Father of One Boy Is Summoned and Brings Both Ashore.

OMEMEE, August 6. — Had it not been for the timely aid of Dr. G. N. Earle and the little grandson of Mrs. Mallory, who gave the alarm, a double drowning would have occured in Pigeon River near the iron bridge on Wednesday evening. John Irwin, a lad of seven was in the water while Bill Earle a nine year old, who had been warned by his parents never to go in the water unless other grown ups were there, was standing on the bridge waiting for his sister and others to come along, when suddenly he heard cries for help and as Bill could swim a little, he rushed to his companions assistance but he was unable to ward off the grip of the former and soon played out. Little McGinness boy, grandson of Mrs. Mallory, chanced along and he rushed to Corneil's garage where fortunately the father of the child was. He was soon in the water, and being a swimmer grabbed both children who were sinking and with great effort managed by raising each alternately for air, to bring them near the shore where Mr. Galbraith assisted all three to safety. Little Billy was unconscious for a short time but both children are none the worse for their almost fatal experience.

Needless to say, a crowd of spectators was soon on the scene, and the narrowly averted tragedy will be the main subject of conversation in Omemee for a few days at least.

DEFINITION OF ANGLO ITALIAN TREATY CLAUSES

Looked Upon By Abyssinia As Similar To Treaties in China.

SEEK CONCESSIONS.

Agreement Can Not Be Binding on Government of Abyssina.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press)—A definition of the British and Italian spheres of economic influences in Abyssinia is contained in the recently signed Anglo-Italian agreement to which Abyssinia has taken exception in an appeal to the League of Nations.

The agreement, which is looked upon as something after the fashion of foreign dealing with China, also pledges the two countries to support one another in furthering proposals to the Abyssinian Government.

The British Government is to obtain from Abyssinia the right to construct a dam at Lake Asana, with a view to storing its waters for use in the Blue Nile. Italy is to have British support in seeking a concession to build a railway across Abyssinia from Eritrea in the north of Italian Somaliland in the south. The British Government is to recognize the "exclusive character of Italian economic influence in the west of Abyssinia and in the whole of the territory crossed by the proposed railway."

Foreign Secretary Chamberlain in explaining the agreement to the House of Commons on Tuesday asserted that the objects behind the pact were entirely innocent and insisted that the agreement could not possibly bind the Abyssinian Government or any other Government. There was no suggestion of any attack on Abyssinian independence or any limitation on Abyssinia in the right to decide freely whether or not the requested concession should be granted.

To Its Own Interest

Abyssinia, he said, is merely asked to take into friendly consideration the Anglo-Italian proposal. The Foreign Secretary said that he hoped to convince the Abyssinian Government that it would be to its own interest to grant the concession.

The use of the term "exclusive" could be "only exclusive against our own concessionaires. It did not claim to be exclusive against any third party," Sir Austen said.

That is, Great Britain undertakes not to support, in opposition to Italian concessionaires the claims of British concession hunters.

Secretary Chamberlain's explanation was generally accepted, but there is still some criticism of him for mixing in Italian projects in Abyssinia.

CHINESE EXECUTION POSTPONED BY RAIN

"Called off on account of rain" does not apply to baseball games in China because there are not any Chinese baseball games. But two principals in the only comparable outdoor sport —public beheading—earned a brief reprieve here yesterday because a heavy downpour caused the officials to decide that neither participants nor spectators of the execution should be subjected to undue inconvenience.

WAR VETERANS HAVE REMEDIED CIVIC FAILURE

Provision of Day of Sport on Civic Holiday Fills Need.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Baseball Games, Horse Races and Field Events Are Included.

Year after year people have asked why the city has not had sand enough to do something noticable in a public and community way to mark the Civic Holiday. Little has resulted, growing out of a sort of apathetic spirit that prevailed and the further excuse, "let George do it." This resulted in very man for himself, his going fishing, motoring, or reclining in one of the public parks. Now this while commendable from a personal point of view, has been rank civic selfishness, and so far as marking an occasion in a public way, the city has been for one day only, practically dead.

But this year we have, thanks to the Great War Veterans' Association, stirring up. The day is to be celebrated, or rather observed in a way that will give no excuse for folks not staying at home. The attractions are sufficinet to keep at least five of the twtenty-six thousand in th city to enjoy themselves, see the sports, of variegated kinds and have a good time right at home.

The programme, as outlined, includes a challenge soft ball game, on the Riverside Park, at ten o'clock, between the Dunlop Ladies, of Toronto who are coming to the city, specially for this concussion and the C. G. E. Ladies. It will be understood that all these ladies are not of the Dunlop family, but associated in the rubber industry and all intensely good looking. To see the entrancing pitcher in action is an inspiration and the batters are all feminine Babe Ruths. The fielders, opposed, discretly stand away out of bounds, to catch the balls whaled incredible distances. And the home team, the ladies of the C. G. E. industry, are no novices at the noble avocation of soft ball. They have proved their merits by their play. They are the pick of the city in activity skill and courage A silver cup has been hung up and the winners take the plate, having earned it. More could be written, and justified, about both aggregations, but other things are to be noted. But to be leaders of the National League, Toronto which the visitors worthily are, is an index to the spirited display and movement that can be seen for the small sum of 25 cents. Those who can't attend may pay without going in. This is followed, will bolster the receipts. Having looked at the thrill ing game folks will go home to dinner and get a short rest for the vagaries of the afternoon.

Horses Races.

All men who have been boys and most men have, love a horse race. The auto isn't in it with a speedy nag which can foot it in 2.25 to the mile. In this afternoon programme, the G. W. V. A. deserves to be loyally supported with your attendance and a sight of your money. The Exhibition Grounds will be open to all who find home a good place not to stay at. For one day only. $700.00 has been hung up in prizes and the idea that the auto has cleaned out the trotting horse will be dissipated. Three races, in several heats, as usual. Already the entries are coming in and horses of pedigrees as long as your arm will be on the track. Come and enjoy yourself. You can go to Inverlea Park any other day, and anyway you will be safer in the grand stand than on the Chemong Road, if last year's casualties are any criterion.

Get a programme and note the Field Events. Plenty of them, going on between heats, and the temporary consumption of cones and soft beverages. Fourteen events, for competition among all ages, sexes, and political proclivities don't count. Grits, Tories and Progressives equally welcome. Then ten mile Bicycle Race will recall to many of the older men the days of their several youths. Better get Bill Lytle to engineer this event. Bill's feet could find the pedals in the draw. Three foot races, 100 up to 450 yards, and to be run under auspicious supervision, with the one mile running championship event thrown in. The many postal delivery carries in the city should shine in this contest. They get exercise enough to keep them in walking condition. We look for the post office to secure the plunder in this event. For the postmen are like Cressman's Store never disappoint.

Football Tournament.

A "Five Aside Football Tournament' 'open to all teams in the district will be a wonder, for a scratch team at football is something luxurious to comtemplte. May the best men win, if they get a chance so to do. The five mile Open Championship will be well worth the price of admission, and those who participate will be extremely tired. The high and broad jump should bring out men of approved activity, if the agility in the city knows its business. And there is in addition an attraction for the morning, at the Exhibition Ground in a baseball event for the G. W. V. A. Civic Holiday Challenge Cup, a vessel that will adorn any sideboard in which it finds a resting place.

A special benediction is the prize to be awarded to the largest family present. The conditions seem vague, for it is not specified if weight height or breadth will determine the winners. But the committee will do its best to amicably settle this contention. The oldest person present get an award. It is respectfully suggested that George Stenton, at the Post Office, be present and sweep the field. George was an inmate of the Independent Brass Band in the year 186, and played the biggest horn available, having fine lung power, which has stayed with him through life. It is mentioned that the youngest baby on hand will get a prize. Those who know babies, and several do, are of opinion that the latest born baby should be left at home, the best place for it, But what would you have, seeing that tastes differ. Baby carriages will be parked under supervision and care of a competent assistant.

Yes certainly. There's the music. The Peterbrough Ranger's Band wil do its prettiest. An afternoon, lacking a band, would be dull indeed. The band has ancestry behind it and the present in front, and will blow its loudest and longest in honor of the occasion. Lovers of music may regale themselves on what the band will in unstinting measure blow out.

The programme hints that there will be all sorts of amusements in the evening. Just what is not disclosed. But if you be on hand in the afternoon you will hear all about it and can come back in the gloaming and bring your best girl and see what's what.

The pertinent fact is to remember that all of this in the way of sport amusement, interest and activity is yours for only 25 cents. Your patronage, along with your money, is seriously needed. Don't let the day go in the hole. Be loyal to the men who are pushing the enterprise and who look to you to support it. You have a whole afternoon of good things for the price of five ice cream cones. Forget politics, the mortgage on the car, the price of gasoline and other detriments and go and see the sights and see the people you will meet.

HEAT WAVE SETTLES IN CENTRAL STATES

Nearly Score of Deaths Around Kansas—Temperature 109 at Salina.

KANSAS CITY, August 6. — (Canadian Press). — Scattered thunder showers and possible cooling breezes were forecast to-day as the only relief from the heat wave which yesterday settled over the west and southwest, sending temperatures well above the century mark in several states.

Nearly a score of deaths were attributed to heat while the humidity drove the farmers from the fields and caused damage to the crops. In Salina, Kansas, the temperature touched one hundred and nine.

PEKING, (United Press). —Documents have been exchanged binding Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, famed Chinese diplomat and several times Foreign Minister and General Chang Hsueh-liang, 25-year-old son of the "Mukden Warloard," Chang Tso-lin as sworn blood brothers in old-fashioned Chinese style, according to the vernacular press.

CARTOON FOLLIES OF 1926—By RUBE GOLDBERG

THE MOST TERRIFYING SOUND IN THE WORLD.

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH
W. K. Kellogg

Eat to feel cool when it's hot

FORGET hot, heavy foods. Eat cool, crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Feel cool and fresh while others swelter!

Kellogg's are the original corn flakes. Never tough-thick.

They solve the problem of the children's evening meal. Light. Wholesome. And kiddies simply love them.

Serve Kellogg's tomorrow! With cold milk, fruit or cream.

Sold by all grocers. Served at all hotels and restaurants.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

Oven-fresh ALWAYS in Kellogg's patented inner-sealed waxtite wrapper.

Imitations cannot bring you such wonder-flavor, such crisp, crunchy flakes. The genuine corn flakes have the signature of the originator on the package.

to critcism. Mr. King submitted that he couldn't carry on Government as it should be. Lord Byng thought he had discretionary power and decided Mr. Meighen should be given an opportunity to carry on. I submit with all respect to the Govenor General that he made a mistake. The Conservatives could not hope for Progressive support The Governor General had no right to assume Mr. Meighen could carry on, and Mr. Meighen misrepresented the facts of the situation to Lord Byng. Mr. Meighen had no reason to suppose that he could carry on. But supposing that Lord Byng was justifiled in his course, what reason had he for granting to Mr. Meighen the dissolution be refused three days before to Mr. King. He should have recalled Mr. King and then granted him dissolution if he still desired it."

Referring to Sir Charles Tupper's strictures against Lord Aberdeen as Governor General in 1896. Mr. Clute suggested that the doctrine of Dominion equality as laid down in 1896 by a Conservative should be just as sound and good in 1926 when asserted by Liberals.

"A Tory can't conceive that you can remove taxation from the people," said Hon. Nelson, Parliament "It is contrary to their psychology Did you ever know of a Conservative administration that reduced public expenditure. (Voices, "No." You never did and you never will. Today there are 388,000 more people in our factories than there were in 1921 but you are going back to 1921."

Mr. Parliament spoke especially of organizing details and promised to help elect Mr. Fraser if he announced himself as the Liberal candidate in Northumberland.

HYDRO OFFERS TO SELL LINES

Will Let Lindsay Have Distribution System for $116,536.44.

CAN BUY PLANT

LINDSAY, Aug. 6.—The Hydro-Electric Power Commission has forwarded a report to the town council on the sale of the Lindsay properties of the Central Ontario System to the municipality. The town council some months ago sent a deputiation to Toronto, and the Commission was asked to prepare such a report as the town was anxious to purchase a plant.

In 1911 the corporation made an agreement with the old Light, Heat and Power Company providing for delivery of power from Fenelon Falls' plant not to exceed $20.00 per h.p. perannum; lighting rate, 7c per killowat hour net minimum bill of $6.00 pe rannum. The contract also provided for the purchase as a going concern, of such properties as the corporation might desire, including water power at Fenelon Falls. The commission in its report fixes the price for the entire property, including Fenelon Fals power, at $340,632.37. In case the corporation desires to purchase the distribution system only, the purchase price is placed at $116,536.44.

The yearly revenue from the local plant amounts to $86,713.10.

The franchise provides for the purchase to occur at the expiration of ten years or at the expiration of any subsequent period of five years, upon the corporation giving notice of three months in writing of its intention so to do.

Lindsay council has until September to decide upon a course of action.

WELCOME NEWS

WELCOME, Aug. 5.—The highway officials are trying by various means to make Welcome corner more safe.

A white strip has been painted up the middle of the pavement to assist motorists in keeping their own side of the road.

Also the ditch, where a recent accident occurred, is being tiled and made level with the road.

The official count which is being taken of all vehicles and cars passing the Welcome corner, showed over 2,900 on Sunday and 3,922 on Monday.

The farmers are busy drawing peas to the canning factory.

Many of the farmers have finished haying and the hum of the threshing machine is heard near the village.

Rev. D. R. Clare is visiting his mother at Tweed.

Misses Ida and Florence Clare are guests of Miss Jennie Smythe, Wellington.

CHEMICAL GIVES FLAX LIKE SILK

New Fibres Much Cheaper Than Present Artificial Silk.

GRASS FOR COTTON.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — (United Pess).—A fabric to compete against artificial silk, at one-quarter the cost of the latter, has been developed by two British scientists, Dr. Dinshaw R. Nanji of Birmingham University and Dr. Frederick James Paton of Bristol University, Research Station, Campden.

By a chemical process which reduces the time of labor from several days to less than two hours, according to reports, they have treated flax and other fibres, imparting to them a lustre which rivals artificial silk and a strength and durability which exceed that of artificial silk. The cost of preparing the fibres is said to be one-quarter that of preparing artificial silk. The fibres can be spun on standard textile machinery, and the discoverers are taking steps to license British manufacturers.

The two scientists, after long experiments, have also developed a process for producing Ramie Fibres from China grass, overcoming the past defect of brittleness and turning out a fibre which is soft, lustrous and easily spun. The new product is said to equal cotton, and there is some expectation that it may make Great Britain's industries independent of foreign cotton supplies. The yield per acre of this grass is said to be from three to five times the yield of cotton.

DEATH THWARTS REUNION

In July, 1894, two friends carved the name of one, H. H. Morgan, on a rock on Tunnel Mountain near Banff, Canada. More than thirty years later one of them returned. Thoughts of his friend urged him to climb the mountain to see if the name was still visible. He then wrote Mr. Morgan. The reply came from Mr. Morgan's widow with the information that on the day the original letter was written her husband, thinking of the episode, started to pack his auto with the intention of making the trip to the old rock, but dropped dead while he was packing.

Declined Nomination.

In declining to contest the nomination of the convention Dr. Robertson appealed to the farmers for their co-operation.

Mr. Slade urged the need of organization to cope with the Conservative system. "Events of the last five weeks at Ottawa," said Mr. Slade "should unite all Liberals for a grand rally to put this shadow government of Arthur Meighen's where they were in 1921. Last fall they convinced many otherwise sensible Canadian that this country was on the verge of bankruptcy. As a mater of fact our dollar is above par, and industry of all kind is improving rapidly. One of the achievements of Mackenzie King is that he found Canada with an adverse trade balance in 1921 and he transformed it into a favorable balance of $400,000,000 for the last fiscal year.

You recall Mr. Meighen's dark visions of smokeless smokestacks, and other gloomy predictions that certainly stampeded some of our people in fear. Today the Massey-Harris stock is much increased in value, its branch factory at Brantford has opened with 300 men at work and the General Motors are enlarging their plant. That is our answer to Arthur Meighen."

Mrs. Macdonald's declination was delivered in a witty, satiric vein except when she was emphasizing the necessity of thorough organization and also appealing to women to mark their ballots.

"I was not in favor of the franchise for women until I went to Edmonton and saw uneducated men from the Russian steppes voting, illiterate peasants who after a few years here are permitted to cast their ballots as to how we are to be legislated against. It was then I saw that every Canadian woman should use the ballot."

Mrs. Macdonald avowed her confidence in Liberalism.

"The historic Liberal party of Blake and Mowat and Laurier has always stood for the masses of ordinary people against the classes."

Arthur Meighen had never been made Prime Minister by the will of the people as expressed at the polls.

Mr. Clute's Address.

"Mr. Meighen is not talking the blue ruin tack in this election, said Mr. Clute. "The reason is that he can't. The steadily increasing prosperity of Canada refutes him. Last October, Mr. Meighen predicted all sorts of disastrous conditions if MacKenzie King was returned but none of his predictions came true. Even in the Tory papers their financial columns have to report that conditions are excellent and are very likely to be much better."

In a review of the session of Parliament Mr. Clute said, Mr. Meighen at the outset complained that Mr. King had no right to govern with only 101 Liberals to 116 Conservatives in the House.

"Mr. King contended that the House should express itself on this question. That was British practice If he hadn't done that it was apparent that Mr. Meighen couldn't have carried for a day.

As to the Customs probe there is no issue on that.

All parties are agreed that such scandals should be put down. Of course, Mr. Meighen regards it as a Godsend because he hasnt' any policy to put before the people except protection varying in height accordling to the district he visits and its interests. He falls back with gusto on this customs probe and with Mr. Stevens takes credit for it. The acquired in some surreptitous way the data the Government had discovered in Montreal through its detectives. A copy of Inspector Duncan's report found its way to Mr. Stevens and he gave notice that he would bring it before the House."

English Practice.

In regard to the Constitutional question in this election, the English procedure in the case of an adverse vote in the Commons is for the Prime Minister to go to the King and ask for the dissolution of Parliament. In England in 1924, Ramsay MacDonald was defeated on a vote of censure by 160. He went to the King and was granted dissolution without any question. We have it on the authority of Arthur Balfour; a leader of the Tories in Britain, that the Governments of Canada and the other Dominions was to be an equality with the British Government. And this recent opinion being correct then the constitutional procedure should be the same as in England. And, further, we are not content with anything less. That is th claim of all self-respecting Canadians.

We have no quarrel with Lord Byng personally, but we hold that any constitution should be subject

. . . MIRROR OF THE PUBLIC MIND . . . INTERPRETER OF THE PUBLIC INTENT . . . TROUBLER OF THE PUBLIC CONSCIENCE.

SHE ADMIRES US NOT.

It grieves us to receive a letter such as that appearing in the Voice of the People column yesterday, from "one who admires you not at all." We are sorry that we are unable to give the name of the writer, but she omitted that from her epistle. We only know that the lady lives on George street, and that she does not like us. She decorated her letter with a pansy leaf, probably to supply the thoughts she says we have not, and she advises us never to let our country correspondents go because they alone save the circulation from the damage of the editorials.

"I always imagine you fat, uncouth, with feet on table, smoking like mad," our correspondent wrote. "Why? Because of your editorials."

Grant it. We are fat, uncouth, have our feet on the table, and smoke all the time—cigarettes, pipe, and, during election time so as not to miss anything, cigars. Why omit chewing tobacco? It happens not, but add this grace to the other virtues. Then what of it? This of it, that such a person is to have laws made to regulate his habits. He must not be fat because the lady on George street does not like a fat person. If he is uncouth he should be run in by the nearest policeman. He is not to put his feet on the desk because the lady on George street does not want him to put his feet on the desk, and, of course, she does not want him to smoke.

"Your liquor editorials," quoting the letter, "made me think you were brought up in a low, beer-drinking hamlet of some non-Canadian origin, but your jazzy political viewpoint changes it to a central African non-civilized environment."

That is not the half of it. Some people look on a stein of Munchener as a pleasant memory. The Munchener is out. Today there is plenty of liquid said to be beer, but it is shot with ether. Alleged Scotch is going strong, though not since 1924. They call other things gin and bourbon, and no one need to lament the quantity. It was to such things, leading to the two score deaths chronicled recently, that our later "liquor" editorial referred. We specifically mentioned "poisonous moonshine," and the lady is mistaken when she supposes that an adventure in a "low, beer-drinking hamlet" caused us to sour on all liquid refreshment. Before low, beer-drinking hamlets came to Canada the favorite tipple of the Canadian was red liquor. In Peterborough it was kept in barrels in the back of the grocery store and the customer drew his own tin cup full, usually beginning before breakfast and taking a pint as a nightcap after he had wound the clock.

We do not know exactly what non-Canadian stock is. Anything other than Red Indian?

But jazz makes the lady think that this department was not raised in a low, beer-drinking hamlet, but is negroid. Young people want to dance. Jazz is what they want now. Some day they may go back to the Blue Danube. A fat, uncouth person could dance to neither a waltz nor a jazz fox trot, preferring to keep his feet on his desk and smoke; but if the young people want to jazz he is willing that they should. That must indicate disreputability. If the radio brings the jazz into the house the young people may dance at home. The inference is that this should be stopped. They would have a good time, but the code of morals of the lady on George street is that a person who does not want to do a thing should be a good citizen and stop other people from doing it.

The effort is to give the country the rule of the nagging wife. "William, take your feet off that chair. You're not going to smoke in the house. I won't have your dirty tobacco smoke in the curtains and you dropping ashes on the floor. You're not going out, either. You're going to stay home. You've got another idea if you think you're going out to play pool like a roughneck. You go put your collar on and brush your hair. A fine state of affairs if you had your way."

Some of them stand for it, but not many. The nagging wife tries to keep the upper hand, but it's against nature, and can't be done.

The lady on George street says she would advise us to go to church, but thinks it would do no good because in the churches are not idols marked "Personal Liberty." Aren't there? The church in this country is supposed to rest upon freedom of conscience. We urge church-going, and would never think of telling anyone it would do him no good to go. We go so far as to say it would do the lady on George street good.

Our correspondent objects to our political views, though we have been careful to refrain from mentioning any preference. In politics we have urged the right to every man to his honest opinion, and we reserve that right to ourselves. We do not ask that the lady on George street hold the same political hopes that we have, even though she does demand that we remove our feet from the desk and take reducing exercises.

It is all a misunderstanding. We deplore the death of forty people through drinking poisoned liquor; we concede the boys and girls the right to dance to jazz if they so desire; we believe that every man has the right to his own political opinion. If the lady on George street reads again our remarks of the past few days she will find the truth of this.

She wished us a happy vacation. We wish her many happy returns.

CLEAR THE WAY.

The highway along which the traveller has at every stage of his journey an uninterrupted view for several hundred yards in front of him contains one of the characteristics of the beau ideal of the motorist.

There are few, if any, roads that measure up to this requirement. Most of our highways were laid out at a time when the fast-moving car was a thought still unconceived in the mind of the inventor. But we do not make the most of those that we have.

For example, on Chemong road, near the base of Finlay's hill, there is a feature that frequently occasions adverse comment. It is a long branch drooping from a tree overhanging the road and completely obscuring the view from the top of the slope.

It may be recalled that three years ago a motor collision took place at this spot and resulted in the loss of an eye to a lady, the destruction of a valuable car and the payment of a large sum as compensation by a citizen of Peterborough. Several other accidents, fortunately unattended by such distressing circumstances, have since happened in the same place.

The cutting away of the offending limb could be accomplished without injury to the tree.

Two very objectionable obstructions to vision are also to be found on the Lindsay road, outside the village of Omemee. In one case a clump of trees and bushes, in the other a building encroach on the road, and act as blindfolders on approaching motorists.

The removal of these unnecessary hazards by the public bodies concerned would be tangible evidence of a desire to make "Safety first" something more than a mere slogan.

A RIDICULOUS PERFORMANCE.

While walking along a city street the other day we saw a party of children jumping from a verandah step. One little boy, the clumsiest and most incapable of the party, spent the whole time in climbing up on the step and jumping from it, while he entreated all the others to see how far he could project himself. There was not a child there who could not have jumped twice as far, but they were angelically patient and sympathetic.

It was a sad, small parable of what we grown-ups, cities, churches, organizations and societies are engaged all our lives long in doing. The child had not eyes for and no thoughts of the rest; he simply reiterated his ridiculous performanc and claimed admiration.

As individuals, if we would overcome the odious trait, we cannot do better than recall the ode of Coventry Patmore, himself a transcendent egotist, and the prayer he made:

"Ah, when at last we lie with tranced breath,
Not vexing Thee in death,
And Thou rememberest of what toys
We made our joys,
How weakly understood
Thy great commanded good,
Then, fatherly not less
Than I whom Thou has moulded from the clay,
Thou'lt leave Thy wrath, and say,
'I will be sorry for their childishness.'"

As a city, is Peterborough incomparable? It is beautiful, it has splendid homes, spacious parks, many factories, peaceful citizens. Its people are proud of it; but is it so far above every other city that we can parade its virtues with reason? Shall we waste time in boasting of prowess that can be equalled or beaten by others instead of practicing from the next step?

Is the superiority of your church over ours so incontestable that you can afford to vaunt it? Is it worth while, after all, to spend so much time in talk of this, that, and the other superiority? Is there not danger to you that some are meekly working, and that if they do not indeed inherit the earth they are at least seizing the opportunities that are obscured from our view by our boasting?

And so with organizations and societies. There are scores in Peterborough doing good work, quietly, unobtrusively.

Let us take the pilgrim's road, and instead of boasting that may perhaps be borne in their good nature by persons or cities or associations much better than we, let us work diligently and thoughtfully toward a goal that is high enough to be worthy our effort.

OH! SEE THE PRETTY GOLDFISH!

Life is full of stories. Human acts are full of interest. Inanimate nature is entrancing to the student. Astounding facts about the universe are yet to be uncovered and told. And it devolves upon the newspaper, reporter of the new, remembrancer of the old and tried, herald of what is to come, to tell these things.

Cities and even homes are like goldfish bowls. People are on exhibition all the time, and are usually conscious of it. That is one reason why there is so little lawlessness. There are, of course, many good people and some bad, but it is not because of any inherent goodness that the bad people are sometimes good. Virtue is everywhere, but sometimes the virtuous have a way of starting for the stars by putting a foot on a banana peel. Life is full of this inadvertent charm. And when a goldfish wobbles, everyone outside the bowl knows it. The goldfish are careful not to overdrink, not to take anything that doesn't belong to them, not to run off with one another's mates, not to assault one another, or kill. They know if they do all the other goldfish in all the other bowls will see. Some of the good are very good and some of the good are very bad. It is all seen, sooner or later.

The newspaper does not make the news. It is we goldfish in our glass bowls that make the news. The newspaper prints it, and helps keep us in order. We do not seem to mind being goldfish. Let's rally around and get acquainted with one another.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press). — Rapid progress of harvest northward with some new wheat alread loaded in Canada did a good deal yesterday to give wheat values a downward swing. The wheat market closed heavy, 3-4 to 1 5-8 net lower, corn at 1-4 decline to 5-8 advance, oats 3-8 to 5-8 down, and Provisions varying from 40 off to 17 gain.

With harvest nearing completion in the more advanced sections of the United States northwest, the movement of the spring crop is increasing. Threshing returns are mixed, but reports of wheat yields better tehan expected in parts of the domestic spring crop belt were a bearish factor.

Although commission houses were fairl good buyers of wheat yesterday on downturns in price and notwithstanding that there was also buying of wheat to close spreads, the wheat market most of the time acted tired. Export demand for North American wheat was described as slow, with business smaller thna Wednesda. Premiums, however, at the Guf of Mexico were firm. Some Illinois wheat testing -16 to 20 per cent. moisture sold here today at 9 to 10 cents under the September price.

Corn rallied in the late trade, hot weather over the greater portion of the corn belt acting as a stimulus to buy. Oats traders took their cue from wheat.

Most of the provisions list was higher, helped by an upturn in the value of hogs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—The dullness that has characterized the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market this week was continued in yesterday's session. Local trade in car lots of oats was steady and prices ruled steady.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were well maintained in spite of an indifferent demand.

The trade n all lines of millfeed continued on the light side, but the undertone to the market was steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was small, but the feeling was firm.

The feature of the produce trade was the stronger feeling that develop for cheese and prices were advanced a fraction. The receipts were 12,159 boxes.

The butter trade was again extremely dull but values were unchanged. Receipts totalled 2,451 packages.

Owing to the warm weather prevailing, the egg trade continued inactive but steady. The receipts were 971 cases.

STERLING EXCHANGE

HOLD BARN DANCE

Opening of Barn is Celebrated by Old-Time Occurrence.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 6.—A real old-fashioned barn dance, a common enough occurence fifty years ago, but a rarity today, was the treat offered the public on Tuesday night by Carman Hay, owner of the fine new barn on the sixth concession of Seymour, east of Burnbrae. The carpenters completed their work during the afternoon previous and everything was in readiness. While the barn is 70 feet by 40 and practically a clear floor space, only the one end 28 feet by 40 feet was used for dancing and provided ample space for the fairly large crowd assembled. The floor is of matched and planed hemlock and presents a dancing surface equal to most of the public halls or pavilions. It was ideal for round dancing being in direct contrast to the barns of half a century ago when the rough plank floors could only be used for the square dances.

Spencer's Orchestra provided the music for the evening and Mr. Amort and Messrs. M. Anderson, D. Wellman and A. Thomas called the changes. Guests were present from Campbellford, Trent River, Petherick's Corners, Rylstone, Wellman's Corners and English Lines.

Those present are grateful to Mr. Hay for the splendid entertainment provided in the ideal, old-fashioned way.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

STILL A ROSE

You never loved and love in vain,
Although the loved may give you pain;
For you have this, who truly love,
The rest can never rob you of:
Whatever other love has flown,
You have the splendor of your own.

For I am certain no one cares,
Or even hungers unawares,
But that the soul has greater worth,
Feels more of heaven, less of earth.
The fire refines and leaves the gold,
Aye, even when the fire is cold.

There are some moments sharply sweet
That time itself cannot repeat,
And yet our hearts they alchemize
And better fit us for the skies.
A sense of God's great love we gain
By loving, though we love in vain.

The love we win we often lose,
When those we loved their love refuse;
But, when the passer onward goes,
The garden rose is still a rose;
This much I know the more I live:
We only keep the love we give.

HOUSES AND HOMES

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

The other day I saw a brand new house upon which thousands of dollars had been spent to make it look old.

The walls had scenic effects like patches of fallen plaster. Bricks had been cunningly broken off at intervals. Worm-hole borers had plied their gimlets on the oaken doorposts and the heavy iron hinges were flaked with imitation rust.

Why should a man spend large sums to camouflage the fact that he is the possessor of a nice new house?

Why is something old considered better than something new?

What gives the ancient its glamor, anyway?

The chief component of the answer seems to be one word:

Sentiment.

Sentiment is the core of human life.

Without it a home has no more attraction than a hotel.

Without the heart associations which knit themselves about home life most of its beauty disappears.

The hold of home is based upon the relatively intangible, upon this deeper appeal to the emotions.

Its physical comforts can be had elsewhere, but its spiritual satisfactions are alien to the whole world outside.

The real home is a retreat, a sanctuary, to which man can retire. It is clustered thick with the memory of past joys and bygone dreams.

The house is not completely a home until its newness has worn off and the ties of memory have attached themselves to it.

The ancient, too, is clustered thick with emotional associations. The past it he realm of sentiment. The old makes a special appeal to the heart.

Sentiment, somehow, is lost—a stranger—in surroundings of the brand new, spick and span, the untouched, the untried—the new house.

I don't know, but I think this is the secret reason for the imitation rust and the broken bricks.

If this is the reason, and it really makes a house seem more like a home from the beginning, a man may be excused for spending his money to make the new seem old.

Even the worm-hole gimletting can be forgiven.

Its is money well spent.

Even the SUPERTWIST CORD Is GOODYEAR-Made!

Factory of The Goodyear Cotton Co. of Canada, Limited, at Ste. Hyacinthe, Que.

KNOWING that the quality of tires depends on the quality of the raw materials as well as on workmanship, Goodyear has for years aimed at increasing control of the sources of supply.

This policy is directly responsible for SUPERTWIST, the exclusively Goodyear cord which makes long-life balloon tires possible. SUPERTWIST was developed in a Goodyear cotton mill.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Canada, Limited, has acquired a cotton mill at Ste. Hyacinthe, Quebec—now operated as the Goodyear Cotton Co. of Canada, Limited.

This factory, now employing 350 people, is devoted entirely to the manufacture of fabric for Goodyear Tires—and it is operating 22 hours a day. Thirty-two car-loads of new machinery now being installed will give employment to 150 more people and will greatly increase production.

All of the fabric for the Goodyear Tires which are made in Canada is now made in Quebec.

PEACE FEELERS PROVE FUTILE DEADLOCK CONTINUES BETWEEN CATHOLICS AND THE GOVERNMENT

Intends To Force Strict Application of Religious Laws Reads Communication In Reply to the President of Peru.

BOYCOTT IS BECOMING DREAD SPECTRE.

Business Trade Has Taken a Decided Slump in Mexico City and Financiers Throughout the Country Fear the Worst.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The religious situation in Mexico continues deadlocked. Peace feelers by would-be intermediaries have been futile, as the principals they would like to bring together reiterate unyielding determination—on the one hand, to enforce absolutely the religious regulations, and upon the other, refusal to accept them.

The government's intention to go ahead with strict application of the religious laws, has again been emphasized by President Calles in his reply to a communication from the President of Peru, requesting re-establishment of harmony between the government and the Catholic church.

The boycott, called by the League for Defence of Religious Freedom in an effort to bring the economic situation to such a state as to force the authorities to rescind the regulations, is becoming a dread spectre throughout the republic. Constantly increasing fear is being shown in Mexico, despite an attempt to minimize the results of the boycott.

To observe the central business section of Mexico City, one would think nothing was wrong. There is every outward appearance of normal life; streets are crowded as usual, but there is more than the usual proportion of window shoppers who do not enter to buy.

Attendance at motion picture performances has slumped and numerious small shops in the suburban residential sections and outlying villages, patronized by the rank and file, are reporting sales. The poor and middle class people are the ones who are obeying the boycott.

Government officials think that the fears of the boycott and the assertion of its present seriousness in some quarters, have been exaggerated. The secretary of the Treasury, Alberto J. Pani, has denied reports of large withdrawals from the Banco de Mexico and other banks. At the same time he took occasion to say that the report that he had been approached by bankers' spokesmen with regard to the economic boycott likewise was without foundation.

On the other hand, Catholic leaders assert that the present effectiveness of the boycott is much greater than is indicated by information reaching the capital.

Foremost foreign businessmen, as well as foreign official observers attempting an impartial appraisal, think the situation is serious although to what extent they cannot say. They see every prospect of it becoming much worse unless some understanding, which is now in sight at present, may develop.

While belated reports of disturbances at Guadalajara, one of the strongest Catholic centres in the country, and at Torreon, Cuernavaca and Irapuato, have come to hand, for the most uart the people of the country are calmly attending to their everyday affairs, and awaiting developments.

CHAMBER ADOPTS SECOND BILL OF FRENCH PREMIER

Provides For Sinking Fund To Cover Retirement of Treasury Bonds.

MONOPOLY REJECTED.

Approves of Measure Allowing Bank of France To Issue Notes.

PARIS, August 6. —(Canadian Press).— Premier Poincare succeeded yesterday in gextting the Chamber of Deputies to adopt another measure with which he hopes to ease the financial path of the Government. This was the bill providing for a sinking fund to cover the retirement of National Defense and Treasury Bonds. It was adopted yesterday in getting the Cham-

Previously in the same session the Premier scored victories by obtaining two sizeable votes of confidence The Chamber rejected, 350 to 172 a proposal by the Socialists that the Government continue control of the tobacco monoply, instead of placing it in the hands of a private company as desired by the Premier. Then the Chamber rejected an amendment to the Government's financial bills, calling for the fixing of the price of ordinary tobacco by decree. This vote was 360 to 190.

Although the franc has shown a favourable trend the last few days, it lost slight ground yesterday, but recovered somewhat at the closing of the day's trading. Opening at 33.93 to the dollar, an hour later it had dropped to 34.83, and, later, with the information contained in the Bank of France statement that the Government had to resort to further borrowing the French unit dropped again to 35.62. The closing quotation was 34.95.

At a night sitting, the Chamber voted favourably on the Premier's measure authorizing the Bank of France to issue notes for the purchase of foreign currency. This measure provides that the bank many purchase gold bullion stable foreign currency with French francs at the current exchange, such purchases hitherto having been forbidden by law except when the buying was on the basis of pre-war rate of exchange. The vote was 365 to 181.

Defending the measure, Premier Poincare denied that it involved inflation, and assured the deputies that the Government would only resort to foreign credits when the value of the franc had improved.

As outlined in a goverment state ment Wednesday, the ultimate aim of the measure approved yesterday is to make it possible for the Bank of France to mobilize a supply of foreign currencies so as to be in a position to manoeuvre in defence of the franc.

DENTISTS MEET IN CONVENTION

Annual Canadian Gathering To Be in Halifax This Year.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—A notable array of prominent members of the profession of dental surgery, and the associated professions, will come to Halifax for the annual convention of the Canadian Dental Association to be held here August 16, 17, 18 and 19, according to plans now nearing completion. Those who will contribute lectures and papers will come from all parts of Canada and the United States and from as far distant points as California. It is also expected that invitations extended to European dentists will be accepted to some degree as many will be coming to America to attend the International Dental Congress to be held in Philadelphia the following week.

The program is said to be the most ambitious yet formulated for an annual meeting of the Canadian association. It will include incorporation of the Dominion Dental Council, revision of the Constitution and by-laws, and an attempt to organize the Canadian Dental Golf Association, prizes and cups for which have already been donated.

The papers, clinics and lectures on the program are said to constitute a real post-graduate course for dentists. Dalhousie University will be the headquarters, the college authorities having placed the facilities at the disposal of the dentists for clinics, etc.

It is anticipated that 200 people will register and for those who fail to obtain accomodations at the local hotels the university residences will be thrown open.

Entertainment will include a "hodge podge" on Dalhousie University grounds, concert and entertainment at the Waegwoltic Club, steamer excursion on Halifax Harbor and Bedford Basin, informal dance at the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron club house, Band Concert in the Public Gardens, golf tournament at Ashburn, illuminated swimming and diving contests at the Waegwoltic Club and many other features.

Among the prominent dentists scheduled to take part in the programe are: Dr. I. H. Ante, Dr. Wallace Seccombe, Dr. W. E. Cummer and Dr. A. E. Webster, University of Toronto; Dr. W. A. Bridge and Dr. W. H. Hoyt, Tufts University, Boston Mass.; Dr. A. M. Thornton, McGill University, Montreal; Dr. H. A. Osgoode, New York; Dr W. D. Tracey, New York; Dr. T. P. Hyatt, New York; Dr. Akers and Dr. Woodworth of Chicago; Dr. H. J. Baker and Dr. McLeod of Boston and Dr. Mowry of Montreal; Dr. T. P. Hinman, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. T. J. Conboy, Director of Dental Sevices in Ontario, and many others.

Dr. Guy S. Millberry, Dean of the Dental Department, University of California, will arrive by motor from California and present a paper on dental education.

Merit Badge For Taxi Man Is Paris Idea For Caution

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(Associated Press.)—Prudent and polite taxicab drivers are to have their merits recognized by a badge, under a scheme inaugurated by the publication L'Auto, which has obtained the approval of the big taxicab companies.

Each passenger is requested to note his chauffeur's ability and whether he toots carefuly at crossing, slows up when he ought to and attempts no acrobatic stunts with tramcars and other vehicles. The passengers should take the drivers' names and addresses, also the numbers of their cabs, if they find they are worthy of recognition, and forward them to L'Auto.

When a driver has been cited several times in this way or has been signalled by experts known to the paper, he will receive a distinctive badge to wear on his arm or fix on his windshield.

DURHAM LIBERAL CONVENTION DECLINES TO NAME CANDIDATE BUT FAVORS AIDING STAPLES

Motion to Unite With Progressives is Not Favored.

ORGANIZE RIDING

W. T. Bragg, M.P.P., and W. T. R. Preston Are Speakers at Meeting.

MILLBROOK Aug. 6. — A three cornered contest in Durham was eliminated by the action taken at the Liberal convention held in Orono, on Wednesday, August 4, when it was definitely decided not to bring out a candidate in the forthcoming election.

A motion that the Liberal party unite with the Progressives in support of M. H. Staples, Orono, who is running as an Independent candidate having been unanimously nominated at a convention, under Progresive auspices, held last Friday, did not meet with favour and was amended as stated. The suggestion of W. J. Bragg, M.P.P. that the Liberals effect a thorough organization and be prepared to cooperate with the party supporting the candidate already in the field was apparently favourably entertained.

W. J. B. Davidson, of Port Hope, president of the Liberal Association for Durham, was in the chair and gave a comprehensive outline of executive activities since Parliament was dissolved, explaining that a small committee had been appointed to wait upon Colonel Gill, of Bowmanville, and also upon the Honorable Vincent Massey, asking that either one would allow his name to be presented as a candidate in the present campaign. The former, for domestic and military reasons, declined to enter the field, and Mr. Massey, after reviewing the whole stiuation, also definitely decided not to enter the contest.

The convention was in answer to an emergency call, the chairman stated, to bring forth Liberal sentiments and ideals, and decide what action should be taken in the interests of the Liberal party in the campaign now on. He had personally interviowed Mr. Staples and was pleased with his platform, and with his frank statement of his views and policy.

Before proceeding to hear any of the speakers organization for the riding was effected as follows:

President, W. J. B. Davidson, Port Hope, unanimously elected on motion of Reeve Baker, of Darlington, and J. A. R. Elliott, of Port Hope; secretary-treasurer, E. S. Senkler, Bowmanville; vice-presidents: for Bowmanville, C. Caverly, Mrs. I. Burke; for Darlington, Jack Baker, Mrs. W. R. Courtice; for Cartwright, Fred Philp, Mrs. E. Montgomery; for Clarke, George Cooper, Mrs. J. Rolph; for Hope, John Bosnell, Mrs. Benjamin Dickinson; for Newcastle, W. F. Rickard, Miss Ethel Lockhart; for Port Hope, J. A. R. Elliott, Miss Henwood; for Cavan, William Nill, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy; for Manvers, John Burns, Mrs. Bert McGill; Millbrook, R. H. Edmunds, Miss Ella Elson.

W. J. Bragg, M.P.P.

W. J. Bragg, M.P.P. of Bowmanville, addressed the convention referring to the necessity for choosing a candidate, and expressing the hope that the choice would meet with approval thoughout the county. Personally he was not in favor of a three-cornered contest, believing that the elected member does not then represent the majority of the electors in the riding.

The speaker commended the action of the convention in not putting in a new set of officers on the eve of an election, and stated that the Liberal party had a just cause, a matter for pride, and urged that all energies be bent toward electing what ever candidate the gathering might see fit to endorse. Failing to bring out a distinctively Liberal candidate he believed they should give an undivided support to the one who had already been given the Independent nomination.

The customs scandal, Mr. Bragg contended, should not be made an issue in this campaign, "because it goes back far beyond 1921, and when Judge Lemieux makes his report full and sufficient action will be taken." Mr. Bragg's statement that the full text of the Duncan report has not yet been made public met with a vigorous denial from W. T. R. Preston, and others in the audience.

W. T. R. Preston.

W. T. R. Preston was the next speaker, his opening remark being "I was in Ottawa during almost the whole time of the customs inquiry; I had access to all of the documents I wanted! and I can state, positively and unequivocally, that not one letter of the entire Duncan report has been withheld by the government."

Mentioning some of the events conected with the tabling of the Duncan report in the House, Mr. Preston said, "Today that report is in the hands of the Clerk of the House for public inspection, and I contend that there is nothing in it to justify the vague rumors and inuendoes being made in the press and from the public platform that it contains items not fit for public perusal."

Some facts in connection with smuggling irregularities under the Conservative regime from 1911 to 1921, when made public, will startle the country, the speaker insisted, adding that appointees of the Conservative government had been serving in the customs department for years and years.

The charge was also made that "there were 30,000 fraudulent names on the pay-sheet of Canadian overseas; names of those nominally serving but who never left Canada; therewa s page after page of these names in the same handwriting, and cheques were signed by the same hand."

"Let us look at the names of some of these paragons of honesty," the speaker continued and went on to give specific instances of alleged wrong doing in the political career of Mr. Myers, an offecial of the Conservative party in Manitoba, De Witt Foster, W. J. Garrland, Hansen, of New Brunswick, Honorable Mr. Jones, said to have misappropriated $40,000 of Red Cross money and yet made a member of the Meighen cabinet, and lastly referring to Honorable Arthur Meighen himself, an his attempt to distribute 100,000 fraudulent votes throughout the country in connection with the War Times Election Act. "What kind of honest administration would you lok to receive from men of that calibre."

Rousing applause greeted the statement, "I believe there has never been a cleaner government in this country than that of Honorable Mackenzie King during the past five years."

Some amusement was created by the reference to the "unending feud between myself and the Conservative party during the past forty years," the statement being added, "Yet I will never make a charge against them individually or as a government that cannot be proved by documents, and not merely by verbal assertion."

The speaker continued by scoring the blocking of the Campbell amendment to the Grain Act; the railway deal, in earlier years, with the Mackenzie and Mann interests, to their great financial advantage at the public expense; the intriguing of Mr. Meighen with the Progressives during the last session of Parliament, and the refusal of the Governor-Genarl to grant dissolution to Mackenzie King. "Let the people say on polling-day that Lord Byng was right in assuming a power not claimed in England since the time of Wiliam the Fourth, and they sanction the greatest blow that will have been struck at the integrity, permanence, and independence of the entire British world in many years. Rumblings are already heard from Australia, and South Africa, and the affect of such actions in Canada will soon be felt in far distant parts of the Empire."

Concluding Mr. Preston said that he had no personal acquaintance with Mr. Staples, but had excellent reports of him as a man above reproach morally, and politically, and of more than ordinary ability, and was prepared to support such a candidate as out against the official representative of the Tory party. (Applause).

A letter from the Honorable Vincent Massey was read by the President, regretting his inability to be present, and referring to Mr. Staples, who had been his financial agent in the last election, so he had personal knowledge from which to speak, as "highly qualified to represent this riding, a man of whom Durham could be deservedly proud; and holding such views as justify the patry in giving him its undivided support, for Meighenism can only defeated by presenting an unbroken front against it."

Mr. Staples was born and raised in Cavan township, and a brief outline of his career shows that he received his High School education at Port Hope; took his B.A. degree in Honor Philosophy at Toronto University, adding history the next year and taking his M.A. degree. He studied at Edinburgh University for one year, and was attending Dresden University in Germany when the war broke out and he was interned utnil Christmas. He succeeded then in returning to Canada, and since that time has been following his career of an active agricuturalist with the exception of a short period when he was Educational Secretary for the U.F.O., at Toronto. After his father's death he took over the homestead farm, and thre years ago purchased the Gamsby farm at Orono, where he still resides.

Mr. Staples' Statement.

The secretary, E. S. Senkler, at the request of the President, read Mr. Staples' agenda which he has prepared for the press, the contents being:

"To the Electors of Durham:

On July 30th, a number of citizens from various municipalities of Durham met in convention at Orono, and asked me if I would consent to become a candidate in the coming Federal election. After some hesitation, on account of home, farm, and community ties, I have decided to enter the contest.

"To the many who know me I need not tell of my connection with Durham. To those who do not but who have a right to know my antecedents, I would say that I and my family for four generations before me have been born and raised in this county. At the present time I have no pecuniary interests whatever outside Durham, and my personal interests reach out into the larger field only as one of the general electorate.

"By my own desire, and in agreement with the will of the convention, I am in the field as an independent candidate. If elected I am free therefore to support measures on their merits rather than with any view to party advantage. At the same time I stand for a definite, clear-cut policy and shall work and vote consistently for that policy. The articles of this policy are:

"Clean, straight-forward government. This means immediately a continued and thorough investigation of the customs department, rooting out the abettors of illicit trafic in liquor, and kindred wares, across the border. The Federal machinery should be made to assist rather than hinder the provincial authorities and the government of the United States in the enforcement of legislation.

"Decrease rather than increase in the customs tariff. Reductions of recent years show that lower tariff means lower prices to the consumer, increased sales, more and steadier work for mechanics, and a more even distribution of the comforts and conveniences of life.

"Maintenance of the public ownership of the National Railways. Now that they are on the road to success insidious propaganda is on foot to have them turned back into the hands of monied men.

"The proper regulation of the traffic in intoxicating liquor. I and my forebears have given strong drink a wide berth, and I believe it should be placed where it can do as little harm to others as it has to us. On this point I am resolute.

"To represent Durham is an honor which no Durham man could hold lightly. Now that I am in the contest I covet it. Should the electors of Durham bestow it upon me on September 14 next I shall work whole-heartedly to establish the policy for which we stand. Should the electors determine otherwise I shall with just as much enthusiasm and good-will to the farm." (Applause).

The meeting, which was attended by about 200 delegates, closed with votes of confidence in the leadership of Right Honorable Mackenzie King, and W. E. N. Sinclair of the Provincial House, and with the singing of the National Anthem.

WELDING THEORY CHANGING

As a result of experimental work with atoms of hydrogen the theory of welding may be revolutionized. The idea behind the experiments is to pass the hydrogen atoms through an electric arc which produces a flame vastly hotter than the acetylene torch heretofore principally used for welding. By getting this heat welding of ordinary materials will be possible it is said, that will make the welded portions as strong as one original piece. If the experiments are developed commercially it may mean the passing of rivetting to a large extent.

This is Chapter Two of the Story of Our Great Factory Clearance of Dresses

Another Sale of Dresses

75 Dresses, All new, All up-to-the-minute Styles, Values $20.00 to $35.00, In one great clearing lot Saturday, At your choice - - - - $13.75

PLAIN CREPES, FANCY CREPES AND BORDERED CREPES. DARK COLORINGS AND LIGHT COLORINGS. MANY STYLES

Last week we put on the Wash Dresses of the great factory clearance we advertised. Saturday morning the Silk Dresses of the same great purchase go on Sale at a price that seems almost ridiculous for Dresses of such style and quality. As we said last week, we got an offer we simply could not refuse. The quantity was too great to put on in one day, and for that reason the lots were divided. Last Saturday saw the Wash Dresses sold. Tomorrow we start the selling of the Silk Dresses.

We say it advisedly and without exaggeration that never have we offered the people of Peterboro Dresses to compare with this lot for value. It is only possible because we bought them at away less than the cost of production. There are Dresses suitable for almost any occasion and Dresses that were made to sell for double Saturday's price or more.

Slim styles to interest women with youthful figures, and especially designed styles for figures of maturer form.

REGIMENTAL CAMP HELD AT COBOURG

End of Annual Training Period is Reached on Tuesday.

COBOURG, Aug. 6.—The Northumberland Regiment broke camp here on Tuesday and officers and men returned to their respective homes. Under Col. J. F. Wolfriam, O.C., it was one of the best camps yet held. Major Craig was in charge of A Company, Major Sanva of B Company, Major Bygott of C Company and Capt. T. O'Connor-Fenton of D Company.

On Monday the regiment was inspected by Gen. Hill, who was accompanied by Col. Brooks, G.S.O., for Military District No. 3, and Capt. Lee, district signalling officer. The General expressed himself as very pleased with the appearance of the men and the way they conducted themselves, especially with the firing at the ranges.

The Military Dinner.

On Friday night the annual dinner for the officers was held at the Armories here and proved to be a very pleasant and important function. An excellent dinner was served by the mess cook, and this was followed by an interesting toast list, with Major Bygott, of Campbellford, as the efficient master of ceremonies.

"The King," proposed by Major Bygott, was honored in the usual way. "Our Guests" was proposed by Capt. T. O'Connor-Fenton and responded to by Dr. F. P. Lloyd, of Cobourg, both making fine brief addresses.

Col. F. D. Boggs appropriately proposed "The Service" and Major C. H. Peterson responded in a brief apt speech.

Capt. Fritz performed the pleasant duty of proposing "The Ladies" and a capable response was made by Col. W. H. Floyd, Cobourg.

Lieut. Fred. Pepino, Cobourg, spoke in appreciative terms of "The Press," and Mr. F. W. Lapp, of The Cobourg World, capably replied.

"Our Town" was proposed by Lieut. Free in suitable terms and was replied to in good form by Major F. J. McArthur and Councillor A. R. Willmott.

Capt. Drope, M.M., proposed "The County" in happy manner and Mr. M. E. Maybee, M.P., made capable reply.

"The Regiment" was proposed by Col. Odell and Col. Wolfraim made a most able response.

Dancing Followed.

About seventy-five guests attended the military dance at the Armories following the annual dinner. The floor was in good shape, a congenial company was present, Parkinson's orchestra supplied excellent music, and the evening was very happily spent.

Garrison Church Parade.

On Sunday morning there was a garrison church parade to Victoria Park, where a brief bright service was held.

Cobourg Kilties Band led the parade, which left the Armories shortly after 10.30 a.m., followed by the Cobourg Medium Battery, Major Peterson, O.C., the Northumberland Regiment Band and the Northumberland Regiment, Col. J. F. Wolfriam, O.C. At St. Peter's Church they were joined by St. Peter's choir and the rector, the Rev. Dr. Boyle, who preceded them to the park. The military and civilians, for whom chairs were provided, were arranged in a semi-circle just south of the monument to Cobourg's soldier dead, and there an impressive service was held, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Boyle.

MILLBROOK COUNCIL

Pursuant to adjournment the Council met on July 28th, at 1.30 o'clock. The members were all present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and on motion of Deputy-Reeve Hooton and Councillor Hunter were adopted.

Communications read were:

From Mr. J. W. Odell, I.P.S., stating that Audrey A. Larmer and Gladys Williamson were the winners of the Baptie Scholarships.

From the Counties' Clerk giving Cavan's share of counties levy for 1926 as being $15,840.47.

Mr. John George addresed the Council asking for a grant for a wire fence. His request was referred to the road superintendent for inspection and adjustment.

Deputy Reeve Hooton introduced a by-law giving Council power to enter upon, to search for, and take from land within the Municipality, such timber, gravel, stone or other material as may be necessary for constructing, maintaining and keeping in repair the highways and bridges in the township.

Finney and Hunter,— That the by-law be read a first time.—Carried.

McKnight and Hunter,—That the by-law be read a second time and that the Council go into a committee of the whole for the consideration of the same with the Reeve in the chair.—Carried.

The Reeve reported the By-law read a second time.

Hunter and Finney,—That the By-law be read a third time, signed, sealed and numbered.—Carried.

BISHOP PREFERS TO STAY IN JAIL

Won't Renounce Claim To Patriarchal Throne of Russian Church.

OTHER PRISONERS.

HELSINGFORS, Aug. 6 (A.P.) —Archbishop Peter Krutitsky, Guardian of the Patriarchal Throne of the Russian Orthodox Church and successor to late Patriarch Tikhon, is in ill health and may not have long to live.

He has been confined to the Buterka Prison of the State Political Police (Cheka) since last December, when he was arrested on a charge of maintaining relations with Grand Duke Cyril and exiled Russian ecclesiasts abroad.

Refused "Living" Church

Archbishop Peter was promised his liberty if he would renounce his claim to the patriarchal throne and embrace the Red or "Living" Church. But Peter refused, preferring to undergo the sufferings and privations of imprisonment. At the time of his arrest twelve Bishops and more than sixty priests also were imprisoned or exiled.

Before his arrest, Archbishop Peter appointed as his successor to the Patriarchate, Archbishop Sergius of Nishni-Novgorod. Sergius is not allowed by the political police to live in Moscow, and must administer church affairs from Nishni-Novgorod. Archbishop Sergius is said to have appointed a series of twelve successors. Each of these prelates will take up the duties of the Patriarchate in case his predeecssor is imprisoned.

Exile Aged Sisters

According to Finnish news sources, eighty-five sisters of mercy connected with the Martha and Mary Hospital, an institution founded in Moscow many years ago by Grand Duchess Elizabeth, who with her husband was murdered by the Bolsheviks in Ekaterinburg in 1918, have been exiled to the Khirgezi Steppes. They were forced to pay for their transportation and food. They were mostly old women who had been acting as nurses in the hospital and had no political interests.

Some of the best and most prominent representatives of the Russian Orthodox Church are thought still to be in jail or exile. Among these is the Moscow prelate, Alexander Kotovitsky, formerly head of the Russian Orthodox Church in New York, a highly educated man, who has been banished to a remote village in Siberia. Another prominent member banished is Archbishop Ilarion, who is said to be in difficult straits in an unknown village on Lake Onega. Archbishops Theodore, Polocarpius, Goury, Agafangal and others are confined to Solovetsky Island or to Siberia.

THURSTON CHOSEN BY PROGRESSIVES

Former Member Will Contest Victoria and Haliburton Seat.

LINDSAY, Aug. 6.—At a convention of the Progressives of Victoria and Haliburton held in the Academy Theatre yesterday, J. J. Thurston of Fenelon Falls was nominated as the party's standard bearer in the forthcoming Federal election. The following were nominated and withdrew in favor of Mr. Thurston: W. Newman, Bruce McNevin, N. Smale, A. J. Campbell, Jasper Forman, Mrs. McElroy, R. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston.

The chief speakers of the day were F. G. Sandy, ex-M.P.P., South Victoria, and R. H. Halbert, ex-M.P., North Ontario.

Mr. Thurston was the Progressive member in the Federal House from 1921 up until the last general election, when he was defeated by T. H. Stonson, the present Conservative candidate, by over 2,000 majority.

WHISKY BOTTLES LOADED AS BOMBS

Farmer Near Kitchener Believes They Were Left As Spite Work.

KITCHENER, Aug. 6. — Three supposed bombs were found by A. Kirschembaum in his barn near Centreville on Tuesday, and the Provincial Police are now endeavoring to discover whether are genuine or whether it was a hoax. The bombs were in whiskey bottles, with the fuses through the corks, and Kirschembaum believes that it was spite work following evidence he and his partner, Norman Auerbuck, gave recently in Police Court in a still case.

Extending from Namonde to Nikko, two Japanese towns fifty miles apart, there is a wonderful avenue of trees. They are perfectly straight, 130 to 150 feet high and 12 to 15 feet in circumference.

Paris Flounces the Young Girl with Fine Plaits

A French frock girdles the slim hips of the young girl with a wide sash tied over a plaited flounce so that the flounce itself forms its own heading. The rest of the dress is as simple as a one-piece construction can make it. Those who know the great Paris dressmakers will recognize their touch in the long, close sleeve. The Summer colors for afternoon frocks are the pastel shades of mauve, rose, sky blue and yellow-green in the plain silk and satin crêpes and taffetas. Violet crêpe de Chine printed with white dots and worn with a straight coat of crêpe Roma in the new and rather intense shade of royal purple is very smart.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

SPECIAL OFFER TO RHEUMATICS

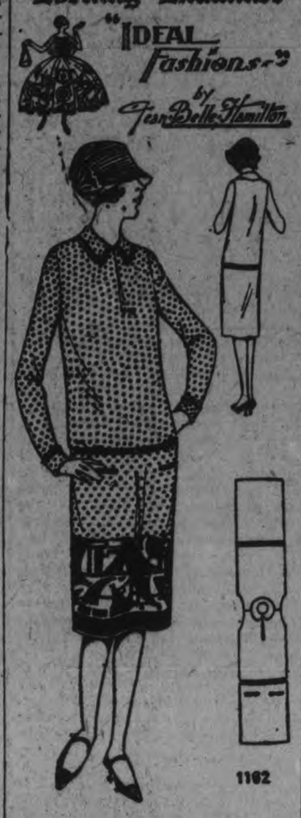
Evening Examiner "IDEAL Fashions" by Jean Belle Hamilton



A High Spot of Fashion

The polka dotted gown has created a furore in the smart fashion centers. Polka dots, large or small, and in all colors are smart, but particularly smart when of navy-blue on a light background with a border design. We present here a one-piece frock, the simple design of which is admirably suited to materials of this type. The dress opens at the neck and is finished with a round boyish collar. The long sleeves are trimmed with tailored cuffs, and two inset pockets furnish a decorative note. No. 1162 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 2¼ yards 54-inch bordered material as illustrated. Price 20 cents.

Every woman's desire is to achieve that smart different appearance which draws favorable comment from the observing public. The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are originated in the heart of the style centers and will help you to acquire that much desired air of individuality. YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The pearl, today's talismanic gem, is the jewel of youth and purity. Its wearer is said to be gifted with extreme charm and to be irresistible to the opposite sex.

In similar fashion should the onyx, today's natal gem, be worn if its powers are desired to the fullest extent. Coolness and poise will distinguish its wearer.

Rose color, worn today, attracts courage and confidence. Social ambitions are likely to be realized by the wearer of this color today.

Poppies are today's lucky flowers.

FRIDAY AUGUST 6 1926.

(Copyright, 1926, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

They who read the stars interpret this as a fair y favorable day for many human ambitions. Women will be especially lucky, in all probability.

Th s is held as a most auspicious rule for making engagements to marry, since persons are not easily deceived under this planetary government.

Women apparently are to come to the front in many public matters. For a time they have been less active than they will be in the future.

Many women are to be prominent in the fall political campaigns and several are to gain far-reaching power, it is prognosticated.

The seers prophesy that women are to demand high places in government office and they are to gain positions on the bench as well as on diplomatic missions.

This should be a fortunate day for public entertainments and especially for the theaters.

Again astrologers predict that the pendulum of taste will swing backward to register modesty in dress and demeanor.

The period of so-called liberty, which has been in danger of misinterpretation, is coming to a close, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Girls are warned to curtail vanity and to abstain from self-consciousness which is revealed in public exhibitions of beauty culture in the form of applications of powder and paint.

Good taste and true artistic perception are to be markedly cultivated from this time on astrologers foretell.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly lucky, for beauty of mind and body should be theirs. These subjects of Leo are usually in every way trustworthy.

JAPAN STILL FLAPPERLESS

Although Japan is changing rapidly the Japanese girl still does not compare with the American girl in the exercise of her individuality. She has not "boy friends" in the sense of the American girls' young acquaintances, still has no chance to choose her husband, and no freedom outside the home. One of her accomplishments besides the usual domestic services, however, is that of performing the tea ceremony. They are not accustomed to social life and when in public or with grown ups are noticeably shy. A Girl Scout movement has been started there.

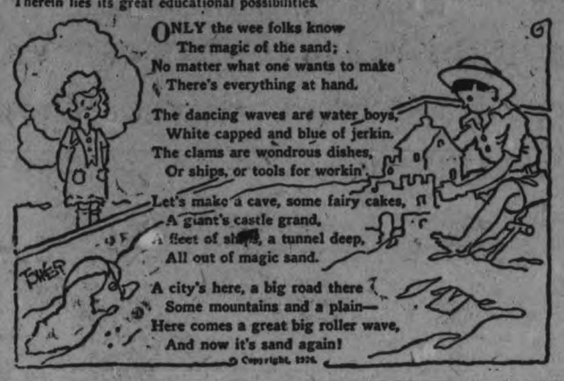
Magic Sand

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THERE is no finer play material than sand. It affords unlimited opportunity for exercising the imagination, and is such a healthful play medium. To play barefoot in the sand and sunshine is a tonic which can't be bottled and sold, and is invaluable. We cannot all take the children to the seashore, but we can have happy times at picnics or in our own sand box at home. Sand is just sand until the imagination and creative impulse start to work. It can then be anything. Therein lies its great educational possibilities.



LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES DICKENS

The following note is not strictly a love-letter. But it is one of those letters that give a wife a comfortable feeling of entire possession of her husband. And that more than equals the most passionate verbal effusiveness. This letter was written by Charles Dickens to his wife while he was travelling through Yorkshire with the celebrated artist who illustrated his books, "Phiz," otherwise known as Hablot K. Browne. They were investigating school conditions and the results were afterwards incorporated in the novel, "Nicholas Nickleby." The letter is long and tells of a variety of things, from travelling anecdotes to a pain in the side, but so instinctive a confidante was his wife that one of her letters from Dickens was reproduced by the latter in "Nicholas Nickleby."

"My dearest Love—I received your welcome letter on arriving here last night, and am rejoiced to hear that the children are so much better. I hope that in your next, or your next but one, I shall learn that they are quite well. A thousand kisses to them.

"We found a roaring fire, an elegant dinner, a snug room and capital beds all ready for us at Leamington, after a very agreeable but very cold ride. We started in a post-chaise next morning for Kenilworth with which we were both enraptured and where, I really think, we must have lodgings next summer, please God that we are in good health and all goes well. You cannot conceive how delightful it is. To read among the ruins in fine weather would be perfect luxury. From here we went to Warwick Castle which is an ancient building newly restored and possessing no very great attraction beyond a fine view and some beautiful pictures; and thence to Stratford-on-Avon where we sat down in the room where Shakespeare was born and left our autographs and read those of other people and so forth. . . .

"My side has been very bad since I left home, although I have been very careful not to drink much, and remain to the full as abstemious as usual. . . .

"God bless you, darling. I long to be back with you again and see sweet Babs."

WHO WROTE THIS?

1. "A day to childhood seems a year, And years to passing ages."
2. "Procrastination is the thief of time."
3. "Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen, Here's to the widow of fifty."
4. "Tomorrow the dreams and flowers will fade." And years to passing ages." time."
5. "In the spring a young man's fancy respondent, "that it is incorrect to say 'the criminal was executed'; and that we should say 'the sentence of the law was executed,' not the man. What is your opinion?"

The use of "execute," in application to a human being, has been criticized by some purists, but there is good authority for such use. It has made a place for itself in the language. In "Words and Their Ways in English Speech," it is said:

"'Execute' has long been used for putting to death by legal process, but is still perfectly familiar in its general meaning of 'carry out,' 'follow out,' or 'fulfill.' The judgment of the court is executed, that is, 'carried out,' when a murderer is hanged. Hence, the hanging is called an 'execution,' that is to say, a carrying out of the judgment pronounced; and, by transference, the man is said to be executed as well as the sentence."

CANADA FOR BETTER WIVES

In no country in the world today is there such an organized system to promote better homes as in Canada, particularly in the rural districts. The Women's Institutes are to be found in every community with well worked out courses in home economics provided through them by the department of agriculture. Home nursing, sewing, serving, millinery, and all the allied home arts are taught in short courses.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

LOUISE.

One of the most popular of feminine names in our country today is Louise, which has the somewhat formidable significance of 'famous holiness.' Originally, it is derived from the Latin word 'laus,' meaning praise. After penetrating several languages and being subjected to many influences, including the Frankish one which changed it to chlod, and seemed to carry it far afield from its destiny, it emerged as Aloys in France.

Charles II took the Provencal name and changed it to Louis, bestowing it upon one of his younger sons, the only one who lived to succeed him. Provence, however, continued to call the feminine of the name Aloyse, or Heloise. The correspondence of "Heloise and Abelard" was the particular theme of sentiment to appeal to the French heart, and the name of Heloise was eternally established. The wife of William Mallet, the hero of Bulwer's "Harold," bore the same name, though it was spelled Hesilia or Helewise.

In this manner Louise, or rather her various forms, was established in the literature and language of France. Its popularity waned for a time, but once more, literature brought it into vogue through Rousseau's romance of "La Nouvelle Heloise." The votaresses of St. Louis adopted his name, forming a feminine derivative and coming closer to the present-day Louise than any other influence. Finally, in the 15th century, Louise sprang into being and won immediate popularity in France, whose princesses took it everywhere, including England through an alliance with the House of Hanover.

Louisa and Louie are English forms. Louise, Lucette, Loulou and Heloise are distinctly French. Italy prefers Luisa or Eloisa, likewise Spain. Germany calls it Luise or Ludowicke, and Portugal, Luiza. Sweden has a form, Ludovica.

Louise's particular jewel is the beryl, which is a talisman against loss of finance or friends. Its wearer is assured amiability and popularity. Th stone has the power to reawaken love in married people. Friday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

ONCE UPON A TIME — HANS IN LUCK—II — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

HANS HAD WORKED FOR SEVEN LONG YEARS FOR HIS MASTER. WHEN HE DECIDED TO RETURN HOME TO HIS MOTHER. HIS MASTER GAVE HIM A LUMP OF GOLD AS BIG AS HIS HEAD FOR A REWARD FOR FAITHFUL WORK. HANS WRAPPED THE GOLD IN HIS HANDKERCHIEF AND, THROWING IT OVER HIS SHOULDER, STARTED FOR HOME. HE MET A MAN ON A FINE HORSE WHO ASKED HANS WHY HE WALKED.

ANSWERING THE HORSEMAN, HANS SAID, "I MUST WALK BECAUSE I HAVE THIS BIG LUMP OF GOLD TO CARRY HOME AND IT IS SO HEAVY I CAN SCARCELY HOLD UP MY HEAD."

"I'LL TELL YOU WHAT," SAID THE HORSEMAN, "WE'LL JUST EXCHANGE. I'LL GIVE YOU MY HORSE AND YOU GIVE ME THE LUMP OF GOLD." "WITH ALL MY HEART," REPLIED HANS; "BUT I WARN YOU—IT'S A HARD JOB CARRYING IT."

THE HORSEMAN DISMOUNTED, TOOK THE GOLD AND HELPED HANS INTO THE SADDLE. GIVING THE BRIDLE INTO HIS HAND HE SAID, "IF YOU WANT HIM TO GO FAST JUST CLUCK YOUR TONGUE AND SAY 'C'CK! C'CK!'" HANS WAS DELIGHTED AS HE SAT ON HIS HORSE AND RODE GAILY ALONG.

AFTER A WHILE HE FANCIED HE WOULD LIKE TO GO FASTER, SO HE BEGAN TO CLUCK WITH HIS TONGUE AND SAY "C'CK! C'CK!" THE HORSE BROKE INTO A TROT AND BEFORE HANS WAS AWARE HE WAS THROWN OFF—SPLASH—INTO A DITCH BY THE ROADSIDE, AND THERE HE LAY.

TOMORROW—A FAIR EXCHANGE.

REGATTA AT CHEMONG PARK GREAT SUCCESS

Many Entries For Various Races and Many Spectators.

CLOSE CONTESTS.

Major Races For Various Trophies Are Keenly Contested.

Despite the threatening, cloudy weather of the morning, the annual regatta at Chemong Park yesterday proved to be a very successful event, and there was a good attendance later on in the afternoon, when a bright sun shone out and drove away the rain and the clouds. A large number of motor cars drove out from the city for the event, and the big boat from Stoney Lake, with a couple of yachts anchored along the shore, added to the air of festivity on the lake to which many motor boats and smaller craft, stationed in the middle of the watery expanse, contributed a bright note.

The Regatta was held off the Club House, and was in charge of an energetic committee of gentlemen who put the events through in business-like fashion. All the entries were well contested, and plenty of enthusiasm was evoked in the competitions for the different trophies, including the W. H. Bradburn Trophy for canoe sailing, the G. N. Gordon Trophy for open sailing, the Peterborough Canoe Challenge Cup for dinghy sailing race, and the W. J. Thompson Cup for men's single canoe race. The crab race, the war canoe race, with seven in skiff, the gunwale race and the tilting competitions were the cause of much merriment, and there was plenty of interest in the major competitions for the trophies, with a close finish in the outboard motor race.

The Big Races

The events and prize-winners were as follows:

Canoe sailing race for the W. H. Bradburn Trophy, which becomes the property of the winner after being captured for two years in succession, and which was won last year by Bob Beal, was won this year by Reg. Dixon, with Bob Beal a close second at the finish. This event had three entries, and was contested in one circle of the course.

The open sailing race for the G. N. Gordon Trophy, a race of two rounds or six miles, was won by Gordon Matthews in the "Skidley," with Stauart Flavette, in the "Alameda" from Sturgeon Point, in second place. The trophy, won last year by Jim Pierdon of Stoney Lake, becomes the property of the winner who captures it three times. There were five entries in this event.

The dinghy sailing race was exceptionally interesting, as it saw a contest of skill between two well-known Chemong boys, Reg. Dixon and Otto Gliddon, who finished first and second respectively, Reg. Dixon in the "Sunbeam," and Otto Gliddon in "No. 37" of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club. The two finished the first round of the course in the same positions in which they reached the final. There were ten entries in this event, run off of the Peterborough Canoe Company's Challenge Cup, which must be raced for on Chemong Lake, and may be challenged at any time during the summer.

Canoe Events

There were eight entries in the big event for men's single canoe, which was won by E. F. ("Biffer" Reeves, with Jack Ridpath in second place.

Three ladies competed in the ladies' single canoe event, which was won by Anne Heiderman, with second place to Helen Edmison of Toronto and Kawartha Park, Stoney Lake.

In the crab race, which followed, there were nine entries and much skill demonstrated. Don Fitzgerald of Lakefield won this race, with Jim McFarlane second.

In the mixed tandem canoe race, with five entries, Mrs. Don. Fitzgerald of Lakefield and C. Ridpath were first, and Don Fitzgerald and Miss Eelen Edmison second.

An odd circumstance in connection with the war canoe race, a skiff event with seven paddlers, was the presence in one of the competing skiffs of young Jack Mardall, brother of one of the victims of the late war canoe tragedy at Balsam Lake.

This race, which had four entries, had a close finish, and was won by C. Ridpath's crew, with Dr. Harold Long's crew in second place.

The open motor boat race, with three entries at the getaway, saw a very exciting finish, with a good deal of enthusiasm for the winner, Mr. Carmichael of Bobcaygeon in the "Tish." Mr. Windsor, in the "Ventura," came second.

The gunwale race saw first and second places won by the Reeves brothers, who also took second place in the men's tandem canoe race, won by the Ridpath brothers. There were six entries in this event, and three in the outboard motor race, an interesting contest which saw first place taken by Wilmot ("Pete") Gordon and second by Fred L. Roy.

Three girls entered the ladies' swimming race, which was won by Eleanor Hiland, with Elspeth McElhiney second. There were also three competitors for men's swimming honors, won by Ross Thompson, with Lawrence Killaly second.

In the men's fours, with four paddlers in a canoe, there were a couple of upsets near the finish, one of the boats which emptied its occupants into the water having as a member Jack Mardall. This event was won by the Ridpath crew, with V. Eastwood's crew in second place.

The men's single canoe had four entries, competing for the W. J. Thompson Cup, open to Chemong Park residents only, and was won by Reg Dixon, with Ross Thompson in second place.

The tilting proved as fun-making as usual, with good hard work in the elimination tests. The finals were competed for by William Forsythe, the "Coca Cola King," and his companion, Dr. Harold Long, against the Ridpath brothers, Messrs. Forsythe and Long winning the contest, amid much applause.

A demonstration of much interest took place during the progress of the afternoon's programme was given by W. L. Sharpe, showing the safety to be achieved by the use of the invention which he has perfected. By the use of "Sponsons," attached to the side of the canoe, Mr. Sharpe was enabled to demonstrate the unsinkable quality of his craft. He turned the canoe over in the water, righted it, and then, while it was filled with water to the brim ,propelled it to the shore.

Regatta prizes were presented at the Pavilion last evening by Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

The evening concluded with a dance, splendidly attended, in the Pavilion, with excellent music provided by Ken Blood's Orchestra, and Roy Nickrenz' novelty dances.

Messrs. Kimmel and Forler did a rushing business yesterday, and maintained an extra refreshment booth on the hill overlooking the lake.

Judges for the events yesterday were Messrs. W. H. Bradburn, M.P., J. E. Patte, W. J. Thompson and P. P. Westbye. Messrs. F. L. Roy and G. H. Roper acted as starters, Major J. A. McElhiney as announcer, and Roy Dixon and Gerald McClelland as clerks. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of the following members: J. K. Hughes, chairman; Roy Dixon, secretary-treasurer; H. J. Bradburn, W. R. Thompson, G. Eastwood, Reg. Dixon, R. J. Breyfogle, R. D. Mulholland, Angus Macdonald and Harry Forler.

THE STOCK MARKET

Matheson, August 5, 1926.

Word has been received of the reopening of the Abitibi Mines in Lighting River, The present operations consist in an extension of the campaign of diamond drilling done last year. At that time some 5000' of drilling was perfomed which, upon examination by the engineers, received most favorable comment. A definite fault-plane structure, striking East and West through the centre of this Company's property has been cut. This contact has been proved to a depth of 4000 feet and length of 600 feet, while the length indicated on the surface is several thousand feet. At the 300 foot level an ore body assaying $11.80 and $12.20 in diamond drill core was located. This ore was found to lie in the above contact which had a width of 10' to 40'. The formation has been favorably compared to the main break through the Kirkland Lake camp and Geologiste have expressed the opinion that the formation is highly favorable for the discovery of ore bodies. It is stated that such bodies will in all likelihood be found to have a consistent formation and be more regular in ore deposition than in the case of ore desposits disassociated with so definite a full contact. For this reason it is believed that mining operations will be simplified and further ore bodies will be opened up without undue cost and handling of waste rock.

The objective for this year's work is to prove a further extension of the ore body discovered last year. The fault contact appears to continue Westward onto the Teddy Bea group of claims which adjoin the Abitibi and which is controlled by interests closely associated with the Abitibi. Surface prospecting on the Teddy Bear claims has been in progress since the Spring and indications go to prove that the ore deposition on the Abitibi continues onto the Teddy Bear.

It is expected that upon the completion of the present campaign of diamond drilling a plan of shaft sinking and underground development will be entered upon. The geological conditions pertaining in this area have been described as most unusual and encouraging Rich values were discovered at grass roots and it is now believed that these values are the out-cropping of the vein cut by the diamond drill at 300 feet.

Gold Hill Is Leader In Featureless Session

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press)—Gold Hill exhibited considerable activity in trading on the Standard Mining Exchange today although it closed only one half higher at 64. The market was inclined to be dull and featureless. Dome was off 35 cents to 11.00 and Lake Shore five cents to 12.00. Teck Hughes was up one cent to 3.87, Noranda 15 cents to 17.00, Coniaurum 10 cents to 3.10. Beaver Silver gained two to 77, and Castle Trethewey three quarters to 37, while Coniagas lost 15 cents to 3.95, Crown Reserve one half to 9, and Bourlamaque one to 1.04.

Broader Demand To-day Features New York Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—Marked broadening in the demand for stocks featured the resumption of the upward movement in today's market.

High priced industrial specialties were again spectacular features, but increasing public interest was manfest in standard industrials and rails.

Loose-Wiles Biscuit was a sensational individual feature, soaring 19 points to a new record top at 153 by early afternoon. Among the score or so other issues to sell four to ten points higher were National Distillers, Hudson Motors, American Express, and American Brake Shoe and Foundry.

Case Threshing Machine extended its early gain to 7 1-2 points, while International Harvester and Advance Rumely Preferred each moved up more than four points.

Brazilian Makes Record Features Toronto Market

TORONTO, August 6. Canadian Press. — Dominating the Toronto Stock Exchange session to-day, Brazilian climbed to a new high record of 107 1-4 and was at the high mark at the noon close, a gain of two and 3-4 points. More than two thousand shares changed hands.

Gooderham and Worts new issue was also in the lime light with a gain of a point to 30½ on a turnover of more than 5000. Smelters firmed 3-8 at 230 3-4 and International Nickel was unchanged at 37½. Steamships preferred firmed at 1½ at 72½ and other firm issues were Abitibi gaining 1 3-4 at 81 3-4 and Bakeries up one at 36. Hollinger eased 20 at 19.30

Wheat Turns Upward On Broader Export Trade

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press)—Influenced by offerings here and by an advance in premiums for wheat available to be exported at the Gulf of Mexico, wheat values quickly scored gains today after an initial downturn. Opening 1-4 to 1 cent down the wheat market soon rose to well above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions also developed firmness. Corn starting unchanged to 3-8 cent off and later advancing all around. Prospects for broader export demand received considerable attention among wheat traders today.

REV. P. COSTELLO TELLS KIWANIS ABOUT JESUITS

Recounts Efforts and Sufferings of Martyrs of Fort Ste. Marie.

PIONEER MONKS.

Built Fort, Grew Own Food, Civilized and Converted Indians.

The page of history was turned back some three centuries this afternoon by the Rev. Father Costello, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, in his address on Old Fort Ste. Marie.

He took his listeners back to the time when Canada belonged to France, to the time when there were 30,000 Hurons roaming the virgin forests of Simcoe County. At the beginning of the seventeenth century, said the speaker, the Huron Indians dwelt along the shores of Georgian Bay. There was a score of villages between Lake Simcoe and Nattawasaga Bay. Champlain came to Canada in 1603 and on exploring this section of the country he became aware of the need of missionaries for these people. He returned to France and suggested that missionaries be sent, with a result that in 1626 the Jesuits came out.

During the year 1615 Joseph le Caron had made his way up the Ottawa Valley, over Lake Nipissing to Huron County, but the work proved to be to much for him, hence his invitation to the Jesuits, Jean de Brebeuf and another being the first to arrive.

In 1629 the English seized the colony and drove the French missionaries out, but by the Treaty of St. Germain-en-laye, Canada was given back to the French and De Brebeuf returned to the country and soon more Jesuits followed him. The Jesuits extended their work to Mount St. Louis, lived with the Indians and shared their food and shelter in order that they might learn their language. Some of these men were lawyers, one was a nobleman, he said, and the hardships that these men suffered can readily be understood especially when a person thinks of the home that they gave up in Old France in order that they might get into this work.

The Jesuits erected the fort in 1639. They lived in it, taught school, taught the principles of industry and grew enough corn to feed themselves. In 1642 the Iroquois tribe of Indians attacked the fort and burned it down. They killed Pere Daniel, fired the church, and threw his body into the flames. They again attacked the fort the next year, seized Brebeuf and Lalement, and put them to death.

Antoine Daniel, Jean de Brebeuf, Gabriel Lalement, Charles Garnier, and Noel Chabanl were the five men most mentioned, said the speaker.

The main man among them was Jean de Brebeuf, he said. Born in France of Norman origin, he came to Canada in 1625. He persuaded, with the aid of small presents some Huron fur traders to take him back into their country and finally after thirty day travel he landed at French river. He was faced with a big task but his work for Christ went on, said the speaker. The Indians had to be both Christianized and civilized, and his work was going along nicely when along came the Iroquois and made war. They seized the leader stripped him of his garments, tore his nails from his fingers, but he did not falter, and kept calling to his people to stand by Christ. They made him endure unspeakable tortures, even cutting out his tongue when he persisted in calling to the people, and finally burning him to death.

Old Fort Ste. Marie is famous today as a result of the sacrifices made by these men and will always stand as a shrine to their memory, he declared. When a person thinks of the hardships that they suffered it makes him glad that Canada is under the protection of a flag that guarantees religious liberties and every other kind of liberty to its citizens.

Miss Geraldine Collins, the soloist for the occasion, rendered a splendid solo and was heartily encored, by the members.

The booster for the day was Jack Chadwick and the prize winners were Ed. Wood, Harry Boyle and Ray Carman.

Jack McKone conveyed the thanks of the club to the speaker and the soloist.

The following visitors were present:: H. M. Love, Picton; C. R. Penfold, Guelph; E. M. Crough, Miss Geraldine Collins, the Rev. Father P. Costello, R. H. Parsons and J. J. Duffus.

CLERGY CLAIM NO OPPOSITION TO PROGRESS

Have Not Been Rebellious, But Laws Encroach on Conscience.

BOYCOTT EFFECTIVE.

People For Most Part Are Going Calmly About Their Business.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press)—It is not the intention of the Roman Catholic episcopate of Mexico to be "treasonable to its duties" in any plan that might be evolved for a settlement of the controversy between the church and the government growing out of the enforcement of the religious regulations.

Taking cognizance of the message of President Calles to President Leguia of Peru, in which the President reaffirmed his intention to carry out the laws, the episcopate says the Mexican clergy has never opposed the progress of Mexico, that the clergy is not rebellious, and that the opposition to the regulations is justified because they encroach upon liberty of conscience. The episcopate adds it is still ready to "reach a just settlement."

Meanwhile the deadlock between government and church continues. The situation today was that the Government would continue the enforcement of the law while the church will maintain an attitude of non-acceptance of the regulations.

While there have been some disturbances, for the most part the people are going about the customary duties calmly awaiting developments.

The economic boycott called to protest against the regulations is declared by Roman Catholic leaders to be more effective throughout the country than is indicated at the capital. Government officials believe the assertions of seriousness are perhaps exaggerated while business men and official observers regard the situation as serious. Notable is the enthusiasm with which women are carrying out the boycott. All things that might be called luxuries are being cut out by them. The decrease in sales of feminine apparel is estimated as high as forty per cent.

No comment has been made on the American Knights of Columbus' strong protest against the regulations.

..WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. —(Canadian Press). — Catholic Bishops and Priests in Mexico are demanding only the rights guaranteed to Mexicans under the national constitution of that country, Father John J. Burke, secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said in a statement to-day.

KNIGHTS TO HOLD CHURCH PARADE

Will March To St. John's Church on Monday. Evening.

OPENING SESSION.

Among other events scheduled for the Civic Holiday will be the church parade of the Knights Templars, at tending the sessions of Sovereign Great Priory, in the evening at 8 p.m.

The Knights in their elaborate uniforms, will form up at the Empress Hotel, and march to St. John's church. The route will be via Charlotte, George and Hunter streets, and it is expected that about one hundred will be in line.

The Grand Master, Colonel George B. McLeod, of Edmonton, will arrive to-morrow with others of the Grand Council, but the larger number of delegates will not reach the city until Monday.

Reservations for hotel accommodation have been received from all parts of the Dominion, and the assembly promises to be one of the largest yet held.

It is hoped the merchants will put out their flags during the parade, and also during the assembly.

An oil flame, invented by Oscar Brunler, a Belgian scientist, will burn for weeks under water.

FOSSILS FOUND IN AUSTRALIA

Remains of Giant Kangaroos and Relics of Early Men.

IMPLEMENT FOUND.

By A. W. V. KING.

SYDNEY, Aug. 6.—(United Press).—Fossil remains of giant kangaroos, which on being set up are computed to have been twelve feet in height, have been discovered in limestone caves in the south-western part of Victoria.

A still more interesting discovery in the same caves was of a flint implement shaped rudely by hands that were stilled many thousands of years ago.

The flint has been examined by competent Melbourne archaeologists and other scientists, who believe that it is at least 15,000 years old. They are almost certain that the giant kangaroos and the wielder of the flint implement were contemporary. The flint fits fairly well the description of the Chellean type of instrument, the oldest known implements that are certainly the work of man. It is held not to be the work of even the oldest of Australia's present race of aborigines.

The discovery of the pre-historic skull at Cohuna a few months ago, this latest discovery, and other facts gleaned by geologists and philologists, all point, to the minds of scientists, to one general conclusion—that Australia shares in the childhood of man. A wave of enthusiasm is being to sweep over students to investigate whether this country, and not Asia, as is generally accepted, is the cradle of man.

DOUCET CLAIMS CHARGE PROVED

Says Margaret Taken Off Regular Route For Pleasure Trip.

NOT 'JOY CRUISE.'

TORONTO, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press). — Special Despatch—To-day from Notre Dame, Que. quotes Hon. J. A. Doucet, former M. P., as saying "I have nothing to withdraw," following the result of the Customs probe into his "allegations' of impropriety during the cruises of Customs steamer "Margaret."

" I said that the Margaret had been taken off the regular trip for a pleasure cruise and I repeat it and say the evidence has proven this. I made no mention of any carousel or joy cruise.

"The statments which I made I am prepared to substantiate," Mr. Doucet is quoted as saying. "What I did say in speeches was that the Margaret had been taken off regular patrol duty and had been taken to Three Rivers where Mr. Bureau and party were taken on and that it went then to Quebec where Mr. Lapointe and party were taken on. Later on Anticosti, Magdalen Island, etc., were visited."

Homes of People Important in Hall-Mills Case Are Watched.

ONE DISAPPEARS.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Aug. 6. —(Canadian Press). — The State Police were on guard to-day before the homes of six witnesses, four of them servants of the Hall family, according to Assistant Attorney General Simpson, who is in charge of the new investigation of the murder four years ago of the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Orders yesterday for the arrest of a negess and a vestryman in Dr. Hall's church were withdrawn.

One important witness, Mrs. Minna Clark, has disappeared. She was a fellow member of Mrs. Mills in the church choir.

EVOLUTION LOSES.

Defender of Scopes Badly Beaten in Contest For Nomination.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6. — (United Press). — Evolution was overwhelmingly defeated by the voters of Tennessee, in the primary yesterday. Governor Austin Peay, seeking re-election and Hill McAlister, State Treasurer, were running a close race early to-day with D. John R. Neal, lawyer and Liberal who headed the Scopes defence in the Dayton Evolution trial trailing far behind. McAlister sponsored Tennessee's law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the schools Peay supported the law enthusiastically.

SEVEN REMANDED.

Appeared on Manslaughter Charges To-day in Poison Liquor Case.

WELLAND, Ont., August 6. — Canadian Preee. — Seven men arrested in connection with the sale or handling of poison liquor were remanded on charges of manslaughter to-day. They were: John McCrae, James Sacco, William Herberts, Frank Boyd, John Toysherki, all of Niagara Falls; Nick Ricci, taxi driver of Thorold and John Cironi, Merriton.

The charges are the outcome of the deaths of three men after partaking of wood alcohol two weeks ago.

Whether more than one blow was struck with the oar could not be learned. Recovery of young Fonger's body may determine that, it is hoped, as the boy is believed to have been stunned by the blows he received.

No Visible Wounds.

HAMILTON, Aug. 6— (Canadian Press). — Searchers to-day recovered from Burlington Bay the body of Eddie Fonger, 8, who was drowned while swimming yesterday afternoon. Police stated there were no visible wounds on the head.

William Urkowitz, 14, is held at the Children's Shelter as a result of the stories of his companions that he had struck the Fonger boy with an oar, so causing his death.

INJURED ALPINIST CARRIED FOR MILES

Lawrence Grassi Performs Remarkable Feat of Heroism During Trip.

TONQUIN VALLEY, JASPER PARK, Aug. 6. — Tonight a new name has been added to the roll of honor of the Alpine Clubs of the world— a roll already bright with deeds of heroism. On this list is placed the name of Lawrence Grassi of Canmore, Alta., who carried on his back, over two miles of treacherous rock and glacier, a companion who had been injured during a descent from the top of Baston Peak of the Rampant Range.

Slipped on Loose Rock.

The accident of which Dr. R. C. Williams of Calgary was the victim, was a simple one, a compound fracture of an ankle, caused by a slip, from a loose rock near the peak of the mountain but it occurred under conditions which might have been serious had there not been present some one of such resourcefulness as Grassi. The point where Dr. Williams was injured was one where the rock slides are imminent at all hours and where to leave any one unable to help himself was to court disaster. Realizing this, Mr. Grassi carried his unfortunate companion on his back down the steep slope, across the Drawbridge Glacier and beyond it to the foot of the rocks into the timber line, where he was met by the rescue party sent out from the main camp.

The upper slopes of the Bastion are formed of shale and rotten rock, any piece of which is liable to give way at any time and precipitate the climber many feet down the side of the mountain. Added to this is the always present danger of rock-slides from above, slides that shoot tons of boulders down the slopes with the sound like the discharge of a battery of field guns. The Drawbridge Glacier lies on a steep slope and is about a mile wide. Its face is seamed with crevvices into which any one but the emost sure-tooted could tumble to disaster. Below it again is a rock-strewn slope of another mile or more, where boulders are heaped in great masses, often higher than an ordinary house.

Remarkable Alpine Feat.

It was over this ground that Mr Grassi, who received his Alpine training along the Dolomites of the Italian Tyrol Range, carried his companion with a speed that amazed even the most experienced members of the club. It was a remarkable example of rock climbing that more than fully justified the reputation which Mr. Grassi has earned during the meeting as probably the finest rock climber the club has ever seen.

Fielder had no legal r ght to jump over ropes and catch fly ball.

In so doing he entered restricted territory. The catch, therefore, was not legal.

The baisman was entitled to two bases on ball even though it was caught.

All runners on bases would also be entitled to advance two bases.

SOVIET LEADERS ARE ALARMED BY DIFFERENCES

Conditions in Russian Army and Navy Are Very Bad.

MANY ARRESTS.

Opposition To Stalin Has Developed—Great Struggle For Power.

NEW YORK, August 6. — Alarming conditions in the Russian army and navy, as a consequence of differences among the Soviet leaders, are reported in a despatch from Reval broadcast yesterday by the French official wireless station at Bordeaux, and picked up here.

The Reval despatch says the Soviet Commissioners and the people in Moscow are alarmed over the spirit of the fighting forces following the circulation of an attack on the present executive committee by Gregory Zinovieff, head of the Communist Third Internationale.

"Leaders of the fleet at Cronstadt have been summoned," the despatch continues. "There have been numerous arrests in the garrisons at Moscow, Menjinski (the newly appointed chief of the secret police) has received full powers to arrest all Communists, however situated.

Recent despatches from Moscow and elsewhere have indicated a serious split among the Communist leaders and a struggle for power. Joseph V. Stalin, who has risen to power since the death of Lenin, and has gradually ousted Trotzky, Kameneff, Zinovieff and other old leaders from their places on the all-powerful political bureau and from control of important bureaus, has finally aroused open opposition.

Trotzky was taken back into the political bureau last January at the time Kameneff was put out but he has never gained his previous position of power. Zinovieff, who recently was ousted from the political bureau, and Kameneff, according to recent despatches, have allied themselves with Trotzky, their former arch enemy.

Trotzky's position has not been made clear, but the Stalin party believes he is organizing the opposition, which includes many of the most powerful men in the Lenin regime.

While Stalin has control of the army and navy commands there have been many indications that a large part of these forces are still under the influence of Trotzky and Zinovieff.

BATTLE ON STREET CAUSES TWO DEATHS

New York Policeman and Robber Are Victims of Bullets.

NEW YORK August 6. —(Canadian Press). — Patrolman Oeklerking was killed and Albert Mack was fatally injured to-day in a pitched battle following a robbery of twenty dollars from a restaurant, near Broadway. The policeman opened fire on the escaping robbers and the fight developed into pitched battle. Mack was one of the two robbers, the other man escaping.

One Call For Help Saves Two Suicides

BUDAPEST, Aug. 6. — (United Press).—One call for help prevented two suicides here.

A man, the name of whom the police have not divulged, became desperate because of failure to obtain employment and decided to drown himself in the Danube.

Eluding the special anti-suicide patrols which the police keep on the river day and night, he jumped from one of the bridges which connect the twin cities of Buda and Pest.

Just as he struck the water he heard a cry for help and noticed another man struggling in the water. Being a good swimmer he hastened to rescue his unfortunate fellow-being.

On reaching shore he became so engrossed in assisting the police to resuscitate the man whom he had saved that he forgot his own suicidal intentions. The man who had been rescued announced on recovery that he also had jumped into the river in order to drown himself but had later changed his mind.

Marriage Season In East Much Gold Being Shipped

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. — The approach of the "marriage season" in the Straits Settlements was responsible for the shipment of $125,000 of gold to that part of the world yesterday by the International Acceptance Bank. Further shipments are expected and bankers said that an almost constant movement of gold to the Straits Settlements is likely for the next several months.

The shipments have nothing to do with foreign exchange conditions and are not made in connection with ordinary commercial settlements, but are the result of wedding customs that prevail in parts of the Orient.

In addition to a dowry, the father of the bride usually presents her with ornaments such as bracelets, necklaces, rings and other trinkets made of gold.

MEIGHEN WILL PROTECT NORTH

Urges Co-operation With Government For Development of Northern Ontario.

SPEECH AT COBALT.

COBALT, Ont., Aug. 5 (Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen yesterday afternoon visited the Nipissing Mine, and addressed a crowded hall at Cobalt.

Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines for Ontario, urged co-operation between the Federal Government, and the Government of Ontario, for the development of the iron deposits of Ontario. "That co-operation can come from Ottawa, and will come from Ottawa, if a Conservative Government is in power," said Mr. McCrea.

"I assure Mr. McCrea," said Premier Meighen later, "that I have learned to take the deepest interest in Northern Ontario, and Northern Quebec, a more keen and more intimate interest than perhaps you know, and he may rest certain that his government, and indeed, the government of Quebec as well, will have the most sympathetic co-operation from us in any measure looking to the development of water power, of minerals, of agriculture, of anything upon which this north depends."

Mr. Meighen declared that reports that he proposed to amalgamate the Canadian National with the C.P.R. were a malevolent fabrication from beginning to end. "I expect," added Mr. Meighen, "that in this campaign, as in the last, the fabrication back of the Mackenzie King party, will be busy, and that one of its efforts will be this miserable fabrication about my amalgamating the National Railways with the Canadian Pacific."

THEATRE
AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS."

The crowd at the Capitol Theatre last evening had a jolly time of it, watching the fun-makers in "The Cohens and Kellys." This scream version of a situation which makes for laughter, in the study of the racial and religious vagasies of two exponents of differing nations and creeds, has a strong resemblance to the famous "Abie's Irish Rose," and its film dramatization is fully as mirth provoking as the capers on the stage of the Irish dad and the Jewish father in the success by Anne Nicholls.

Throughout the picture abounds in laughs, and anyone watching it is sure of a mirthful afternoon or evening. Its romantic interest lies in the love story of the two young things, Nanny Cohen and Terry Kelly, and the parental opposition to their match. The tenement scenes which open the picture are typical and funny, with the dogs of the rival families engaging in the same sort of perpetual conflict as their owners wage between themselves.

The young couple marry secretly, and the wrath of their parents descends upon their luckless heads later. The plot is complicated by the sudden accession to wealth of Jewish family, and the discovery later that a remote ancestral tangle makes the "Irishers' the real heirs to the money. The different scenes depicting the meetings of the two heads of families and their ladies are funny in the extreme. "The Cohens and Kellys" make an admirable hot weather picture diet. —Jeanette.

ILLUSTRATING THE BREAST STROKE.

During the breast stroke the arms and hands are under water all the time, while the head is entirely out of water.

The first position in the breast stroke is with the shoulders just at the surface of the water, the arms stretched straight forward with hands touching and the legs in a straight line behind with ankles touching.

The hands are turned back to back and the arms sweep backward until they are at right angles to the body.

Then the elbows are bent and the hands brought together under the body until they touch. Then they go straight ahead to the first position, which completes the cycle of movement.

NOTHING TO FEAR FOR C.N.R. LINES

Meighen Says They Are Public Institution Due To To Laurier.

WRECKED SYSTEMS.

NEW LISKEARD, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—In the silver fields, Premier Meighen renewed his undertaking to co-operate in the development of the North Country. In North Bay yesterday he spoke more particularly of co-operation with the Ontario Government in the development of water power. In Cobalt today, he included the Government of Quebec.

"I have heard it said in the course of the campaiyn that there are special reasons why the Conservative party should not be returned," Mr. Meighen stated. "I know that the leader of the Liberal party has declared that he is very much afraid of what I may do to the Canadian National Railways if entrusted with the Premiership by the people of our country. There is not the least ground for fear at all. I dispute positively his assertion that there is anything to fear. In fact the assertion is preposterous. The National Railways are a public institution, largely because of the blundering railway policy of the Laurier Government, which wrecked one system after another and compelled us to save the situation, to gether those wrecked systems into one under the ownership of the State.

"And the party which did so was the Conservative party."

King Tells Prince Albert Audience Liberal Party Will Rush Work.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—The steps taken by his Government to proceed with the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway were outlined by the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in an address in his own constituency here last night. He promised that when the Liberal administration was returned, work would be pushed to completion as fast as possible.

The Conservatives were trying to run a great election on a "little issue" concerning the administration of one department, he said. "When a great political party must choose an issue of that kind, and fails to offer you great politcies, it shows to what small things party can be reduced to," said Mr. King.

Mr. King also said the appointment of Sir Henry Thornton as railways chief was recommended by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, foremost English railwayman and former secretary for Dominion in the Labor Government.

G. M. Somerville Has the Highest Score of Canadian Entries.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 5—(Canadian Press—The day was one of tropical heat, with not a breath of wind stirring. The players who had to start out first had the bad break as far as conditions were concerned, because the greens were heavy with dew, but dried out before their round was finished. Missed putts spoiled several scores. McDonald Smith was one over par going out, but he rollicked home in three under. He got birdies at the 355 yard tenth and the 170 thirteenth, a three and a two appearing on his card for these holes at that it looked as if he could have done better. Curiously enough one of the best scores registered by a Canadian was made by G. M. Somerville, Konawaki, who was in the first pair to start out. He has a handicap of seven and shot a 73. He said he found the greens tricky. R. Cunningham was another of the few who met with little trouble. He went out in a par 37 and clipped a stroke from par coming back going the last nine in 35. He had a birdie three on the last hole, a 265 yard affair. His card follows:

Out ....445 544 544—37
In ....454 344 353—35—72

It was in the middle of the afternoon when Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen made their assault on par. Farrell was in a brilliant mood, securing eagles on the eleventh and seventeenth holes, both of which measure 500 yards. He sank long putts for threes each time after prodigious brassie shots to the greens.

Farrell's card was:

Out ....454 434 344—35
In ....435 444 433—34—69

Sarazen was two under par going out and two under coming in. He played with such ease that he made the course appear without difficulties. Indeed, he was only in really serious trouble once, and that when his drive dropped into the trap just off the last green. The ball fell under a rake. Sarazen appealed to the officials to remove the implement, which was done, and the ex-U.S. champion then laid his explosion shot dead and got a birdie three.

Sarazen's card was:

Out ....445 434 344—35
In ....444 344 344—34—69

Leo Diegel looked to be very uncomfortable on the first three holes, after rather erratic, curving approaches, he found himself only requiring short putts for birdies, but he missed them all. He met disaster finally at the 435 yard sixth, when he took a six instead of a four, after missing two putts. Turned round, however, he showed real championship form, whereas he was three over par figures for the first nine, he was three under coming in and might have done better still had it not been for a topped iron tee shot at the 170 yards thirteenth.

Tom Kerrigan looked to be headed for a sixtynine with Farrell and Sarazen, but he had one bad hole. He went out perfectly in 39 and was four better than par at the seventeenth. He put his shot from the tee into the brook and before he sank his putt had required seven strokes instead of three.

A. Hay kept himself up with the leaders by a fine second nine, his card showing he negotiated them one under par, which balanced up his loss of a stroke on the first half of the round.

Co-incidences in the round were the games of Tom Boyd and Herbert Gans of Fox Hills, New York, clubmates, who turned in cards of seventy-four, and Frank Locke and Ernest Waklemah, rival professionals from Quebec, who each went round in 75. The leading amateurs are both named. Somerville, one coming from Kanawaki, Montreal, and the other being C. Ross, the Canadian amateur champion, London. The latter shot a seventy-six.

Tomorrow the second eighteen holes will be played. Those within twenty tsrokes of the low man get into the last two rounds on Saturday.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 6—By defeating Miss Dorothy Page, Brightwood, on the 20th green, yesterday afternoon, Mis Edith Bauld, Ashburn, present Maritime champion, won the right to meet Mrs. W. T. Allen, Brightwood, in the finals for the Maritime Ladies' Golf Championship which will take place today on the Brightwood links. The match between Miss Bauld and Miss Page was one of the most exciting ever played on a local course. At no time throughout the whole 20 holes was either player more than 1 up.

The other semi-final, between Mrs. Allen three up .mbmmbbmm Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Beeman, Ashburn, ended at the 16th hole with Mrs. Allen three up.

EXPENSIVE HANDKERCHIEF

PARIS, (AP). — Handkerchiefs can be bought for almost any sum from three cents up, but it remained for a handkerchief of Napoleon's to set the record in price. The square of cambric was auctioned off for approximately thirty dollars. It was brought from St. Helena after the death of the Emperor and has been handed down from one generation to another in the same family.

SATURDAY GAME IS IMPORTANT TO BOTH TEAMS

Petes Have Chance to Finish First by Victory Here Tomorrow.

PONIES ANXIOUS

Seek Revenge for Beating on Home Lot—Wish to Regain Lead.

With the Petes' great victory in Kingston on Wednesday, the first in many a year, the race in the Central Ontario League has grown much more interesting and the game tomorrow, when the Ponies make their final scheduled visit of the season, assumes great importance. A win for the locals will put them within striking distance of the leaders and make a place in the play-off practically certain, with first place a not remote possibility.

Heckman and Lennox are both ready for the big tilt tomorrow, while Jeff Hardill, with three days rest, will be available for relief work. Cairns worked on Wednesday and will find the going hard if sent back against the Petes so soon, but Joe Daley is apt to send his ace back in an effort to gain revenge for the humiliation on his home lot by a make shift team.

With first place at stake both teams will be right on their toes and the biggest crowd of the season should view the struggle.

PIRATES LOSE TO BOSTON BRAVES

Singles and Doubles With Bad Throw Account for Tallies.

THIRD STRAIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press). — Although Boston outhit Pittsburgh yesterday, the champions came from behind to take the third game of their series at Boston, 4-3. Singles by Rawlings and Carey followed by a double by Cuyler and Goldsmith's bad throw, accounted for the tallies.

The New York Giants battered three Cincinnati pitchers by 14 hits yesterday to take the first game of the polo grounds series, 7-4. It was the ninth straight for the Giants from the Reds.

The Cardinals and Robins indulged in a ten inning fray at Brooklin, St. Louis scoring four runs in their half of the last, one a homer by Wheat with none on bases. Wheat twisted his ankle at second and limped the rest of the circuit.

At Philadelphia, the Chicago Cubs registered their second straight win from the home team, 6-1. Ulrich pitched shutout ball for seven innings but the Cubs assisted by two pinch hitters, got to him in the eighth and scored three runs. Hartnett hit a homer in the ninth.

SQUIRRELS BUILD NESTS

Birds are not the only wild creatures which build nests. The gray squirrel builds a summer home in the treetops to hold its young until they are big enough to get about. They lay the foundation from coarse twigs and line the nest with leaves and strips of bark. Over the top they place a roof of leaves arranged like shingles and on one side they leave a doorway just big enough to allow a single passage.

YANKS' VICTORY EVENS THE SERIES WITH CLEVELAND

Ruth Knocks His Thirty-Fourth Home Run at Cleveland.

ATHLETICS OUTHIT

"Rip" Collins Pitches Shutout Ball for Score of 6 to 4.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. —(Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth smacked his thirty fourth homer Cleveland yesterday and the Yanks evened the series by winning 8-2 . The New Yorker's hit Smith and Buckeye at will. Jones was effective all the way, holding Cleveland to seven scattered hits.

The St. Louis Brown outhit the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday and won 7-5. Williams and McManus knocked homers. Zachary and Falk kept the Philadelphia's rallies down. Chicago drove Charley Ruffing of Boston off the mound in the fifth at Chicago. A continued attack then on Tony Welzer in addition to some daring base running, earned the verdict for the home team, 7-2. Going into the game at Detroit after Washington had scored three runs off Johns "Rip" Collins pitched shutout ball to give Detroit a 6-4 victory. Walter Johnson's home run in the second scored Joe Harris who had walked, and Bluege who had singled.

ROCHESTER AND NEWARK VICTORS

Syracuse Comes Out on Losing End in Fast Game.

KARPP PITCHING

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Newark and Rochester won the two scheduled International League games yesterday, defeating Syracuse and Butaflo respectively.

Karpp was good enough at Rochester while his team mates outhit the Bisons for a 6-2 victory.

Syracuse registered 14 hits against Newark's 11, but could not convert them, losing 8 to 7.

C.G.E. TEAM WINS TWO FINE GAMES AT BELLEVILLE

Scores of Softball Matches Are 15-7 and 14-0.

GOOD PITCHING.

Many Strike-outs By Local Pitchers—Too Fast For Belleville.

With "Babe" Vincent pitching the best games in her career, the C.G.E. ladies defeated the Belleville ladies in two games on their home lots yesterday. The scores were 15 to7, and 14 to 0. The local girls gave their pitcher wonderful support, especially in the last game, which was played in the Belleville armories. The girls seemed a little strange to playing inside at first, but their pitcher was there with the stuff and pitched a very fast ball, getting 16 strikeouts in seven innings and allowing the Belleville team only three hits and two walks. The game was mostly between pitcher and catcher, but the rest gave errorless support. The Belleville ladies are a smart team but they were not used to a fast ball, so that it was in their batting that they fell down. Their field playing was good.

First Game

"Babe" Vincent pitched the first five innings and then was relieved by M. Mortimer, as she was to be used in the second game. Miss Mortimer pitched a very steady game of ball, but her team mates fell down a little in the field and let in three unearned runs.

Miss Langton was the hitting star of this game, getting one home run, two two-baggers, and one single in five times to bat. One of the finest double plays of the season was worked in the seventh between Misses Taylor and Plunket. Miss Taylor picked up a hot grounder, caught the runner who was being forced to second, and then threw the batter out at first.

At the end of the fifth the score stood 12 to 3, Miss Vincent getting five strikeouts and allowing three hits. In the sixth four runs were tagged up for Belleville on two hits and three bad errors. The C.G.E. ladies came back with one more in the sixth and two in the seventh, making the final score 15 to 7.

Second Game

This was the real game of the evening and resulted in a shutout for Miss Vincent. The first two players struck out, the third walked, but was saught trying to make second on a perfect throw from Miss Mortimer. Three strikeouts in the second and three in the third and fourth followed with only two runners reaching first, one on a hit and one on a walk. In the fifth there was one strikeout and one hit, two strikeouts in the sixth and one hit, and two in the seventh. The local girls got five in the first with five hits, four in second on six hits, one in the third, fourth, and fifth, and two in the sixth.

Miss Mosson got two strikeouts in this game, but she was unable to stop the hard hitting local team.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press.—A dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, in response to an inquiry regarding reports broadcast from Revel, Esthonia, says there is no unrest in the Soviet army and that no arrests have been made in Moscow garrison.

ROTARY WINS IN FIRST GAME

Beat Kiwanis Juveniles 14-4 in Playoff Series of City League.

HEAVY HITTING

Rotary Juveniles defeated Kiwanis 14-4 in the first game of the playoff in that series of the City Baseball League at James Stevenson Park last night. The winners combined hits with errors by their opponents.

Crary hurled for the losers. He struck out nine Rotary batsmen but in between he yielded a great many hits, while his support wobbled. Howden was wild and always getting into difficulties. He failed to strike out as many as his opponent but was not touched for as many solid drives, and with men on bases forced a number of infield outs.

Rotary opened with one in the first. Walton singled and stole second. Cotton took Rishea's high foul. Starr hit to Crary who caught Walton going to third. Starr stole second and scored on Kennealey's single. Howden walked but Beavis grounded to LeBarr.

Kiwanis tied it up in the second. Dormen walked and advanced on a wild pitch. He was caught cold stealing third, but Archambault dropped the ball. Gillespie flied out and Sowden walked. Dormer scored on a wild pitch. Crary was passed. Stante rolled to the box and Cotton lifted to Archambault.

Rotary scored six in the third, deciding the result of the game. Walton was safe on Dormer's error, reaching second, and taking third when Sowden threw to centre field. Rishea struck out but Cotton dropped the ball and threw badly to first, allowing Walton to score. Starr was safe on another bad throw by Dormer and he and Rishea scored on Kennealey's triple. The catcher scored when Cotton let Stante's throw from left get away. Howden doubled. Beavis and Johnston struck out. Hutchinson missed Archambault's error. Clancy doubled, sending in Archambault. Walton rolled to the box. Cotton had to retire with a split fingernail in this inning.

Kiwanis got one back in their half. LeBarr singled. Hollingsworth popped to Archambault. Hutchinson singled sending LeBarr to third and stole second. Dormer and Gillespie walked forcing in LeBarr. Sowden forced Hutchinson on a roller to the box.

Two Rotary runs came in in the fourth. Rishea and Starr singled and Kennealey walked. The first two scored when Howden doubled through the box. Beavis and Johnston struck out and Archambault fied to Gillespie.

In the fifth Clancy was safe on Sowden's error. He stole second, and scored on Starr's single after Walton and Rishea had gone out. Starr took second on the throw to the plate and scored on a single by Kennealey; Howden rolled to first.

In the sixth Beavis tripled. Barrie, batting for Johnston, struck out. Archambault rolled to Sowden, Beavs is scoring. Clancy, Walton and Rishea singled, filling the bases. Two of them scored on Starr's double. Kennealey struck out.

In the last half of the sixth Dormer walked, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error by Kennealey. Sowden singled and Crary and Stante walked, forcing in Gillespie, Allan hit to Archambault, who threw out Sowden at the plate. LeBarr struck out and Hollingsworth flied to Beavis.

THISTLE VS. OMEMEE GORDON SOCCER CUP

Kick-off Is At 3.30 Prompt at Nicholls Oval.

The other semi-final of the Gordon Cup takes place to-morrow afternoon at Nichoolls oval when the local Thistle, league leaders, meet the Omemee aggregation. Kick off is scheduled for 3.30 prompt. Referee, J. C. Russell. Linesmen — Alex McKinley and Wm. Rickard.

The local secretary informed the Examiner that he had received five forms back, duly signed, which indicate that they will have a complete team against the Gordon Cup

EDERLE MAKING GOOD ATTEMPT

Twelve Miles Out in Channel Swim at One O'clock To-day.

SEA SMOOTH.

DOVER, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Gererude Ederle was seven miles from Dover at 4.45 this afternoon on her attempt to conquer the English Channel. She had taken the water at Cape Griz Nez, France, nine and a half hours earlier. A heavy rain was falling at this time and the girl swimmer was battling an unfavorable sea.

CAPE GRIZ NEZ, France August 6. — (Canadian Press). — At noon five hours after her start, Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimmer, was nine miles out from the French coast on a second and determined attempt to be the first woman to swim the treacherous English Channel. The sea was smooth and water fairly warm and her position was good.

At one o'clock, after six hours in the water, Miss Ederle, was more than twelve miles from the French coast, about half way across on the attempt to swim the English Channed. She was swimming strongly at this stage. The two tugs accompanying the swimmer did their best to shield her from the increasing breeze which arose about noon.

CIVIC HOLIDAY SOFTBALL GAME

Strong Toronto Team To Oppose C.G.E. Ladies on Monday.

AT RIVERSIDE.

The Dunlop ladies of Toronto, winners of their league, will be here with their regular line-up for the holiday game at Riverside Park on Monday, August 9th, at 10.00 o'clock a.m. sharp.

Their manager, Mr. H. Cubb, is confident that his team will take home the challenge cup, but the ladies of the Electric City can't see it his way. The C.G.E. ladies have won their last three starts on Toronto diamonds and can be trusted to put up a real battle on the home grounds.

Miss Kingdon, of the Dunlops, is considered one of the best pitchers in Toronto and Miss "Babe" Vincent of the Electrics, is far from being a passenger on any line-up. With two pitchers of this calibre the fans can look forward to a real game.

The Dunlop ladies' line-up will be: Louise Monsche, 2nd base; Ethel Moffat, s.s.; Pat Paxton, 3rd base; Eva Moffat c.; May Fox, l.f.; Agnes Kennedy, 1st base; M. Hogarth, r.f.; A. Couny, c.f.; E. Kingdon, pitcher.

The fans will have the opportunity of seeing the finish of the ten mile cycle race from Lakefield, finishing at the market square via Water street at or about ten o'clock.

The entries are still open and any person wishing to take part in this race will kindly place his entry in the hands of Ollie White, of the White Sporting Goods Co., Charlotte street.

NO FAVORS IN KING'S RACE

His Majesty's Loyal Subjects Try To Win From Him.

King George asks no favors when he is racing his yacht Britannia against the yachts of his loyal subjects, and he certainly gets none. The Britania, because of her greater size, is nearly always handicapped but even then there is great keenness on the part of the other yacht owners to win various events from the King.

His Yacht Disqualified

An instance of this was afforded at the Bristol Channel Royal Regatta when the owner of the yacht "Westward" lodged a protest against the Britannia, alleging that the latter did not give the Westward a free course around one of the marked buoys.

The committee allowed the protest and disqualified the Britannia from winning second prize, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock having won the first.

LADIES' SOFTBALL.

Lindsay Team Will Oppose C.G.E. Girls on Wednesday Next.

Another fast softball game with the Lindsay Ladies vs. Peterborough C.G.E. competing will be played at James Stevenson (Riverside) Park, on Wednesday evening, August 11th, at 6.15 o'clock sharp.

This is the first opportunity to see the Lindsay Ladies' team in action, and fans will then be able to see how Peterborough compares with other teams in the district.

This should be a mighty good game.

Still going strong after 368 years, an old Friesland clock bearing the date 1588 is to be seen in Wandsworth Town Hall, London.

DIES ON TRAIN.

Brockville Woman Passes Away When Starting For Home.

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.— (Canadian Press.)— Mrs. Alma MacGillivray, aged 60, of Brockville, Ont., died suddenly in the Canadian National Railway Montreal-Toronto train while leaving Montreal last evening, of congestion of the lungs. She was on her way home from having nursed her sister, who broke her leg two weeks ago in a fall.

YOUTH ADMITS MANY CRIMES

Is Arrested at Smiths Falls For Theft and Arson.

IS QUEBEC BOY.

SMITH'S FALLS, Aug. 6.—Antonio St. Pierre, 21 years of age, of Ascot, near Sherbrooke, confessed auto thief, burglar and alleged fireburg, has been captured and arrested here by Chief George Phillips. St. Pierre made a full confession of the many crimes in which he and a companion had been implicated in the past few weeks, a record which included the burning of the Neilson farm buildings, valued at $22,000 in Scarboro' Township, on July 26. According to St. Pierre, he had stolen gasoline from Neilson's car, and the flame from his match ignited the fumes.

Major H. E. Nealon of Toronto, Deputy Fire Marshal, arrived here following the capture, and identified St. Pierre. It is believed his companion will soon be in custody also. Appearing before Magistrate Sparham, St. Pierre pleaded guilty to the theft charges at Portland, when $75 worth of clothing was taken, and was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary. He was taken to Perth yesterday afternoon, and before going to Kingston, he will be taken to Toronto, where he will be tried on a charge of arson. St. Pierre says his father was once Mayor of Ascot.

GOVERNMENT TO ASK DEBT RATIFICATION

Impression Is Strong Poincare Will Present Pacts To House.

PARIS, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press) —The impression is stronger than ever that the Government will ask Parliament to ratify tht Washington and London debt pacts immediately after the coming national assembly at Versailles. It is understood the Government will not oppose the reservations being attached to ratification notably on the question of payments. It is known that the finance committee of the Chamber is ready to expedite matters.

QUEEN EXPERT TYPIST.

BUCHAREST, (AP). — Queen Marie of Rumania has become an expert typist. She uses an American machine, the gift of an American admirer. At first she used only the "two finger" system but now after some months practice, she employs eight fingers. For twenty years she was a devotee to a fountain pen doing all her literary work laboriuously by hand.

DEMENTED MAN HELD AS SLAYER

Mutilated Mother's Body To Cleanse Her Soul From Sin.

MURDER CHARGE.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press) — Mrs. Etta S. Bearse, fifty, divorced wife of County Treasurer Fred A. Bearse, was murdered and her body badly mutilated in her home here today. Richard C. Bearse, 26 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bearse, found by the police at his mother's side, was placed under arrest and charged with murder. He told a rambling and incoherent story in response to questioning which indicated that he is mentally unbalanced.

Mrs. Bearse's death apparently was due to strangulation.

Bearse told the police that his mother "had died twice in night", and that he had revived her both times. After the second time he said her eyes "looked queer," and he removed them. Other mutilations of the body he explained as having been made "to cleanse her soul from sin."

THOUSAND A DAY DIE FROM CHOLERA

Excessive Heat Adding To Toll in Southern China.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.— (Canadian Press.)— It is officially estimated that a thousand Chinese are dying daily from cholera and excessive heat. With the epidemic at its peak, to-day was the hottest day here in thirty years. The temperature reached 102. Few foreigners are affected. At Canton the army is suffering from the disease.

LAND OF SURPRISES SAYS AMBASSADOR

American Envoy Makes Address Before Leaving Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6. —(United News). — Mexico is a land of surprises, was referred to by American Ambassador Sheffield at a farewell luncheon in his honor given by the American consul on Thursday.

"I know that you want me to say that I am glad I came and that I'm sorry to leave,' 'said the Ambassador.

"But since Mexico is a land of surprises I shall not say this. Nor shall I admit that the altitude has affected my heart. I am merely suffering from enlargement of the heart caused by the courtesy and kindliness of my fellow American men and women here."

One of the most famous achievements in memorizing musical creations is accredited to Mozart, who upon first hearing the renowned Miserere of Allegri, in Rome in 1770, committed it perfectly to memory. He was only fourteen then.

THOROUGHBRED CALF AS PRIZE.

In connection with the recent social held under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception parish, a thoroughbred Holstein calf was offered as a prize in a guessing contest. This contest is still open, and the jar of wheat whose grains must be estimated to allow of a chance on the calf, is in the window of P. Goselin's Riverside Tobacco Store on Hunter street, along with the picture of the dam and her pedigree. The contest closes next Tuesday.

MANY COMPLAINTS ABOUT VACANT LOTS

Owners Fail To Keep Noxious Weeds Cut Down—Seeds Scatter.

The police recently have received many complaints of the nuisance arising from the growths of weeds on vacant lots, seeds of which are caried by the wind to cultivated gardens. It is pointed out that it is incumbent on owners to keep their grounds free from noxious weeds. Failure to do so makes owner liable to a penalty not exceeding $5. The police frequently notify landlords that their ground needs cleaning up, but the opinion has been expressed that absentee owners might clean up their lots at least once a year without having to be asked to do so by officials.

AROUND THE CITY.

Some of the most interested attendants at the Chemong Regatta yesterday were the tiny boys, some of them not more than five years of age, who hoofed it out to the Park, a long six miles of uphill hiking, in the early hours of yesterday morning. They were there for the first event and the last. With bare feet and minus hats, with lunches tied up in brown paper parcels carried under their arms, and with extremely scanty bathing suits slung about their necks, they were footfree and careless, having the time of their lives in a little group which did not need a motor car or a cent in its collective pockets, in order to have a thoroughly good time.

America Alone Can Save Lloyd George Tells Welsh

LONDON, Aug. 6. — (United Press).— "America alone, given the guidance of God, can save the world from the horrors of war," former Premier Lloyd Geoge has told the Welsh League of Nations which is meeting at Swansea.

Lloyd George declared that he felt the League of Nations would never be made a power in the world until," in some other form, on its own conditions and its own way, America joins.

MAN DISCOVERED DEAD IN HIS BED

Woodstock Greenhouse Proprietor Found by an Employee.

POST MORTEM.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 6. — Canadian Press. — Wiliam Elliott, a Woodstock green house proprietor, was found dead in bed this morning and the Crown authorities have ordered a post mortem examination.

The body was found by one of the greenhouse employees. Mr. Elliott was alone in the house, his wife being away visiting with friends.

Whether or not an inquest will be held depends on the outcome of the post mortem examination.

IN POLICE COURT.

Mrs. May Henry who on Wednesday made an attempt to carry away her children from a Brock street residence, did not appear in court this morning when her name was called. A doctor's certificate, signed by Dr. T. W. H. Young, was produced in support of the claim that she was too ill to attend.

J. A. O'Brien, who stated that he was acting as private prosecutor in the case, expressed the opinion that a doctor's certificate in itself was not sufficient. He stated that the doctor himself should be present.

His Worship decided to accept the certificate and stated that the case would only be a matter of sentence, as a plea of guilty had been entered.

The accused was remanded until Tuesday morning next.

A young American aged fifteen years, as a result of his connection with the case, paid a fine of $20 and costs on a technical charge of vagrancy.

P. E. I. PREMIER ASKS INCREASE

Says Province Needs Bigger Subsidy From Federal Government.

FINANCES BAD.

CHARLOTETOWN, P.E.I., Aug. 6. — Hon. J. D. Stewart, premier of Prince Edward Island, pleaded today for an increased Federal subsidy for his province before the Royal Commission investigating the disabilities of the Maritime provinces under Confederation. He told of the financial condition of the province and of the need for additional revenue in order to properly maintain the public services.

DRIVER HELD.

Faces Charge of Negligent Driving—Man Killed in Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press))—Edward McAllister, driver of the car which yesterday afternoon fatally injured Ex-Alderman W. J. B. White, who was run down while on his bicycle, and who died two hours after the accident from a fractured skull, was charged in police court today with negligent driving and doing grievous bodily harm to Mr. White. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded until August 10. The inquest is being held tonight.

IN MEMORIAM

STANLEY.—In memory of Mrs. Fred Stanley, who passed away August 6, 1924.

Gone but not forgotten
Are words that never go astray
Because day by day I am thinking
Of my sister God called away.
She went to abide in Heaven
When Jesus called her home,
To be with the rest of his childen,
And never more to roam.

—Inserted by Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Chapman.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Fred Stanley:

The gates of Heaven flew open,
Two years ago to-day,
And Jesus called to my mother,
To come home with Him to stay.

I think of her every moment,
Although she is far away
But I know she has gone to Heaven,
And never more from God to stray.

TORONTO RESIDENT KILLED TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASH AT LONDON

Had Been Engaged in Passenger Carrying During Centennial Week.

MOTHER WITNESS.

Crashes Into Top of Tree When Making Landing.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 7—Arthur E. H. Bolter, a mechanician employed by the Department of Public Highways and whose home is at 5 Raglan Avenue, Toronto, was killed; J. E. Stevenson, an English pilot, who has no particular Canadian address, is in St. Joseph's Hospital and will probably die, and Audrey Vining, aged 9, living on a subdivision a short distance east of the city, is very badly injured, as a result of the crash of an aeroplane engaged in carrying passengers early last night.

The machine was one of three owned by the Jack V. Elliott Air Service and had been engaged in passenger carrying and advertising here during Centennial week. The little Vining girl lives in a house quite close to the landing field on Dundas street at the corner of Clark's sideroad.

Mother Is An Eyewitness

Mrs. Vining, mother of the child, was a witness of the accident. She states that, as the machine was returning to the field, it suddenly went into a nose-dive at about 200 feet, straightened out, then tipped the top of a high tree and crashed to the ground in a crumpled heap of wreckage.

Boulter was extricated from the tangled mass and rushed in an ambulance to Victoria Hospital. He died at the door of the institution. Dr. C. C. Ross, County Coroner, has ordered an inquest.

Condition Very Critical

Stevenson, the pilot, and the little Vining girl were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Stevenson is in the care of Drs. H. A. and W. J. Stevenson, and Dr. Peever.

After several hours in the operating room it was announced that his condition is very critical. His jaw is smashed, both legs are broken, and there are also severe injuries about the shoulders and upper part of the body. Stevenson was unable to give any Canadian address. It is said that his home is in England, and that he has been living as a more or less itinerant aviator during his recent years in Canada. He is said to have done some recent flying in Northern Ontario on trails leading into the gold camps.

The engine was shoved back into the cockpit of the plane, and, according to those who were first to reach the scene there were evidences that Bolter had sacrified his chance to escape by interposing his body between the child and the point of probable gravest danger. It is said that Stevenson had successfully accomplished one nose-dive just before the fatal swoop, and that the accident had its origin in a piece of stunt flying.

The machine was a Curtiss, and was comparatively new.

Married Within Year

Mr. Bolter was attached to the Maintenance Branch, Department of Highways, with headquarters in London, and had been expected to reach his home in Toronto today to spend the week-end. He was an Englishman, and served in the navy during the war, coming to Canada after the Armistice. He was married less than a year ago.

Mrs. Bolter has long had a great fear of aeroplanes. She said that she and her husband had often discussed aviation, and that she had asked him never, on any account, to fly.

Besides his wife, Bolter had no other relatives in Canada. His mother and sister, who lived for a time in Toronto, have recently returned to the Old Country.

Negro Laborer From City Becomes Kansas Wheat King

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Aug. 7—There are wheat kings and wheat barons and all that this year in Southwest Kansas. And among them is Tom King, a negro farmer, near Plains, who can lay claim to being the colored wheat king of the south-west.

King harvested a crop of 22,000 bushels of wheat from his 600 acres of wheat this year. It's worth something like $28,000 today. In the front yard at his home is piled up one heap containing almost 10,000 bushels.

Only a few years ago, Tom King, disgusted with the advancement he was making as a day laborer in the city, moved his family to a farm near Plains. He had nothing but his brawn and willingness to start with. He rented the land and underwent all the trials of a tenant farmer.

Today he has one of the biggest bank accounts in Plains, owns his own place and drives a fine car.

FARM PRODUCE VERY PENTIFUL

Butter Price Is Stationary, While Eggs Drop Slightly.

FRUIT PRICES DOWN.

There was plenty of produce of various sorts on the farmers' market this morning, at a good range of prices. Butter was fairly stationary at 38c a pound, eggs ranged from 33c down to 30c a dozen, and chickens were priced at 35c a pound, with one fortunate lady getting a nice two pound bird for 40c.

Raspberries of the tame and wilder varieties were plentiful. The black variety were offered as low as three pint boxes for a quarter, with 10c a box the usual quotation, and the darker berries and light golden quality were priced at 15c a quart box. Wild berries in 8 and 10 quart pails were offered at $1.50. Blueberries were 2[illegible] a quart and blackberries 18c in quart boxes. Gooseberries were 25c for two quart boxes.

Green Duchess apples in a bag containing a gallon were 20c, cucumbers were two for 15c, and butter beans 3 quarts for 25c. Vegetable marrows were a dime apiece, the same price as cauliflowers.

One dealer who usually has something out of the ordinary on his stand had little 'squaw' corn at 30c a dozen, winter radish at a nickel a bunch and broad Windsor beans at 2 qts. for a quarter.

Potatoes in good quality were priced at 45 and 50c a peck for the larger samples, and 30c a peck for the smaller variety.

Clover honey was 40c in two and two and a half pound pails, and 25c for the comb.

Flowers were lovely on the market this morning and were arranged in pretty bouquets, with a variety of choice, in sweet peas and gypsophilia, at 15c a bunch, forget-me-nots in delicate blues at a nickel, marigolds and phlox and zinnias, and pansies in tiny wicker vases.

Airplanes are popular among honeymooners in England, at least one married pair leaving the Croyden air station every day.

Americans Try To Buy Women As They Do Motors

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (United News). — America, crammed with money and rich men who want to buy women as they buy automobiles is responsible for the character of Loreli Lee in the book "(Gentlemen prefer Blondes)" say Anita Loos, creator of Loreli.

Miss Loos is in London to help stage her new play "The Whole Town's Talking."

English girls are too independent to be bought as are American girls, said Miss Loos, "they would refuse for they would be bored by such men."

CIVILIZED MAN DOES NOT THINK SAYS SCIENTIST

Exhibited By Hindu Botanist at British Association Meeting.

SHOWS HEART BEATS.

Glasgow Psychologist Says That Civilized Man No Longer Thinks.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Sir Jagadie Chander Bose, the Hindu botanist, showed British scientists, at the meeting of the British Asociation, the "heart beats" of a snapdragon. The beats, recorded on a sensitized plate, slowed down when the plant was placed in a bromide solution.

Cobra venom and strychine each showed characteristic results. Stimuiants applied then revived the plant.

Dr. Bose declared that the experiment showed that plants react in the same way as human beings.

Man No Longer Thinks

In the psychology section Professor J. Graham Kerr of Glasgow University stated that primitive conditions which produced leaders of men have disappeared and that the place of the latter had been taken by men excelling in oratory and special pleading. He said civilized man no longer thinks, because his mental reactions become automatic.

Professor Kerr urged scientific education as a means of keeping before them the exigencies of their environment.

Authority of Judge

Dr. James Drever said a judge has no more right to sentence a criminal without knowing what is psychologically the matter with the man than a surgeon has to operate without a knowledge of the disease from which the patient is suffering.

Dr. J. Maxwell Garnett of the staff of the League of Nations deplored selfish patriotism, particularly attacking the "American 100 per cent. variety hating Cathoilc, Jew and Negro." Dr. Garnett compared such Americans to the "Englishman hating the League as a lot of foreign devils.

Sir John Snell predicted the time when electricity will be used for all farming. He said every operation, from milking, sheep shearing and grooming horses to the hatching of eggs, could be done by electricity as the price of it becomes cheaper.

Emigration Question

Emigration in the future must be regarded more than ever as a matter to interest educated people, W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under Secretary of State for the Dominions, said, in addressing the association on Educational Training for Overseas Life. This remark was applauded by the Prince of Wales, the new president of the association which is now holding its 94th annual meeting.

The Under Secretary said that in the past the impression had been created in the country that emigration was only for the surplus proletariat. The sooner this idea was abolished the better. He hoped that in the future special courses would be given in the Public schools to intending emigrants.

The Prince of Wales spent practically the whole day yesterday in the various sections of the association.

CANADA HAS BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA

Major McColl, Dominion Trade Commissioner, Tells of Imports.

BUSY YEAR ROUND.

Field For Raw Materials From Canada as Well as For Manufactures.

South America offers the Canadian exporter a market of unrivalled opportunities and potentialities.

A glowing yet logical and wholly convincing picture of this Southern field for development was sketched by Major E. L. McColl, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner to the Argentine Republic and neighboring Spanish-speaking countries, last night. He has returned to Canada after an absence of five years in South America, and is visiting the manufacturing centres of the Dominion for the purpose of stimulating interest in export trade to that continent.

Quotes Amazing Figures

His figures are overwhelming. "Latin South America, which does not include the Guianas, imports goods valued at $1,700,000,000 annually. Her exports are about 20 per cent. higher."

Again, "Canadian exports to South America have increased from $4,250,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, to $27,500,000 for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1926.

Abreast of the times in science, agriculture, architecture and music, with wonderful agricultural and mining resources, marvellous hydro-electric development, enormous industrial expansion, daily increasing railway mileage and constantly growing foreign trade, South America is creating a buying power which is attracting the world," he states.

Busy All the Year

"Outdoor work never rests, so that when certain lines of industry in Canada are suffering periodical or seasonal depressions, just at that time South America may be found to be an active buyer."

There is even a field for many Canadian raw products. Tropical countries must have soft workable woods and many Canadian food products, including butter, cheese, wheat, flour, fish and fruit, as in some regions these articles are not produced.

Other producing countries com-

CONDITION SERIOUS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (Canadian Press.—The condition of the Hon. G. H. Boivin, former Canadian Minister of Customs, was reported from Philadelphia today as "very serious." He was operated on last night for appendicitis.

"YAKALOS" NEW MEAT.

Yak and Bison Cross Breeds True To Type.

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Aug. 7.—The new bred of live stock called "Yakalos" is being developed in the national park at Wainwright by crossing buffalo with yaks.

"Yakalos" combine the meat producing qualities of the yak with the foraging characteristics of the buffalo, said G. B. Rothwell, director ofthe animal husbandry division of the department of agriculture. The new animals breed true to type, he said, and havep roved more adaptable than "cattalo" evolved several years ago by crossing bufalio with domestic cattle. Cattalos are sterile.

Themeat of Yakalos is described as almost identical with beef, aside from being finer grained. The animals are hardy, can forage for themselves, are capable of wintering in the open, and are resistant to many of the common diseases of domestic cattle.

HOUSE BURNED NEAR BETHANY

Alvin Sisson's Home is Completely Destroyed—Barn at Warsaw.

FINE FRAME BUILDING.

BETHANY, Aug. 7.—Last night about 10.30 the large fram house of Alvan Sisson, which was situated about three miles west of the village, was entirely burned. Nothing was saved except the piano.

About 10.00 o'clock the family retired for the night, but had not been in bed very long when they smelled smoke. On investigating they found the kitchen a mass of flames, where they had been sitting a few moments before. A general alarm was rung in over the telephone, but the bad storm had put the system out of order and not as many neighbors as might have turned up to help fight the fire. The hired man was sleeping in the back of the house and when the fire was discovered he rushed to save one of the small children minus his clothes, so he had to be taken to one of the neighbors' to get some clothes to wear.

The house was one of the best in the district, being very large and exceedingly well furnished. The loss is estimated at $5,000, which is partly covered by insurance.

AT WARSAW.

WARSAW, Aug. 7. — George Douglas, living a little east of Warsaw, lost two barns last night. A log barn was struck by lighting and the big frame barn caught fire from it. Due to the 'phones being out of order few of the neighbors were aroused or the frame barn might have been saved.

A crop of good wheat, estimated at about 100 bushels, had just been put in the barn yesterday and was lost with most of the year's hay crop.

Most of the farm machinery was lost, but no animals were burned.

The horse stable, with some hay over it, and the pig pen were saved. There is some insurance.

BARNS DAMAGED ON DOURO FARMS

Lightning Strikes Three in Township, Causing Slight Damage.

DOURO, August 7th. — Mrs. Vera Armstrong, living near the Douro church, had her barn struck, but it did not catch fire. The lightning followed the track of the hayfork, and shattered a rafter.

John R. Allen of the sixth line, had two barns struck at different times. The old barn caught fire but members of the family extinguished the flames. The new barn did not catch fire but was damaged somewhat, quite a few of the boards being splintered and broken.

FARM EFFICIENCY INCREASED

From 1910 to 1920 American farm labor increased in efficiency about 22.5 per cent. for although the number of farm workers decreased in that time 9 per cent. the crop production increased 11 per cent. Greater use of power and modern machinery is largely responsible, of course, and it is said that the average farmer used five times as much machinery as he did fifty years ago.

Scientists recently discovered a tangle of knots which, translated, revealed a knowledge of the Oeluge among America's earliest civilized people, the Incas. The first white civilizers are said to have come to America 2300 years ago, centuries before Columbus was born.

London Insures Dry Era And Bootleggers Wonder

LONDON, Aug. 7—An insurance policy for more than $50,000 has been taken out with a London insurance company to repay a total loss in the event of the United States Government rescinding or amending the prohibition laws so as to permit the general sale of wines and spirits during the next twelve months.

A request for the name of the policy holder was refused.

There is consequently much speculation as to whether bootleggers are now beginning to provide against destruction of their business should America go wet again.

CUSTOMS PROBE IS ADJOURNED FOR NEXT WEEK

Will Be Recommended in Halifax About August 16.

DOUCET'S STATEMENT.

Essenial Facts of Case Not Yet Touched Upon, He Claims.

QUEBEC, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—The Customs probe under Sir Francois Lemieux into allegations concerning ministers' trip on the customs steamer Margaret was adjourned sine die after a brief session this morning.

A brief statement was read on behalf of A. J. Doucet, former Conservative M.P., and the log book of the Margaret was produced.

The inquiry under Sir Francois will be resumed at Halifax about August 16.

Hon. L. G. Belley submitted on behalf of Mr. Doucet a statement which submitted with all due respect that the evidence of the present enquiry had been illegally produced. A mistake had been made and Mr. Doucet had to suffer for it.

The commission had decided to make investigation into facts relating to the affairs of the Margaret and at Quebec heard a few witnesses on particular facts, "but has not yet touched the essential facts pertaining to the affairs," the statement said.

CHEQUES HELP TRACE LIQUOR

Establish Connection Between Hamilton and Buffalo Bootleggers.

FOR LARGE SUMS.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7.—Police investigating the bootleg tragedy here have succeeded, it is said, in tracing by bank cheques a definite connection between a prominent bootlegger now under arrest here on a charge of manslaughter and another bootlegger under arrest on a similar charge at Buffalo.

These cheques, it is stated, were usually for substantial sums, ranging from $2,000 upward, and are alleged to cover the illicit traffic of whiskey and raw alcohol between the two points. The cheques are also likely to establish the smuggling charges and other alleged evasions of the Customs Act on which the local bootlegger in question will stand trial.

When Rocco Perry, Ben Kerr, Joe Romeo, Edward Miller and Harry Sullivan, all charged with manslaughter and violations of the Customs Act, appeared in Police Court this morning, they were further remanded. Strenuous attempts were made to have them admitted to bail. Perry will be represented it is said, by R. R. Greer, K.C., of Toronto, while Peter White, K.C., special prosecutor for the Government, also will be present.

The Attorney-General's Department, it is understood, will proceed against all accused persons now held in Ontario just as soon as the several inquests have been completed. Prosecution of these cases may consume several weeks, and most of the cases will ultimately reach the Assize court, it is believed.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BREAK WITH CALLES REGIME IN PLEA WITH PRESIDENT OF THE U.S.A.

Council Citing Refusal To Recognize Russia Denounces Mexican Reds.

READ DECLARATION.

Raises $1,000,000 To Press Issue —Urges Labor Federation to Aid.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7. (A.P.) Asserting that Mexican officials had "insulted, degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government," the Supreme Council, Knights of Columbus yesterday called upon President Coolidge and the State Department "to put an end to this ignominious contempt that has been shown by President Calles for American appeal."

Demand was made for protection of American citizens and that they be treated with the same consideration and respect that is shown to Mexicans in this country.

The American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations were urged to cooperate to safeguard "not only American rights but the hard-won victories of labor itself to protect it from servile submission to despotic authority."

At the same time the convention authorized the Supreme Board of Directors to assess the membership of the organization $1,000,000 for a campaign of education "to the end that the politics of Soviet Russia shall be eliminated from the philosophy of American life and the ideals of liberty of conscience and democratic freedom may extend to our afflicted fellow human beings beyond the Rio Grande."

The religious situation in Mexico as it affects the Catholic Church was considered one of the most important questions before the convention and had been under consideration since it convened last Monday. A special committee, appointed to consider the matter, reported yesterday and its report was unanimously adopted.

Text of the K. of C. Declaration

The declaration of the Knights of Columbus was as follows:

The Knights of Columbus in annual Supreme Convention assembled, mindful of the historical soil of Philadelphia upon which we are privileged to stand, where one hundred and fifty years ago were enunciated the principles so dear to the hearts of the American people of the philosophy of our Government, recognizing there were certain inalienable rights with which mankind was endowed by his Creator, namely, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and having viewed with deliberation and care the present political situation in the neighboring Government of Mexico, hereby solemnly aver that we would be neglectful of our duty if we did not register an unqualified protest against the policy of President Calles upon his recent despotic use of the armed forces of his military regime in oppressing the vast majority of the people of Mexico, who are struggling for the right to wor-

Aged Indian Chief Dances Native Steps For Last Time

WEBSTER, S.D., Aug. 7—Sioux Indians, resplendent in feathers and paint and the native garb in which they roamed the plains before the coming of the white men, danced before a crowd of thousands from all over Northeastern South Dakota at the north end of Pickerel Lake on Adam's Beach. The dance lasted all one night recently and brought to an end a twoday celebration and barbecue, for which the Indians assembled.

A feature of the program was the last public dance of Chief Williams, aged, widely known Sioux leader, who declared he had known and loved the white man since first becoming acquainted with him at Montreal, when the whites were moving into the northwest. Chief Williams had four sons in the American Army in the World War.

Donning feathers and paint, the aged warrior danced about 30 seconds and then made a speech to the assembled crowd. He said this would be the last time he would ever dance in his native costume.

GREAT PRIORY BIG GATHERING

Knights Templars Will Assemble Here From All Over Canada.

COLORFUL SCENES.

The formal session of Sovereign Great Priory will start on Tuesday morning in the Assembly Hall of the College Institute. Indications point to a very large attendance, on account of the central position of Peterborough.

The main attraction on Tuesday afternoon will be the drill competiton at Central Park, for which the Sarnia Preceptory is sending its drill corps of 30 Knights. This will be a picturesque event and unique in Peterborough.

Tuesday afternoon at 5.30, the Grand Master will receive the delegates and their ladies on the lawn at St. John's church. In the evening a banquet will be held in the Empress Hotel with a theatre party at the Capitol for the ladies.

At the Divine service on Monday night at St. John's Church, everybody will be welcome. There will be special music and sermon by the Rev. Dr. Blagrave, rector.

The parade preceeding the church service will be colorful and should be reviewed by large numbers.

CYCLIST HURT BY MOTOR CAR

Daniel Donoghue Has To Have Three Stiches in His Nose.

LATE LAST NIGHT.

Daniel Donohue, 350 Dublin street, is suffering from an injured nose, the wound requiring three stitches to close it, as a result of an accident that occurred at the corner of McDonnell and Aylmer streets last night, about 10 o'clock. Mr. Donohue was cycling north on Aylmer and at the corner of McDonnel street turned west in order to avoid a car coming from an easterly direction, and failed to see the other car until it was too late to prevent a collision.
